If any man, who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge, the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-being to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c. silver to cover postage and address, Mr. Geo. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich.

To Stain Wood.

It is a fact not universally known that almost any dry pigment, mixed with spirits of turpentine, will stain wood. It should be applied until the desired shade is obtained. Strong ammonia applied to wood will give it an aged appearance. The best finish for carved work is beeswax or linseed oil.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease. It may lead directly to consumption. Catarrh is caused by impure blood, and the true way to cure it is by purifying the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh because it removes the cause of it by purifying the blood. Thousands testify that they have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HOod's Pills are purely vegetable and do not purge, pain or gripe. All druggists. 25c.

Karl's Clover Root will purify your blood, clear your complexion, regulate your bowels and make your head clear as a bell. 25c 50c. and $1.00.

SHE HOAXED ALL FRANCE.

Famous Mere Ibrahim, the Bogus Vivandiere of the French Army.

It is the business of diplomatists to hoax, if they can, those Governments whose hospitality they enjoy as personae gratæ; pensioners have also been known to deceive the authorities of those governments whose flag they assert they have defended with their heart's blood, but it has remained for an illiterate yet crafty old woman to perpetrate upon France the greatest hoax in the records of diplomacy or of the pension bureau.

For more than five years Parisian newspapers, and, indeed, the entire press of Europe, have been full of eulogistic anecdotes concerning the brave "Mere" Ibrahim, the alleged vivandiere of the Second Regiment of Zouaves, with which corps she was supposed to have served in the Crimean war, in the Italian war of 1859, in Mexico, throughout the Algerian campaign, and in the war of 1870, in which latter conflict she declared that she had been so badly wounded as to be left for dead on the battlefield.

This record in general augmented by many details of individual heroism, caused the late President Carnot to decorate her, three years ago, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, and last spring President Faure had pinned to the shoulder of her dress the highly prized "Medaille Militaire," which is only accorded for distinguished heroism on the battlefield.

On July 20 last she died at Vichy. During her last illness a specially detailed corps of army surgeons and nurses attended her with the utmost care. She had every extravagance that a grateful Government knows so well how to bestow upon the notorious brave. She was carried to her grave in Aix with the most imposing military honors. The general commanding the district, with his staff, attended the funeral, while regiments of cavalry and infantry rendered the honors.

But now the truth has been discovered. Investigations conducted by a committee of army officers; who had in view the perpetuation of her memory in some suitable memorial, have revealed the fact that "Mere" Ibrahim was a rank imposter, who had never in her life been the "vivandiere" of any regiment, and that in the Crimean war, the only one in which she may be said to have played a part, she was a mere disreputable camp follower. She was ordered away from the army by the Provost Marshal, and returned to Constantinople for disgraceful conduct and theft. Her many deeds of valor, her brilliant military career, the tales of which were so easily swallowed by a credulous Government, press and people, turn out to have existed nowhere but in her fruitful and vivid imagination.

Fortunately for herself the wicked old woman did not live to answer for her lies. Mother Ibrahim furnished to the newspapers stories of her career that would have filled a good-sized book. She had, she alleged, been wounded eight times.

One of her most interesting stories dealt with a wound received in the Franco-Prussian war. After the surrender of Metz one of innumerable columns of French soldiers was on its way to imprisonment in Germany. She started out to join this column and give it help and encouragement, when a German guard smashed her shoulder with the butt of his rifle. Presumably he thought she was going to attempt a rescue or carry some message to the French prisoners.

In the Tonkinese war, she said, she had been wounded by one of the terrible curved knives wielded by the "Black Flags."

In spite of all these injuries, she was able at an age of more than 70 to learn to ride the bicycle. She was thus a new woman as well as an old one. While engaged in this pastime she fell down and opened one of her numerous old wounds. It was at this time the newspapers began to discover how interesting she was. She, like a shrewd woman, appreciated her opportunities.

When she got well she announced that she was going to Paris to present the brandy barrel of the Second Zouaves to the President of the Republic. The genial M. Felix Faure received her and subsequently presented her with the cross of the Legion of Honor.

The regiment of Zouaves which she claimed to have followed so faithfully had its headquarters in Africa, and its doings were more or less wrapped in mystery.

Two New Cardinals.

Rome, Nov. 30.—A consistory was held at the Vatican to-day, at which Canon Guiseppe Brisco and Mgr. Graffaele Pierotti were created cardinals. Count Capo-Grossi, the consistorial advocate, delivered an oration, in the course of which he favored the beatification and canonization of Joan of Arc. His Holiness the Pope responded: "Ad sanctum ritum congregationem ut videat et referat." Neither Brisco nor Pierrotti is a bishop. They were personally selected by the Pope on account of their unusually high theological attainments.

Great Fire at Bradford.

London, Nov. 30.- A block of seven-storey buildings in Bradford, occupied by a large number of business firms, was destroyed by fire to-night. The loss is placed at £200,000. Among the occupants of the buildings were Holdsworth & Sons, Possette & Co. and Ainsworth & Co., all woolen merchants, and the Anglo-American and Commercial Cable Companies.

Results of the Strike.

Hamburg, Nov. 30.—Several warehouse companies have suspended. There are 13,000 men on strike.

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10¾ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

BENSFORT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. William Whittington was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony on Wednesday last to Miss Thompson of Otonabee. The presents were many and varied. After a very pleasant evening they reached their home about two o'clock Thursday amid the congratulations of their many friends who were present to receive them. We wish them every success and happiness in their married life.

Mr. Reed of Otonabee, who has rented the farm formerly occupied by Mr. Robt. Mahood had a ploughing bee one day last week. Owing to the miserable state of the weather and the bad roads it did not prove as successful as expected. However, he got several acres ploughed and received quite a start for next spring.

The climate of South Monaghan seems to be quite congenial for outdoor plants at this time of year. Dandelions are out in bloom, and several other varieties of plants usually frozen at this time of year, are flourishing. That is, at the date of this writing.

Several of the young people attended the dinner and concert held at Centreville on Thanksgiving Day.

WESTWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The annual meeting of the patrons of Westwood cheese factory was held in the factory here, on Friday afternoon, Nov. 27th. The President, Mr. R. Harrison, in the chair. Mr. Robert Tudhope was appointed secretary pro tem. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The salesman, Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., gave a report of the season's business, which was highly satisfactory. Mr. Blezard said it was no trouble to sell the Westwood cheese, as it was always A—1. Buyers appreciated it, and were all anxious to get it, as it always commanded the top price on the English markets. This excellent state of affairs was brought about by two things. 1.—By having such an excellent cheesemaker as Mr. James Ryan, who was second to none in the Dominion. 2.—By the patrons all being anxious and painstaking in having their milk in first-class order.

The auditors, Messrs. John Lancaster and Robt. Tudhope, presented their report, which was adopted.

The president reported having received a circular from the Department of Agriculture respecting the branding of cheese, and that he had replied in favour of branding.—Approved.

The feeding of rape and Swede turnip tops was fully discussed, and it was resolved that the patrons of Westwood cheese factory feed no rape or Swede turnip tops to their cows during the factory season.

The following are the officers for the ensuing year, all being re-elected by acclamation:

President—Mr. Robt. Harrison.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. James Ryan.
Salesman—Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P.
Auditors—Messrs. John Lancaster and Thos. Tudhope.
Directors—Messrs. H. Nelson, M. Lynch, Jas. Lancaster, I. Humphries, M. J. Healey, Wm. Sharp, sr., M. English, D. K. Cameron and Thos. Eason.

The following is a statement of the business done at Westwood cheese factory during the season of 1896: The amount of milk received, 1,904,111 lbs., or 634 7-10 standards. There were made 174,868 lbs. of cheese, being an average of 10 22-25 lbs. milk to lb. of cheese. The aggregate value of the business done during the season was $14,863 59. The gross value of the milk per standard was $23.45, and the net value, after paying all expenses, was $18 57. The greatest amount of milk sent by any one patron was by Squire Brackenridge, viz: 84,575 lbs., and the average sent by each of the 90 patrons was 21,156 lbs. Before the close of the meeting a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the cheesemaker, the president and salesman. The patrons of Westwood cheese factory are proud of their factory, and of their honourable and efficient cheesemaker, Mr. James Ryan, and they are deservedly so, as their cheese is always first class, commands a ready sale, and the highest price on whatever market it is offered.

Messrs. Wm. Sharp, jr., and Benj. Slade are home from Indian Head, N.W.T., where they have been for the last three months. We are all pleased to see them back, as they are both very estimable young men.

Mr. Thomas Blezard, M.P.P., celebrated his 58th birthday Tuesday evening, Nov. 24th, by a small party, at his home. After a very excellent supper was partaken of a very pleasant evening was spent in songs, games and social conversation. It is the wish of his many friends that he will live long to enjoy many such anniversaries.

A meeting was called last Saturday night to organize a brass band. Nothing definite yet.

We would recommend you to buy from Grafton & Co's, the best class of goods for the least money.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

Paragraphs of Local Interest to Endeavourers Supplied by the County Union.

WORLD'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR PRAYER CHAIN.

(Subject of Prayer for December.)

Pray that the month celebrated, the world around, as Christ's natal month may be marked by the gift of a multitude of young hearts to him, and by the more complete consecration of all his people to his service.

A LITTLE LESSON IN THE SCHOOL OF PRAYER.

The first Christmas gift was a life. The fashion set by God is the fashion for all mankind to follow. He sent us not merely some temporal blessing, some creation of His hands, some slight token out of His inexhaustable storehouse, but He sent us the very life of His only-begotten Son. Is any gift less than a life a sufficient return for that peerless Gift? Dare we offer anything short of our full hearts to the great Giver? Ah, no; this best gift is the only worthy gift, and God desires it. How much He desires to receive the offer of a young, loving heart none but Himself and the angels know. And it surely is well pleasing to him that a myriad believers should unite in a grand concert of prayer throughout the Christmas month that the young everywhere should offer their lives to Him. What a Christmas it would be in heaven if to every praying soul there should be granted one new life redeemed to the Lord's service! Is it not worth praying for? I ask you who believe in prayer.

THE LOCAL EXECUTIVE

held their monthly business meeting Tuesday night in the Y.M.C.A. parlour. With one exception all the societies were represented. It was resolved that the secretary communicate with the ministerial association requesting the pastors of the town to set aside one Sunday service at an early date for the discussion of the Sabbath Alliance Society, so that the public generally may gain some knowledge of the work done by this organization. Arrangements were made for the annual New Years morning consecration service. The meeting will, as usual, be held in the Y.M.C.A. hall between nine and ten o'clock New Years morning. The executive will have charge of the meeting, while the Y.M.C.A. singing class will be requested to take charge of the music. The Union also purposes making preparations to celebrate Endeavour day in a suitable manner. The representatives of the respective societies of the union were urged to present the work of the union more fully before the societies, and also to endeavour to have the rallies of the future, brighter by introducing impromptu singing and prayer, and that each society feel more their responsibility in making these meetings brighter.

BETHEL - KEENE CIRCUIT.

It is with a feeling of deep regret that we chronicle the death of another member of our society. Mrs. Fred Fife passed quietly away on Monday evening after a lingering illness. On Wednesday afternoon her remains were brought into the church and a large number of friends gathered together to pay their last tribute of respect to one dear departed sister. She is one that will be missed in the church and League, as well as in her home. She made friends wherever she went, and was loved by all who knew her, and one that we thought we could not do without, but God in His wise dealings saw best to take her to Himself. Although our sister will never meet with us again on earth, we trust that the words of counsel given by her, and the life that she lived will be a help to us in our daily lives. Before she passed away she left two messages for those who listened to her funeral sermon. First—Tell them to give their hearts to God when they are young." Second—Tell them I died in the triumph of faith. Rev. Mr. Liddy conducted the service. The lines below are the hymn sang by the choir at her request. The remains were interred in the Fife Cemetery. The bereaved family and friends have the sympathy of this society.

Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears—
And then, sometime, we'll understand.

We'll catch the broken threads again,
And finish what we here began,
Heav'n will the mysteries explain,
And then, ah! then, we'll understand.

We'll know why clouds—instead of sun—
Were over many a cherished plan;
Why song is ceased when scarce begun,
Yes then, sometime, we'll understand.

Why what we longed for most of all
Eludes so oft our eager hand;
When hopes are crushed and castles fall—
Up there, some time, we'll understand.

God knows the way, he holds the key,
He guides us with unerring hand;
Some time, with tearless eyes we see,
Yes, there, up there, we'll understand.

Then trust in God through all thy days,
Fear not for he doth hold thy hand;
Though dark the way still sing his praise—
Some time, sometime, we'll understand.

VILLIERS

Y. P. S. C. E. held its regular monthly consecration meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 24th. The topic was taken by Miss Jennie Lancaster, who dealt with her subject in a manner that showed careful thought. She led her hearers to see how many of the every-day incidents of our lives are "blessings," though we often forget to regard them as such. Miss Jennie Gillespie led the prayer meeting and sincere and heartfelt prayers were offered that God may bless and make ever more and effectual to His honour and glory our society and its members, both active and associate.

Don't forget the Concert given by Miss Mabel Chambers and Miss Bertha Belasco, assisted by Mr. Thos. Dunn, in Bradburn's Opera House, Thursday, December 3rd. Plan of Reserved Seats at Stratton's Bookstore. Admission 35c and 25c.

LOST IT ON A FOUL.

Fitzsimmons Knocked Sharkey Senseless

BUT THE SAILOR GOT THE DECISION

Lanky Bob Had the Best of the Battle All Through and Pounded Sharkey at His Will—The Referee Said to Have Decided Wrongly and He Was Hooted.

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—Not since Peter Jackson and Jim Corbett danced about each other for nearly five hours before the members of the California A.C. has such enormous interest been aroused in a fight between heavyweights as that exhibited in the battle to-night at Mechanics' Pavilion between Fitzsimmons and Sharkey. Sharkey's personal popularity was in a measure responsible for this, although Fitzsimmons' reputation had not a little to do with it. Standing room in the hall was at a premium, and thousands of men surged about the doors.

The Australian came over from his training grounds early this afternoon, and rested at the Baldwin Hotel. To a representative of the United Associated Presses, he said, just before entering the ring:

"I am suffering from a severe cold, as you can see, and it has settled in my bones, but this will not interfere with my putting the sailor to sleep in short order. I weigh just 174½ pounds, which is more flesh than I have ever carried into the ring, but I expect I shall need it all to stand off Sharkey's bull-like rushes. I hope he will make a hurricane fight of it. That will just be to my liking."

Martin Julian was equally confident. Jack Stenzler and Dan Hickey, who assisted Fitz in training, were beside Julian in Bob's corner, both wearing black eyes and sundry scars as evidence that the "Kangaroo" had lost none of his hitting power. Each of the trainers was confident that Fitz would make a short fight of it, despite his cold.

No man ever entered a ring with more confidence in his ability to win than did Tom Sharkey. "I've always been a shortender," he remarked to a reporter of the United Associated Presses, "and I've always saved the money of my friends. When I met Choynski the odds were 3 to 1 that I would go down, but I fooled them. Yes, and I was beaten out of the decision, too, but that will not happen to-night. I am strong enough, heavy enough and clever enough to whip Fitzsimmons, and I intend doing so inside of seven rounds, if possible. If I fail it will be because he is the better man."

Australian Billy Smith, Bob Allen and Danny Needham, who were behind the sailor, and who also trained him, had their last dollar up on their charge, so confident were they of his winning. Sharkey was trained to the minute. He weighed 176 pounds, three pounds lighter than when he met Corbett, and many thought he was a trifle drawn.

All day long Martin Julian and Danny Lynch, representing Fitzsimmons and Sharkey, respectively, argued and squabbled over the selection of a referee. When the eleventh hour was reached they notified President Groom of the National Club that he would have to name a referee. Mr. Groom was prepared for the emergency, and without hesitation he submitted the name of Wyatt Earp, who in the early days was a terror to the fierce element in Kansas and Arizona.

The great pavilion began to fill before 6 o'clock. Sharkey's friends monopolized the upper gallery, and all the shouting for the sailor came from the cheaper seats. Fitzsimmons' backers were found among the soft-palmed fraternity in the $10 seats. Among those present were a score of prominent attorneys, a dozen judges and any number of millionaires and other celebrities. All day long the pool rooms were crowded, Fitzsimmons closing a 2-to-1 favorite. Sharkey money was plentiful, but it came in small sums, no large wagers being reported.

The pavilion contained not less than 13,000 people when the first event was called. A cordon of 25 policemen fringed the ringside, while 75 officers were distributed about the hall to preserve order and prevent confusion.

A sensational story was printed in an evening paper to the effect that Police Commissioner Gunst had bet heavily on Fitz, and would have Chief Crowley stop the contest should it become apparent that Sharkey would win. Mr. Gunst declared that he did not have a dollar up, and that the pugilists should not be molested unless the fight became brutal. In that event Captain Whittman, in charge of the officers, would see that the law was not violated.

Fitzsimmons entered the ring at 10.03, followed by his seconds. Sharkey entered five minutes later, receiving a greeting that was a hundred times more enthusiastic that that which greeted Fitzsimmons. They sat quietly in their corners, surveying each other critically, for it was the first time each had seen the other.

Referee Earp entered the ring shortly after the principals. Mr. Julian refused to accept him. Julian explained that he did not propose to take any chances with a man who was professedly ignorant of the rules. The crowd heard Julian patiently and their sympathies were with the Australian. Earp endeavored to make himself heard, but failed. Lynch, Sharkey's manager, announced that he had signed the articles in behalf of Sharkey and that his man had lived up to them. Julian remained obdurate and there was another conference. Julian shouted that he was willing to have a referee selected from the audience, and the crowd yelled for Earp. Fitzsimmons insisted that Sharkey's bandages, which were on his hands, be removed, which was done.

The men shook hands at 10.35. Mr. Earp removed his coat and the fight was apparently on.

Round 1—In the first round they were very cautious. Fitz landed on the neck lightly and in the clinch, the Sailor lifted Fitz like a baby. The Sailor was doing all the leading, but a sharp hook from Fitz sent him down. A second later Bob knocked him down and the gong sounded.

Round 2—Fitz landed a stiff left on the jaw and a clinch followed. Fitz shuffled after his man, while Sharkey seemed rattled. A hard right sent Tom reeling, but he rallied and landed a hot one on the wind. Tom attempted to land a left, but failed and Tom clinched. This was repeated a second later, after each had landed a stiff right. Sharkey got another hard right a moment later, and clinched to save himself. Fitz was puffing, but confident, and followed his man carefully. Tom got one in on the shoulder with the left and received a hot one in the jaw, which staggered him, as the gong sounded.

The Sailor was clearly playing in great luck, as Fitz seemed to have him just where he wanted him at the call of time. Fitz scorned to sit down, and came up strong for the third round.

Round 3—Sharkey clinched Bob and got a left on the neck. Another lead by Fitz was met with another clinch. Fitz got in a hot left on the face, but it was not in the right spot, and Sharkey clinched. A little in-fighting followed in which Sharkey held his own. Bob landed a hard right, which was followed by the usual clinch. Sharkey is putting up his usual rough-and-tumble fight, but has not failed to land a blow fair. He led time and again, but Fitz was not there. Clinches followed in rapid succession. Just before the bell sounded, Tom made an ugly swing, which, had it landed, would have been a palpable foul. The sailor was puffing, but not distressed. There were shouts of foul and Sharkey was cautioned.

Round 4—Fitz led and a clinch followed. In the break away Fitz slipped and fell and as he rose Sharkey went at him like a bull, landing two hard blows on the wind. Bob sent a swift right on the neck, and as he recovered Bob followed it a minute later with another on the breast, taking a hot one in his neck in return. A rally followed, and the men clinched, Sharkey hitting Fitz twice in the clinch. Bob got the left in on Tom's jaw and uppercut him on the heart. Tom tried an uppercut, and got another blow on the head. Bob warmed up and sent in two terrific rights, closing Tom's left eye. Sharkey clawed his man on the arm and seemed to be decidedly weary as the round closed. Father Time came to the relief of the sailor and saved him.

Round 5—Bob led and landed a right, Sharkey clinching and throwing Bob heavily. Another left started a stream of gore from Sharkey's damaged eye, and angered Sharkey, who rushed wildly and tried for the wind. A hard left sent Tom to the ropes and he clinched again. In the break away Sharkey again hit foul. After the men separated Sharkey started his rushes, but Fitzsimmons stopped him with stiff lefts and Sharkey was fighting foul.

Fitz landed two hard lefts, the last of which sent Tom on his back through the ropes. Tom was very groggy, and Fitz hit him hard twice in succession, and for the fourth time Sharkey was all but out when the gong tapped. Fitz was little distressed. The only sign of trouble he showed was an abrasion on the left arm.

Round 6—Sharkey did not rush as stiff as before, and after feeling his man, Fitz landed a left punch and followed it a moment later with a hard left hook. Sharkey was leading for the stomach and clinching continually, lifting Fitz from the floor every time. Fitz let a hard left go, and it landed on the chin, but did not phase his man. An uppercut a moment later sent Tom back a few feet, as did two stiff lefts a moment later. A heart blow from Bob forced Tom to clinch, and he hit Bob foul in the break. This angered Fitz, and he went at his man, staggering him with a left, also landing right and left on the chin in rapid succession. Sharkey grabbed the Australian around the knees, and was hanging hard when the gong sound. Sharkey was taking fearful punishment, but still had a fighting punch left.

Round 7—Sharkey rushed, and caught a left on the face. He wrestled Fitz and struck him in the clinch, but still Earp could not see. Sharkey was slow, and made a futile lead for the stomach. Bob sent a stiff left into Sharkey's face, and the sailor clinched and uppercut Fitz before breaking. He repeated this a moment later, and wrestled Fitz all over the ring. The crowd yelled foul, and still Earp was blind. Fitz landed two hard rights and a left. Sharkey clinched each time, holding Fitz by the knees. The sailor seemed to be strong and fresh at the close of the round, but should have lost the fight on fouls at least a dozen times. The crowd were hooting and jeering at Earp in the interval.

Round 8—Sharkey led and missed. Again he led and clinched. Bob put his right on the face and duplicated it again later. In the breakaway Sharkey hugged his man. Fitz led again and landed only to be smothered once more. This was repeated three times and the crowd hissed.

Sharkey was doing nothing but wrestling. Bob got in two hard rights, but could not reache the spot. A hot exchange followed in which Fitz landed right and left, uppercutting his man and breaking away easy. As Sharkey rushed again Fitz got his celebrated hook twice and the Sailor career was checked. Sharkey rolled over on his back and threw up his left leg. Fitz smiled and returned to his corner. The seconds were counted off and Sharkey was carried to his corner limp as a dishrag. He had to be carried from the ring, and appeared to be greatly distressed, while Fitz was spry as a lark, and did not bear a scratch.

The crowd yelled its approval and shouted lustily for the Australian. Order could not be restored long enough for the referee's decision to be heard. When order was restored the referee announced that Sharky had been given the decision, he having been hit foul by Fitz. It was clearly an unfair decision, as the knockout blow was a fair punch on the jaw. The crowd became boisterous and cursed Earp long and loud. The unanimous sentiment was that Fitzsimmons had been robbed in the most cold-blooded manner.

NOW BRANTFORD WILL BE HEARD

Some of the Witnesses in the Ambitious City Favored Modifications—Iron Smelters Satisfied With Existing Conditions—Glittering Diamonds Displayed.

Hamilton, Dec. 2.—(Special.)—At the morning session of the Ministerial Tariff Conference, there was a large attendance of manufacturers, merchants, capitalists and others interested in the proceedings. The dimensions of the secretary's room at the Board of Trade were found inadequate, and a move was made to the spacious board room, where the spectators and others interested found matters far more convenient.

H. R. Jobb of the Kay Electric Works asked that the duty of 15 per cent. on soft copper wire be removed, there being but one manufactory in Canada.

The bulk of the morning session was taken up with a discussion of the duty on iron. John Milne, R. R. Morgan and Robert Hobson appeared before the Ministers as the representatives of the Hamilton Blast Furnace Company, the former, as spokesman, dilating on the great value of iron in commerce, and pointing out the vast importance of blast furnaces to this country. He quoted figures going to show that iron was cheaper than it ever was before, and incidentally remarked that the principal manufacturers were using Hamilton iron. The blast furnace, he said, and a capacity of two hundred tons a day, and it required four hundred tons a day to feed the furnace. An average of 120 tons a day could be produced. Since the works started about 10,000 tons of native ore had been used, at a cost of $3.50 a ton. About 21,000 tons of pig iron had been turned out, and of this 10,000 tons had been sold, the works not yet having found a sufficient market for its production. The company had paid $66,000 in freights for the furnace supply and $7000 in outward bound freights. An average of $1150 a week had been paid in wages, 125 men being employed at the furnace. The plant had cost about $400,000, and the company had not yet reaped a cent from the enterprise.

Mr. Milne desired a fair share of encouragement for the smelting works from the present Government, and expressed the opinion that if the duty and bounty on iron were to be removed it would be a long time before capital could be induced to invest in another smelting enterprise in this country. The company got as much of its ore as possible from the Canadian shores of Lakes Huron and Superior. He estimated the duty, $4 per ton, to be about 35 per cent., in addition to which encouragement the iron manufacturers were receiving a bounty of $2 per ton.

Pig iron, according to the speaker, is a finished product, and should not be confounded with raw material.

Hon. Mr. Fielding was inclined to differ with Mr. Milne on this point, opining that if pig iron were not raw material it would be hard to find such an article.

Mr. Milne went on to say that the Americans had had largely the control of the Canadian markets, but since the establishment of the smelting works it would be necessary for them to come down in their prices in order to compete with the local institution. At present the price of pig iron in Hamilton is $15.65. The fact was emphasized that the duty and bounty should remain undisturbed.

A. T. Wood, M.P., invited the commissioners to visit the smelting works, and it was decided to do so immediately after luncheon.

Mr. C. E. Doolittle, representing the Ontario Rolling Mills, an institution representing a cash investment of $300,000 and employing 350 men, asked for a considerable reduction in the duty on scrap iron and bituminous coal, the latter now being held at 100 per cent. ad valorem and the former at $2 per ton. The speaker urged that his mills could turn out 250 tons of bar iron a day, which was more than the entire Dominion could consume, yet there are eight or nine mills doing business in the country. He believed if the duty on manufactured products was to be changed, it should be made specific and not ad valorem.

Hon. Mr. Fielding informed Mr. Doolittle that there would likely be a large gathering at Ottawa of people interested in the iron industries for the purpose of a conference with the Government, and in the meantime he would keep the memorandum of the Ontario Rolling Mills.

The canned fruit industry was represented by W. P. Innes, Simcoe; W. A. Ferguson, Delhi, president of the Canners' Association; A. C. Miller, ex-M.P. Picton; D. Marshall, Aylmer; Thomas Nihan, St. Catharines. In this connection W. C. Breckenridge represented the tin plate feature of the industry and F. D. Carse the labels.

Mr. Innes pointed out that fruit packing in this country was a comparatively new industry, and was being carried on extensively throughout Canada, except in Manitoba and the Northwest Territory. There is $500,000 invested in the industry, and more than 3000 people directly employed for six months of each year. The canners pay out $500,000 a year to farmers, and an equal sum for solder, labels, etc., all manufactured in the Dominion. The duties at present were: Vegetables, 12 cents a pound; fruits, 2 cents a pound. He wanted the import duty on vegetables and meats to be left alone, and tin plate, etc., on the free list. He asked that the duty on evaporated fruits be changed from 25 per cent. ad valorem to a specific duty of 2 1-2 cents a pound. Mr. Innes thought Canadian vegetables superior to those of the United States.

The commissioners figured out that the duty on canned tomatoes amounted to 100 per cent.

W. A. Ferguson regarded the duty on fresh fruits from the States as being out of harmony with that on dried fruits, the former being one cent a pound too high. The canners were producing more than the country could consume, and it would be necessary to consider the question of exporting to England. The Americans are the Canadians' strongest competitors in canned fruits, though the latter's product is the more finely flavored.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SIR ADOLPHE CHAPLEAU, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, has privately expressed his approval of the terms of the school settlement as the best that could be obtained under the circumstance. The importance of this is very great. The name of Chapleau is the only powerful name left in the Province of Quebec outside of the Liberal party, and his judgment sustains that of Mr. Laurier. In speaking of this question in 1892 at Hochelaga, when he was a member of the Federal Government, Mr. Chapleau used the following language: "I cannot say what the Government will do in order to settle this question, which is more irritating than difficult, but this is what I can tell you:—We desire to follow up those splendid traditions of conciliation and cordial understanding which have given to our country such a great measure of success, progress and tranquility." Like Mr. Laurier, Sir Adolphe Chapleau prefers conciliation to coercion.

DISCUSSING the tariff enquiry, the Montreal Star says: This is just as it shou'd be. All classes in the community ought to be heard from. The ministers have issued a broad enough invitation in all consicence. Those who are in favour of the maintenance of the protection tariff have appeared before the Commission and given their reasons. It is only fair that those who are opposed to its maintenance should appear, state definitely what parts of the tariff they want changed, what effect these changes are likely to produce, and the reasons why they think they will be of benefit to the community. And they should go into the whole question—should deal with the duties on their own products as well as with those levied on the products of others, and should tell us what they think the effect on the home market will be. Let us have specific statements, facts and figures from all sides; and let us be spared a 'deluge of glittering generalities' after the enquiry is ended and the tariff made."

THE principle of exemptions is wrong and unjust. The taxes that are thereby practically remitted to one class of the community is necessarily thrown upon those who have to pay the taxes, and governments should favour no class. For instance, there is a proposal to abolish the privilege possessed by civil servants of exemption from garnishee of their salaries to satisfy their debts. A mechanic who, as a rule, strives to pay his debts, can have his wages garnisheed in case he neglects or refuses to pay his bills. Civil servants can plunge into debt and so far as any legal claim is concerned the creditor is unable to attach his salary to recover his rights. Civil servants have no excuse for not paying their debts. They know to a farthing the amount of their income. They receive their pay regularly, and if they refuse to satisfy just debts they should, like anybody else, be made to pay them. Governments are generally regarded as "good pay," and government employees should be made to conform to the same condition. There is enough temptation to evasion of just dues without the facilities provided for civil servants in the exemption from attachment of their salaries for honest debts. In a righteously governed country there should be no favoritism shown as is now the case with civil servants. Every citizen should be made, if he is not inclined to do so voluntarily, to bear his just share of the responsibilities of citizenship.

AN ELECTORAL OUTRAGE.

One Way to Win Advantage in an Election—The Late Government's Usurpation of Authority—Subornation of Law-breaking.

Mr. Crerar has commenced his investigation into the Algoma writ. His report will furnish an example of the way Conservative Administrations juggled with the Queen's writ and actually subverted the law of the land. Sir Chas Tupper had only taken office when, by his order, it was decided to recall the writ after it had been issued by the constituted authority, the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, and to hold it until such time as would make it impossible for the election to be held on the same date as the other elections. The returning officer was induced to break the law. Upon the receipt of the writ the course of the returning officer was defined by the statute, and compliance with the statute would have compelled the holding of a poll not later than June 23. The course pursued by Sir Charles Tupper's Administration induced the returning officer to break the law, to which his attention had been specially called by the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, and delay the poll until June 30. The object was, of course, to win the election as a bye election, after the Government had been sustained, as they expected, on the 23rd of June. Documentary evidence exists to prove the conspiracy entered into to deprive Algoma of her electoral rights and possibly, if the result all over was close, to change the fate of a Government. There is a telegram to Mr. Plummer; there is a communication from Hon. John Costigan to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, and there is a communication from Dr. Montague, then Minister of Agriculture, to Mr. Plummer. There are also communications from the Clerk of the Crown to the Privy Council and to the returning officer. The moral of this episode is that no Government should control writs for elections, which generally means that the party organizers control. In England it is not possible for the Government of the day to do this, because the law directs the Clerk of the Crown to issue the writ within a limited period after the receipt of the Speaker's warrant in bye-elections, and the Government is not consulted. Here the law would have to be made to conform to our circumstances, but the principle of a time limit in bye-election writs is a wholesome one.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Rev. W. R. Young of Peterborough conducted a very interesting service for the Methodists of South Burleigh on the 22nd ult. An excellent sermon was preached from a part of I Peter i, 19th verse, "the precious blood of Christ." The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to the members of the church. At the close of the service a good collection was taken up.

The re-engagement of our teacher, Miss Arnott, for 1897 has given general satisfaction.

Rev. Mr. Young was the guest of Mr. Charles Lauder while in the neighborhood.

Miss Crowley, a former tercher, is visiting Mrs Clarke Stone.

The mild weather this fall is a good thing for the farmers here, as the dry weather and forest fires have made hay a very scarce article.

In farm produce, butter and eggs are going at a fair price. Pork and beef are very low.

The tax-collector was around last week. He does not report many bills paid yet.

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

LOCAL LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

[Supplied by H.P. Kennedy, live stock dealer, 240 George street, Peterborough.]

There is very little change to report in the live stock trade, except that there is an over supply of inferior and this cattle offered for which prices are lower, selling down as low as 2½ to 1 7-8c per lb. In fact this class of stock is simply unsaleable. Good butcher cattle are a trifle firmer. Quotations are as follows:—Choice steers and heifers, if offered, would be worth from 2 1-2 to 3c per lb, good batchers' cattle from 2 to 2 1-2c, and inferior stock and old cows down to about 1c per lb.

Lambs are still firm in price at from 3 to 3 1-4c per lb, fat sheep from 2 to 2 1-4c per lb, fat hogs continue to sell at 3 1-2 for selects; 3 1-4 for heavies and 3c for sows Dressed meats—Beef by the quarter 3 to 5c, pork by the quarter 5 to 6c; lamb by the quarter 6 to 7c; mutton by the quarter 4 to 6c.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Nov. 30.—Special—There were about 900 head of butchers' cattle, 20 calves and 1,800 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The excessive supplies demoralized the prices of cattle, and prices dropped about ½ of a cent per pound, and a considerable number will have to be held over for another market. A few of the best cattle were sold at about 3½c per lb. with pretty good stock at from 2½c to 3c per lb; common beasts sold at from 1½c to 2½c, and the leaner beasts sold at from a little over 1c to about 1½c per lb. Calves were in brisk demand, and Mr. Bourassa bought five good calves, paying from $8 to $12 each for them. Mutton critters are lower all round. Shippers are paying nearly 2½c per lb. for good large sheep. Lambs are selling in lots at about 3½c per lb., and a few of the best at about 3¾c per lb. Fat hogs are plentiful, and sell at from $3.75 to $3.95 per 100 lbs.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Utica, Nov. 30.—Cheese sales to-day—280 boxes at 9c, 2,025 boxes at 9¼c, 1,100 boxes at 9⅜c, 50 boxes at 9⅝c, 80 boxes at 9 3-4c; 1,200 boxes on commission; 10 packages creamery butter at 23c. Market strong and ½c higher on large cheese. At Little Falls—120 boxes at 9c, 700 boxes at 9¼c, 220 boxes at 9 3-4c, 1,295 boxes at 9c, 325 boxes at 9⅜c, 607 boxes at 9½c; 88 packages dairy butter at 18 to 19c.

GALWAY.

From our own Correspondent.

Mr. T. McNamara, one our leading farmers, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony last week to a lady a short distance south of Bobcaygeon. Mr. and Mrs. McNamara returned home last Tuesday evening, where they were met by a few of their intimate friends, when a pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. H. Seymour, of Harvey, accompanied by two gentlemen from the township of Mauvers, visited this section a few days ago. They were buying up a few head of cattle for the purpose of feeding.

W. J. Cain and Thomas Coffee returned home last Saturday from the Gilmour camps, north of Dorset. They are both afflicted with ulcerated throats. We believe they are getting some better. Mr. Wm. Dolal has lost his entire flock of sheep, 14 in number, about ten days ago. Thus far he has not succeeded in recovering them. It is quite possible that he will find them, as they have likely strayed into the woods somewhere adjoining his premises.

Mr. George Taylor, well known in Norwood, has this to say about Doan's Kidney Pills:—

"For a great many years I have been a sufferer from kidney disease. Terrible pain in my side and back made my life a burden. The urine was a dark wine colour, and I was greatly troubled with frequent urination. My sleep was destroyed because of this annoying trouble.

"I have taken scores of medicines, but could get no relief, and thought that I would never be cured. Happily I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box at J. C. Moffatt's drug store, and have continued their use for one month.

"I am thankful to say as a result that they have fixed me up. I feel like another person. I do not now have to get up at night, and in fact am entirely cured.

"I think they are the grandest medicine ever placed before the public, and I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney disorder of any kind."

MR. HOGAN'S BUSINESS

Is In Connection With the Fast Atlantic Line.

LONG INTERVIEW WITH MR. LAURIER

The Irish M. P. Wants the Government to Accept Mr. Huddart's Tender—The Canadian Soo Canal Has Worked Well All Season—General News From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—(Special.)—Mr. J. F. Hogan, M. P. for Mid-Tipperary, had a long interview with the Premier last night. It is understood his object was to urge acceptance by the Government of Mr. Huddart's offer for the fast Atlantic steamship service. The class of vessels which Mr. Huddart proposes to put on the route are 572 feet long, beam 65 feet, depth 42 feet, giving a tonnage of between 11,000 and 12,000 tons register. The number of first-class passengers to be carried would be 300, second-class 200, and steerage 1000, and cargo space for 2500 tons. They have been designed by Saxton White, builder and designer of the Campania and Lucania. Tenders were asked for vessels of this character, and it was shown that the average price with outfit on board would be $2,500,000.

Mr. Schreiber, Chief Engineer of Railways and Canals, returned to the city to-day. He states that the department has every reason to be satisfied with the manner in which the Sault Canal lock has worked this summer, not a hitch having occurred. The amount of business has been considerable, and by the time navigation closes, which will be some day this week, over 7000 vessels will have passed through the canal. On days when the Michigan lock had not been working well, a not infrequent occurrence, the Canadian lock has had just about as much as it could do. Asked about the report that further dredging would be required at the entrances to give a depth of water of 17 1-2 feet, Mr. Schreiber said that this applied to the American canal, not to the Canadian. Eighteen feet of water is found at the entrance to the Canadian lock throughout the whole season of navigation.

Mr. Schreiber visited Hamilton yesterday and inspected the bridge over the Desjardins Canal. He says the bridge will be finished this week and regards it as a fine piece of work.

Capt. Spain, commandant of fishery protection service, states that during the past summer the Americans have adopted some novel devices for catching fish. Capt. Sol Jacobs of Gloucester, Mass., one of the slickest fishermen in New England, and the invariable high liner of the Gloucester fleet, devised a scheme whereby a net was let down between two poles after a bait had been thrown on the water. The mackerel rushed voraciously after the bait and then the seine was dropped under them and they were scooped up by the hundred. Capt. Jonathan Chase, also of Gloucester, who is a steam seiner, devised a method by which incandescent electric lights, varying from one to six, were dropped into the water and when the fish were attracted to the lights the seine was drawn around them.

During the past summer an Aberdeen (Scotland) steam trawler, chartered by a Nova Scotia firm, was engaged in Canadian waters, but it was not very successful.

At the Department of Trade and Commerce a large number of replies have been received from Boards of Trade to the departmental communication asking for suggestions by which trade could be promoted. When these suggestions have been collated they will make a somewhat lengthy list.

With reference to the report published in U. S. papers of a land grab by Canada at Fort Cudahy, on the Yukon, the headquarters of the Yukon detachment of the Mounted Police Force, according to the testimony of Mr. C. H. Hamilton of the North American Trading and Transportation Company, there is not the slightest truth in the statement. Both the Canadian and American surveyors agree to within a few feet as to where the 141st parallel crosses the Yukon, this being the international boundary line, and as Fort Cudahy is situated on the east side of the 141st parallel it is clearly within Canadian territory.

Mr. Coste, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, who has just returned from the Pacific Coast, will have work enough arising out of the same to keep him engaged for some time. Among the works are the surveys of the St. Andrew's Rapids improvement and the dyking of the Fraser River in British Columbia. The former will, he says, be carried out this fall. An engineering party will be sent out to British Columbia before long to co-operate with the Local Department Engineer in preparing plans for Fraser River dyking, and the general undertaking will depend much on the nature of the progress reports made by this party.

Postmaster-General Mulock has detailed Mr. B. M. Armstrong, Superintendent of the Toronto Postoffice, to investigate a number of irregularities connected with the postal service between Toronto and Rossland, B.C., and Mr. Armstrong left yesterday for the mining town. Numerous complaints have been received from merchants, both in Rossland and Toronto, as to the dilatory manner in which the mails have been handled.

The officers of the 43rd Battalion decided last night that the bravery of Douglas Lyon, who is a private of E Company, in risking his life to save two lads from drowning in the canal on Monday night, is deserving of recognition, and action will be taken to that end. A citizens' testimonial will probably also be presented to the brave young fellow.

Chief Engineer Mountain of Parry Sound and Government Engineer McCallum have left to inspect the line. This will be the inspection of the last 16 miles of the road by the Ontario Government. The Dominion Government engineers have not yet made their inspection, but will likely do so some day this week.

A peculiar fact has come to the knowledge of the Department of Marine and Fisheries in connection with a shipment of lake trout which were sent to New Zealand some years ago from Canada. It was found that the fish, instead of remaining in the rivers, drifted down to the sea, and there grew to the weight of 15 or 16 pounds.

THE OUTLOOK IN INDIA.

Prospects of Rain and Lower Prices for Wheat—General News by Cable.

London, Dec. 2.—A Times despatch from Calcutta says: It was thought in some quarters that the Viceroy's recent speeches betrayed unwarranted optimism regarding the famine outlook, but the impression is growing that he was right. Indications exist of the formation of another cold weather storm in Beluchistan. If this moves eastward, as usually happens, further rain may fall in the Punjab and in the Northwestern Provinces. Clearly prices have begun to fall in most of the provinces, though they are still much above the normal.

Agricultural operations in Madras and Bombay are proceeding actively, the rainfall having been abundant in nearly all districts and the difficulty of obtaining fodder for plow cattle has quite disappeared in these presidencies

THE EMPEROR THEIR GOD.

A Peculiar Incident Which Occurred in the German Reichstag.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—An incident took place in the Reichstag during to-day's debate with reference to a criticism by one of the members to the effect that the sailors of the gunboat Itis ought to have prayed to God instead of cheering the Kaiser as the vessel went down. In reply to this, Vice-Admiral Hollman, Secretary of the Navy, said that when the sailors had the Emperor before their eyes they had their God before their eyes, and they thought of the authority which God set over them.

The remarks met with cynical cheering from the Radicals and Socialists.

HAMBURG STRIKERS.

Eight Thousand of Them in Meeting Decide to Accept Arbitration.

Hamburg, Dec. 2.—The striking men in the shipping trade held two meetings in this city this morning, at which 8000 men were present. The meetings were conducted in an orderly manner, there being no attempts to incite those present to riotous demonstrations. Resolutions were passed accepting the proposition that the settlement of the dimculty be left to a court of arbitration, and declaring that the strikers would abide by the decision of the court. Herren Von Elm, Legien and Molkenbuhr, members of the Reichstag, will represent the port trades in the arbitration court, and the strikers' interests will be in charge of Herr Doeringe.

Lord Salisbury Will Bring Spain to Account for the Arrest of the Beattie.

London, Dec. 2.—The Manchester Guardian to-day says that Lord Salisbury, Prime Minister and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will make very strong representations to the Spanish Government with reference to the detention in Cuba by the authorities of Richard and John Beattie, residents of British Columbia, who were recently arrested in Havana for being in some way connected with the Cuban revolution.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

WINDOW GLASS TRUST.

The Big Monopoly Reorganized With Branch s East and West.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 2.—The window glass manufacturers of the United States, who have been in session here for two days, completed their labors last evening. The result was the reorganization of both the old associations, that in the East to be called the Pittsburg Window Glass Company, and that in the West the Western Glass Company.

Each association has an Executive Committee, composed of its officer and five others, and each of these Executive Committees will appoint for its association four members of the joint Executive Committee of eight. This joint Executive Committee is clothed by the agreement with plenary power in making schedules of prices and in enforcing penalties for violation of the agreement. Only four small factories in the West remain outside the association and three in the East.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10½ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

PRESENTED WITH A PAST COUNTY MASTER'S JEWEL.

An Honour Conferred Upon Mr. W. J. Green, P.C.M., by Local Members of the Orange Order.

Mr. W. J. Green, of town, Past County Master, of the Orange Order, is leaving this evening to take up his residence in British Columbia, and as he has repeatedly held high office in the District Orange Lodge, his brethren resolved not to allow him to go without some manifestation of their esteem. A special meeting of the local lodge was therefore summoned last evening in order that he might be presented with the jewel of a Past County Master.

Mr. Robt. Weir, Past Grand Master of Royal Black Knights of Ireland, was voted to the chair. After the chairman had addressed the meeting, stating the reasons for which the brethren had been called together, the address was read by the County Secretary, Mr. Sidney B. Weir. Bro. John A. McWilliams, Past District Master, then presented the jewel, which is the handsomest ever given in this district. Upon it was the following inscription:—"Presented by the Orangemen of Peterborough to Worshipful Bro. W. J. Green, Past County Master, Dec. 2nd, 1896." The following address was then read:

To Bro. W. J. Green, Past County Master, L. O. L.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your brethren of the Orange Order, having learned of your intention to remove to other parts, feel that they would be derelict of their duty were they to allow you to depart without attempting to show their appreciation of your services, both as a private member and in your more honoured several official capacities. When we remember that you have filled with honour to yourself and satisfaction to your brethren the several important offices of County Master, District Master and Master, and that you now hold the triple position of District Secretary, Secretary of L. O. L. No. 80, and Secretary of the Royal Black Knights, we begin to appreciate you as we have never done before, and it appears to add weight to that old saying "that we do not know how to value our blessings until they are with drawn from us." Permit us even at this late moment to acknowledge your late services to our Order, and your many good qualities of head and heart, and as an earnest token of our good faith in this, we ask you to accept this Past Master's jewel, which as you know is not given for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of our esteem and a reminder of the pleasant memories of the part.

And now Brother Green, we desire, ere we part, to wish you Godspeed on your journey, and we sincerely trust the contemplated change will turn out for your best interest and should we never be privileged to meet together in a lodge on earth again, our earnest wish is that we may all be re-united in a happy hereafter where parting is no more.

Signed on behalf of the Peterborough brethren:

R. WEIR, P. G. M., R.B.K.B.A.
JOHN A. MCWILLIAMS, P.D.M.
JOSEPH JONES, P. D. M.
GEORGE W. HALL, P. D. M.
SIDNEY B. WEIR, C. S.

Bro. Joseph Jones then read the address on behalf of L. O. L. No. 80:

To Mr. W. J. Green.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On behalf of the members of Diamond L. O. L., No. 80, I desire to extend to you their sincere thanks for the many valuable services rendered to the Lodge as their recording secretary for the past fifteen years, and also for the kind consideration you have always shown to the members. And now allow me to express to you the oft-times repeated regrets of the brethren on their learning of your intended removal from our midst, knowing as they do, that our association here has lost a most painstaking and efficient officer thereby, but realizing as they do that our loss will be the gain of our brethren in the far west, trusting that you may be spared to be as useful to them as you have been to us, and now wishing you prosperity and happiness in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,
JOSEPH JONES,
Master L. O. L. No. 80.

The Past County Master made a most suitable acknowledgment, after which neat speeches appropriate to the occasion were made by Messrs. John A. McWilliams, Past District Master; Joseph Saunders, Joseph Jones, P. D. Ms.; Capt. J. W. Miller, G. W. Hall, Thos. Brown, Jos. Batten, W. H. G. Armstrong, District Treasurer, J. Briggs, Deputy Master of 457 Nassau, and W. A. Kindred, Chaplain of L. O. L. No. 80.

Mr. Yeigh's Lecture.

The subject of Britain's girdle of the globe and of Canada's scenery and history was particularly appropriate for the Canadian Thanksgiving entertainment enjoyed by a large audience in Bond street church last evening. Mr. Frank Yeigh added another to his platform successes in his eloquent presentation of his topic, and the richly coloured views thrown on the screen by Mr. W. H. Charlton, of Chas. Potter's establishment, were heartily cheered. Mr. T. Arthur Miller contributed organ music as an accompaniment to the series of pictures, and aroused the audience to enthusiasm by his fine rendition of national airs, especially the "Maple Leaf."—Globe, Nov. 27th, '96. 2eod

RUMOURED OUTRAGE IN OTONABEE.

A Young Girl Said to have been Badly Injured by Her Relatives.

The rumour of a cruel outrage in Otonabee is current upon the streets, and if the facts of the case substantiate the story there would be justification in the visit of the constables to the domicile where the alleged inhuman action took place.

The rumour is to the effect that the daughter of a small farmer, not far from town was horribly beaten for refusing to give up her lover, to whom the father and brother had taken objection.

The beating took so severe a form, it is said, that the girl's life was almost despaired of, several of her ribs having been broken by the severe kicks of her relatives.

The name of a local physician is connected with the case, as having been summoned to attend the poor girl's injuries, but he refuses to throw any light upon the subject, beyond saying that the whole matter has been greatly exaggerated.

LATE RICHARD NAGLE.

Funeral To-day to Notre Dame From St. Patrick's Church.

(Ottawa Journal, Dec. 2nd.)

The funeral of the late Richard Nagle took place this afternoon from the Russell House to St. Patrick's church, where service was conducted by Rev. Father Phelan, of Peterborough, and Rev. Father Whelan. The attendance of friends was unusually large. The chief mourners were Messrs. James Nagle, B. McCarthy, H. Phelan, T. B. Brophy, H. J. Friel and the three daughters of the deceased, Mrs. Phelan, Mrs. Friel and Mrs. Brophy.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. P. J. Brennan, G. P. Brophy, Frank McDougal, Dr. St. Jean, J. Gouix, W. McKay, H. K. Egan, E. Phelan and M. Starr.

The floral tributes were chiefly from members of the family, including wreathes from Mr. and Mrs. E. Phelan and Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun, of Peterborough, and one from his three daughters. A few cut flowers were received from friends.

At nine o'clock to-morrow morning Rev. Father J. Phelan, of Peterborough, will sing a requiem mass in St. Patrick's church.

ELECTION OF STEWARDS.

The Congregation of the George Street Church Choose their Representatives.

At the close of the prayer meeting in the George street Methodist church last evening the congregation elected seven stewards as representatives on the Quarterly Board. There were twelve nominations and the following gentlemen were elected: Geo. Powell, J. J. Hartley, John Nugent, H. Stabler, Thos. McFadden, A. E. Dixon and J. Jeffries.

At the conclusion of the election a number of those present expressed their satisfaction at the showing of the last annual report, Mr. D. W. Dumble pointing out that during the year the congregation had contributed upwards of $7,000.00. Reference was also made to the photogravure of Rev. W. R. Young on the first page of the report, and it was advocated as a commendable idea that hereafter the photograph of the pastor of the church should appear in the report. A discussion then ensued regarding the renovation of the church, and as the result the interior will be thoroughly gone over in the spring.

—The heart of the small boy is glad there is plenty of "glare" ice on the ponds and creeks in and around the town and the juveniles are sharpening up their skates.

—The cold weather is checking work on the canal. A gang has been laid off the Peterborough - Lakefield section and another off the Nassau-Little Lake portion.

—A bicycle journal offers a prize of $10 for a photo of the worst road for wheelmen in the province of Ontario. A photograph of George street a couple of weeks ago would have undoubtedly been awarded the prize.

—Mr. Justus Alley, postmaster at Rush Point, four miles north of Havelock, whose dwelling, in which was the postoffice, was lately reduced to ashes, was awarded $768 by the company that carried the risk.

—Since their return home, sportsmen can recount among other things, the pleasure it gave some men in hunting without a license. They were many who never saw a license, who brought home their deer without the regulation shipping tag.

—Many town councils in Ontario with progressive ideas have made arrangements for the flooding of different vacant lots in their town, thus providing a place where the youngsters can enjoy a good skate free of charge. What say our legislators to such a scheme as this?

—The following is told of a young man in one of our neighbouring towns who is addicted to the cigarette habit: He had smoked 1,200 packages and wrote to the manufacturers to know what they would give him for 1,200 pictures that had come with the cigarettes. The answer of the manufacturers was right to the point—"smoke 1,200 more and we will send you a coffin."

Lucky Bargains in Tweed.

A lot of people have been looking for remnants in tweeds. We have made a lucky stroke of business at about 50c on the dollar of a job line of tweeds, which we will sell very cheap. These remnants are long enough to make a full suit, a coat, a pair of pants or a vest. As long as they last we will make up suits for $12, $13 and $15, and a pair of pants for $3, $3.50 and $4, or about 25 per cent. cheaper than regular prices. Warranted to fit. H. LEBRUN & Co. 2d1w

A Good Postal Idea.

An interesting suggestion is made by a correspondent of the New York Herald, who says that in England, when one has a large number of letters or circulars to mail at one time, he need not be at the trouble of affixing a stamp on each one of them, but may carry them to the post office, pay the postage due on them and pass them in. No postage stamps are affixed, but the office simply stamps them "Paid," and they are forwarded. This is an idea very well worth the consideration of our Postmaster General. The postoffice clerks have to mark each envelope already, in cancelling the stamps, so there would be no extra trouble for them, while it would save business offices the time and trouble of pasting stamps on each separate letter or circular.

The most fastidiously dressed men will wear the fashionable Winter Overcoat for 1896-7, namely

The perfection of Top-coats. Just long enough to cover the Frock or Morning Coat—not so loose as in recent winters—not so tight as to confine the shoulders or body. We await your orders.

Mercer's

OBITUARY.

Death of William Barry, Formerly of Peterborough.

William Barry, who departed this life last week after several months illness, was born in the county of Cork, Ireland, in the month of November '29. In the year 1832, along with his parents, Patrick and Helen Barry, he came to Canada, settling first in Quebec, and then in the state of Vermont, and with his parents in 1837 came to Peterborough, and for twelve years made his home in the neighbourhood of Westwood, and from there to the township of Percy.

In the fall of 1850 he married Mary Holland, sister of Mr. James Holland, of Hastings, (from which union three sons and six daughters were born and still survive him), and who some nineteen years ago preceeded him to the land from whence no traveller returns. Seventeen years ago he led to the altar Miss Margaret Sullivan, of Douro, who now mourns his loss, and of which union one son was born.

Mr. Barry also leaves a brother, Mr. Patrick Barry, of Hastings, and three sisters—Mrs. John Connelly, (widow) of Seymour; Mrs. Kelly, (widow) of Peterborough, and Mrs. Ryan, of Buffalo, N.Y.

He was a man of great energy and force of character, flowing over with native wit and humour, obliging and a good neighbour. In religion a Roman Catholic, liberal in its tenement, honourable in his intercourse with all.

The remains were followed by a large concourse of sympathising friends and neighbours to St. Mary's church, Hastings, where it received the rites of the church, conducted by Rev. Father Connelly, his pastor, and thence to the Asphodel, R. C. Cemetery for interment.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

A Young Man's Game Bag Mistaken for a Rabbit.

On Saturday last a party of three young men of Campbellford, Frank Bonnycastle, Alex. Davidson and Henry Rowed, Jr., went out to hunt rabbits in what is known as Gibson's swamp, near Trent Bridge, and during their movements an accident occurred of a very serious nature.

On returning homewards, they entered a swamp on the farm of Mr. John Given, about three miles north of Campbellford, and towards evening their dog started a rabbit and ran off out of their hearing. After waiting a few minutes, they left the swamp, but returned on hearing the dog again, too late, however, as the rabbit had passed by. Rowed and Davidson were together, and Bonnycastle was about thirty yards distant from them. Rowed thought he saw a rabbit, having mistaken Bonnycastle's haversack or game bag, which hung from his shoulder, and he raised his gun to fire, but only the cap snapped. Bonnycastle heard this and turned his head and saw his two companions, and at that moment Rowed fired the other barrel, and its contents lodged in Bonnycastle's body. Frank shouted to him, saying, "You have shot me!" and then he became paralysed and could not speak for some time afterwads.

The young man walked to the residence of Mr. Given, who drove him to Campbellford. Upon their arrival there a physician was called to attend the young man's injuries. Shot was found in his scalp, several grains having entered behind his ears, one in the neck, near the jugular vein, and between seventy and one hundred lodged in his neck, shoulders, back, and down his body to the knees. Fully fifty were removed from between his shoulders.

The haversack at his side, containing a rabbit, received about forty grains, and this no doubt saved his life, by preventing them from entering his abdomen. A large number were removed, some having to be cut out as they had penetrated the flesh to a considerable depth, and carried with them small particles from the clothing. No attempt was made to remove the one near the jugular vein.

Young Bonnycastle, who is seventeen years of age, stood the operation without flinching. His back is covered with wounds; but we are pleased to state that he is recovering, and was able to be on his feet again on Monday.

THE WHEEL.

Linton, the Welsh bicycle rider who rode 32 miles in an hour, and who is now in America, has a wonderful thigh development. Linton is 5 feet 8 inches high and weighs but 126 pounds. Yet his thigh is more muscular and larger in circumference than Jim Corbett's thigh. The development of his great extensor thigh muscle is marvellous. It does not show in knots, but looks as if the front of the thigh had been beaten with a club and had become puffed with inflammation. But there is no puffing in Linton's thigh. The muscles are twined together like a network of steel cables. The back of the thigh tapers away in a peculiar wedge shape, showing remarkable development except in the long contractor muscle. The lower leg is small in proportion to the thigh, but the instep and ankle again show great development. This gives an idea of Linton's construction and the secret of his unparalleled riding.

There are bandits nowadays as well as in the days of old. Business men have to meet what are known as business-bandits. They may not commit violence with knife and pistol, but they resort to all manner of dishonest business methods, and the honest business man must be brave, strong and steady if he would meet and overcome them. The modern business man needs above all other qualifications—good health. Without good health, he may be naturally shrewd, bright and capable, but he will eventually fail. It takes a keen brain and steady nerves to be successful. Impure blood will befog the brightest brain and shake the steadiest nerves.

The greatest known blood-maker and purifier is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, tones the liver, makes the appetite keen and assimilation perfect. Consequently the blood is plentifully supplied with the elements of nutrition and the body is properly nourished. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. All good druggists sell it.

H. Gaddis, Esq., of No. 313 S. J. Street, Tacoma, Washington, writes: "I was taken ill in February, 1892, with headache and pain in my back. I called in a doctor and he came three times. He said I was bilious, but I kept getting worse. I took a cough so that I could only sleep when propped up in bed. My lungs hurt me and I got so poor that I was just skin and bone. I thought I was going to die. I tried a bottle of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it did me so much good that I tried another one and it made me strong and well. It saved my life."

Good Market for Turkeys and Geese in England

IF THEY GET THERE IN GOOD SHAPE

Proper Attention to Packing and Good Cold Storage on Board Ship Will Insure a Profitable Trade—Publishers Want Newspaper Postage—Notes From the Capital.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—The Trade and Commerce Department has received a comer's office, London, dealing with enquirmunication from the High Commissioners which were made among OldCountry dealers, as to the probable demand for Canadian turkeys, geese and other poultry through the winter and spring months. There is some division of opinion as to the best time for sending shipments. Just before Christmas and New Year's there is a large demand for poultry of all kinds, but the tendency is toward a glut in the market through the number of British birds which are sold at that particular season and the supply coming in from France and other continental countries.

This tends to lower the price of Canadian poultry. Lack of adequate cold storage facilities on the lines between Canada and the United Kingdom have confined our shipments largely to birds in the feather. The demand is brisk for the first three months of the year and prices continue just about as good as through the holiday season. One thing should be given particular attention and that is the packing. The feathers should be smooth and the killing should be done carefully, so that it will not look as if done by some beast of prey. Much depends on the weather when the shipments are made. The caution is repeated of starving the birds for at least 24 hours before killing, as they will keep much better. It is evident, the High Commissioner notes, that the possibilities of the trade in poultry developing to any great extent are slim till better cold storage is provided in the vessels. It is recommended that in large shipments the sexes be divided, and birds of the same size placed in each case. The cases might be stencilled, as it would assist the dealers in sorting. At Christmas time the largest birds are called for, but later in the winter medium or smaller birds sell well. Very much the same applies to geese as to turkeys. If they can be refrigerated and plucked they certainly meet a more ready sale. When spring comes the supply of British poultry is scarce, and this matter is worthy of attention in Canada. A list of firms is attached who are prepared to enter into correspondence for the purchase of Canadian poultry.

The Minister of Agriculture's tour of Ontario, upon which he set out this week, will last about a fortnight. In that time he will study the requirements of the various localities, and then proceed to Washington, where he will consult with the United States authorities on matters relating to cattle quarantine and regulations to govern the same between the two countries.

Increased mail facilities are to be provided by the postoffice authorities for the Kootenay district, via the American border, and the Northern Pacific Railway to the "Soo."

Representations have been made to the Postmaster-General, by certain newspaper proprietors in favor of a re-imposition of postage rates for transmission of newspapers sent through the mails from the office of publication. The ground on which this is urged is that free postage hurts the legitimate newspaper business by encouraging fake advertising schemes. The Minister is disposed to charge a postage rate of one cent per pound on newspapers, but allowing free transmission through the mails within the county of publication. This latter concession would help the country press. Mr. Mulock would be glad of suggestions on the matter.

Dr. McPhail, Professor of Bacteriology at Bishop's College, has been authorized by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to proceed to England to complete his researches into the matter of blackening of lobsters in the famous pathological laboratories of London.

Mr. Davies is satisfied with Dr. McPhail's discovery of the causes of blackening and the remedy therefor, but before announcing it to the public he has thought it well to encourage Dr. McPhail to prosecute his researches further.

Application has been made to the Department of Marine and Fisheries for a supply of salmon eggs to be sent to Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. The department will accede to the request by sending a shipment from the hatchery at New Westminster. It appears there are many rivers and streams on the Hawaiian Islands where it is thought salmon would thrive well.

Since his return to Ottawa, the Minister of Militia has hardly had time to take up the Queen's Own matter. He informed your correspondent tonight that he had not reached a decision yet. Previous to his recent visit to Toronto he had about made up his mind to a certain line of action, regarding Col. Hamilton, but this had been modified by what he had learned in the Queen City. He will, however, settle the matter some time this month.

The Controller of Inland Revenue has notified the Manitoba branch of the Dominion Alliance of his decision in favor of its petition for the closing of a brewery at Neepawa by withholding the Dominion license. The Government of Newfoundland is sending supplies of flour and other necessaries where they are called for.

There has been some talk of Mr. Sifton going through to the Pacific Coast before returning to Ottawa, though Hon. R. W. Scott does not anticipate that Mr. Sifton will carry out this plan at present.

To Stain Wood.

It is a fact not universally known that almost any dry pigment, mixed with spirits of turpentine, will stain wood. It should be applied until the desired shade is obtained. Strong ammonia applied to wood will give it an aged appearance. The best finish for carved work is beeswax or linseed oil.

You can't be well if your blood is impure, but you may have pure blood and good health by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CANADA CLUB DINNER

Progress of the Dominion Dilated Upon—Mr. Dobell Gets in a Word for the United States.

London, Dec. 2.—At the Canada Club dinner this evening Sir Donald A. Smith, Canadian High Commissioner in London, who presided, dilated upon the progress made by the Dominion of Canada.

The Earl of Selborne, Parliamentary Secretary to the Colonial Office, in his remarks paid a high tribute to the great lessons which the Dominion had taught Great Britain respecting federal conventions, and hoped they would be followed by the federation of the colonies of Australia and South Africa. Mr. Dobell expressed the hope that closer commercial relations would be established between Canada and the United States, which, he declared, would be of great advantage to both Canada and Great Britain.

Mr. Jones of the Pacific Cable Commission, declared that he looked forward to the accomplishment of the great work in which he and his colleagues were engaged.

La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

THE CALAMITY IS ON.

Ice Gorge Unbroken and Everybody is at Work Saving Household Goods.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Dec. 1.—The ice gorge is unbroken, and the water is now running over the lower section of the city, and steadily rising. All hope of breaking the gorge is abandoned, and all attention is given now to saving household goods and merchandise. Every team in the city is kept busy moving people and effects to places of safety. At 9 o'clock this morning the water had crept up to the bridge and to the postoffice, two blocks from the river. The river is now 22 feet above low-water mark.

The Wisconsin Central tracks are covered with water two feet deep, and the Omaha tracks are used in the transfer of trains at Eau Claire. Duncan Creek, a tributary to the Chippewa River, here, is also doing much damage, as the water is backing up in it from the river. The Chippewa Lumber and Boom Company's mill and lumber yards are all under water. Every resident and business man on River-street has moved out.

It is thought by many that this is only the beginning, as there is no possible hope of getting a channel cut through the jam of logs and ice. The river gorge is now 23 feet high and four and a half miles long. All the farming country, five miles south, in the town of Wheaton, is under water, and the loss to farmers is enormous. Many farmers barely escaped with their lives, and in some places houses and barns were carried away. Live stock has been lost by every farmer.

The suffering by those obliged to move is terrible, as the thermometer shows from 1 to 5 degrees below zero. At 10 a.m. all hope was given up of saving the entire business portion of the city from being submerged. The ice is rapidly forming four miles below and the water is rising in the city at the rate of a foot an hour. Everybody is making preparations to move to the high grounds.

A report that another gorge is forming at Little Falls, 30 miles above here, was brought in this morning and increased the panic, as, in case of its breaking suddenly, the whole city would be swept away. A report from Durand, south of here, says 30 persons have lost their lives, and suffering from the cold is intense. This report cannot be verified and is probably greatly exaggerated.

FOUND A JEWEL.

An Important Find by a Brockville Jeweller.

Mr. Joseph Lane, the well-known jeweller of Brockville, says: "For some years I have suffered with severe pains in my back and sides and flashes of heat between my shoulders. I had a tired, wornout felling.

"The numerous medicines that I took gave me very little relief. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I thought I would try a box, and got one at Curry's drugstore.

"After the first two or three doses I felt much relieved, and the longer I took them the greater the change for the better in my condition. I am much better in every respect and recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble as the best remedy I know of."

Sold by James Lynch, druggist, 168 Hunter street, Peterborough.

Mr. Chas. Smith, Dawn Mills, Ont., says: "For several years I was troubled with pains in my limbs, which continued getting worse until I thought I would have to quit work. In fact the pains were so severe that I could not rest nights. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pills and am perfectly cured.'

Although it is nearly a year since Mr. S. took the Pills he has had no return of the pains, and feels splendid. Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, Druggist.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego Cal. says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. Sold by John Nugent, 369 George Street.

A MILLINERY LESSON.

THE PROPER MODE OF TREATING VELVET FOLDS AND EDGES.

How to Correctly Make the Edge of the Hat—A Positive Rule That Must Never Be Put Aside—How the Stitching Must Be Done.

It is often necessary to use folds of velvet, either on top, or as is more often the case, underneath a brim. When a beginner first attempts covering a hat, the edge is her weak point, and as it frequently has to be gone over several times before a state of perfection as regards the stitch is arrived at, these folds serve to cover a very badly, used place as well as help trim the hat, so I shall speak of them first.

To make one correctly, cut a bias strip of velvet one inch wide. There are occasions where three-fourths of an inch is sufficient, as, for instance, where several are to be used. Where a join in the length is required, you must always make it along the straight or selvedge of the material, and not across the bias. This is a positive rule, and must never, on any consideration, be put aside. The illustration, Fig. 3, should make the directions unmistakable; it shows the ends of two bias strips, with the end as it would appear after the strip was cut, and which must remain that way, as it is the proper angle at which a join must be made. The dotted lines show where the join should be made. The strip is then made into what is termed a "plain" fold; it is simple enough, but care must be taken not to draw the thread too tight; it must be firm and the edges of the material meet exactly, but not lap over each other (Fig. 4). Another important thing is, don't make your stitches too small; your needle should go in about half an inch below here you drew it out.

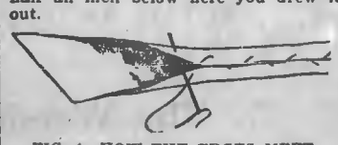

FIG. 4. HOW THE EDGES MEET.

A fold which is a little more difficult to make is what is termed the milliners' fold. In this case the bias strip should be about one and a half inches wide. The illustration, Fig. 5, should make the method of procedure plain; it shows the upper edge folded over once, and the lower edge folded twice and slip-stitched down. The lower is lapped over the upper just enough to cover it nicely and allow the stitch to be well made. Slip-stitching is always the same; when you have once accomplished it, you will be able to do it on anything. The principle is just the same for this as for the edge of a hat. When ties are to be made for a bonnet, this is the fold which is used. The end has then to be finished off neatly in a point. You must carefully remember for all slip-stitching that the stitch must be kept on a line with the folded edge.

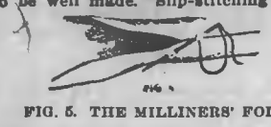

FIG. 5. THE MILLINERS' FOLD.

The hat which is shown in Fig. 1 was of golden-brown velvet, with black feathers, and, besides being a very stylish model, is a very good sample of a plain covered hat, which requires the most careful sewing. You will notice that the upper side of the brim is in two pieces, and the outer circle has to be sewed down on the inner one without a spek to show where a stitch has been made. A back view of the hat is given, so that you can see the way it is made; the front has no trimmings except a jet ornament to fasten in the feathers; these are put where the black cross is marked on the illustration of the shape, Fig 2.—Harper's Bazar.

OTTAWA SYNOD.

The Various Committees Met and Mapped Out the Work for the Annual Meeting in June.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—(Special.)—The various committees of the Ottawa Synod are in session in the city considering matters that will come before the Synod at its next meeting in June. A somewhat important report was made by Chancellor Lewis of the division of the diocesan funds between the Diocese of Ontario and the Diocese of Ottawa. Mr. Lewis reported that, with the exception of the $12,000 of the Gainford trust fund, that is in arbitration, a satisfactory basis of settlement had been reached. The rectory lands funds are to be divided according to the location of the rectories and the other funds, including clergy trust funds, widows' and orphans' funds and superannuation funds, were to be divided almost equally. The aggregate amount of these moneys that the diocese of Ottawa will receive is $192,000. Some matters of detail are still to be arranged. The Chancellor reported, but it is expected that a full division will be completed and the securities handed over by Dec. 15.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ALWAYS CURE

AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING

Two Box Cure

MILVERTON, 29TH JULY, 1895.

Gentlemen,—For the last ten years I had been troubled with kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie in bed at night nor stoop to the ground.

I had tried all the remedies I could find without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.

I am most happy to say it for my own sake as well as for others that I am perfectly cured after using four boxes.

THE EYES OF THE WORLD
Are Fixed Upon South American Nervine.

Beyond Doubt the Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

WHEN EVERY OTHER HELPER HAS FAILED IT CURES

A Discovery, Based on Scientific Principles, that Renders Failure Impossible.

In the matter of good health temporizing measures, while possibly successful for the moment, can never be lasting. Those in poor health soon know whether the remedy they are using is simply a passing incident in their experience, bracing them up for the day, or something that is getting at the seat of the disease and is surely and permanently restoring.

The eyes of the world are literally fixed on South American Nervine. They are not viewing it as a nine-days' wonder, but critical and experienced men have been studying this medicine for years, with the one result—they have found that its claim of perfect curative qualities cannot be gainsaid.

The great discoverer of this medicine was possessed of the knowledge that the seat of all disease is the nerve centres, situated at the base of the brain. In this belief he had the best scientists and medical men of the world occupying exactly the same premises. Indeed, the ordinary layman recognized this principle long ago. Everyone knows that let disease or injury affect this part of the human system and death is almost certain. Injure the spinal cord, which is the medium of these nerve centres, and paralysis is sure to follow.

Here is the first principle. The trouble with medical treatment usually, and with nearly all medicines, is that they aim simply to treat the organ that may be diseased. South American Nervine passes by the organs, and immediately applies its curative powers to the nerve centres, from which the organs of the body receive their supply of nerve fluid. The nerve centres healed, and of necessity the organ which has shown the outward evidence only of derangement is healed. Indigestion, nervousness, impoverished blood, liver complaint, all owe their origin to a derangement of the nerve centres. Thousands bear testimony that they have been cured of these troubles, even when they have become so desperate as to baffle the skill of the most eminent physicians, because South American Nervine has gone to headquarters and cured there.

The eyes of the world have not been disappointed in the inquiry into the success of South American Nervine. People marvel, it is true, at its wonderful medical qualities, but they know beyond all question that it does everything that is claimed for it. It stands alone as the one great certain curing remedy of the nineteenth century. Why should anyone suffer distress and sickness while this remedy is practically at their hands?

WAS IN DEMAND.

Being a Good Hockey Player he Got a Bank Clerkship.

Mr. George McKay, the well-known bicyclist, football player and hockeyist, of Kingston, received a letter on Saturday from the secretary of the Bank of Commerce hockey team, Toronto, asking him to come to the Queen City and join this aggregation.

They offered him a position in the bank. The same day he received a telegram from the Bank of Toronto hockey team, offering him similar inducements to those held out by the first named bank.

He accepted the offer of the Bank of Toronto, and left for the Queen City Sunday to fill a position as clerk in that bank, and to play centre forward on the team. George is one of the speediest forwards in Canada.

He has the happy knack of being able to indulge in rapid rushes, and shoot with lightning speed on goal. The splendid forward which the "golden-haired lad" put up when he was on Queen's University team has won him a name among the hockey players of Canada. Besides being a good "puck chaser," he is one of the speedy wing men on the Granite football team, and played in the championship game against the Tigers of Hamilton. On the bicycle track he has been one of Kingston's fastest riders for years. He has won numerous medals and trophies, and is the champion rider of the Quinte district.

THE TARIFF ENQUIRY.

he had been obliged to sell Canadian canned peaches at 30 cents a dozen less than the usual price, owing to the fact that American canners had crowded the Canadian markets.

W. C. Breckinridge, manager of the Norton Manufacturing Co., requested that no change be made in the duty on raw material, or in the manufactured article in his line of the business, and P. D. Carse expressed himself as satisfied with the present duty of 100 per cent. on can labels, an expression which caused Hon. Mr. Fielding much amusement.

J. C. McKeand, in the interests of E. T. Wright & Co., wire goods manufacturers, thought the duty on tinned wire cloth, which was raw material for the factory, was too high at 30 per cent., while the duty on the goods made from the same material was only 27 1-2 per cent. He said the company would be satisfied with 20 per cent. on tinned wire cloth. He explained that the duty had been put on thus owing to a misunderstanding of the kind of material tinned wire cloth was.

The commissioners arose at 1 o'clock and repaired to the Royal Hotel for luncheon. Subsequently they visited the smelting works as per arrangement.

The Commissioners finished their inquiry in this city this evening, and tomorrow they will give Brantford people a chance to express themselves. The wholesale and retail jewelers, represented by J. E. Parker, Thomas Lees, W. R. Davis, George H. Lees, A. Levy, F. Claringbowl, W. E. Berid, E. K. Fass and E. J. Taylor, asked that the duty be retained on watch cases, and that no duty be placed on diamonds. They were satisfied with the duty of 30 per cent. on electro-plated ware, 25 per cent. on clocks and 30 per cent. on tower clocks. Instead of 16 per cent on watch springs and wheels and 25 per cent. on clock springs and wheels, 25 per cent. on watch cases, they wanted an all-round duty of 10 per cent. To show how difficult it would be to prevent the smuggling of diamonds, if they were made dutiable, A. Levy drew diamonds worth $20,000 from a small parcel in his vest pocket, and threw them down on the table to dazzle the eyes of the commissioners. The jewelers were satisfied with the present tariff generally.

S. O. Greening and C. A. Birge thought wire goods should continue protected, wire cloth at 27 1-2 per cent. and the raw material at 25 per cent. Mr. Birge also wished the tariff on screws to remain as at present, but he would prefer a specific duty thereon.

F. H. Whitton desired no change in the duty on wire, 25 per cent.; nails, $1 per hundred, and a specific duty on tacks.

John Bertram, the veteran Dundas manufacturer, was anxious that no change should be made in the duty of 27 1-2 per cent. on machinery.

D. A. Ghent and George B. Dousell were satisfied with the present duty on clothes wringers, churns, etc., but they did not like the tariff on their raw material.

G. C. Morrison asked to have the duty on the material for hot water boilers for desidences, 15 per cent., taken off. He is the first manufacturer of these goods in Canada.

S. Briggs and M. Eastwood, of the camera section of the Hamilton Association, were promised that the commissioners would see what could be done about allowing lantern slides from the American International Exchange to come free, the slides being for educational and scientific purposes.

R. W. Campbell, this city, S. F. Glass, London, and Fred Charleroft, Brantford, asked to have the present duty on crockery, fire brick, stoneware, etc., retained.

W. G. Dunn wanted the duty on American mustard, 1 per cent., increased to 6 per cent., the same as English mustards. He asked that the Adulteration Act be enforced on goods brought into the country.

J. A. Patterson, Flint, paper manufacturer, suggested a duty of 20 to 30 per cent. on flint papers, etc.

Wm. Dixon, fruit dealer, wanted the duty on malaga grapes placed on packages, so as to obviate the necessity of the packages being opened for Customs purposes. He did not agree with the fruit growers regarding the duty on fruit, stating that he favored reciprocity with the States in fruit.

F. C. Bruce and Robert Evans, seedmen, requested the Government to leave the tariff alone.

James Dunlop suggested that all corn imported should be taxed, otherwise the flour and feed dealers could not resist the temptation to sell free corn for animal food, which latter kind of corn carries a duty of 7 1-2 cents a bushel.

W. O. Sealey appeared on behalf of the farmers, and he thought if the Government could not put a duty on what farmers have to sell it could reduce the tax on what they have to buy.

R. T. Lancefield, librarian, asked that section 780 of the Customs Act be amended, so as to prohibit importation of works of which the copyright is subsisting in the United Kingdom which have also been copyrighted in Canada, but which have been printed out of the United Kingdom.

THE GOLDEN LION!

We propose making December a notable month in our business. November has been a booming month, for, mind you, we laid ourselves out to boom things—not talk, not thunder, not importuning to buy, but a solid boom that brought buyers. FAST ATLANTIC LINE

A Vigorous Letter From Mr. James Huddart.

HE PROTESTS AGAINST THE ALLANS

Getting the Contract, and Says No, If Any One, Should be Allowed to Amend His Tender—Full Details Wanted Before an Imperial Subsidy Will be Granted.

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—(Special.)—Coincident with the visit to Ottawa of J. F. Hogan, M.P., as Mr. Huddart's representative regarding the fast Atlantic steamship contract, it may be stated that the papers presented to Parliament on this subject last session have just been issued. On July 1 Mr. Huddart wrote to the then Minister of Trade and Commerce a strong protest against the contract for the fast line being given to the Messrs. Allan without a reconsideration of the offer made by him.

In the course of his letter Mr. Huddart said: "If any person be allowed to amend their tender, I have the honor to suggest that it would not be unreasonable for me to ask to be that person. I respectfully submit that the object Mr. Chamberlain had in calling for tenders had been reached and that my position has been vindicated. You will have taken note that the offer of the Messrs. Allan is said to be £225,000, which is almost exactly the equivalent in sterling of the amount in dollars which I have asked.

"My conduct during the previous two years in seeking to establish this fast mail service is open to the criticism of Englishmen everywhere. I am informed that if the contract is given to the Messrs. Allan they will go to the public precisely in the same way that I have always proposed to do, and they are not more likely to succeed than I am. In my case there are no conflicting interests. On the contrary, interest leads us to make the greatest possible exertions to succeed on the Atlantic. There are no old ships to be taken over by the proposed new company, and the management would be in the hands of the company itself, as in the case of the Peninsular and Oriental S. S. Company, and not in the hands of other persons, who might make such an arrangement with the company as to secure the managers profitable emoluments, while the shareholders might not be receiving dividends.

"Judging from the letters of the Messrs. Allan, which appeared in The London Times about two years ago, I think it is fair to assume that their hearts are not in the work, and that they have been forced to tender for the service because they believed that if it were left in my hands I should succeed in forming in all respects a suitable company and building the most suitable steamships."

The letter of the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, dated July 10, 1896, to the Canadian High Commissioner in London, is as follows:

"Respecting the Fast Atlantic Service, I am directed by Mr. Secretary Chamberlain to acquaint you that he is still of opinion that it would be undesirable to take any steps towards definitely accepting the tender of Messrs. Allan until the new Government of the Dominion has been formed.

"Independently of this consideration, however, it would in any case be impossible for Her Majesty's Government to come to any immediate decision on the matter, because, as intimated in my despatch to the Earl of Aberdeen of Nov. 21, 1895, Her Majesty's Government have still to consider the amount of the subsidy to be granted from the Imperial Exchequer, and for that purpose they require to be furnished with all particulars in possession of the Dominion Government, including the form of tender and copies of all tenders, and of any communications in respect to them which may have been received.

"With reference also to your interview with Mr. Chamberlain on the 9th inst., I am able to state that Mr. Chamberlain learns that some changes of an important character have been made in the tender of Messrs. Allan. If that is the case, it is quite possible that questions will arise as to the necessity of calling for fresh tenders, so that all parties may have a fair chance of competing on the altered terms. Information on this point will certainly be required by the Lords' Commissioners of the Treasury in considering the question, and you will see, therefore, that some delay is unavoidable."

The publication of the foregoing correspondence is a timely contribution to the subject, in view of the presence in Ottawa of Mr. Hogan, M.P., who is urging on the Government a reconsideration of Mr. Huddart's offer.

Messrs. Blair and Davies are making their journey out to the Pacific Coast by the Great Northern (Jim Hill's line). They will go as far as Seattle and then cross from that port by the Government steamer Quadra to Victoria. While in Washington State they will run up from Spokane to Rossland to see the wonderful British Columbia mining town. The Ministers have a touch of mining fever, as have many other Eastern men. They will return home via the C. P. R.

The Department of Marine and Fisheries was advised to-day that the crews of the lake cruisers Petrel and Dolphin have been paid off at Owen Sound and the vessels laid up for the winter. The cruiser Curlew has also been laid up at St. John.

There was a lively scrap in the Government patent office yesterday between H. H. Bailey, the examiner, and Mr. Featherstonhaugh, a patent solicitor from Toronto, who has a branch office here. The trouble ended in the representative of the Minister of Agriculture for the time being giving a knock-out blow to the limb of the law. The affair is reported to have happened in this way: Mr. Featherstonhaugh was explaining a patent to Mr. Bailey. The latter threw some doubt upon the statements of the lawyer. Mr. Featherstonhaugh assured Mr. Bailey upon his word of honor as a gentleman that the representations he was making were perfectly accurate. This did not make matters any better, for Mr. Bailey retorted that he was accustomed to hear such remarks, and afterwards they frequently turned out to be unworthy of belief. Mr. Featherstonhaugh insisted on being treated as a gentleman should be by a Government employe. The end of it was a right-hand blow from Mr. Bailey, which blackened the lawyer's face near the eye, and there the matter ended for the time being. Mr. Featherstonhaugh says he will lay the matter before Mr. Fisher.

The Welland Canal will be closed on the 15th inst.

Messrs. Henry and Borthwick have taken suit in the Exchequer Court for $15,000 for extra work in connection with the construction of a drain along the Lachine Canal.

The application of ex-Chief McVeity for a retiring allowance, referred by the City Council to the Police Commissioners, was considered by the latter body to-day. A reply will be sent to the Common Council that as the commissioners have no appropriation for the purpose the application could not be entertained.

Minister Tarte came back from Montreal to-day, and is busy on the preparation of contracts arranged during his absence.

The Sealing Commission will adjourn shortly before Christmas for two or three weeks. They will likely continue in San Francisco.

TARIFF ENQUIRY AT BRANTFORD.

Varying Views of the Business Men—Majority for Protection—Sir Richard Cartwright Not Present.

Brantford, Dec. 3.—Hon. Mr. Paterson and Hon. Mr. Fielding, two of the Tariff Commissioners, opened their inquiry at the Council Chamber this morning. Sir Richard Cartwright was detained in Toronto, and will join the commissioners at London to-morrow.

Mr. H. B. Gardner, cigarmaker, wished an increase of the duty on Havana cigars, which would materially improve the position of the Canadian cigarmaker.

Mr. M. K. Halloran considered it wrong to put a license fee of $75 upon all factories. He wished a graded list according to the number of employes.

Mr. J. E. Waterous, representing the manufacturers, wished no alteration on either raw material or finished article. Any reduction would seriously injure the business.

Mr. John Mann wanted a uniform duty on all coal other than nut.

Mr. Thomas A. Good wanted the duty of $4 per ton on raw iron removed. If they got the duty off iron, the manufacturer could produce a cheaper agricultural machine, and that would be a benefit.

At this point Sir Oliver Mowat came into the room and sat down beside Messrs. Paterson and Fielding.

Mr. Good, continuing, said if the Liberal Government didn't give tariff reform there would be a big kick.

Mr. G. W. Brown spoke for a rearrangement of the duty on slate, blackboard and roof slates. Mr. Joseph Ruddy of the Slingsby Woolen Mills thought the present duty on their goods unnecessarily high.

Mr. Wm. Buck advocated pig iron being free.

Mr. C. H. Waterous thought some discrimination should be made on mining machinery, on which there was no protection.

Messrs. H. Cockshutt and R. H. Verity showed for the plow works that raw material was highly taxed and the manufactured article only slightly protected.

The Canadian Wine Growers' Association asked that the standard of French wines should be reduced from 26 degrees to 16 degrees, the same as Canadian light wines.

The starch makers wished the duty on starch should remain as it is at present.

Mr. H. Yeigh represented the Beekeepers' Association, and asked for a few concessions.

Mr. R. M. Fullerton appeared for the Snowdrift Baking Powder Company. He asked that the duty on spices should be advanced, and that it should be about 25 per cent.

THE FRUIT GROWERS

Listen to the Minister of Agriculture at Kingston.

COLD STORAGE FOR DAIRYMEN

Promised for Next Year—Hon. Mr. Fisher is Open to Suggestions and is Anxious to Extend Trade to the Mother Country—A Very Profitable Meeting.

Kingston, Ont., Dec. 2.—The Ontario Fruit-Growers' Association began its annual session to-day. The display of fruits was choice, rich and varied. The attendance was fair, many parts of the province having representatives. President Pettit presided. Secretary Woolverton, gave the first address, recalling past history and the development of interest in fruit growing. Prof. Shortt of Queen's gave valuable facts in regard to "Gardening in Relation to Civilization." It was largely historical and regarded as an admirable addition to the knowledge possessed by fruiterers.

Prof. Hutt spoke in complimentary terms of the address, and said he was glad to see that nature had been allowed full sweep in Kingston's city park, which is a very beautiful one. More attention should be paid to landscape gardening by farmers and fruit-growers.

Prof. Fowler dwelt in an entertaining way upon "Fertilization of fruit trees and some causes of failure," and among other things remarked that the destruction of birds is a great cause of failure of fertilization. About thirty millions of birds are destroyed in Europe annually that their feathers may be used to ornament ladies' hats. Consequent upon this comes a great increase of insects, that are destructive to crops. He called for the protection of birds.

F. G. H. Pattison, Grimsby; T. H. Race, Mitchell; W. Boulter, Picton; Principal Grant, Kingston; J. L. Haycock, Kingston; discussed over planting. One said the stock of 1897 will be small, compared to that of 1898 and 1900. Another said the difficulty was in getting the stock in good shape to the needed points in Canada.

Various committees were named and the meeting adjourned.

The evening session was well attended. Mayor Elliott, on behalf of the citizens, and T. Briggs for the Kingston Horticultural Society, welcomed the delegates. President Pettit replied. The President read his annual address, advising horticulturists to devote their energies to the improvement of transportation, the opening of new markets and the extension of the field of experiment in spraying fruit trees. H. H. Groff, Simcoe, read a paper on "Cannas and Gladioli." R. B. Whyte, Ottawa, gave an address on "Sweet Peas." I. G. Johnston, Kingston, descanted on the "Amateur's Rose Garden," and Mr. Herrington, Napanee, told how his town has improved since the organization of its horticultural society. Interesting discussions followed the reading of each paper. Prof. Saunders of Ottawa Experimental Farm, R. B. Whyte, Ottawa; T. H. Race, Mitchell; O. G. Johnston, Kingston; R. T. Walkem, Q.C., Kingston; H. H. Groff, Simcoe, and others took part.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

To-day's session of the Ontario Fruit Growers' convention was the most interesting and successful yet held. The papers read were all practical and embodied hints and suggestions of value to fruit growers throughout the Dominion.

W. M. Orr of Fruitland read a paper on "The Results of Spraying," clearly demonstrating the benefit derived from this process.

J. L. Haycock, M.L.A., discoursed on "Small Fruits," specially referring to the industry in Frontenac county.

"Packing and Shipping Apples for the British Market" was the subject of an able paper by R. Wartman, Waupoos.

L. Woolverton, Grimsby, gave a thoughtful and practical address on "Picking and Packing Apples."

Hon. Sidney Fisher, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, accompanied by E. J. B. Pense, Kingston, arrived during the afternoon and addressed the gathering. Hon. Mr. Fisher said that, in his capacity as Minister of Agriculture, the question of cold storage had been repeatedly brought to his attention, and in the interests of the agricultural classes he wished to get all possible information on the subject. He was earnestly desirous of extending and improving the market for Canadian products in Britain. The question arose, in his mind, whether or not cold storage would meet the requirements of fruit-growers and fruit shippers. Next year he proposes to put in operation a system of refrigerator cars to safely convey perishable goods over long distances. He asked: "Would it be advisable to build cold storage warehouses in fruit growing centres, in which to store fruit until it is ready to send to the shipping points?"

"What would be the demands of Ontario fruit-growers in this direction?" Cold storage in the interest of dairy and butter making will be provided next year.

Can fruit-growers use this accommodation in winter, when dairymen and butter-makers do not require it? Next season freight rates will be lower than this year. Will refrigerator car service be needed in winter?

Upon all these points the Minister asked for the opinions of his hearers.

The President appointed L. Woolverton, W. M. Orr, G. E. Fisher, A. M. Pettit and E. D. Smith a committee to draw up and present to Hon. Mr. Fisher a full and complete report containing the information for which he asked.

An interesting discussion followed the address of the Minister, in the course of which it was made apparent that the fruit-growers would be content with the establishment of a refrigerator car system from fruit-growing centres till it has been shown whether or not a paying market for Canadian fruit can be established in Britain. If such a market can be created, they would ask that cold storage be provided at all railway stations in fruit-growing districts.

The officers-elect for the ensuing year are: President, W. E. Wellington, Toronto; Vice-President, W. M. Orr, Fruitland; Directors: H. Jones, Maitland; B. B. White, Ottawa; George Nicolls, Cataraqui; W. Boulter, Picton; Thomas Beall, Lindsay; R. L. Huggard, Whitby; M. Pettit, Winona; A. M. Smith, St. Catharines; J. S. Scarff, Woodstock; L. H. Race, Mitchell; G. C. Caston, Craighurst; A. McNeill, Windsor. Auditors: A. H. Pettit, Grimsby; G. E. Fisher, Burlington.

St. Catharines has asked for the meeting next year. The directors will decide.

Principal Grant of Queen's College presided at the evening session of the Fruit Growers' convention to-night, and made a brief but eloquent address to the delegates, eulogizing Hon. Messrs. Fisher and Dryden, Ministers of Agriculture, in the Dominion and Ontario Houses respectively.

Hon. John Dryden, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, spoke of the great and lasting importance of the work being done by the fruit growers of Ontario. He dwelt upon the possibilities of the fruit growing industry in Canada, and urged his hearers to leave nothing undone to develop it to the fullest perfection, and to ship only the choicest products to the British markets. Better days are coming, he said, for those in authority are realizing more and more that they must foster the interests of agriculture. He would not be satisfied until Hon. Mr. Fisher had taken steps to investigate the allegations made against employes of railway and steamship lines that they damage Canadian fruits in transportation through handling. Independent united action on the part of the producers was strongly urged. Fruit growers should strive for a good reputation in Britain for Canadian products. Canadian cheese has already such a reputation, and he would do all he could to maintain it.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1896.

SIR ADOLPHE AND SIR ADOLPHE.

Sir Adolphe Caron has on more than one occasion recently given the public his opinion of the Manitoba compromise. In doing so he has left no one under any misapprehension as to his attitude toward it. He has announced his intention to do all he can to prevent it from being accepted by the French people both in Manitoba and in Quebec, but especially the latter. Personally he is without any influence in Manitoba, but he has no doubt some following left to him in his own Province, and through it he proposes to carry on his unpatriotic work of inciting a war of races and religion.

The statement has been published, and not contradicted, that Sir Adolphe Chapleau has expressed his approval of the compromise as being the best that any one could have secured for the French Catholic minority in the face of the Privy Council's judgment affirming the validity of the Manitoba School Act of 1890. Sir Adolphe is not now in political life, but he is still with a large proportion of the French Conservatives an authority on political questions. It is fortunate for Manitoba, and doubly fortunate for Quebec, that he has taken this attitude at this crisis.

Sir Adolphe Caron in adopting the line he has undertaken to follow, displays the delightful recklessness and audacity which have made him one of the most picturesque figures in Canadian political life. He makes no pretensions to either patriotism or political virtue, and he assumes that neither of them would add to his influence over his compatriots. He is in this respect unique. He imitates no predecessor and, fortunately, no successor. In spite of his charming abandon, he has all but extinguished himself, however, and it is not at all likely that his opposition to the compromise will galvanize him into life. He is virtually dead now, and he must, if he wishes to redeem himself, resort to some more effective means than a crusade against public schools in Manitoba. He will have, after the manner of Falstaff, and politically speaking, to "purge and leave sack, and live cleanly," as a statesman should do.

Sir Adolphe Chapleau has his faults, and his political career has been marred by offences against political morality, but he has always been recognized as the successor of Sir George Cartier in the leadership of the Gallican Conservatives, as Mr. Laurier is the successor of Sir Antoine Dorion in that of French Liberals. These are the two branches of the French patriotic party built up by Papineau, of whom Sir George Cartier was so ardent a partizan that a price was once set on his head as a rebel. Any co-operation of Sir Adolphe Chapleau and Mr. Laurier is likely to prove too strong to be broken up by the assaults of a discredited and played-out politician of the stamp of Sir Adolphe Caron.

The present unrepentant and defiant attitude of the latter should suffice to secure during the coming session a complete exposure of his record as a boodler. Mr. Mulock is letting light in on his maladministration of the post office; Dr. Borden is doing the same with his mismanagement of the militia. If Sir Richard cares to tell Parliament all he knows about matters coming within the scope of trade and commerce, Sir Adolphe will never again play with sectarian dynamite, as he proposes to do in the by-election in Stormont.

THE Canadian Furniture and Upholstering journal thus refers to the Tariff Commission: "Of course there are anomalies which should be adjusted, and the conference in progress with the various trades will help the ministers to a better appreciation of these. In fact, the whole procedure is a most sensible and business-like way of familiarizing those at the head of affairs with the requirements of the country."

Farmers have stopped ploughing at last, and I think it about time They ploughed here as late in the season as 28th of November.

Mr. Richard Heard, sr., of Smith, had a runaway Monday evening. His team while standing outside the blacksmith shop, became frightened and started away. The wagon was broken and left near the bridge here, the horses running to Lakefield, then out to Smith to Mr. Heard's home. He found them Tuesday morning in his own yard, but the harness was missing.

TO-DAY WILL DECIDE

Whether Mrs. Olive A. Sternaman Shall be Send to Canada for Trial or be Set Free.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 3.—Commissioner Fairchild, the committing magistrate, who has under consideration the extradition of Olive A. Sternaman, accused of murdering her husband, George H. Sternaman, will not render an opinion on the case further than stating whether or not he will hold the prisoner for extradition, so his decision will not be longer than one sentence. To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock he will either discharge the prisoner in so many words or else remand her for extradition and pass the papers on to Washington without further comment than that he believes it to be a proper case for the surrender of the prisoner to the Canadian Government.

Five Years in the Toils—Nothing But Dodd's Kidney Pills Could Touch the Spot.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

Mr. Chas. Smith, Dawn Mills, Ont., says: "For several years I was troubled with pains in my limbs, which continued getting worse until I thought I would have to quit work. In fact the pains were so severe that I could not rest nights. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pills and am perfectly cured.'

Although it is nearly a year since Mr. S. took the Pills he has had no return of the pains, and feels splendid. Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, Druggist.

Imperial Unity Idea Discussed In London.

ITALIANS AMBUSHED AND KILLED

Great Britain Will Pay the Expenses of the Dongola Expedition—Cardinals Receive Their Red Hats From the Pope—Hamburg Strikers Decline to Arbitrate.

London, Dec. 3.—The Duke of Devonshire, in a speech before the British Empire League to-day, said that the idea of Imperial unity was progressing in some of the colonies as a practical movement, though those engaged in the movement were in some degree disappointed. Lord Salisbury and Mr. Chamberlain, he said, were in sympathy with the idea, but probably the time had not yet arrived to settle the proposals of the Ottawa conference. Still, the developments were tending toward unification.

The Duke of Devonshire, in the course of his remarks, said that the Colonial Defence Committee, consisting of representatives of the War, Colonial and Admiralty Offices, had desired him to make public to colonial citizens the principles upon which the plans of the Colonial Defence Committee were based. He proceeded to explain that the plans consisted of the maintenance of Great Britain's supremacy at sea upon the basis of a system of Imperial defence against attack from sea at all places likely to be attacked. The committee, he added, would advocate the creation of adequate fixed defences and troops sufficient to cope with any possible enemy.

Mr. R. R. Dobell moved that the meeting proceed to the election of officers of the league for the ensuing year, and the motion was carried. The Marquis of Hartington was elected president, Mr. A. J. Balfour and the Marquis of Dufferin were among the vice-presidents chosen, and R. R. Dobell, J. M. Macdonald, Sir Donald A. Smith and Sir Charles Tupper were chosen among others as members of the council. All of the elections were unanimous.

Mr. Dobell delivered a speech, in which he said that Great Britain stood in the glorious position of having discarded all attempts at a retaliatory policy. Canada, he declared, was second to none of the colonies in her loyalty to England. Canada admired the wonderful success of the United States, but had a greater admiration for the forbearance and generosity which this country has shown towards the United States for the last twenty-five years. There was great reason to hope, he said, that these sentiments had not been thrown away, and the time was coming when the United States would appreciate them.

The Duke of Devonshire said that the merchants of London might suggest the means of establishing better understanding between the Home Government and the colonies. Through the agency of the league great progress had been made in recent years for colonial defence. The colonies knew exactly what the Government would undertake in case of an attack, and also what would be expected of themselves. The Government attached the greatest importance to the renewal in some form or other of naval arrangements with Australia-Asia. He hoped that the time would soon come when another conference would be held to reconsider that arrangement, and extend it to the other colonies, and also expressed a hope that the opportunity would then be taken to reopen the discussion of the whole question of colonial defence. The Lord Mayor, who presided, said that the most fitting manner in which to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the reign of Queen Victoria would be to lay at the feet of the First Lady of the world a great scheme for the absolute and perfect unity of the British Empire. (Great cheering.)

Referring to Prof. Goldwin Smith's statement that the ultimate goal of Canada was its absorption by the United States, Mr. Dobell said he believed that if Imperial Federation was effected it might be possible to absorb the United States, and he continued: "I am sure that every part of the empire will welcome back the wandering child."

Sir Charles Tupper spoke of the profound belief felt in Canada and by himself in the work and aims of the league, and referring to the statement of the Duke of Devonshire that it was the duty of the colonies to provide for the adequate defence, Sir Charles declared that no people in the whole empire were readier than the Canadians to contribute to the defence of the empire.

FOURTEEN ITALIANS KILLED.

King Humbert's Consul and a Number of Officers Ambushed By Somalis.

Rome, Dec. 3.—Advices from Zanzibar tell of the massacre of Signor Cechi, the Italian Consul, and the Italian officers with him at Magadoxo, Somaliland. It is stated that fourteen Italians were killed. The caravan was attacked during the night by the Somalis. The latter were repulsed at first, but rallied later, and continually attacked the retreating caravan. The Italians and their escorts of Askaris fought desperately, but were eventually overpowered.

So soon as the news of the fighting reached Mogadoxo a detachment of sailors and a force of Askaris were sent to the assistance of the caravan, but they arrived too late to save the Italians. The rescue party recovered 27 bodies and arrested many Somali tribesmen who took part in the massacre. These prisoners were punished in an exemplary manner.

In the Chamber of Deputies to-day the Marquis Viscount Venosti, Minister of Foreign Affairs, confirmed the reports received from Zanzibar of the murder of the Italian Consul, the captain and a number of other officers of the Italian warships Volturno and Staffetta, and the wounding of a hundred or more other Italians by Somalis at Magadoxo. The men had fallen into an ambush and were caught without warning. The Government, the Minister said, would take energetic measures to punish the Somalis who were guilty of the outrage.

GOT THEIR RED HATS.

An Interesting Ceremony in the Throne Hall of the Vatican—The Consistory.

Rome, Dec. 3.—A public consistory was held in the throne hall of the Vatican to-day, the ceremonies beginning at 10 o'clock. The hall was thronged as the Pope entered, His Holiness being borne aloft in the sedia gestatoria. As he appeared in the hall the entire assembly fell upon their knees. After the Pope took his seat upon the throne a brief service was held, which was followed by the distribution of red hats to the recently appointed Cardinals. The bestowal of the hats was made by the Pope himself. Cardinal Satolli, recently papal delegate to the Catholic Church in the United States, was the first one to receive the hat, and after him came Cardinals Ferrata, Agliardi, Jacobini, Cretoni, Pierotti and Prisco.

After the ceremonies were over the new Cardinals went to the Sistine chapel, and the Pope retired from the hall in the manner in which he entered. As His Holiness was raised aloft he was saluted with cries "Viva Pope and King."

Among the appointments of new Bishops announced at the consistory was that of the Rev. Edward J. O'Dea of Portland, Ore., to be Bishop of Nasqually, Ore.

In the published announcements of the proceedings of the Papal Consistory at the Vatican to-day it is stated that Rev. E. T. Prendergast of Philadelphia has been appointed Titular Bishop of Scillio, and Mgr. Martinelli papal delegate to the United States has been confirmed in the rank and title of Archbishop of Ephesus. The vacancies in the Sacred Congregations of the Propaganda, studies, index and lauretane have been assigned to Cardinal Satolli.

BRITAIN WILL PAY THE BILL.

The Half Million Pounds Required for the Expedition to Dongola.

London, Dec. 3.—Commenting on the decision of the Alexandria Court, The Times says it thinks the decision of the Court of Appeal leaves things in statu quo, but that if Great Britain has to pay for Dongola the latter will be hers instead of Egypt's. The opposition papers to-day will attack Lord Salisbury for having muddled the Egyptian situation.

Britain Will Pay.

Cairo, Dec. 3.—As a result of the decision of the Court of Appeal at Alexandria sustaining the judgment of the Egyptian mixed tribunal declaring that the money taken from the Egyptian reserve for the purpose of the Soudan expedition must be returned, Lord Cromer, British diplomatic agent, has informed the Egyptian Government that England will repay to the commissioners of the Caisse the £500,000 advanced by them, together with such other sums to the Egyptian treasury as were required for the purposes of the Dongola expedition. The conditions of the amount of interest and the repayment of the principal are to be settled hereafter.

THE HAMBURG STRIKE.

At Bremen the Trouble is Over—Hamburgers Refuse Arbitration.

Bremen, Dec. 3.—The strikers to-day adopted an agreement concluded with the warehouse company and a committee of the strikers for the settlement of the dispute, and the strike here is over.

Hamburgers are Obstinate

Hamburg, Dec. 3.—The Employers' Association has written a long letter to Senator Hachman justifying their refusal to arbitrate on the ground that the strikers are failing to receive foreign aid and are becoming weaker, while the work at the port is being performed by foreign dockers who are continually arriving and are glad to work for the wages offered. A patched-up compromise would only lead to further disputes, "for," they said, "it is not a fight about wages, but as for supremacy." Finally, they object to an Arbitration Court comprising one representative of the employers and four representatives of the strikers.

Support From England.

London, Dec. 3.—The leaders of the London dock laborers declare they have received telegrams from Hamburg informing them that a large majority of the English non-union laborers who went to Hamburg to take the place of strikers are refusing to unload vessels and are returning to England. The London Dockmen's Union is subscribing one shilling a week per man for the support of the Hamburg strikers.

CANADIAN STONE BARRED.

Contractors for the Buffalo Breakwater Will Use Only United States Stone.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 3.—Whichever of the 12 bidders for the Buffalo breakwater shall receive the contract for its construction, it is not at all probable that Canadian stone will enter into its construction. In fact, it is practically certain that no contract for Canadian stone will be made, for the bidders seemed to think they could get all the stone they wanted in the United States, and their bids for furnishing Canadian stone were in every instance fully as high as their proposals for the use of American stone. It is perhaps just as well that the bids happened to be the same for both kinds of stone. If they had been lower for Canadian stone an interesting legal point as to the right of the Secretary of War to contract for foreign stone would have been raised.

IT IS ALL TALK.

Yes, but it is Norwood Talk—The Kind That Tells in Norwood.

Talk that tells.
Talk that is endorsed.
Every day talk by people that know.
City talk.
Kidney talk.
Do the kidneys talk?
Well, yes, both loud and long.
You are learning the kidney language.
Backache in kidney language means kidney ache.
Lame back means weak kidneys.
Weak back means weak kidneys.
The kidneys are talking trouble.
Here is some Norwood talk:

Mr. George Taylor, well known in Norwood, has this to say about Doan's Kidney Pills:—

"For a great many years I have been a sufferer from kidney disease. Terrible pain in my side and back made my life a burden. The urine was a dark wine colour, and I was greatly troubled with frequent urination. My sleep was destroyed because of this annoying trouble.

"I have taken scores of medicines, but could get no relief, and thought that I would never be cured. Happily I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box at J. C. Moffatt's drug store, and have continued their use for one month.

"I am thankful to say as a result that they have fixed me up. I feel like another person. I do not now have to get up at night, and in fact am entirely cured.

"I think they are the grandest medicine ever placed before the public, and I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney disorder of any kind."

New Furniture.

At A. Clegg's:—A large assortment of floor rocker cobler seats, in oak, natural birch and mahogany finish. These are of superior styles and finish and very cheap. Also a lot of reed and rattan rockers—cheap! cheap! Several cases of pictures, good subjects, complete, at less than you have been accustomed to pay for frames only. A. CLEGG, 437 George street.

Runaway Accident.

A resident of Pontypool was in town this afternoon, and his horse became frightened at the street car on Charlotte street. It got beyond the control of its driver, and in attempting to jump up on the high sidewalk on George street, opposite the arcade, the shaft caught in the planking and completely stripped the animal of its harness. The horse was caught on the market square.

The Busy Store.

Some merchants would have the public believe that the big sale at Routley's was only a "fake" sale, and that they can sell just as cheap. I might just say here that I have always paid a hundred cents on the dollar during my twenty years of business, and that my goods have been bought, and are now being sold at less prices than others can buy them. Yet it will last only a few weeks longer, as I am positively retiring from the retail business, and would like all who owe me accounts to call and settle before January 1st, 1897. C. B. ROUTLEY.

LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT.

A Programme of Unusual Merit Presented to a Musical Audience.

A very select audience assembled at the Bradburn Opera House last evening on the occasion of the Chambers-Belasco concert. Almost all of those present were prominently identified with local musical circles and the young artists have reason to be proud of the attention which they aroused and the favourable comments which were heard on every side.

Naturally the greater interest centered around Miss Chambers on account of having lived in Peterborough prior to going abroad to study. Last evening she proved herself to be possessed of a strong, clear, well modulated voice, which in the softer high notes was infinitely pleasing, these being taken with rare accuracy and delightful ease. Her first number was a double one, being Chaminade's "Silver Ring" and Bishop's "Love has eyes." Each demanded intricate phrasing of a widely different character, but both were given in a manner indicative of the care which has been bestowed on the young artist's musical development. Haydn's difficult aria, "With Verdure Clad," was then undertaken, and though a very heavy number the cadenzas were handled with creditable ease.

Miss Bertha Belasco's pianofore numbers were characterized by a brilliancy of execution and delicacy of touch which bespoke careful study combined with great natural aptitude. Chopin's "Cradle Song," with its plaintive refrain, and Moszkowski's "The Guitar" were two selections which gave her ample opportunity of displaying her versatality.

Mr. Thos. Dunn gave Mark's rollicking sea song, "King of the Main," with a swing which carried the audience with him, his fine baritone voice being heard to particular advantage in this selection, though no less pleasing was his rendition of Ed. St. Quentin's "Conquered." One great beauty in Mr. Dunn's voice is its trueness. The most sensitive critic can never complain of the nerves being rasped by a tone falling flat, and therefore his name on a programme is always received with pleasure.

The last number on the programme was a duet by Miss Chambers and Mr. Dunn. The selection chosen was "Holy Mother Guide her Footsteps," from the opera "Mrritina," and the two voices blended most harmoniously in this grand old song.

During the evening Mrs. Dunn took the accompaniments in her usual satisfactory manner.

The fine pianoforte used on the occasion was a Williams, furnished by Mr. T. Dunn.

DEATH OF WILLIAM BAPTIE.

A Well Known Resident of Lakefield Passes Away.

The death of William Baptie, aged 54 years, took place at his residence in Lakefield on Tuesday, December 1st, and interment took place yesterday in the Lakefield cemetery.

The deceased was born deaf and dumb, but was very intelligent and industrious. He was educated in Toronto and Hamilton by the late Prof. J. B. McGann, who at one time visited Peterborough with a number of his pupils.

Mr. Baptie was well known in Lakefield and the surrounding country, as well as in Peterborough, having resided in the village nearly all his life.

He has recently been engaged working on the government dredge at Rosedale, his wife being the cook on the boat. He took ill some six weeks ago and suffered a great deal before his death, being afflicted with cirrhosis of the liver.

He leaves a widow to mourn his death. She was formerly Miss Elisabeth Barrie, of Dummer. His brothers were Peter, contractor, of Lakefield; James, farmer, of Smith; Walter, of Washington Territory, and Douglas, confectioner, of Peterborough. He also leaves one sister, Miss Agnes Baptie. The deceased owned a most comfortable home in Lakefield. He was handy at almost anything he laid his hand to, being a good carpenter and cabinetmaker. He carried on a confectionery business in Lakefield and was formerly in business in Peterborough with his brother Douglas, occupying the store next the Charlotte street rink.

He was a Presbyterian in religion and was the librarian in the Lakefield church. In politics he was a Reformer.

Genial, kind hearted Willie Baptie will be greatly missed by the entire community.

According to a statement made by Mr. John Burns, one of the oldest and best posted men on the lumbering industries of the North Hastings district, the Rathbun Co. have still standing in the townships of Grimsthorpe and Anglesea over 200,000,000 feet of white pine lumber and 2,000,000 of hemlock as well as a large amount of cedar. He also says that at the rate at which it is now being cut, the lumber in these townships will last some sixteen years yet. Mr. Burns has spent nearly all his life lumbering in these townships and should know whereof he speaks.

The "Canadian Almanac" Jubilee Issue.

This sterling publication, regularly for the past fifty years has made its appearance, and has been recognized as a national Canadian institution. This year it comes again as a veritable cyclopædia of useful information of great value, especially for reference. Its size has been increased to 334 pages, and it has several new features, including a short history of Canada giving in chronological sequence statements of the principal events, a historical diary of the years 1896-6, and an interesting article on the "King's Loyalists." The regular departments are replete as usual with full clergy, militia, Provincial and Dominion Government lists, as well as municipal and educational lists. The usual statistics and astronomical calculations are given, and also portraits of important public personages and buildings. The same old "Canadian Almanac," only better, and at the same old price. This excellent work is published by the Copp, Clark Co., Ltd., Toronto. To be found at the Peterborough Bookstore. Price, 20 cents, paper, 25 cents cloth.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.

Particulars Concerning the Sudden Death of Mr. John Fitzpatrick.

The following farther particulars have been learned concerning the recent death of Mr. John Fitzpatrick, brother of Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of the Cathedral clergy staff.

Mr. Fitzpatrick had been employed at Mt. Pleasant, Michigan, for nearly two years as a section foreman, and it seems that at the time of the accident he was engaged in spreading gravel in the yard, when a shunting engine unexpectedly struck a car which was standing on the track close beside him and set it in motion. In trying to get out of the way of it he caught his foot in the frog and fell lengthways with the rails and the wheels passed along his leg, crushing and lacerating the flesh horribly. The company's surgeon was summoned and did all in his power to relieve his sufferings, but held out very slight hopes of his recovery. His brother, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Peterborough, left for Mount Pleasant on Sunday and on arriving there sent a message stating there was some hopes of saving his life, but on Tuesday morning the friends here received another message announcing his death.

Deceased was about 38 years of age and leaves a wife and one child, a boy about three years of age. His wife is a daughter of Mr. Edward English of Asphodel.

The remains arrived in Norwood on Wednesday and the funeral took place Thursday morning from his father's residence to the R. C. Cemetery, Asphodel.

Mass was celebrated at Norwood by Rev. Father Conway, who also preached the sermon. Rev. Father Connelly, of Hastings and Rev. Fathers Fitzpatrick and Scanlan, of Peterborough, were present.

Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family and friends.

ST. LUKE'S ANNUAL TEA.

As Usual it was Attended, last Evening, With Great Success.

The annual tea and sale of work of St. Luke's church was held in the schoolhouse last night and as usual proved a very successful event. From about 5.30 to 8.00 o'clock the tables, which were in charge of the members of the Young Women's Chapter of the Guild, were well-filled with guests who thoroughly appreciated the excellent fare set before them. The Ladies' Aid, one of the oldest institutions of the church, the Women's Auxiliary and the Young Women's Chapter all had work tables whose useful and ornamental articles found ready sale. For the children there was a candy table by Miss Gwendoline Meade, and Miss Calcutt and her allies furnished much amusement with the Jack-in-the-box. The utmost sociability prevailed throughout the evening and the following programme was given in an informal manner:

Instrumental.....Mrs Peck Reed
Song, "Boys of the Old Brigade"...Rev Baynes Reed Song, "The Song That Reached my Heart..Mr Wesley Edwards
Mouthorgan duet....Sidney Tivey and Robert Long Dialogue, "From Down East".....Messrs. G Pratley and V LeBar, and Misses Carter, Campbell and McLennan

The dialogue was a good one and well rendered by the performers. At its close the audience heartily united in singing "Auld Lang Syne," and "God Save the Queen."

Mr. David Spence will give his excellent lecture on "Bells" in the school house next Tuesday evening. The lecture is illustrated with models, and selections on a set of tubular chimes will be given. There will be a silver collection at the door.

CHEESE AND BUTTER EXPORT.

An Improvement in Both Branches of These Industries.

The cheese exports from the port of Montreal for the season of 1896, show that the total shipments, reached 1,726,286 boxes, as against 1,710,756 in 1895, an increase for 1896 of 15,529 boxes. This represents a return of about $11,652,009 for this year, the prices netted being generally 75c more, or averaging $6.75 per box, equal to a surplus of about a million and a half of dollars over 1895, when the figures were $10,260,000. It is estimated again that as it costs possibly 25c per box to receive and ship cheese from Montreal, that this turnover involved a further half million dollars, and hence the disbursements on cheese this year total some $12,000,000, which, spread over the six working months of the season, gives $2,000,000 a month.

The butter exports to same date total 157,321 pkgs. as against 69,664 pkgs. in 1895, and 33,065 pkgs. in 1894, showing that this branch of produce export trade has more than doubled last year's showing, and is five times greater than the volume of 1894. The returns to the farmer from the largely increased butter business are in the neighbourhood of two million dollars, as much again as he earned in 1895, and the future looks particularly promising in view of the fact that Canadian butter can now be considered to have established itself in England, and there is a market there for quite $40,000,000 worth.

Crossley and Hunter.

A letter from the east states that Crossley and Hunter are having their usual success in their evangelistic meetings in the Eastern Provinces. In Dartmouth, N.S., there was an extensive work, where 484 avowed decision for Christ. In Canning, N.S., the meetings were held in a large rink and hundreds thronged from the Cornwall Valley, making a congregation of from 900 to 1,800 nearly every fine night. The meetings were held for four weeks, and 462 gave their names to the secretary confessing to begin a Christian life, of whom nearly 100 more were men and boys than women and girls. The evangelists are now in the Presbyterian town of Sydney, B.C., where a good work has begun.

BARNARDO HOME BRIEFS.

A Couple of Clippings From Miss Code's Department in "Ups and Downs."

In the last number of "Ups and Downs," a Barnardo Home publication, devoted largely to the interests of the boys and girls who have found their homes in Canada, we find the following paragraphs of local interest in the department, "Our Girls," presided over by Miss Bessie Code, well known in Peterborough:

"On Nov. 1st, Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of Peterborough, invited our girls to a children's service in St. John's church on Sunday afternoon. A large number went, and besides being present at the service, had some very kind words of welcome to Canada from the rector. We think our little lassies must have very much appreciated them, for, strangers in a strange land, what can warm the heart better than a kind welcome? We, at any rate, on behalf of Dr. Barnardo's little girls, would take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of Mr. Davidson's kindness, and the Christ-like spirit shown by the servant of One who welcomed the people when 'they came to him from every quarter.'"

"Hazel Brae is still a scene of departures, and day after day girls have been leaving us for their new homes. One little girl was called for one day by her master and mistress, and taken with them a drive of thirty-five miles to her destination, and the next day another little girl, Charlotte Cluer, went a drive of twenty miles with her master and his little girl. Just as she was ready dressed and waiting, it happened that the Rev. J. G. Potter, Presbyterian minister, of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, and his father were calling at Hazel Brae and showed a very kindly interest in the little traveller. Mr. Potter, Sr., who may be known to many by his work among the sailors and lumbermen, gave a few earnest and kindly words to our little maiden, which we hope will indeed prove as a parting benediction to her."

A BRECHIN ROMANCE.

A Wandering Boy Returns With Pockets Well Lined.

There is great rejoicing in the household of old Archibald Cameron, a farmer living near Brechin, on the Midland Railway, and the cause of all the joy is to be assigned to the unexpected return of a son, Alexander, who disappeared from home over 25 years ago, and who has for the past 20 years been considered dead.

Twenty-five years ago or more this son, Alexander, then a young man of 19, started in business for himself in Brechin, and later in Beaverton, his father supplying the funds to get him started. He was so unsuccessful, however, that instead of making profits at all, debt after debt began to mount up, until at last he was compelled to announce himself a bankrupt. He felt his disgrace so keenly that one day he vanished completely, and it was never known whether he had made away with himself or had simply run away. At any rate he was considered dead and mourned as such. The years rolled by, and changes came in the Cameron home. The mother died, sons and brothers got married, but old Archie still lived and clung to his farm, though sadly beset by hard times.

Just before Thanksgiving day a stranger appeared in Brechin, and at the hotel asked if there was such a man as Archie Cameron living near there. He was told there was, and that old Mr. Cameron was even then in the blacksmith's shop close at hand. At the stranger's request he was summoned to the hotel, and, after a short conversation, in which old Mr. Cameron told of the whereabouts of his family, the new comer announced that he was none than the son Aleck. The surprise and joy of the father can be imagined, and on Thanksgiving day the fatted calf, or rather the fatted turkey, was killed for the returned prodigal.

But Cameron had not come home with his pockets empty, as when he started. On the contrary he seems to have all sorts of money. He says he has been in the mines on the Pacific coast ever since, and latterly in Washington Territory, and has evidently made more than he ever could have in the small store in Brechin.

Thanksgiving morning he started in to pay old debts, and Thanksgiving night saw a jubiliation in Brechin and Beaverton, where several of his creditors live, that must have gladened several hearts.

A peculiar incident in his return is that he had to prove his identity to his father before old Archie would credit his statements. Ten years ago an imposter came along who for three months succeeded in palming himself off as the long lost son. He was detected however by the absence of a scar, a distinguishing mark on one of the cheeks of the right man.

That Cameron at this late day should begin to pay his old debts, is a striking tribute to his integrity.

An international trophy of the value of $300 will be the chief prize, and three others of proportionate value will be added. All the Western Ontario clubs are expected to be represented, with probably also some from Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul on their way to the international match in Toronto the following week.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The grand old game of Rugby has no more fervent admirer than the Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, Chancellor of McMaster University. A player of no mean ability himself in his student days at the Acadia University, Nova Scotia, he has cherished an abiding admiration of the sport ever since. In 1882 he played on the half-back line against Dalhousie, of whose team W. A. Henry, since famous as a cricketer, was captain. Frequently in his sermons the Chancellor illustrates his remarks with some football figure of speech, and on Sunday night when discoursing in the Yonge street Methodist church, he made a reference to the Ottawa College-Varsity game, of which he was an interested spectator. As it is not uncommon for wearers of the cloth to denounce the gentle sport of Rugby football because of its brutality, it was refreshing to say the least to hear one prominent divine who holds no one-sided view of the game to which so many of the flower of the youth of the country acknowledge allegiance. The Globe interviewed Chancellor Wallace at his cosy home, 2 Sultan street, last night.

"The game is liable to abuse," he said, "and there is unusual opportunity for brutality. Without any question the game is attended with greater danger than some others of our outdoor sport, but in spite of all the disadvantages and danger I believe that football is one of the noblest sports in which our young men can engage. It teaches courage, hardihood and self-control. It is well for young men to learn how to subject themselves to the discipline which is essential to success on the football field. There are not a few young men who have been benefitted physically and morally by football, and who will be all their life more manly by reason of this exercise.

FRUIT GROWING IN THIS DISTRICT.

James Daly, of Kingston, Reads a Paper on the Subject.

At the meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association in Kingston, "Fruit Growing in the Midland District" was the title of a paper by Mr. James Daly, of Kingston. He attributed the failure which had at one time attended the efforts of fruit growers in the Midland district to want of knowledge of the right varieties to cultivate. This trouble, however, had been overcome, and for some years the district had produced its own fruit instead of, as formerly, bringing it from the Niagara Peninsula and the United States. In apples especially the district had earned a deserved reputation, and now stood in the front rank in the Province. He had the utmost confidence in the future of fruit-growing, especially in view of the greatly-increased consumption in recent years and the fact that new markets were being constantly opened up. He strongly advised fruit growers to plant, in the future, only commercial varieties, especially in apples. The day was rapidly approaching when only first class fruit would be found profitable. He predicted that in the not distant future fruit would be put up for the market with the greatest care, and shipped by cold storage to Great Britain. In closing he regretted that an experimental station had not yet been established in the Midland district, and he hoped the Association at its present meeting would make some pronouncement in regard to the matter.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

A record run was recently made by a Canadian Pacific mail train from the west in order to catch the steamer at Montreal. The train had the Chinese mail, which had to reach London on a certain date under a penalty of $500 a day for every day's delay. The train was delayed first on the mountains by snow, and in Winnipeg by an accident to one of the cars. There was a delay of twenty-four hours in leaving Winnipeg, and when the train reached Fort William it was seen that the run could not be made in time with a full train; therefore a special train, consisting of an engine, a caboose and the mail car, left for Montreal. The run proved to be a phenomenal one. The roadmaster of each section rode in the engine cab, and an average speed of sixty miles an hour was maintained between Fort William and Montreal, the mail reaching Montreal with time to spare. Another fast run was made some four years ago, when the first Oriental mail was taken across Canada.

A woman's best jewels are her babes. A healthy, happy child is womanhood's most appropriate ornament. A childless woman is to be pitied, even though she be the possessor of other jewels that are priceless. A womanly woman knows this and would sacrifice all the diamonds of all the nations for the clinging, confiding touch of baby hands. Thousands of women lead childless, loveless lives because of ill-health. They do not understand the duties that they owe to themselves. They neglect the most delicate and important parts of woman's organism. They suffer untold agonies from weakness and disease of the organs that make motherhood possible, and never know the thrilling touch of baby fingers. They imagine their cases hopeless.

In this they are mistaken. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure, safe, swift cure for all weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. It acts directly and only on these organs. It prepares a woman for motherhood. It allays all discomfort during the expectant period. It insures the baby's health and makes its coming easy and almost painless. More than 90,000 women have testified in writing to its value. All good druggists sell it.

Mrs. Rebecca Gardner, of Grafton, York Co., Va., writes: "I was so sick with dyspepsia that I could not eat anything for over four months. I had to starve myself, as nothing would stay on my stomach. I tried almost everything that people would tell me about, and nothing did me any good. I weighed only 80 pounds. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and, thank God, and your medicine, I am as well as I ever was, and now weigh 124 pounds. I have a bottle of your 'Favorite Prescription' now, and that is a wonderful medicine for female weakness Praise God that he created such a man as you."

Business is business. No time for headaches. Constipation causes them. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure them by curing the cause. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

A THEATRE CHRISTMAS.

Three weeks before the holidays, and the outlook for a merry Christmas was a gloomy one, at least so far as the members of the stock company of the Jollity Theatre were concerned. Salary day had come and gone, and as yet the ghost had shown no disposition to walk, and it was because of the non-appearance of that most welcome specter of stageland that the rumor had started and was rapidly gaining ground that Messrs. Hustle and Hardup, proprietors and managers of the Jollity Theatre, were "in a hole again."

The piece which occupied the boards had proved a flat failure, and receipts at the box office had fallen in consequence to a plane never before reached in the history of the house. Moreover, no new play had as yet been put in rehearsal, and an atmosphere of unmistakable gloom and apprehension pervaded the region behind the footlights and weighed heavily on the spirits of every one there, from Pearl Livingstone, the talented emotional actress who played the leading female parts, down to little Kitty Sullivan, who was only 7 years old and was in the depths of despair because for fully three weeks she had been out of the bill. In short, every member of the company was in a condition of mingled uncertainty and curiosity in regard to the future of the playhouse and the projects of its managers, who as yet had given no sign of their intentions and had, in fact, been invisible to the members of their artistic staff ever since the last day on which salaries became due.

On this particular night, which happened to be one of storm and rain, two or three of the principal actors had gathered together for a serious talk about the situation, when Tom, the programme boy, appeared suddenly before them in an almost breathless condition and exclaimed: "Mr. Freelance is back from Chicago. He's in the office with Mr. Hustle. They've got both doors locked!"

"Mr. Freelance!" cried Miss Livingstone, her face lighting up with joy precisely as it does in her scene in the second act, where her lover comes back from India, or rather as it did light up in that scene before the business became so bad. "Are you sure it was Mr. Freelance, Tommy?"

"Sure!" rejoined Tom, with emphasis. "I seen him myself when he come in."

"Then, Tom, you be sure and see him when he comes out and tell him that I am particularly anxious to see him back here as soon as the curtain goes down on the second act. Here's a quarter for you, Tom, and you'd better keep it as a curiosity, for it's getting to be a very rare sort of bird in the Jollity Theatre preserves."

"Thank you, mum," said Tom, as he pocketed the coin with a grin.

"I fancy I see a gleam of light on the distant horizon," remarked the venerable Mr. Borders in a tone similar to that which he assumes in the great melodrama called "The Ocean Blue," in the scene in which he is discovered sitting on a raft in mid-ocean on the lookout for a passing sail. "In the meantime," he added, "I think we had better wait and hear what Billy has to say before we take any further action in the matter."

Up to that moment they had taken no action whatever in the matter, but the phrase sounded well, and so Mr. Borders employed it.

Now Mr. William Freelance, called by his intimates Billy, was and is today, one of the best known figures in the theatrical affairs of the town, and, as every member of the stock company knew, he had on more than one previous occasion, come to the rescue of his old friends, Messrs. Hustle and Hardup, and that, too, when they were in even more deplorable financial straits than they were at the present moment.

"MR. FREELANCE IS BACK."

It was his reputation as a mascot fully as much as his remarkable talents which caused the whole avant scene to brighten up at the news of his presence in the theatre, for playfolk are notoriously superstitious, and have an unbounded and childlike faith in the efficacy of a mascot as well as in the destructive qualities of a "Jonah."

Just as the curtain fell on the second act Mr. Freelance appeared behind the scenes and received the rapturous greetings of the company. Then Miss Livingstone took him by the arm, detached him from the little group which surrounded him, led him gently but firmly into her dressing room, placed him on her zinc trunk, and standing before him with folded arms said, "Billy, what's going to happen?"

"My dear," replied Mr. Freelance, persuasively, "everything is all right, and I just left Hustle for five minutes to come back here and tell you so. We are going to put on a new piece, and there's a part in it that's simply great—out of sight, in fact. We are not quite sure who'll be cast for the part, because it's a very heavy emotional one, and if we put a woman in it who didn't know how to read lines she would go all to pieces, and the bottom would drop out of the whole play. I thought I'd speak to you about it, because Hardup has caught a new 'angel' and said something to me about Kitty Bracebridge"—

"If that wolf puts her foot in this theatre"—began Miss Livingstone, but Mr. Freelance interrupted her by placing his hand over her mouth and saying "Wait for me after the curtain goes down, Pearl, and I'll talk to you about it. Shadrach's waiting in the office, and I've got to give him a 'jolly' so as to get the costumes out of him, but I'll be back here after the last act."

In spite of the storm outside and the inspiriting atmosphere within, the performance given that night by the Jollity stock company was a notably brilliant one, for the news had spread that there was to be a speedy change of bill, and hope was once more in every member's breast. Mr. Freelance invited Miss Livingstone out to supper just as she was on the point of declaring that she would not go on again unless she received every cent of the back salary that was due her, and before they left the restaurant she had meekly agreed to study the great emotional role which had been intended for Miss Bracebridge and to say nothing more about back salary.

The next morning, in accordance with a call posted in the stage entrance, the company assembled to hear the new play read by the gifted Mr. Freelance, and such was that gentleman's elocutionary power that when he laid the manuscript aside expressions that ranged from mere satisfaction to rapturous enthusiasm were heard on every hand, and there was scarcely an actor or actress present that did not feel confident of a personal success in the new production.

The reading over, Mr. Freelance took Miss Livingstone, Mr. Borders and one or two other rebellious spirits aside, and, as he expressed it in a subsequent interview with Mr. Hardcastle, "stiffened their backbones" with the assurance that everything was all right and that the piece was to be done on Christmas eve in order that they might have a really merry Christmas on the prospects of its success. After that, he assured them, their back salaries would pour in upon them in a perfect avalanche.

As Mr. Freelance was leaving the theatre he felt some one tugging at his coat, and on looking down saw little Kitty Sullivan standing beside him and saying in earnest tones, and with a sad, wistful face, "Billy, isn't there any part for me in the new piece?"

The child called him by his first name because she had always heard him spoken to in that way by other members of the company, and Billy rather encouraged her in the idea, because it sounded funny to him to hear himself addressed in such familiar terms by an infant of her size.

Kitty was a veritable child of the avant scene, and had been an actress from her very earliest infancy. She was now about 7 years of age, and was just beginning to comprehend the difference between the real things of life.

COAL WILL NOT GO UP.

And an Era of Prosperity is Expected by Men in the Trade.

New York, Dec. 2.—Anthracite coal trade conditions, it is announced, have improved of late on account of the more seasonable weather. No change in prices is expected this year, and it is understood that the September schedule will be adhered to until 1897. During that year an era of prosperity is confidently looked for by those interested in the trade. It can be safely assumed that, although the agreement between the anthracite coal presidents nominally expires on Jan. 1, 1897, no change will be made in the conduct of the trade.

Low Prices on Nails Now.

New York, Dec. 2.—At a meeting of the Wire Nail Manufacturers' Association, held at the Waldorf Hotel yesterday, it was voted to dissolve the organization. Its affairs will be wound up at once. A new card of extras was adopted by the manufacturers in order to conform so far as possible with the desire of the retail trade. Low prices on nails are now likely to prevail for some time.

Suffered without Help—Eighteen Years Getting Worse—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Bridgewater, N. S., Nov. 30.—(Special)—There is no man in town better known than J. S. Morgan, tinsmith, who for eighteen years has been going from bad to worse without help until at last he got hold of the right treatment. He says: "It began with backache, pains in the limbs, and finally settled down as rheumatism. I was a cripple and after I had run down greatly in weight the doctors said it was diabetes. About a year and a half ago I quit everything else and took Dodd's Kidney Pills. Have taken twenty-three boxes, and have regained my weight, health and strength. I am perfectly cured.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10½ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

such as houses, trees and streets, and the painted imitations of stageland. And yet it was only two years and a half ago that she beheld the ocean for the first time, and it is related of her that on that occasion she stood with Billy's hand tightly clasped in hers, watching the waves as they broke upon the beach, and finally turned to her companion and said in her serious way, "Billy, how do they work 'em?"

And now she was here beside her old friend, with her small, pathetic face upturned, and inquiring earnestly if there was a role for her in "The Giant's Causeway."

"See here, Kitty," exclaimed Mr. Freelance, touched by the child's grief, "I'll tell you what I'll do for you, and what's more, I wouldn't do it for any one else in the company. Are you listening?"

"Yes," said Kitty, turning her head around.

"Well, I'll write in a part specially for you, and that's something that an author like Sardou or myself rarely does for anyone, except a Bernhardt or a Duse. Now run along, and be here to-morrow at 11 for rehearsal."

The child darted away, wiping the last tear from her cheek as she ran, and Barney said approvingly, "That's the best deed you'll ever do in your life, Mr. Freelance, and, mark my words, the child'll bring good luck to the house."

How Billy succeeded in persuading the economical Hardup that the piece would prove a failure unless a child were introduced into it, and how he contrived to write the part in for her that very night, are matters that had best be left to conjecture, but the very next day Kitty received the typewritten copy of her lines, and rehearsals of "The Giant's Causeway" were carried forward under Mr. Freelance's direction with the energy and spirit that mark all of that gentleman's undertakings.

The opening night, Dec. 24, found the house well filled with an audience which made a favorable impression on the venerable Mr. Borders as he looked out through the peephole in the curtain, while behind the footlights feverish excitement and anticipation prevailed.

As for Kitty, she had become so wrought up over her role—the longest one she had ever been intrusted with—that she seemed in danger of losing her lines that she had, by diligent study, crammed into her small head. She was standing in the first entrance, with her hand clasped in that of Mr. Freelance, when her cue came and as she walked out on the stage, the ideal of girlish loveliness, a murmur of delight ran through every part of the crowded house.

"They're going to foreclose the mortgage on the old mill to-morrow night, and if that child lives I am a beggar," said the polished, cigarette-smoking villain, and then a youngster in the parquet set up a pitiful howl of despair, which was followed by a general ripple of merriment that might have proved fatal to the piece, had not Kitty gone on with her lines with the coolness and gravity of the born and experienced artist, which she was displaying there by a presence of mind which won for her, on her exit, the first real applause of the evening.

Kitty Sullivan was, as the eminent dramatic critic had observed, an old hand at the business, despite the fact that she was but 7 years of age, for she had been born and brought up on the stage, and was as much at home in the presence of a great audience as an ordinary child is before a nursery. As the piece went on, she realized that she was making a hit—a far greater one than she had ever made before—and, young as she was, she was enough of an artist to appreciate the importance of keeping a restraint on herself and not overdoing her role.

She was looking forward to a certain scene in the last act—a scene which she had rehearsed with much delight, and in which she firmly expected to make great impression. Billy, who had been waiting with some anxiety for the same scene, came down and took a seat in a proscenium box, and as the child stood in the wings waiting for her cue she saw him smiling encouragement to her. The scene represented a barren, wave-washed rock near the coast of Ireland, and on this rock was standing the virtuous heroine, just where she had been left by the villain. The lights grew dim, the moon arose from beyond the scene, and the Philadelphia quartet, stationed behind the scenes, warbled plaintive Irish melodies.

"Must I die here alone?" moaned the heroine, as the tide rose higher and higher about the rock on which she stood and heavy clouds began to gather above her head. And just at this moment a rowboat, propelled by childish arms, came swiftly around the rocky point at the left of the stage, and Kitty Sullivan, throwing aside the oars, stood up in the boat with her foot on the prow and exclaimed in a clear, infantile treble, "I have come to save you for the sake of old Ireland!"

Commonplace as it was, with its old, well-worn melodramatic effects of soft

music and moonlight, nevertheless the situation had taken a strong hold on the audience, and the sudden appearance of the sweet-faced child, who had charmed everyone during the earlier portions of the play, sent a distinct thrill through the entire house, and then came such an outburst of spontaneous applause as had not been heard in the Jollity Theatre for many a year.

Even Billy Freelance felt a touch of a magnetic current with which the atmosphere was charged, and might have been heard to remark half audibly, "The kid's knocked 'em good this time, sure, for a thing's got to be good if it gets me."

And as the audience dispersed that night it seemed to Mr. Freelance, as he stood alert and watchful in the lobby, that there was but one name on every tongue, and that Kitty's sweet face and infantile art had made their way into the very heart of an always fickle public.

"You were right about her, Billy," said Hardup.

"I told you the young one would bring us good luck," said old Barney at the stage door.

"The idea of making such a fuss over a 7-year-old brat! That shows what art is coming to in this country!" exclaimed Miss Livingstone, as she swept through the draffy passage, leaving an odor of sealskin, tube roses and sachet powder behind her.

The members of the stock company had their Christmas dinner in the wardrobe room between the matinee and the evening performance, Messrs. Hustle and Hardup footing the bill and Mr. Freelance presiding, with Miss Pearl Livingstone on his right hand and the venerable Mr. Borders on his left. And it is a matter of record that no toast offered that evening was drunk with heartier applause than was the one proposed by Mr. Freelance to Kitty Sullivan, "the mascot of the Jollity Theatre and the founder of this feast."

Christmas Decoration in Italy.

More attention is paid to Christmas decoration of the churches in Italy perhaps than in any other country. On Christmas eve the young men and women assemble at the churches and spend their hours in making them beautiful. At midnight a mass is said, and after this a toothsome collation is served to the youthful workers and there is singing and playing upon musical instruments.

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their woman patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The numerous cures of rheumatism by the use of the old standard blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, show conclusively that it is an effective remedy, if not indeed the specific for this most painful and persistant of maladies. What has cured others will cure you.

FITZ WAS ROBBED.

That is the Opinion Generally Expressed in Regard to the Referee's Decision.

Fitzsimmons lost on a steal, but he gets all the glory there is in the fight. Among the short-haired fraternity he will gain popularity, which should partly recompense him for the loss of the $10,000 purse.

The crooked referee may not injure the game of hit and get away in general, but the big fighters are bound to steer clear of Frisco.

No one's name has yet been mentioned who saw the alleged foul blow except the referee. He says it was below the belt. None of the newspaper men saw it. Jack McAuliffe, Jimmy Carroll, Johnny Herget (Young Mitchell), Lon Agnew, Eddie Greaney and scores of others declare that the decision was a plain case of robbery. Major Frank McLaughlin, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, who was probably in a better position to see the alleged foul than anybody, says the knock-out was as clean an upper-cut as he ever saw.

After the fight was over and Fitzsimmons had returned to his dressing room, Martin Julian, on the suggestion of Fitzsimmons, gave out the following statement:

"About 6.30 this evening Moss Gunst, Riley Grannan and Tom Jones came to us and said Earp was 'fixed,' and that we would not get the decision, even though we knocked Sharkey out. But, rather than have the fight fall through, we consented to Earp. And what has been the result? We have been robbed. Fitzsimmons never struck a foul blow during the fight, but Sharkey struck at least 50. I intend to stop the payment of the cheque, if possible, and will make a protest to the club against its payment."

At this point J. J. Groom, president of the club, came in, and Julian took him to task for the decision, and called upon him to stop payment of the cheque. Groom said that the club was taking legal advice as to whether a certified cheque could be stopped. If it could be, he said it would be, as he denounced the decision as an outrage. Groom also declared that during the fight he had repeatedly called to Earp about Sharkey's repeated foul blows.

Although technically bets go with the referee's decision, many stakeholders refuse to pay the money until they are further enlightened on the match. They naturally recognize the crookedness of the ruling, and know that in common justice backers of Fitzsimmons are the winners.

Julian wired Dan Stuart after the battle: "We were robbed to-night, but this outrageous decision will not make any difference in our plans. Fitzsimmons will meet both Sharkey and Corbett in the ring any time you are ready to arrange the match. Martin Julian."

There are some who may say that Corbett was in the deal to get the championship away from Fitzsimmons, but as no title went with the 10 round battle, Pompador Jim may be counted out. Yesterday Corbett telegraphed Sharkey as follows: "All very sorry of Mr. Fitzsimmons' foul tactics in your fight with him, which prevented you from getting a decision over him in a full 10-round contest. I am ready to meet you on or before Jan. 1, 1897."

A LADY BURNED.

Mrs. Auld of Montreal the Victim of a Lamp Explosion,—Young Man Shot Himself.

Montreal, Dec. 2.—(Special.)—The home of Mr. John Auld, proprietor of the Canadian Cork Cutting Company, 26 McGregor-street, was the scene of a fire early this morning, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Auld at the general hospital at 11 a.m. Mrs. Auld's brother, Mr. S. H. Ewing, was awakened at his residence, 100 Cotes des Neiges-road, at 2 o'clock and told that his sister's house was on fire. Going over as quickly as he could he learned that a lamp had exploded in Mrs. Auld's bedroom and that she had been much burned by the blazing oil. Her husband, who had not retired, half dragged, half carried her to the house of Mr. Joseph Learmont, 30 McGregor-street, and Drs. Roddick, Finley and Gurd were telephoned for; also the general hospital ambulance.

The lady was removed to the general hospital, where she died at 11 o'clock to-day. The house was burned.

Albert Desmarteau, son of the Governor of St. Helen's Island, shot himself to-day with a revolver. He stated to Fire Chief Benoit, who was called in, that it was an accident, but the young man was known to be despondent over a love affair. He is not expected to live.

In the police court this morning Judge Desnoyers delivered judgment in the case against Capt. John Delisle, who is charged with manslaughter. Capt. Deslisle is charged under the "Fugitive Offenders' Act," at the instance of Sir William Whiteway, Attorney-General of Newfoundland, for causing the death of 13 persons on the schooner Maggie. His Honor, after reviewing the evidence of the case at considerable length, said he felt obliged to surrender Capt. Delisle to the authorities of Newfoundland. Had the unfortunate accident happened within his jurisdiction it would have been his duty to commit the accused for trial. A writ of habeas corpus will be applied for.

IMPERATIVE DECEMBER DOINGS

—AT—

THE GOLDEN LION!

We propose making December a notable month in our business. November has been a booming month, for, mind you, we laid ourselves out to boom things—not talk, not thunder, not importuning to buy, but a solid boom that brought buyers. We purpose to push the going out of other lines embracing Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Millinery, Dress Goods, Silks, Dress Trimmings, Hand Embroidered Irish Linens, Flannels, Flannelettes, Carpets, House-furnishings & Curtains.

We want to get these lines pared down by the month. We wan't you to help at the paring. We purpose to pay you for it in the values we will give.

SUMMER LINE SOO TO NEW YORK

Said to be the Plan—Talk of a Division of the Montreal Diocese—Baie des Chaleurs Road—The Unfortunate People Who Went From Montreal to Brazil.

Montreal, Dec. 4.—(Special.)—Although the rumor to the effect that the Goderich and Buffalo Railway had been leased by the Canadian Pacific is denied by the latter company, it is still believed that negotiations are going on with a view to the control of that road by the C.P.R. Those who know what they are talking about say that Sir William VanHorne and Mr. Shaughnessy are about to conclude a deal that will put them ahead of the Ottawa and Parry Sound, as far as the New York business is concerned. One thing is certain, if the Goderich and Buffalo line has been secured, it is for the purpose of providing a direct summer line from Sault Ste. Marie to New York. From Buffalo to the seaboard via the Lehigh Valley Road, the distance is about 450 miles, and an additional 160 miles will cover the distance to Goderich, from which an air steamship line can be had to the Soo. A glance at the map will show that the distance from the Sault to New York via Parry Sound, Ottawa, Coteau Landing or Prescott is a good deal greater than the combination route alleged to have been secured by the Canadian Pacific.

A very interesting case has just been settled out of court and a big estate will remain pretty nearly intact. Some time ago Mr. Joe Masson, well known to the fast set in Montreal and Paris, died, leaving an estate valued at a little less than half a million dollars. Deceased had been interdicted for some years and had a wife here, but, owing to a peculiar feature of the old Masson family wills, the bulk of the estate could not go to the widow. To the surprise, however, of relatives and friends, young Masson willed his entire estate to a Parisian lady with whom he had been on terms of intimacy while sojourning in the French capital. It comes out, however, to-day that the French lady has not been exacting, and has agreed to accept the comparatively small sum of $10,000 and call quits.

Mr. Michael, a clever French-Canadian lawyer, who is looking after the interests of the family here, has certainly made a splendid bargain with the bereaved Parisian.

There will soon be a great shaking-up in the archdiocese of Montreal. Your correspondent was told to-day, that owing to Mgr. Fabre's feeble health, Bishop Emard of Beauharnois will be transferred to Montreal with the rights of succession, and that Rev. Canon Bruchesi, a very able member of Archbishop Fabre's household, will be made Bishop of Beauharnois. This, however, is not all, as it appears that a sub-division of the archdiocese is once more on the tapis. The Counties of Joliette, Montcalm, Berthier and L'Assomption will constitute the new diocese of Joliette, and rumor adds that either by Rev. Mr. Archambault or Rev. Mr. Racicot of the Archdiocese of Montreal has already been selected as the new bishop. This, it appears, was the object of Mgr. Fabre's visit to Rome, but, as His Grace was prevented by illness from reaching the Eternal City, the views of Mgr. Fabre have been acquiesced in by the other prelates of the province and confirmed by the papal court. The new idea of selecting young men for bishops in French Canada, which was entered upon at the nomination of Bishop Emard, is generally accepted as a wise move on the part of the church.

Messrs. Ridout, Dominion Government Engineer, and Mr. Beauchemin of Sorel have returned from their inspection of the Baie des Chaleurs-road and are now preparing a report for the department, preparatory to the Government's purchase of that line. The road will be reopened next week, and it is the intention of the Department to extend the line from Caplin, the present terminus, to paspebiac, a distance of 20 miles, and when this is done Messrs. N. and M. Connolly will put a steamer on the route between this newly-acquired portion of the Intercolonial and Port Aux Basques, or Channel, on the west coast of Newfoundland, to which Mr. Reid's road from St. John's will be completed in June next. This will bring Montreal within 35 hours of St. John's, Newfoundland, and will no doubt be the means of bringing a great deal of trade to the commercial metropolis.

A letter received here to-day from Percy Lupton of the British Consulate at San Paulo says that the offers made by the steamship company had never been authorized by the Brazilian Government, which would probably return these poor people to Canada. The letter is as follows:

"Doubtless you will be surprised at getting a line from me, but I find I really must do it and protest against any further shipments of Canadians down here. I am running the British Consulate here, and I assure you that since the arrival of the Moravia I have had a very busy time. The people you shipped off here are, with few exceptions, most unsuited to the country and are utterly helpless. The language, food and customs are totally different, besides which these shipping people held out inducements that the Brazilian Government never authorized. Some few are sticking to the immigration house here till they get the promised cottage, with everything free for a year. Cruel delusion. However, the bulk of these have gone bravely out, with the intention of making the best of a bad bargain; but I fear very few of them will do any good. They will drift back here and help to swell the band of hangers-on around the Consulate. My colleague in Santos and myself are doing all we can to relieve them, and if we can we shall induce the Brazilian Government to send them back to you."

CURRAN WAS DECAPITATED.

The Awful Fate of a C. P. R. Yardman at the Foot of York-Street Last Night.

Toronto, Dec. 5.

Edward Curran, a yardman in the employ of the C.P.R., was killed by falling in front of a shunting engine at the foot of York-street last night. Just how the fatality happened no one seems to know.

Curran was riding on the footboard in front of the engine, John Finley, another yardman, was working the switch, when the engine was coming towards him. About 70 feet from him he saw Curran's lantern fall from the engine to the ground. When the engine passed he signalled the driver to stop. He thought something was wrong when he missed Curran from the footboard. On account of the glare of the headlight, he did not see him fall. The body was found lying midway between the tracks. The head was almost severed from the neck. It is the opinion of the other yardmen that Curran had placed his lamp on what is known as the front casting, and that while attempting to take hold of it he knocked it off, made an effort to catch it, and lost his balance.

The deceased is a widower, with five children. His fellow-employes knew little about his private affairs. He is supposed to have two children boarding at 1226 King-street west, a married sister living on Sackville-street, and his mother is living in that vicinity. Another married sister lives in the West End. He was about 40 years of age.

Coroner Aikins viewed the body and issued a warrant for an inquest to be held this afternoon at the undertaking establishment of W. H. Stone, 343 Yonge-street, at 2 o'clock.

THE WAR IN CUBA.

Weyler Has Been Hunting for Macco, and One Report is That He Found Him and Got Whipped.

New York, Dec. 4.—The Herald's correspondent from Guamairo, Cuba, states that Winchester Dana Osgood, the Cornell student and football player, who went to Cuba and took a commission in the Cuban army as major, was killed in the second day's fighting there.

A despatch to The Herald from Havana, via Key West, says: It is known that General Weyler has left Palacios again for the hills, but no definite report of what he has accomplished has reached here.

Maceo's friends realize the gravity of the situation, but they show no signs of uneasiness. Their confidence in him remains unshaken.

It is believed Maceo has met an expedition from Campeachy, Mexico, at Punta Barreos, which brought him fresh stores and an additional supply of dynamite.

A Times special from Tampa, Fla., says: Passengers who arrived from Havana last evening reported that a fight has taken place between the vanguard of Weyler's army and some of Maceo's men, a large force on each side being engaged. While no details are known, it was learned that the Spanish army did not come off with flying colors, and it is thought in Havana that Maceo has gained a victory, though to what extent it is impossible to say.

COBOURG P. O. CASE.

Mr Seager Will Report That the $1000 Was Really a Payment for Mr. Sykes' Resignation.

Cobourg, Dec. 4.—In the Cobourg Post-office investigation case, which was concluded here yesterday, the following decision was given out by Commissioner Charles Seager, Q.C., to-day. He will report to the Government that the $1000 transaction was a most colorable one, and really a payment for Mr. Sykes' resignation; that Mrs. Schwabe, Edwin Guillet and George Guillet were parties in the transaction, and that Mr. J. W. Bickle knew the true nature of the transaction when he endorsed the note. As to Charles Guillet, there were a number of circumstances subsequent to procuring the resignation which identified him with the matter, and he was the beneficiary. But, as to him, the report would not state as to whether he was or was not a party to the transaction with a knowledge of the whole affair.

Their Sad Bereavement

Toronto, Dec. 2.

Constable McRae and family of French Ilver have removed to Toronto for the winter. Mr. McRae has given up all hope of recovering the bodies of his two sons, who were drowned while out shooting two weeks ago, and Mrs. McRae is suffering severely from the bereavement.

Ottawa Bankers Speak Cheerfully of the Outlook.

The Customs Officials Take Action Regarding Immoral Literature—Mr. Tarte Will Return to the Northwest—Troubles of the Fisheries Department—Other News From Ottawa

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—Enquiries at the different banks to-day elicited the information that settlements were promptly met. The Bank of Commerce reports that payments showed a marked improvement during the past few months, and the proportion of payments was good.

Union Bank Manager Anderson, speaking generally, said that notes were fairly well met. Bad roads had somewhat interfered with remittances, but, with good traveling, he thought that business prospects for the future were most bright. Notes were very well met and he had every reason to believe that every note would be taken up.

Bank of Ottawa business improving. Notes were met and very few renewals.

Banque Nationale had a very heavy day. Payments were well met, and few renewals asked for.

Although a large number of grain vessels were laid up through the summer, the gross tonnage of the Soo Canal increased materially over last year. This season, from the 4th of May up to the 30th of November, there were 5080 vessels passed through, and last year, from September 9th, when the canal was opened, to Nov. 27th, the number was 1173.

The Customs Department has recently had to take action regarding the importation of certain Parisian journals into Canada. Parties who subscribed to Figaro and other papers have not been receiving them and inquiries were set afoot to see where the trouble lay. The matter has been brought to the notice of the French Government through the Imperial authorities in London, and the Government at Paris has been asked to prevent certain matter leaving France. It is not long since a number of indecent photographs, coming from France for delivery in Canada, were seized and destroyed by the customs officers, and strict care is now being exercised to keep out such class of goods. The National Council of Women, headed by Her Excellency Lady Aberdeen, have been active in the matter, and exert their influence to have all immoral literature and pictures kept out of the country.

The Fisheries Department has for years experienced trouble in enforcing the regulations in Lakes St. Louis and St Francis, and, as the outcome of the illegal fishing which has been practised, the lakes in question are seriously depleted. Three petitions have been received, advocating the total prohibition of net fishing in these waters, but on account of the poverty of many of those who engage in the fishing business, the department will allow the use of gill nets under the ice throughout the winter. Next year, seine net fishing will not be allowed.

The Dairy Commissioner has received many applications for aid for the Northwest creameries. The intention is, however, not to set in operation an unlimited number of new establishments. The parliamentary appropriation is limited and about 15 are as many as the department will be in a position to establish next season.

Representations have been made to the Customs Department in favor of placing a small revenue cutter off the Cape Breton coast between Cape North and Scatterie. Liquor smugglers of St. Pierre-Miquelon are changing their base of operations and running cargoes of contraband ashore in the secluded bays of Cape Breton. Although there are good officers of customs stationed on the island, it is utterly impossible to keep watch over the tremendous coast line without a cutter, and such will have to be procured by the department if the revenue is to be protected.

Hon. J. I. Tarte leaves again in two weeks for Manitoba. He has business connected with his department which there was not time for him to put through on his recent trip, therefore he now returns to give attention to it. Mr. Tarte left this morning for Cornwall.

The American authorities are exercising a strict watch to prohibit further shipments of ill licit cheese through Canadian ports to save payment of the high internal tax.

Prof. Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries, leaves for the Maritime Provinces next week to confer with lobster packers regarding the changes in regulations governing this fishery.

The Controller of Customs has ordered that Mount Forest be added to the list of post offices at which customs packages and parcels may be received.

A report is current that Speaker Edgar will be the next Lieut.-Governor of Ontario.

The city merchants, as a result of the recent fire, are pressing for the establishment of a salvage corps in connection with the fire brigade. Had such a body been in existence it is certain that thousands of dollars' worth of valuable goods could have been saved.

The ladies of the Aberdeen Association to-day sent out several large packages of reading matter for settlers in the Northwest.

The Irish Catholic societies of the city are talking about erecting a hall of substantial proportions wherein the different societies can meet.

Prof. Robertson has returned from his trip to Chicago. He is greatly impressed with the equipment on American railways for the transmission of perishable goods in cold storage.

Mr. J. F. Hogan, M. P., will probably remain in the city until Sir Richard Cartwright returns to Ottawa, as he is desirous of laying his views on the fast Atlantic steamship question before the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become e.ervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts lifeand energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WILLIAM SUGAR'S vote in the South Brant election cost Mr. Henry dearly—$4 in cash and his seat in the House.

IT was a "pagan Indian," named William Sugar that struck Billy Patterson in South Brant. It was evidently a case of malice aforethought—William versus William and Sugar versus confectionery.

THE Toronto News demands a seat for Hon. Peter White, late Speaker, on the ground that he was an ornament to the House of Commons. If that's the only reason, we have no need of Hon. Mr. White so long as we have Black Rods present to fall back upon—the acme of ornamental accessory.

THOSE familiar with the energetic methods of the Salvation Army need not feel any surprise at new manifestations of their peculiar enterprise. It came out at an inquest in England that a husband and eight children of a witness were all insured in the Salvation Army. This is enterprise indeed—insuring the lives of "soldiers" and at the same time furnishing a fire risk—in the future world.

THE Mail and Empire notices that wheat is now higher in Chicago than it is in Canada and it attributes the lower price here to uncertainty about the tariff. This absurd argument is meant to do duty in the Stormont bye-election, and is not to be taken seriously. There have been times since the upward tendency of wheat began when the price was higher in Canada than it was in the United States, and the same thing may happen again any day.

IN the EXAMINER of yesterday an article was based on the report that Sir Adolphe Chapleau, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, had expressed approval of the Manitoba school settlement. This report is contradicted. However the fact remains that he does approve of it, nevertheless. Of course it is to the interest of the Conservative party to strenuously deny such statements respecting a man whom the party made such desperate efforts to induce to come to its rescue at the time of the great cabinet schism.

ALTHOUGH the use of Nova Scotia coal in Quebec and Ontario has not increased to anything like the extent expected by the Fathers of Confederation, it is growing steadily year by year. In 1875 the St. Lawrence took 150,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal, while during the season of 1896, now closing, the figures reach nearly 750,000. The four great coal ports of the St. Lawrence are Montreal, Sorel, Three Rivers and Quebec. By-and-by, when the canals between Montreal and Kingston afford a uniform depth of fourteen feet, Nova Scotia coal will enter Lake Ontario, and be distributed all along the northern shore.

MR. ROBERT HENRY, who at the general election in June, defeated Hon. William Paterson by 90 votes, was unseated at the contested election trial, and a new election ordered. The Mail and Empire seems to cavil at the decision because it was based on the evidence of a pagan Indian, who was paid $4.00 for his vote. This evidence should not be considered more heathenish than the practice of securing a false popular verdict by bribing the electorate. We dont know how many instances of bribery might have been established if all of the 215 charges of bribery had been investigated. The first witness examined on the charge of bribery was sufficient, in the estimation of the judges, to void the election.

THE charge has often been brought that the Ontario Government is sacrificing our timber resources. It is stated that Tennessee whitewood can be laid down cheaper in Toronto than white pine, owing to the high prices paid for timber limits. The price paid at the Government sale in 1892, over $3,600 per mile, it is claimed, renders it almost impossible for the licensee to dispose of his product at a figure which will permit of successful competition with Southern woods, notwithstanding the distance which the latter are removed from this market. Whatever the economic effect of this condition, it certainly disposes of the charge that the Government is sacrificing our timber resources.

IN a published interview, Mr. Sifton, the new Minister of the Interior, puts his finger on the weakest spot in the policy heretofore pursued in the administration of the Northwest Territory. That great region cannot prosper until the land becomes available for settlement, and as much of it is held by absentees and corporations, some means must be devised for throwing it open to bona fide colonists. It is rather hard that the Liberals, who protested against the policy of disposing of the Crown lands to all sorts of speculators, should have to find a remedy for the resulting evils, but it is better for the country that they are in office to grapple with them. Mr. Sifton shows that he understands the situation, and his colleagues should see that he gets a chance to improve it.

Wm. and A. McColl deborned C. N. Dingman's entire herd of cattle, which has caused the hookers to eat together as quietly as lambs. The McColl boys understand their business and can do a good job of work in short order.

Mr. Tullock, an experienced miner from the vicinity of Belleville, has been examining this section. He reports some rich finds on Mr. A. Wilson's farm. He says there is something better for this country than a butter factory.

Mr. C. N. Dingman has been improving his place, and has added a stable for his young cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Mace were visiting at the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McColl, a few days of last week.

The numerous cures of rheumatism by the use of the old standard blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, show conclusively that it is an effective remedy, if not indeed the specific for this most painful and persistant of maladies. What has cured others will cure you.

NORTH HARVEY.

From our own Correspond[illegible]

Last Saturday night Wm. Ward met with rather an unfortunate mishap whilst returning from Bobcaygeon, where he had been doing his shopping. It appears that he did not leave the village until after dark, and everything went all right until he reached Flanigan's Lake, where his horse (at the best of times not very good to keep the road) sheered off into the ditch. The wheel of the cart passed over a log or some obstacle and threw Mr. Ward out. One of his legs caught and got a bad wrench; part of the harness and some glass was all that was broken. A neighbour happening along at the time helped to extricate him and gather up the scattered parcels. They managed to fix up the harness so that it would take him home safely, as he had not far to go. He was very thankful that he had no bones broken.

Mrs. James Beatty, who has been suffering for some time past with rheumatism, is, we are glad to say, rapidly recovering and will soon be herself again.

Mrs. Geo. Ray, of North Smith, who for the past week was here visiting friends, returned home Saturday.

WHAT A PALE FACE INDICATES

Sallow Complexion a Sure Sign of Disordered or Overworked Kidneys.

AN HONEST MEDICINE.

It Has Cured and Satisfied Half-a-Million People and is Worthy of the Confidence of all who Need a Kidney Treatment — Dodd's Kidney Pills Always Cure.

Perfect health means simply that your blood is pure.

Pure blood means simply that your kidneys are doing their work every hour in the day.

A pale sallow face, with the pink and tint of health absent, means that your kidneys are weak and asking for help.

Healthy kidneys insure pure blood, and Dodd's Kidney Pills insure healthy kidneys.

The highest and only claim ever made for Dodd's Kidney Pills has been and still is, that "they will cure any kidney disease."

At least five hundred thousand persons in Canada have used these pills for kidney ailments and kidney disease at various stages, and surely some one out of this vast number would find fault if they failed to stand the test—but not a word.

This means that Dodd's Kidney Pills is an honest medicine and worthy of the confidence of any man who knows or suspects himself to be in need of kidney treatment.

LUMBERING ON THE OTTAWA.

A LIFE OF GREAT HARDSHIP AND EXPOSURE.

River Drivers Often Waist Deep in Icy Waters—Pain-Racked Bodies the Frequent Outcome—Only the Most Robust Can Stand This Weary Round of Toil.

From the Ottawa Free Press.

Only those who have engaged in the arduous occupation of lumbering know how dearly earned is their livelihood, for among the many vocations of men that of lumbermen ranks among the most dangerous and difficult. There is a heavy shanty labour from earliest dawn to evening star when the toiler for half the year is remote from home and friends, and whose daily round is to eat and work and sleep, only getting an occasional glimpse of the outside world through a long looked for letter from some loved one far away.

Then the days lengthen, the frozen lake breaks up, and comes the driving of logs and hewn timber down the tortuous swift running stream, when necessity often calls the driver to wade body deep in the swift flowing icy waters. None but the strong can engage in such heavy labour, only the most robust are able to stand the ten hours of daily toil, with but a mid-day hour's respite. Such, in brief, is the life of many thousands of labourers in the Ottawa valley, and among the many is Thos Doble of 130 Head street, Chaudiere, who for twelve long years has wrought for the great lumber king, J. R. Booth, shantying in the snowy northern forests, and lifting three inch deal during the summer heats. It is not to be wondered at that in his long experience and great exposure he should contract a severe cold that in time took permanent lodging in the region of the loins and kidneys. Like many others he thought to work it off—but in vain. Soon the pains in the region of the kidneys became so intense that labour was a torture to him, and it was only the indomitable courage, born of the knowledge that others were dependent upon him, that urged him to pursue his weary round of daily toil. Every sudden movement of his body was as a thorny goad that made him wince beneath its sting. Added to this was an unusual and excessive sweating which necessitated frequent changes of clothing, and which weakened him to such an extent that his appetite was almost entirely gone, and eventually but little food and much water was his daily fare. Many vain efforts were made by Mr. Doble to free himself from the pains which had fastened themselves upon him, and one medicine after another was used, but without effect. Life became a burden and existence a thing almost undesirable. After many fruitless efforts he was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When three boxes were taken the change in his condition was marvellous, and his own words are: "When I had taken six boxes I was a new man and consider the cure worth hundreds of dollars." Mr. Doble, although completely cured, continues taking Pink Pills occasionally and is very enthusiastic in his praises of what the pills have done for him. Many of his fellow workmen seeing the great change wrought in him by these famous pills have been led to give them a trial for other ailments and are unanimous in pronouncing them superior to all other medicines.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and nerves, building them anew and thus driving disease from the system. There is no trouble due to either of these causes which Pink Pills will not cure, and in hundreds of cases they have restored patients to health after all other remedies had failed. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take nothing else. The genuine are always enclosed in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." May be had from all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

MORE FIERCE GALES.

English Channel and North Sea in a Turmoil.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE REPORTED

The Historic Chain Pier at Brighton Demolished—One of the Ostend Packets Dashed Against the Pier at Dover—The Hamburg Strike Extends—Cable News Generally.

London, Dec. 4.—A southeast gale is prevailing in the English Channel and the North Sea and a tremendous sea is running. Many casualties have been reported. The historic chain pier at Brignt, which was erected in 1823, has been demolished. The pier was damaged in a recent storm and there was some talk of taking it down. It was reported at the time that a number of Americans intended to purchase it and erect it at one of the seaside resorts in the United States. One of the Ostend packet boats was thrown violently by a heavy sea against the pier at Dover, and in the excitement occasioned by the collision narrowly escaped going on the rocks.

GERMAN AFFAIRS.

The Emperor Cautions the Military Against Antagonizing Civilians.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—The Hanover Anzeiger says that the Emperor paid a visit last evening to the Hanover Riding School, where he addressed the young officers. His Majesty in the course of his remarks deplored the act of Lieut. Baron Von Brusewitz, who a short time ago avenged an insult by running a civilian through with his sword in a cafe at Carlsruhe, and cautioned the officers against doing anything to create antagonism between the officer corps and the civilian class. Anyhow, he said, officers would better not show any feeling of antagonism towards civilians.

The Lokal Anzeiger publishes a Constantinople despatch, reporting that the Emperor and Empress of Germany will visit Jerusalem on Easter Sunday, 1897, to attend to the consecration of the Evangelical Church, built on the site given to the late Emperor Frederick by the Sultan. The despatch adds that the Emperor and Empress will then proceed to Cairo at the Khedive's invitation.

CALLED THEM ALL OUT.

Hamburg Strike Extends Now to All the Workmen in the Harbor.

Hamburg, Dec. 4.—The Strike Committee has called out all of the Hamburg Harbor workmen, irrespective of the character of their employment, in order to assist the strikers. The men called out include the engineers, bargemen and others employed by the state and city. The action was taken in response to an appeal from the strikers, as the result of the meetings held yesterday. The course of the committee was approved by a meeting of the workers, held subsequent to the issuance of the order calling the men out.

Antwerp, Dec. 4.—The dock laborers at this port are refusing to unload vessels coming from Hamburg and a general strike of dockmen is imminent.

Russian Students Arrested.

London, Dec. 4.—A despatch from Moscow to The Standard says that the authorities there frustrated an attempted students' demonstration in memory of the terrible Hodinsky Plain disaster last year, when hundreds of peasants were killed in the stampede at the distribution of the souvenir mugs of the Czar's coronation. Their demonstration was prevented by arresting a hundred of the ringleaders and the closing of the cemetery where the victims were buried by troops.

No Hope for Dreyfus.

Paris, Dec. 4.—The Committee of Petitions has rejected the petition of Mme. Dreyfus for a fresh trial of her husband, Captain Alfred Dreyfus, who was drummed out of the French army on conviction as a spy, and who was exiled on Isle Du Diable, off the coast of French Guiana.

Woman Punished for a Man's Crime.

London, Dec. 4.—A Vienna despatch to The Standard reports that an English woman named Annie Ilett has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment with hard labor, for forging cheques in November, 1895, on a letter of credit and a cheque book, which was stolen from a Mrs. Parsons on a voyage from New York to Gibraltar, by a man traveling with the Ilett woman. The pair afterwards traveled on the Continent, uttering forged cheques. The man has disappeared.

AT TWO HOSPITALS.

Five Years in the Toils—Nothing But Dodd's Kidney Pills Could Touch the Spot.

Brussels, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

Constipation Cured.

Gents,—I was in very poor health for over four years; the doctor said it was constipation. Not wanting to spend too much cash I got three bottles of B.B.B. and took it regularly, I can certify that I am now in the very best of health and feel very grateful to B.B.B.

Statement Confirmed

By a Justice of the Peace.

Another Victory in Nova Scotia,

Paine's Celery Compound Does the Good Work After Other Medicines Fail.

The majority of people cured by Paine's Celery Compound feel compelled to make public statements with a view of benefitting other sufferers. Cured people gratefully contribute important testimony in order that the sick and afflicted may cease spending money for worthless preparations that can never effect a cure. Truthful letters coming from reliable people, who testify to the worth of Paine's Celery Compound, have a mighty influence for good, and are fully appreciated by thinking men and women.

Mr. Jas. Cossaboom, jr., of Tiverton, N. S., says:

"It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the value of Paine's Celery Compound. For some years past I have suffered from stomach troubles, also pains in the head. I tried many medicines that were recommended to me, but never received any benefit from them. At last I was advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had finished the first bottle I experienced a happy change. I continued using Paine's Celery Compound till I had taken five bottles, which made a perfect cure.

"I can heartily recommend the use of Paine's Celery Compound to any one suffering from the same troubles. You have my best wishes for the future success of your excellent medicine."

Mr. Allen Outhouse, Justice of the Peace, says: "I can certify that the above statement is true in every particular."

Two Holidays.

Mayor Fleming, of Toronto, is circulating petitions among the Toronto business men to find out if they are willing to remain closed the day after Christmas. The proposition is being considered favourably. How would such a scheme work in Peterborough, Christmas coming on Friday? The Historical Association.

Those interested in the preservation and collection of data of the early history of this country are urgently requested to keep in mind the meeting to be held on Monday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the council chamber, in connection with the formation here of a branch of the Canadian Historical Association, and to show their interest by their presence. There is now a general awakening of interest in the early history of this country, stimulated, no doubt by the near approach of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the country by Cabot, and Peterborough should do her share in preserving facts and incidents that will add to the records of our primitive history.

A DEAD HORSE IN THE RIVER.

The Board of Health to Take Action in Regard to the Matter.

The body of the cart horse belonging to Corry & Laverdure, T. V. C. contractors, which was drowned at Nassau the other day, is still in the river, being caught at the dam. It is beginning to putrify and several complaints have been sent in to Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, in regard to the matter.

Dr. Clarke has notified the firm to have the body removed but as his notification has not produced the desired effect, the Board of health purposes to take decisive action in regard to the matter, as the presence of the animal in the water from which the town is supplied is not at all desirable.

THE KINMOUNT SUICIDE.

Particulars as to how the Deed Was Done.

A Kinmount correspondent writes :—On Tuesday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, this community was thrown into a state of intense excitement by a rumour being brought in that Mr. Henry Ogglestone, who lives on his farm on the outskirts of the village, had shot himself.

Upon making closer enquiries it proved only too true.

The surmises are that very poor health and financial losses lately caused him to commit the rash act. When found he had been some time dead, having shot himself in the roof of the mouth.

It is Mr. Calcutt's intention to have this department in full swing next summer. Contracts have been let for the masonry and stone work.

—The educational value of newspapers has never been more conspicuously shown than during the past year or two, when important scientific discoveries have crowded so quickly upon one another. There is no reader of a good newspaper nowadays who is not thoroughly posted as to all scientific discoveries, so far as these discoveries can be made known without technical study and explanation. The information imparted in this way has not only been valuable for information's sake and in keeping readers thoroughly up to date, but it constantly stimulates inquiry and intellectual activity in their minds.

AN EXCELLENT TEST.

Grapes in Cold Storage Reach England in Prime Condition.

A test was recently made of sending some Canadian grapes to England in cold storage. They arrived there in as good condition as if they had just been picked. Cold storage offers great possibilities for Canadian producers. Established on a proper scale, not only our butter, meat and eggs would find ready sale at good prices, but our small fruits as well. The size of the crop would then make little difference in the revenue to be derived. Cold storage is not in its experimental stage. It is an undoubted success, and the Government should pay no heed to the cranks who oppose encouragement to the system. Some people will oppose anything—good, bad or indifferent.—Exchange.

The Busy Store.

Some merchants would have the public believe that the big sale at Routley's was only a "fake" sale, and that they can sell just as cheap. I might just say here that I have always paid a hundred cents on the dollar during my twenty years of business, and that my goods have been bought, and are now being sold at less prices than others can buy them. Yet it will last only a few weeks longer, as I am positively retiring from the retail business, and would like all who owe me accounts to call and settle before January 1st, 1897. C. B. ROUTLEY.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF STIRRING EVENTS OF '37.

THE MEMORABLE AND MUDDY MARCH TO TORONTO.

How Peterborough Patriots did Their Duty—Details of the Tramp to Toronto—What Governor Head Thought of the Peterborough Warriors—Their Good Work and Ungrateful Treatment—Few Survivors of That Now Celebrated March.

In the daily Mail and Empire of a recent date Mr. Peter Shepherd, of Toronto, gives his recollections of stirring incidents in the unpleasantness of 1837. In so doing it appears that he has made some slight slips which have been detected by a resident who was also a participant in the events of that period, Mr. James Wason, 617 Rubidge street. In one paragraph of his reminiscences, Mr. Shepherd leaves the impression that the prisoners captured at the battle of the Windmill were hanged off-hand without trial or shrift. As a matter of fact Mr. Wason states, and his statement is a matter of history, that these persons received a fair and full trial. They were defended by Mr. John Macdonald, of Kingston, then a rising young lawyer, whom the reader will instantly recognize as afterwards Sir John Macdonald.

Another instance of Mr. Shepherd being "out of step." He refers to the title of "Muddy York" being applied to Toronto at the time of the visit of the 93rd, to which he was attached. Mr. Wason says the city was then known as Toronto, and the title of "Muddy York," though well deserved, was not then applied to what is now known as the "Queen City."

Mr. Wason is able to give some interesting particulars of the part the people of this district took in the rising of 1837. And he can say of the celebrated muddy march to Toronto, as Virgil made Æneas say of the events with which he loaded up Queen Dido, "et quorum pars magna fui," for Mr. Wason was "Sergeant Wason" of the Third Division of the "Queen's Own," and the subsequent events in Toronto and elsewhere.

ON THE MEMORABLE TRAMP

The call to arms came on the 7th of December, 1837, for all men between 16 and 60. The first muster was at Warsaw, and the first night was spent in Ashburnham, where the embryo army bivouacked on the site of Mr. J. J. Lundy's present residence, which was then occupied by a pretentious building, greatly similar to the present house, and then locally known as "Thompson's Folly," on account of its being in extent and elaborate character too much for the builders' means to maintain. The force was known as the Third Division of the "Queen's Own Incorporated Militia."

The officers of the Third Division, as far as Mr. Wason remembers, were Lt. Col. Brown, Major Wigmore, Captain Thompson, Capt. Armstrong, Lieut. Carver and Ensign Boyd, popularly known as "Barney Boyd."

The first march was to what was then known as "Cavan Long Swamp," now Fraserville. But the forces countermarched to Peterborough to permit all men over 45 to return to their homes, as it was not considered that the circumstances were so urgent as to require their services in addition to those of the younger men.

As is well known the winter of 1837 was an open one and of course the mud was very much in evidence of the Third Division found to their sorrow, before they reached Toronto. As an example of the open nature of that winter Sergeant Wason cites the fact that the steamer Traveller plied regularly during the winter between Toronto and Kingston and that the Transit, another steamer, kept up her trips across the lake from Toronto. The bay at Toronto did not freeze over entirely during the winter.

AS THE GALLANT SOLDIERS

The Third Division volunteers were not a very imposing body of warriors. Most of them had arms, but they had no uniforms and they therefore presented a very motley appearance, suggestive of gay old Falstaff's "ragged regiment."

Another start was made for the seat of war, and the first day the distance covered was 27 miles, which brought the force to "Bletcher's Corners," near Port Hope. The mud was knee-deep in places, and the fatigue of the raw recruits may be imagined when it is stated that the first day they only got two meals; but even this was an improvement over the following three days which were required to complete the journey. The commissariat, which was very indifferently organized, was in charge of one Fawcett, who at that time kept an hotel, or "tavern," as it was then called, at Graystock's, in Otonabee. Some days the one meal a day consisted of pork and whisky, varied another day by pork and potatoes. While the gallant Third Divisioners were willing to fight, they strongly objected to doing it on such limited rations, and it may be easily concluded that Commissariat Officer Fawcett did not get knighted for his services in that department. On the march the people were found very unwilling generally to supply the warriors with "grub." The sleeping accomodation on the march was no better than the food. Most of the force didn't see a bed from the time of leaving home until they reached Toronto. They slept on floors and stabled lofts and other improvised couches.

On their arrival in Toronto the Peterborough force was properly equipped and was reviewed by the Governor, Sir Francis Bond Head, who, if he was pig headed and domineering, was a good judge of a soldier. He and told them they were as stalwart and hardy a body of men as he had seen and he gave old Peterborough thanks for such a splendid lot of volunteers.

The force was quartered in the Court House, and the "Coffee House" referred to by Mr. Shepherd in his reminiscences was the officers' mess of the Third Division.

In February of 1837 Sergt. Wasson and his companions in arms went with a detachment of the Queen's Own across the lake to take part in the demonstration against Navy Island and to drive Mackenzie from his stronghold.

After this expedition the volunteers were discharged and they had the hard fate of many others—their services were not munificently recognized by a grateful country. They were let go and cast aside like a worn shoe when it was thought their services were no longer needed, and allowed to find their way to their neglected farms and homes the best they could, as Sergt. Wason expresses it to "beat their way back" if possible; and beat their way they did. Many of the volunteers were without means to pay their way. The pay of a private soldier was the large sum of a British shilling, representing 23 cents in Halifax currency. Sergt. Wason being a non-commissioned officer, got of course a little larger pay, and he had accumulated the enormous sum of $6, with which he was able to assist some of his comrades in getting back home—from Cobourg. The journey back was made by the steamer Traveller to Cobourg. And it was on board that

THE TROUBLE AROSE.

After the steamer was well on her way a demand was made for the fares. Of course the fares were not forthcoming and the officers and crew of the steamer cornered the returing veterans, who had brought victory with them but not the spoils of victory. They were enclosed in one part of the steamer by a rope and the officers and crew arming themselves with hand spikes demanded their pay. Sergeant Wason, who had $6 as mentioned, but concealed this fact, and "stood in" with the boys, was put forward as spokesman in the palaver that ensued. He represented that the volunteers numbered 200 against a dozen of the steamer's crew, and it would be decidedly unsafe to use the hand-spikes. The upshot was that the fare was not paid, and remains with many another unsettled score of that unsettled period, especially the unsettled debt of gratitude the government owed the volunteers of the Third Division in recognition of their services.

Sergt Wason feels, as others felt, particularly, the injustice of the ungrateful treatment, the volunteers, who had sacrificed so much for their country, received at the hands of the Government, while others, he claims, who were trying to subvert the Government were rewarded. He thinks that if it had not been for the services of such men as himself and his comrades, Great Britain would have not had such a country as Canada.

Mr. Wason would like all those who took part in that terrible march to communicate with him, which they can do by leaving their names at the EXAMINER Office. There are, he thinks, not many left. All he can remember as being in this county are Mr. Fred Edwards of Douro, Mr. Robt. Banning, of Belmont (he thinks) Mr. James Girven, town, and, of course, himself.

Of course there are many living who took part (but not in the memorable march) in the work of suppressing the uprising. In the winter of 1839 there was a battalion formed in Peterborough, in command of Col. McDonald, but while he was nominally the commanding officer, the real head of the battalion was Lt. Col. Cole, a veteran of Waterloo. Capt. Fraser was also another Waterloo veteran who belonged to the battalion. Mr. W. H. Wrighton, father of our esteemed citizen, Mr. W. H. Wrighton, was paymaster of the Battalion. Sergeant Wason, and others who had seen service a couple of winters previous, were urged to join the Battalion, as the raw recruits needed to be steadied by the presence of drilled men, who in many cases were competent to drill the officers of the new Battalion. Sergeant Wason, who with others, was drilled in Toronto by Sergeant Jean of the Governor's Body Guard, was the drill sergeant of the Battalion.

IT IS IN THE AIR.

Tweed People Talk About it.

It is in the air.
Can't stop it spreading.
Can't keep down a good thing.
People who don't know about it want to known.
People who do know, want to tell about it.
It is kidney education.
Tweed people are learning fast.
Here are some facts.

One of the best known residents of Tweed is Mr. W. H. Houston, who relates the following interesting facts: Mr. Houston says, "I have been very bad for several years with pains in my side and back.

"I had to urinate very frequently, in fact my rest was disturbed by frequent rising at night for that purpose. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, at Newton's drugstore, and have experienced great relief from the first.

"I am sure that I have been greatly benefited, and can recommend them highly to anyone troubled as I was."

A meeting of the club is called for Friday evening next when the skips will be chosen to play the foreign matches. It has yet to be decided as to the manner in which the skips will be picked. Some of curlers think the entire membership should be asked to vote on the question, whilst others hold that the skips and vice skips should do the choosing.

HOCKEY.

This is a momentous day for the hockey men of Ontario.

The annual meeting of the association which frames the laws and governs the game in the Province was held this afternoon in the Queen's Hotel. Every club in association is sending one or two delegates, and the room in which the gathering will assemble will be taxed to its utmost to hold them all. There are a number of important matters to be discussed, as there are not a few amendments to the rules and regulations proposed by various members. The formation of an intermediate series is probably the most important of the many that will come up and the indications are that it will receive the approval of the meeting. The elections will excite much interest, as the old officers will, in all probability refuse re-election. The Globe says Mr. C. A. H. Brown may stand for the Presidency, but if he does not, Vice-President J. A. Macfadden, of Stratford, will secure promotion. For the Vice-Presidency, Mr. G. J. Horkins, of Peterborough, one of the most enthusiastic hockey men in the country, is mentioned, and he should have virtually a walk-over. For the Secretaryship Alexis Martin and A. H. Beaton are in the field, and a hot fight should ensue for the place.

THE WHEEL.

Orillia is after the C.W.A. meet next year. If Orillia waits for it until the year after, it can win it "hands down," as in '98 Peterborough will again try for it and, with the usual luck in such matters, come out at the wrong end of the horn.

Stock to be Closed Out

Every dollar's worth of goods to be turned into cash by January 1st,

Our senior partner, after a successful career of over 45 years, has decided to retire from business at the end of the year. In order to effect an adjustment of the partnership now existing, it is absolutely necessary to reduce the stock to the lowest point possible by that time.

The quickest way to reduce stock is to sacrifice profits; even more, to cut prices down, down, down. This has been done, and done thoroughly. It will pay you to visit Toronto and visit this store between now and Xmas; you will be surprised to see how much you can get for a little money. If you cannot come, write. Write for samples, information—anything. Space is limited; we cannot quote prices in this space. We are bound to get the stock down. If goods don't go quick at this week's prices, then down they go again. Remember assortments will be gradually getting broken. Don't delay too long.

All questions cheerfully answered. Letters or orders received before 1 o'clock answered same day.

Health is the best inheritance. It leaves its influence even to the third and fourth generation. What greater happiness has life in store for any man than to live to a green old age surrounded by his children and his children's children, and see them all robust, happy and successful. Happy the man who lives to carve at the wedding suppers of his grandchildren. Picture yourself a gray-haired but hearty old man at the head of the table at your grandson's wedding, thanking your Maker for the blessing of long life, and asking the blessing of good health for generations yet unborn. It lies in almost every man's power to be thus blessed if he will. If he will only obey Nature's laws and be watchful of his health, he will have long life and happiness.

The best preserver of health is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It keeps the digestion perfect, the liver active, and the blood pure. It is the best flesh-builder and nerve invigorator. The man who resorts to it whenever he feels any symptoms of approaching ill-health will live to a hearty old age. Druggists sell it. Nothing else is "just as good."

J. B. Holt, of Whittens Stand, Wayne Co. Tenn., writes: "In October, 1890, I was taken with a hurting in the back of my neck which steadily grew worse. I consulted a doctor. He gave me a course of treatment but I gradually grew worse under it. At last my trouble ran into what was called 'spinal affection.' I could hardly walk about at all. Finally I became as helpless as a child. I wrote you at Buffalo, N. Y., in regard to my condition and you answered me promptly and prescribed Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took the 'Discovery' and soon got well. My health continues good."

Druggists sell Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure constipation. They cure quickly and permanently and never gripe. One is a gentle laxative; two a mild cathartic.

THE FRUIT GROWERS

Pass Strong Resolutions in Favor of Protection Before Finally Winding Up Their Business.

Kingston, Ont., Dec. 4.—The Fruit Growers' Association concluded its session to-day by a drive about the city and to the public institutions at the request of the mayor.

The question drawer was opened this morning and the advisability of establishing a Dominion fruit experimental station in Southern Ontario was considered. Some favored it, others disapproved. The Ontario Government, it was claimed, was admirably covering the ground.

Hon. Sydney Fisher pointed out that as the fruit growers in Southern Ontario wanted a station, fruit growers in other sections would make the same demands. If the Dominion Government started these stations, in many instances it would be duplicating the work already done, which would meet with disapprobation from the people. The question of establishing a Dominion experimental station was referred to the committee appointed to prepare answers to the questions asked by Hon. Sydney Fisher yesterday. The committee will report also on this question:

Moved by Mr. Burrell, seconded by Mr. E. H. Smith, That for the guidance of the committee appointed to appear before the Tariff Commissioners, this meeting is of the opinion that the present import duties upon fruit should be maintained as they are, with the following changes only, namely: The ad valorem duty upon pears and plums of 20 per cent. and 25 per cent. respectively be changed to a specific duty of one cent per pound, and that the duty upon imported evaporated peaches be increased to two cents per pound.

This resolution was unanimously carried.

Moved by Mr. E. D. Smith, seconded by ex-President M. Pettit, That as it is extremely important to prevent the utter ruin of Canadian nurserymen by the unfair competition of United States nurserymen driven to sell their stock at a frightful loss by the enormous production of southern nurserymen, and as a consequence of such ruin of Canadian nurserymen, this country would be flooded by southern grown stock, which, though firm in appearance, is not at all suited for planting in this country, this meeting is of the opinion that the present duties should be maintained.

This resolution was endorsed by the meeting.

The usual votes of thanks were passed and the gathering adjourned to meet at Waterloo next year.

Where is Mr. Jones?

London, Ont., Dec. 4.—Robert Jones, caretaker of Duffield Hall, is missing and his wife is greatly concerned about his absence. The Joneses live on Bathurst-street, and they have one child, a pretty little girl. Thursday morning the missing caretaker left home at 6 o'clock and told his wife that he was going to "the building," meaning the Duffield Hall. But he did not go there. Before leaving home he told his wife to draw his month's salary, and this Mrs. Jones has done. The tenants of Duffield Hall have seen nothing of Jones since Tuesday.

TALK ABOUT THE FIGHT.

Fitzsimmons Has a String on That Purse and There Will be a Big Battle in the Courts.

San Francisco, Dec 4.—All day long yesterday discussion raged as to whether Fitzsimmons fouled Sharkey in the fight Wednesday night. Everybody in town had formed an opinion and everybody was anxious to express it. A large number sided with the Cornishman and proclaimed their belief that he was the victim of a deliberate plot on the part of the National Club managers and Referee Wyatt Earp to rob him of the decision. But there are others, among whom were men of unimpeachable reputation, who declared they saw the foul and that Earp's decision was strictly just.

When the National Club made the first move in what promises to be a long-drawn-out struggle in the courts for possession of the $10,000 purse, by stopping the payment of the cheque, it was done to give Martin Julian an opportunity to prove his sensational charges of fraud. The managers determined upon quick and decisive action. Having ordered the Anglo-California Bank to refuse payment of the cheque, a consultation of physicians was ordered to decide the single critical issue in the case. Most of the doctors declared the injury was the result of a blow inflicted beyond any question during the fight with Fitzsimmons. When the decision and the individual opinions of the physicians were made known, J. J. Grom and J. D. Gibbs, managers of the National A.C., addressed a letter authorizing the bank to pay Sharkey the money. This would settle the matter if it was not for a restraining order issued by Superior Court Judge Sanderson upon the bank. Fitzsimmons asked the Superior Court to take the cheque for $10,000 into its possession until a decision could be reached on the merits of the case. In his complaint, Fits alleges, on information and belief, that Sharkey, Earp and the National Athletic Club conspired to defraud him out of a rightful decision, and that he showed greater skill and training in the contest.

Meanwhile, the Anglo-California Bank is placed in an extremely awkward position. It has issued a certificate of deposit for $10,000, payable to bearer. The bank is in the peculiar position of having refused to pay and of being enjoined from paying a certificate that it pledged its commercial standing would be honored on sight.

Wyatt Earp will have to defend himself in the police courts against the charges of carrying a concealed weapon. The weapon was delivered by Earp to Capt. Wittemore at the latter's request just after the beginning of the fight, and it has since been in Wittemore's keeping. Last evening Earp was arrested and released on furnishing $50 bail.

Fitzsimmons has formally begun suit in the Superior Court to obtain possession of the $10,000 purse offered by the National A.C., and which was awarded by Referee Earp to Sharkey last night. The action is directed against the Anglo-California Bank, which is understood to hold the certified cheque against Thomas Sharkey, John Doe and Richard Roe. After alleging that boxing matches are allowed in San Francisco by virtue of an ordinance and that the National A.C. had secured a permit to hold the exhibition, Fitzsimmons' complaint alleges corruption, collusion and fraud on the part of Sharkey, the National A.C. and Referee Earp, their purpose being to swindle the plaintiff. The Anglo-California Bank declined to cash the cheque of the National Club for $10,000 when it was presented for payment by Referee Earp and Daniel Lynch, Sharkey's manager. It was presented only a few minutes after the bank was opened, but Fitzsimmons' attorney had already taken steps to stop the payment.

During the afternoon Sharkey rallied somewhat and talked of the battle. "I was all right up to the time I was fouled," he said. "Fitzsimmons opened the round rather lively and landed three lefts, but I was growing stronger all the time, and I knew I had him going. Then he led a straight left and I tried to close in for a shortarm blow. As I did so he uppercut with his right and landed a foul. After that I have no remembrance of anything until I found myself in bed here."

At Harry Corbett's pool room the announcement was made that all bets on the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons fight would be paid to-day at 1 p.m., on the basis of Referee Earp's decision awarding the victory to Sharkey in the eighth round because of a foul.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

VILLAINOUS TRAMPS.

There Will be a Lynching Party if the Rascals are Captured by the Furious Citizens.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Dec. 4.—The citizens of Rockport, 18 miles from this city, are hunting for two tramps who will be lynched if caught. Last evening during the absence of Samuel Stephens, who lives near Rockport with his wife and 2-year-old child, the tramps broke into the house and assaulted Mrs. Stephens. The woman fought with desperation, but was overpowered by her assailants. The tramps threatened to murder her if she made an outcry, and when the child screamed they beat it so terribly that it may not recover. After the tramps left the woman gave the alarm. The neighbors were aroused and pursuit was begun, but the tramps had succeeded in getting into the woods. All the highways are guarded and descriptions have been sent out and it is thought the men cannot evade capture.

STUDYING ECONOMY.

Important For The Home.

In these hard times thousands of smart and bright women in Canada find that the Diamond Dyes are great and important helps in economizing. With their aid, the husband, the children and the mother herself can be handsomely dressed, although nearly all the clothing may be old material dyed over.

Diamond Dyes make such lasting and beautiful colors that goods dyed with them cannot be told from new. Any one can use them, as the directions are so plain and simple that no skill is needed. The colors of Diamond Dyes never grow dim; they never fade or wash out. In order to secure the best advantages in dyeing, every woman should see that her dealer gives her the "Diamond Dyes," as other package dyes are only poor imitations.

One Colored Man Kills Another.

Buffalo, Dec. 4.—Edward James, colored, employed as a watchman at the waterworks tunnel, at 10.30 o'clock last night shot and mortally wounded Charles Carrington, colored, a laborer employed in the tunnel. In the scuffle James received a bullet wound in the right arm. Carrington died in the Fitch Hospital this morning.

No Revenue Legislation.

Canton, Ohio, Dec. 4.—Ex-Gov. Nelson A. Dingley of Maine, who remained over night at Major McKinley's house on account of a severe cold, is so much better that he left at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Washington. Before his departure Mr. Dingley remarked that as the complexion of the Senate had not changed, it did not seem very probable that any revenue legislation would be enacted this winter.

The impurities in the blood which cause scrofulous eruptions are thoroughly eradicated by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it.

To Stain Wood.

It is a fact not universally known that almost any dry pigment, mixed with spirits of turpentine, will stain wood. It should be applied until the desired shade is obtained. Strong ammonia applied to wood will give it an aged appearance. The best finish for carved work is beeswax or linseed oil.

MR. TARTE'S PLAIN TALK.

The Minister of Public Works Pays His Attention to the Archbishop of St. Boniface.

Montreal, Dec. 3.—(Special.)—"I presume that the attitude taken by Mgr. Langevin will surprise no one," says Hon. J. I. Tarte, over his own signature in to-day's issue of his paper, Le Cultivateur. "He is keeping up the political campaign, which he commenced at the time of the last elections with the measure of success of which all are aware. Public opinion is heartily sick of such appeals to violence as those made by this young prelate. In these days a man must have reason with him if he wishes to be listened to. In what position does Mgr. Langevin find himself to-day? He has permitted without protest that some thirty Catholic schools continue to work under the laws of 1890 and 1894. These schools receive the grant of the Provincial Government; they are inspected by the officers of the Provincial Government. Now, this same Government offers concessions the importance of which no impartial man can deny. They modify, in the paths of justice, the legislation of the last few years. The Archbishop of St. Boniface, who allows thirty Catholic schools to operate under the old law, is up in revolt against these amendments which insure for the Catholic minority most precious advantages. This single fact suffices to show that Mgr. Langevin allows himself to be carried away by pre-occupations, the nature of which it is easy to size up. Excesses of language have to be deplored, no matter where they come from, but in the present circumstances the excesses of the Archbishop of St. Boniface are of a nature to give the masses the direction which they may follow. This country is anxious for peace, work, development and concord. The peace disturbers," he proceeds, "are in a minority. This school is not keeping up the fight for the benefit of the Catholics of Manitoba. It is putting forth such efforts only to recover the political and temporal supremacy, which is fading away from it, and which belongs to the ratepayers who pay the taxes. The school question is merely the pretext; if this pretext did not exist, another one would be found. I have the profound conviction and the certainty that the great majority of Catholics and enlightened priests deplore the excesses of those who refuse to be guided by experience and the teachings of history. Hon. Mr. Prendergast, whose experience in Manitoba affairs is much more precious than that of Mgr. Langevin, has expressed the true mind of the Catholics in the striking interview published. He is aware of the painful situation occupied by our compatriots and our co-religionists of the west. He is aware that half the young generation are deprived of the benefits of education. He knows the the French-Canadians have constantly lost ground during the last fifteen years. And he is also aware that exaggerations like those of which Mgr. Langevin is guilty would tend to bring about the final extermination of the French and Catholic groups, if they were not repudiated by the true representatives of our race."

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

HENRY GOES DOWN.

The South Brant Election Voided Because an Indian Was Paid Four Dollars for His Vote.

Brantford, Ont., Dec. 3.—The South Brant election trial commenced here this afternoon, Judges Street and Falconbridge presiding. The court room was crowded with spectators. B. B. Osler, Q.C., appeared for the petitioner and Wallace Nesbitt for the defendant, Mr. Henry. Witnesses examined were: Messrs. Frank, Bullock, Wilson, Taylor, Montgomery and Sugar. Sugar is an Indian. He testified he received $4 from P. Aikens for voting for Mr. Henry. P. Aikins was chairman of division 28, and one of Mr. Henry's nominators. On the strength of this the judges decided to void the election. They found no blame attached to Mr. Henry, he having done his best to have a proper election. An election was ordered. Each side pays its own costs.

Three Steamers Frozen in at Fort William, and Will Have to Remain There.

Port Arthur, Dec. 3.—Last night's frost was too much for the steamers Minois, Oglebay and Gratwick. They are solidly frozen up in the Kaministiquia at Fort William to-day, and cannot leave either way. The captains have commenced to lay up their boats and leave them here till spring. The Algonquin, which left the river yesterday, loaded at Port Arthur to-day and cleared for Prescott to-night.

The Canadian M. P. Chatted With the President-Elect on Reciprocity.

Canton, Ohio, Dec. 3.—Major McKinley's first extended interview to-day was with Senator J. W. Thurston of Nebraska, who told him about the situation in the west, and discussed at some length the probable course of Congress this winter. Major McKinley then had a chat with Mr. Charlton, a member of the Canadian Parliament, who had some observations to make on the subject of reciprocity and the establishment of closer commercial relations between this country and Canada.

Britain Will Buy Erythrea.

London, Dec. 3.—The Chronicle publishes a despatch from Rome saying that the Marquis Di Rudini, the Italian Premier, intends to submit the question of the retention of Erythrea by the Italian Government to a vote at the next general election. The Corriere Di Napoli, which is sometimes inspired by Premier Di Rudini, the despatch adds, asserts that Great Britain has offered to buy Erythrea.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10¾ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

What the World's Great Cities are Doing to Improve the Health and Comfort of the Poor.

We are but just entering upon the age of science applied, not to the building up of gigantic fortunes, but to general improvement of the conditions of the whole mass of the people. Science itself during the present century has been engaged in accumulating a great fortune of facts. To-day it is sowing the seeds of applied knowledge and the next century will reap an abundant harvest.

The problem of sanitation in the great cities is one of the most important of our times and the efforts that are being made to solve it are profoundly interesting, as well as instructive. The 8th special report of the Commissioner of Labour in the United States, from which the facts and figures of the present articles are drawn, gives a comprehensive survey of recent experiments in the housing of the working people, not only in the cities of the United States, but in those of Great Britain, France, Germany, Sweden, Belgium and Denmark.

It is just forty years ago since the first tenement house commission was appointed in New York, and the board of health in the same city is but thirty years old. In Great Britain and on the continent of Europe, the Commissioner frankly reports that there has been more comprehensive work accomplished than in the United States. The health of the people is now fully recognized as a matter of first rate importance to the state. Lord Beaconsfield, generally regarded rather as the architect of an empire, rather than of tenement houses, nevertheless in opening some new blocks of improved tenements in 1877, spoke as follows: "I have touched upon the health of the people, and I know there are many who look upon that as an amicable but merely philanthropic subject to dwell upon; but the truth is that the question is much deeper than it appears upon the surface. The health of the people is really the foundation upon which all their happiness and all their power as a state depend. It is quite possible for a kingdom to be inhabited by an able, active population; you may have skilled manufacturers, and you may have a productive agriculture; the arts may flourish, architecture may cover your lands with temples and palaces, you may have even material power to defend and support all these acquisitions, but if the population of that country is stationary or yearly diminishes, if, while it diminishes in number it diminishes also in stature and strength, that country is ultimately doomed. And speaking to those who I hope are proud of the Empire to which they belong, I recommend to them by all means in their power to assist the movement now prevalent for improving the condition of the people by ameliorating the dwellings in which they live. The health of the people is, in my opinion, the first duty of a statesman."

Before referring to what is being done, we will consider (1st) the existing need for action, and (2nd) the results of what has been attempted. Sir James Paget says that the statistics of friendly societies and other similar bodies favour the belief that the whole population of England between the ages of 15 and 65 years, in each year, work 20,000,000 weeks less than they might were it not for sickness. The financial loss he puts at $55,000,000 per annum. He further reckons the preventable proportion of this sickness at one-fourth. Some years ago the London Board of Health instituted enquiries in the low parts of London to see what was the amount labour lost in the year, not by illness, but by sheer exhaustion and inability to work. It was found that upon the lowest average every workingman or working-woman lost about twenty days in the year from simple exhaustion. In 1867 there were about 18,582 tenement houses in New York, of which 15,600 were in a bad sanitary condition. Overcrowding and bad sanitary conditions lead to vice. Of the working-class families living in Brussels 48—54 per cent., nearly one-half, live in single rooms. In Glasgow families aggregating 150,000 souls occupy but one room. One scarcely knows whether to laugh or to weep when told that very frequently boarders are accommodated by those families. In one of the police divisions of the city of Brussels, out of 462 families living in one room, in 116 instances the whole family had but one bed.

It is known that whilst drunkenness is sometimes the cause, it is oftener the effect of poor housing. Physical exhaustion, nervous depression, want of nutritious food, stimulate alcoholic indulgence. And the worse the district the thicker are the saloons. The moral of all this is that sanitary homes and healthy bodies, are an indispensible pre-requisite of a contented, sober and virtuous people.

Turn we for a moment to statistics. In 1866 the death rate in New York was 34.92. In 1892 it was 24.58 per 1000. In London, England, from 1841-1850 the average was 24.8. From 1860 90 it was 20.5. In Edinburgh from 1865 1874 it was 26 26. From 1885 to 1890 it was 17.51. In Glasgow in 1871 it was 32.00; in 1892 it was 22.8. Of the children who die in Glasgow before they complete their 5th year 32 per cent. die in one room dwellings, and not 2 per cent. in tenements of five rooms and upwards. The statistical tables of Berlin and other German cities enter into greater detail, and show that the death rate steadily rises as room accommodation diminishes. The results, then, of the careful tabulation of statistics shows how much has been accomplished, and, at the same time, hold out high hopes for the future. These results, exhibited on the large scale of population found in modern cities, are not without their use for individuals in smaller cities. The virtues of a sufficiency of fresh air, and of cleanliness, are clearly demonstrated. Here, in conclusion, is one very significant fact: "In New York the population of the poor Jewish quarter is very dense, namely 533 to the acre. The death rate, however, is comparatively low, a fact most probably due to the cleaning up every Friday.

HINTS TO CURLERS.

A Few Pointers for the Knights of the "Stone."

At the beginning of this season, which promises to be an unusually active one, it is hoped the curlers, young and old, will not take it out of place if some hints are given regarding curling etiquete. The following are those offered by a Lindsay veteran: All players should be on hand and ready to play at the time appointed; if a player cannot come at all, or cannot come on time, he should notify his skip, so that the game will not be delayed. While the game is being played give your whole attention to your own game—don't watch that of some rink playing on the ice next you; this is one of the things that tends to make a skip angry. Carefully watch your time for playing, and have your stones ready when your turn comes. It is annoying and tends to make the game go "slow" if the players have to hunt up their stones after they are asked to play. Obey your skip without any question—don't suggest to him some other shot, and don't tell him that some different ice, or the other turn, will do better. Your one aim should be to play the shot you are asked to the best of your ability, and leave the result to the skip. When delivering your stone keep your eye constantly on the skip's broom. On no account stand around the ring and give your skip suggestions; nothing so much tends to "rattle" a skip as to have his men constantly helping him to run his end of the game. The tee has a great fascination for players and possibly for the younger players more than the older ones. Lindsay club has has great numbers of players who have sinned greatly in this respect during past years. Nothing scarcely that a curler can do during the game shows as much that his early training in curling has been sadly neglected as this does. The place for the players to be is away down the ice; the two skips can look after the tee, and it will make the game more interesting to all when each does his own work, and does it well. It is the work of the players to watch the progress of the stone delivered by one of his own side from the time it leaves the player's hand until it comes to the rink. Be ready to sweep; according to the rules you cannot sweep until after a stone has crossed the centre line, but in the local games this rule is not adhered to. When sweeping you must sweep across the ice at right angles to the course of the stone—never with the stone.

Always play the game quietly and gentlemanly. Curling is essentially a friendly game, and competing rinks should leave the ice the loser equally with the winner satisfied that an enjoyable game has been played. It is not fair to an opponent, either local or foreign, nor is it sportsmanlike, to take advantage of some peculiarity of his to "rattle" him. If you know that shouting or noise is apt to "rattle" your opponent, it is expected of you as curlers that you will play a quiet game, so that the game may be won or lost on its merits. As one of the most successful skips has said more than once publicly, it is no credit to a rink to beat another when it is played on uneven terms; use your opponents as you would like them to use you.

One or two "don'ts" for our old curlers especially: When not playing don't suggest shots to the skips playing; don't give them hints as to the ice unless it is done openly; don't whisper to your neighbor that such and such is a better shot than the one given. All of these things are very annoying; they are generally given in good part, but a club skip has told us that he very nearly lost a game against Peterborough by just such friendly hints as the above—they annoyed him so much that he could scarcely control himself.

THE TARIFF INQUIRY.

London, Ont., Dec. 4.—Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson and Sir Richard Cartwright of the Tariff Commission took evidence here to-day.

Mr. John McClary, spokesman for a deputation of iron men, said he needed all the present protection to enable him to send goods to distant parts of Canada. Any reduction would be disastrous to his business.

Mr. A. White (George White & Sons) wished an equitable change in the duties of the raw material and the finished article.

Mr. William Yates (London Tool Company) was satisfied with the present tariff.

Mr. W. H. Wortman, maker of pumps and churns, said if the duty were decreased they would be shut out of the Manitoba market.

Thomas Bryan, brush manufacturer, advocated the retention of his raw material, bristles, hairs and fibres, on the free list, and the 25 per cent. duty on the manufactured article. He said very large quantities of toilet brushes were imported, so that it would appear that the 25 per cent. duty on this line was not sufficient to induce capitalists to venture into the manufacture of that line.

John Forrestal of the London and Petrolea Barrel Company said he would not like to have the present tariff reduced. They did not suffer at all in Ontario and Quebec, but in Manitoba and the Northwest the high freight prevented them holding their own. Mr. Forrestal complained that English ale hogsheads sent out to troops in the West Indies were returned empty to Canada and sold on the Halifax market at $1.50 each, when they were worth $4.25 and $4.50.

James I. Anderson, D. A. McDermid and John Mills represented the book dealers and stationers. Mr. J. I. Anderson was spokesman of the book trade. He complained about allowing mechanics' institutes and free libraries to import books free of duty. He also complained that fashion plates and magazines, if subscribed for by individuals, were admitted free, but if ordered by booksellers in quantities they had to pay the duty.

J. H. McMechan of the London Soap Company and Fred Richards of Woodstock represented the soap interests. Mr. McMechan said their raw materials were free, except tallow, on which there was a duty of one cent a pound. There was also a 10 per cent. duty on perfumes and on packages, which he did not think exactly right. While there was a tariff of a cent a pound on laundry soap and 35 per cent. on toilet soap, the recent treaty with France permitted undue competition from that source. Mr. McMechan also thought that the 20 per cent. on cotton seed oil should be reduced. He thought toilet soaps should be put at five cents a pound and 10 per cent.

A. Keenleyside & Co., manufacturers of lard oil, said raw material was admitted free, but they objected to the duty of eight cents on the barrels. He also favored a higher tariff on the manufactured product.

George Burns of Burns & Lewis exhibited a sample of blue serge, which cost 22c in England. To this was added a duty of five cents a pound and a further duty of 25 per cent., making a total duty of 50 per cent. The same class of goods, made in Montreal, sold at 40c a pound, and the factory had not paid a dividend for ten years. Mr. Burns thought the duty of five cents a pound should be stricken off.

Andrew Pattullo, M. L. A., and President White of the Woodstock Board of Trade are in the city endeavoring to get the Ministers to include Woodstock in their tour.

Mrs. Liscumbe is well known in Havelock and this is how she spoke to our representative:—

"The box of Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at W. H. Jeff & Co's. drugstore gave me wonderful relief from the start. The improvement in my general health is not the least of the benefits which I have derived from the use of this remarkable kidney remedy.

"I can recommend them very highly to anyone troubled with any form of kidney disease."

SOLD A BIG MINE

And Was Going to Europe With His Wealth When He Was Arrested on an Ugly Charge.

Vanvouver, B.C., Dec. 4.—(Special)—P. N. Smith, who recently resigned as manager of the big English syndicate controlling the tram lines of Vancouver and New Westminster, and the inter-urban service, is in serious trouble. His friends were congratulating him because he had sold a big mine for a large sum and was about to depart for Europe, when he was arrested at the instigation of the Consolidated Tram Company, accused of charging up supplies to the company in excess of the correct amounts and misappropriating the difference, amounting, it is said, in the aggregate to several thousand dollars. The police magistrate said a prima facie case had been made out, and no doubt Smith will have to stand trial at the assizes. Some people charge the Tram Company with spite work, and believe Smith innocent. He was one of the most prominent and respected citizens here. The shock to the community is severe.

scrofula

Any doctor will tell you that Professor Hare, of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, is one of the highest authorities in the world on the action of drugs. In his last work, speaking of the treatment of scrofula, he says:

"It is hardly necessary to state that cod-liver oil is the best remedy of all. The oil should be given in emulsion, so prepared as to be palatable."

He also says that the hypophosphites should be combined with the oil.

Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is precisely such a preparation.

BREVET PROMOTIONS

Still Being Made a Cause of Complaint.

CANADIAN APPLES TAKE THE LEAD

They are Crowding the Michigan Fruit Out of the Chicago Market and the Wolverines are Asking for a Higher Tariff—General Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Dec. 6. — (Special.) — The Minister of Militia is still receiving representations from the militia regarding the recent brevet promotions in the permanent corps, but nothing will be considered by the Minister unless some definite and specific statements are made to him. Dr. Borden, while in Quebec, received a deputation of officers on this question. In reply he handed them a memorandum marked "Confidential," which pointed out that there had been no ante-dating of commissions, as charged, and that rule 73 had been strictly complied with. It also pointed out that officers from other corps, upon entering the permanent corps, lost all rank, and had to begin to win their rank again. In conclusion the Minister asked the officers present to present a similar memorandum has statement of the case for submission to his officers on the staff at Ottawa. In addition to this, an invitation to presen a similar memorandum has been sent to the officers at Toronto.

Mr. John Craig, horticulturist of the Experimental Farm, returned to-day after attending the meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association at Kingston, and that of the Michigan State Horticultural Society, which latter was held at Grand Rapids Dec. 1, 2, 3. The cry of the Michigan producer of apples and peaches was this year overproduction, faulty distribution and apparent under-consumption. The crop of apples in Michigan, as elsewhere, was excessive. Only the best keepers of the finest quality and appearance were handled with profit. Vast quantities of summer and fall apples were evaporated, fed to cattle or rotted on the ground. It was remarkable to find, in the face of these conditions, that Canadian apples competed successfully in the Chicago and St. Louis markets, with the American-grown product, handicapped, though they are with a 30 per cent. (ad valorem duty). The superior flavor and keeping qualities of the Northern-grown apple were becoming more fully recognized each succeeding season. Michigan fruit growers are feeling that in Ontario they have a dangerous competitor, and are asking for an increase in the tariff. There is little doubt that there will always be a market for our high-class apples in the large cities of the central and Southern States. Michigan peach growers are progressing rapidly in the science of producing fine fruit at the lowest possible cost. It was stated that during the height of the season 185 trains assisted each day in carrying fruit to and from Chicago. A considerable quantity of Michigan peaches found their way to the Toronto markets, in spite of a duty of 40 cents per bushel. In the return struggle for possession of the markets in the world, the fittest will survive. It behooves Canada, then, to ascertain what fruits reach their highest state of perfection within her borders, and where within these borders they may be produced with the greatest advantage, and having learned these lessons to gather up all her energy and ability, and use it for a fixed and definite purpose. An illustrated address given by Mr. Craig upon the fruit resources of Canada, together with two papers upon technical subjects, were well received by the audience.

Feeding experiments with steers will be commenced at the Experimental Farm this week. A very successful series of experiments at feeding hogs has just been concluded. Prof. Saunders is recording the results of the crops grown at the farm during the past summer.

Letters patent of incorporation have been granted to the Northern Elevator Co., increasing their capital stock from $250,000 to $500,000. The Beatty Gold Dredging and Mining Co., to do business on the Fraser River, is also incorporated, with a capitalization of $50,000; the Boston Rubber Co., with $200 000 capital stock; the Croil and McCullough Dairy Co., with $150,000 capital stock; the Thomas Mfg. Co., to take over the Lozier Co. Bicycle works at Toronto, and carry on business, with $500,000 capital stock.

The Methodist Trust Fire Insurance Company will apply next session for the power to carry on the business of fire insurance in all its branches. The Commercial Travelers Association will also seek increased powers. The Niagara Grand Island Bridge Company will seek an extension of time for the commencement and completion of their undertaking. The River St. Clair Railway, Bridge and Tunnel Company also desire an extension of time for carrying out their work, and the Canada Southern Railway Company wants the same for the completion of their unconstructed lines and branches.

Not long ago it was announced that Lieut.-Col. John Gray, Inspector of Military Stores at Toronto, would be transferred to Ottawa. Instead of this, however, the present Minister has just lopped off the Colonel's head on the ground that the office was a sinecure, and Mr. Borden does not propose to fill it.

The Masonic fraternity of Ottawa have just received messages of sympathy from all parts of Canada at their recent loss by fire. Among those sending sympathetic greetings are Wm. Gibson, M.P., Grand Master; E. T. Malone, D.G.M., and Rehoboam Lodge, No. 65.

Major Bliss, Assistant Adjutant-General, is hard at work on the new militia list, and hopes to have it out promptly on time.

Major Borthwick has decided that at the council meeting to-morrow night he will recommend that an inquiry be made before the proper tribunal as to the manner in which the recent fire was handled; whether there is need of more appliances, and if so, what kind would be the most servicable.

Mr. Laurier, at the invitation of J. R. Booth, took a trip over the Parry Sound Railway yesterday. Others on board were Sir Henri Joly, W. C. Edwards, M.P., A. W. Fleck, secretary-treasurer and E. J. Chamberlain, general manager of the line.

Whidden Graham, a Maritime Province newspaper man, who is representing Harry Furniss, the well-known artist of Punch, left for Toronto to-night after a pleasant stay in the city.

The Citizens' Brewing and Distilling Co. of Maisonneuve, Que., are applying for Dominion incorporation with a capitalization of $300,000. Hon. Alphonse Desjardins and Mr. R. Prefontaine, M.P., are among the promoters.

GOOD NEWS FROM REGINA.

General Wilkinson Arrives at Rat Portage Bringing Two Gold Bricks, the Result of Two Weeks' Run.

Rat Portage, Ont., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—General Wilkinson, managing director of the Regina Gold Mining Company, Whitefish Bay, Lake of the Woods, arrived in town from the mine this evening. A rich strike was made on his mine on Thursday in the third level. The assay showed a value of $92 to the ton, and the indications are that the vein will widen and assay even higher as the work of development progresses. The main shaft has reached a depth of 207 feet, and the vein has widened to six feet. The new cyanide plant for the treatment of concentrates has just been brought into operation, and the work of developing the Regina is being pushed. The General brought with him two gold bricks, the result of two weeks' work. The whole efforts of the management of the Regina are being given to development, and the output in gold is merely the result of crushing the quarts taken out in the course of development.

TWO TRAMPS ARRESTED.

They are Supposed to be Cockney Sam and New York Slim, Wanted Down East for Burglary.

Kingston, Ont., Dec. 6.—Capt. John Cornelius, aged 66 years, died last night. He was formerly for a long time resident here, and lately ran a schooner on the lake, doing trade between bay ports.

On Friday last, two tramps, giving the names of Samuel Clarke and Joseph Ellis, were arrested for the larceny of an overcoat and a pair of gloves from a house on Bagot-street. They were remanded by Police Magistrate Duff on Saturday morning for a week for sentence. The prisoners closely correspond in every respect to two men wanted in Nova Scotia for burglary and postoffice robbery, and one of whom is known as Samuel Clarke, alias "Cockney Sam," his chum being known as "New York Slim." Chief Horsey received a request on Nov. 20 last from Thomas Skeffington, Chief of the Nova Scotia Bureau of Police, and T. Wasson, detective of Toronto, asking that a lookout for the men be kept. Chief Horsey has written to Chief Skeffington for fuller details.

CANCER OF THE LIVER.

That is the Malady From Which Archbishop Fabre Suffers and He Cannot Live Long.

Montreal, Dec. 6.—(Special.)—After hoping against hope, the Archbishop's physicians have given up all idea of being able to restore Mgr. Fabre to health. Yesterday His Grace received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church, and amongst those who witnessed the ceremony was Madame Fabre, aged 87, who is only 16 years older than her son, the dying Archbishop. The fatal disease is cancer of the liver.

HE SHOT ANNIE SIMS

And Then Turned the Revolver Upon Himself.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY AT MONTREAL

Young Howell Had Become Mentally Weak and the Girl's Parents Had the Engagement Broken Off—The Girl's Wound is Very Serious, but She May Recover.

Montreal, Dec. 6.—(Special.)—John Howell shot Annie Sims this morning at her home, and then emptied his 38-calibre revolver into his own brain, dropping dead instantly. Three or four years ago Howell, who is about 27 years of age, became engaged to Miss Sims, aged 23, daughter of James Sims, postoffice clerk, and living at 234 St. Martin-street, or about three doors from the residence of her lover's father. Two years ago the young man contracted malarial fever in New Mexico, and his mind has been so considerably weakened since that the young lady's family strongly objected to her marriage under the circumstances. Howell, who was a moulder by trade, had been for some months in New Haven, Conn., and it appears that Miss Sims wrote him a letter not long ago telling him that he must consider the engagement broken off, as she had decided that she could not become his wife. Howell did not reply, but this morning he arrived in Montreal by the Boston train, and proceeded to his father's house. He sent word to the Sims household that he wanted to see Annie. She, however, refused to obey the summons, and at 9 o'clock, as the members of the family were about to go down to breakfast, the discarded lover entered, and while the family went downstairs the young couple entered the parlor and began conversing together. All at once three shots were fired in quick succession, and, going up to the room, Howell was found lifeless on the floor, and Miss Sims in what was supposed to be a dying condition. The desperate man had fired two shots at the lady and then killed himself instantly by firing into his brain. When taken to the General Hospital, it was found that, although one of the bullets had passed in near the eye, and the other lodged in her head, Miss Sims was still alive. She remained unconscious all day, although the medical attendants say there is a slim chance for her recovery.

It is believed that Howell came to Montreal on purpose to kill Miss Sims. She was a lady much esteemed and an active Sunday School worker in the First Baptist Church.

THE NEWS IN TORONTO.

Mr. P. H. Sims of Jarvis-Street Hears of the Terrible Tragedy.

Toronto, Dec. 7.

Mr. P. H. Sims of 340 Jarvis-street, an uncle of the wounded girl, Annie Sims, last evening received the following telegraph message from another relative:

"Montreal, Dec. 6.

"Howell, after few minutes interview with Annie this morning, shot her; then himself. Annie very critical. Howell dead.

"(Signed) W. B. Gilmour."

When seen at his Jarvis-street boarding house by The World last evening, Mr. Sims was very much worried over the affair. He had recently visited the afflicted home at 234 St. Martin-street, Montreal, where his niece lived with her father, Mr. C. Sims, who has for 30 years been an official in the postoffice there.

Howell, who killed himself after shooting the girl, was an old Montreal boy, and for some time past had been working as a machinist at Syracuse, N.Y.

Mr. Sims is unable to name a motive for Howell's deed. Howell and Miss Sims had been keeping company for four or five years, and their marriage had been several times postponed.

When Mr. Sims was in Montreal the other day his niece asked his advice about breaking off the engagement, and it is probable that she later did so, and thereby drove Howell to his desperate dede. Mr. Sims asserts that there was no other man in the case.

BLAZE AT CAYUGA.

The Farrell House and Stables Destroyed Early Yesterday Morning—Other Damage Done.

Cayuga, Ont., Dec. 6.—The Farrel House Hotel and stables, belonging to Mr. Robert McLean, were burned to the ground at 3 o'clock this morning. There was a strong west wind blowing at the time and for a short time all of the town east of the hotel was in imminent danger, but the fire was confined to the hotel. The windows in the hardware store of Mr. M. McConnell were badly broken, but the building was kept wet by a stream from the engine. The fire originated in the stable, where a veterinary surgeon was attending a sick horse. He had gone to get some hay for the horse, and when he returned the place where a lantern had stood was in a mass of flames and beyond his control. The fire spread so rapidly that very little of the furniture was removed, and some of the occupants lost most of their clothes. The property was insured in the Gore Mutual Company for $1200. About three weeks ago the hotel caught fire from a stovepipe upstairs, but was soon extinguished.

FREIGHT THROUGH CANADA.

That Treasury Commission on Customs Matters Has Concluded Its Labors—Mr. Comstock in Montreal.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The special commission to adjust customs differences recently held in New York has returned to New York. Mr. Comstock, a member of the commission, has gone to Montreal, Can., to pursue the same line of investigation conducted in New York. On his return the commission will make a report incorporating their recommendations, which will be submitted to Secretary Carlisle for such action as he deems proper to take.

The commission has perfected arrangements with the Michigan Central, New York Central and West Shore Railroads, by which they will furnish the weight of packages, and package contents, and final destination thereof, of all merchandise passing over their line through Canada from one port in the United States to another. This arrangement has been sought to be made for some time and its accomplishment now will result in giving the Treasury valuable statistics as to the volume of this class of business.

Gave Him a Gold Watch.

London, Ont., Dec. 5.—Mr. James Gilmour, member of the House of Commons for East Middlesex, and the representative of North Dorchester in the Middlesex County Council, was very pleasantly surprised by his fellow-members this morning. Mr. Gilmour has decided, much to the regret of his constituents (who have 13 times chosen him Reeve by acclamation), not to consent to re-election. He was presented with an address and a handsome gold watch.

A Sore

two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE logical way to criticise free trade says the New York Post, "is to ask, has England prospered under it? If she has, the failure of other nations to adopt it simply tends to prove that other nations are foolish. As an argument it resembles the failure of a number of drunkards to imitate a man who had taken the pledge. "You see," they say, "Nobody but you has done it. What do you think of your temperance now?"

THE Hamilton Herald says: "This same inconsistency,' which is charged against Mr. Tarte is his best claim to honour. It is a sign of progress and development. To charge him with inconsistency because he now has larger and more patriotic views than he had two years ago, is very much like charging a youth with inconsistency because he takes no more interest in the toys which amused him two years ago, and like saying that a caterpillar is inconsistent when it bursts its chrysalis leaves in old life, and emerges into a freer life as a butterfly."

THE great Northwest was more than neglected by the late government, while the older portions of Canada have received the most attention. Now the Northwest needs attention and the new government is prepared to give it. A vigorous policy in the direction of facilitating proper settlement and providing population is to be pursued. All the reports of Mr. Tarte's utterances during his Northwest tour, and since his return from it, concur in representing the Minister of Public Works as optimistic, even to jubilation, over the magnificent country and its resources. While it is necessary to be on guard against wastefulness in expenditure —and Mr. Tarte and his colleagues will be so—it is a good sign the Brantford Expositor thinks, to see a minister of energy and penetration thoroughly impressed with the magnitude of the country's resources. There is hope of making something of the Northwest in the fact that most of the members of the Cabinet are personally familiar with that part of Canada. Sir Richard Cartwright has long been so. Mr. Laurier saw it a year ago. Mr. Tarte has just returned from it. Mr. Blair and Mr. Davies are there now. No doubt they will concur in the view that by some means or other more people must be settled there.

A FARMER IN TROUBLE.

A Grenville County Man Speaks his Mind—Feels Like a New Man—Cured by Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert McIntosh, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said:

"During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realizing great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

FLEETWOOD.

Annual Meeting of the Cheese Factory.

The annual meeting of the patrons of Fleetwood cheese factory was held on Friday, Nov. 28th. The president, Mr. W. Hanna, was in the chair. Mr. Hanna read the report of the season's business done by him, which was highly satisfactory. Mr. Hanna said he had no trouble to sell the Fleetwood cheese as it was always No. 1, and spoke highly of Mr. Wood, proprietor of the factory. He also urged the patrons to be careful not to feed rape or turnips, and to send the milk to the factory as pure as possible. A statement of the business was given in last issue.

Others have found health, vigor and vitality in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it surely has power to help you also. Why not try it?

LIEUT.-COL. GRAY, INSPECTOR OF MILITIA STORES, DISMISSED

An Office With Nothing to do—The Way the Money Went Under the Late Government.

Ottawa, Dec. 4—(Special)—Lieut.-Col. John Gray, Inspector of stores for the Militia Department, has been dismissed. He was some years ago transferred to Montreal, where he had, it was said at the time, nothing to do, as the stores had been removed out of his district. Be this as it may, he pined for his native shire of West Work and his pretty suburban village of Parkdale. The Hon. J. C. Patterson therefore appointed him inspector of stores and located him at Toronto, where he had certainly nothing to do—literally nothing. He was in fact a fine example of the "spoils" system in operation for the last eighteen years, and which is now held up as something the Liberals are trying to introduce. Well, the answer to all this is that Col. Gray, erstwhile President of the West York Conservative Association and a stalwart worker in the party campaigns, is dismissed from a sinecure, the "spoils" of $1,500 a year kept from him, and put in the public treasury, and the position will not be filled, even if there are the number of applicants for office conjured up by the funny men of the opposition press. Col. Gray had a salary of $1,200 a year and a "lodging allowance" of one dollar a day. The "lodging allowance" sounds quite military, but was really a device to cover up the full size of the salary.

EIGHTEEN THOUSAND WORDS.

President Cleveland's Final Message to Congress Will be a Very Bulky Affair.

Washington, Dec. 5.—President Cleveland completed the preparation of his message to Congress to-day. He had a consultation with Secretary Olney in the morning in relation to the treatment of foreign relations. This portion of the message is always left open till the last, inasmuch as the Secretary of State is the only Cabinet officer who has not the right of making a report directly to Congress, and at the final moment there is always liable to be a change in the attitude of our relations with other governments which may necessitate a change in the text of the message. The present message is understood to make nearly 18,000 words.

BEHRING SEA CLAIMS.

Dan H. Dickinson and Mr. Peters Have Another Spirited Discussion in the Court at Victoria.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 6.—In the Behring Sea Claims Commission yesterday morning Daniel Warner, shipwright, testified that the Carolina was worth $3800 or $4000. On cross-examination by Mr. Dickinson as to vessels being brought around the Horn in 1886, Mr. Peters raised the objection that the matter was new and the witness had already said he could not fix dates. Mr. Dickinson said the objection was highly technical, and a somewhat animated debate followed between senior counsel for the respective Governments. Finally, Judge Putnam said they had not thought well to stand to strict rules, and Judge King said the same, but added that counsel must keep the case within the limits of the pleadings.

The next witness was Capt. Sabiston, who said that in 1884 as good a vessel as the Carolina could not be built for less than $6000. John Clark, a well-known sealing man, also gave evidence as to the price of the building of schooners in 1891 and 1892, and the Commission adjourned until Monday.

THREE BARNARDO BOYS

Who Had a Very Interesting Time Trying to Sneak Across Into Uncle Sam's Territory.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Three young tramps, hailing from Dr. Barnardo's Home, and placed in the care of a farmer near Belleville, have been battling against the world and the officers of the law about Niagara Falls for the past two days. Yesterday they succeeded in getting across the border, and spent the day looking for work. Failing into the hands of the police about dusk, they were locked up for the night. This morning the Immigrant Inspector sent them back to Canada, but the boys seemed determined to stay in the United States. After an unsuccessful attempt at sneaking across the Suspension Bridge, they descended the cliff at the sewer tunnel works, and climbed up on the foundations of the Cantilever Bridge to the bottom cover, and proceeded to crawl along a narrow plank fastened to the frame work of the bridge. When about half way across, directly over the rushing waters of the Whirlpool Rapids, 210 feet below, the trio lost their nerve, and after a hurried but determined consultation retreated to the Canadian side. As they reached the top of the cliff the officers took them in charge.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

Congress Will be Asked for an Appropriation for Battleships and Torpedo Boats and to Arm Lake Tugs.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Secretary Herbert in his annual report asks Congress at the coming session to authorize three light-draft battleships and 12 torpedo boats. He recommends that these ships be planned for an extreme deep load draught or not more than 23 feet and suggests that considerations of strategy uupon our Atlantic and gulf coasts render this an essential to the success of naval campaigns.

Attention is again called to the necessity for some legislation by Congress which will enable the department to make use in case of an emergency of the tugs, yachts and vessels engaged in the fishing fleets and coast-wise and lake trade, and to call into the service of the navy the sailors and officers necessary to command and fit such ships in case of threatened or actual war. He recommends an additional appropriation for the purpose of supplying guns and ammunition with which to arm vessels to be called into service from our merchant marine.

A MESSAGE TO MEN.

Proving that True Honesty and True Philantrophy Still Exist.

If any man, who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge, the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-being to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble, Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c. silver to cover postage and address, Mr. Geo. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10½ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

Call and examine the new importation at CHARLES LeGROS, 329 GEORGE STREET, and do not buy a lower grade (being seconds and thirds) of them which have been put on the market by our smaller dealers which they purchased from Montreal jobbers.

THE BRITISH RIDERS

Made a Rather Poor Showing in New York City.

WEINIG BEAT THEM IN THE MILE

Champion Said, Starting From Scratch, Was Third at the Finish in the Handicap—An Enormous Crowd at Madison Square Garden—Other Sporting News.

New York, Dec. 5.—About 5000 enthusiastic spectators, a large portion of whom were the fair sex, witnessed the bicycle races that were held in Madison-square Garden to-night. The meeting was the commencement of a big six days' international race which starts at five minutes after midnight to-night. Some of the foreign riders made their debut to-night, but were unsuccessful. Sam Linton of Wales and J. D. Lumsden of Scotland started in the third heat of a mile scratch professional, but failed to qualify in the first or second places. The heat was won by Jay Eaton of Elizabeth, N.J. Sam Linton hurt himself during the practice in the afternoon. The foreigners made some complaints about the banking, and spills were frequent during the evening.

The special features of the evening were a match race between Jay Eaton of Elizabeth and Teddy Goodman, beat two out of three heats, and an exhibition mile by E. C. Bald, paced by a tandem. Bald fell at the first turn, but remounted and went on a couple of laps and stopped. Later on he gave a half-mile exhibition. The summary follows:

Half-mile scratch, amateur—Final heat won by A. J. Ingham, Saratoga; W H Owen, South Brooklyn, 2; C S Henshaw, New York, 3. Time 1.10 1-5.

Mile, professional, scratch—Final heat won by A Weinig, Buffalo; C Hadfield, Newark, N.J., 2; J F Starbuck, Philadelphia, 3. Time 2.25 1-5. Murphy and Eaton fell. Murphy and Hadfield penalized 10 yards for false start.

Match race, best two out of three heats—Jay Eaton, Elizabeth, N.J., defeated T. F. Goodman, New York. Eaton won first heat by 10 lengths in 2.27 2-5, and the second by five lengths in 2.29 4-5.

Half-mile handicap, professional—Final heat won by Major Taylor, South Brooklyn (35 yards); A C Meixwell, Philadelphia (30 yards), 2; E C Bald, Buffalo (scr.), 3. Time 1.08 1-5. In the second heat, Sam Linton (50 yards) fell. J D Lumsden, Scotland (20 yards), started in third heat, but was unplaced.

Mile handicap, amateur—Final heat won by Schwenslener; E C Lease, South Brooklyn (30 yards), 2; W C Roome, Newark, N.J. (scr.), 3. Time 2.22 2-5.

THE SIX DAYS' RACE.

New York, Dec. 7.—The six-day bicycle race at Madison-square Garden was started shortly after midnight in the presence of a big crowd of spectators. Starter A. A. Zimmerman got the riders under control, as follows: Albert Schock, New York; Frank Waller, Germany; Tom Linton, Wales; William Lumsden, Scotland; C Chapple, England; Jules Dubois, France; Teddy Hale, Ireland; Peter Golden and H H Maddox, America; A A Hansen, Denmark; George Cartwright, England; E J Flynn, America; Fred Forster, Germany; E C Moore, Albert Hosmer, George Van Emburgh, D M Macleod, J W Conklin and Ned Reading, America; Ed Von Stock, Germany; Burns W Pierce, Canada; S L Cassidy, Taylor and J S Rice, America; J Wilson, England; J R Gannon, E C Smith, C W Ashinger and A C Meixell, America; W A Elkes, England; J A Glick, America.

THE HOCKEY LEAGUE.

A Large and Enthusiastic Meeting in Toronto on Saturday.

Toronto, Dec. 7.

The Ontario Hockey Association held their annual meeting in the Queen's Hotel on Saturday afternoon. President C. A. B. Brown was in the chair, and there were present delegates from the following cities: Sarnia, Perboro, Norwood, St. Mary's, Stratford, Berlin, Galt, Petrolia, Ayr, Victoria Colts, Toronto, Victoria, Port Hope, Brampton, Varsity, Osgoode Hall, T.A.C., Listowel, London, Guelph, Frontenac, Junior Crystal, Kingston, Junior Victorias (Hamilton), Wellingtons, Trinity, U.C.C. and Lindsay.

On motion of J. A. McFadden of Stratford it was decided to form an intermediate series. It was also resolved that each team should be permitted to state which series they desired to enter, but the Executive Committee is given power to rule as to which series they shall enter.

The winners of the junior series are henceforth to be entitled to play in the following year in the intermediate series, and the winners of the intermediate series will be likewise given the option of competing in the senior.

It was decided to award a permanent trophy, to cost not more than $30, to the winners of each series every year.

Delegate Fitzgibbon of Varsity moved, seconded by Delegate Barr, also of Varsity, that the rule regarding the decision in games which are tied at the end of the allotted time shall be changed to read as follows: "That if at the end of time the game is a draw, the ends shall be changed, and it shall be continued for 10 minutes, 5 minutes' play each way, with an intervening rest of 5 minutes, and if neither side then scores, the referee shall order similar periods of 10 minutes to be played until one club shall have scored a majority of points."

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $236.

The officers for the ensuing year were then elected. Following is the list: James A. McFadden, Stratford, president; G. J. Hoskins, Peterboro, and Mr. Martin, Toronto, vice-presidents; A. H. Beaton, Queen's, secretary; A. Creelman, Toronto, treasurer; R. G. Fitzgibbon, D. F. Campbell, J. B. Noble, T. L. Morison, H. C. Beecher, E. P. Brown, executive.

A fitting testimonial will be presented the retiring president, Mr. C. A. B. Brown, and $75 will be given Secretary Tiffin for his services to the Association.

SHARKEY AND THE CHEQUE.

San Francisco, Dec. 6.—Bob Fitzsimmons had a bout yesterday in Justice Groesinger's court with a collector holding a judgment against the Australian for $950 in favor of Jimmy Carroll. Sharkey's manager, Dan Lynch, was summoned as a witness, but when he appeared he was immediately placed on the stand in his own defence, an old debtor having garnisheed the $10,000 purse for a claim against Lynch of $1400. Nothing was done in the Fitzsimmons case, but Mr. Lynch was cross-examined until he had tied himself up very neatly. He first declared that he had no interest in the purse. Then he stated that, in obedience to a request by Sharkey, he had placed the $10,000 cheque in the hands of a gentleman from Montana for safe-keeping.

The court quickly adjourned to Sharkey's sick chamber, where the sailor's deposition was taken. Sharkey declared under oath that Lynch still held the cheque, and that he (Sharkey) knew nobody from Montana.

Up to the hour of adjournment no trace of the much-wanted document could be found. Sharkey is improving rapidly, and will be on the street within three days. Julian claims to be accumulating evidence of crooked work, and promises to uncover a rascally job to throw down the Australian and his backers.

Incidentally, it is suspected that Fitzsimmons wagered a considerable sum that Sharkey would last six rounds, and, judging from the fight he put up, this seems quite problematical. All the sports agree that the sailor was practically a goner in the first round, and that Fitz had to be careful in order to avoid knocking him out in the fifth.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

Union Pacific and B. & O. Were the Only Securities That Held Their Ground on Saturday.

New York, Dec. 5.—The Evening Post's financial article says: It was the bond market in which the only business worthy of notice was done to-day. This has been true throughout the week, the real buying not extending much beyond the better class of bonds and the high-priced dividend-paying shares. The Reading bonds led in to-day's moderate activity. On the stock market there were no developments of interest, except the usual sales by board room speculators, as soon as the further increase in the bank reserve was known. Most of the active stocks closed with net declines. The two exceptions were Union Pacific, which moved up, as it does annually, when a Government report says a good word for the funding bill, and Baltimore & Ohio, which recovered all its loss yesterday. Since there was no reason why the stock should decline, Mr. Little's expert statement of yesterday, the upward reaction was inevitable. The week's statements of foreign trade are once more interesting. Imports of merchandise trade are against this port for the first time in the present season, but the change is almost wholly due to slackening export movement. Importations do not at present exceed the record of the last weeks of October, but exports are at least $1,000,000 less than recent averages. In the main, this decrease is attributable to the slower movement of grain from our farms to the distributing centres, and thence to the foreign markets. The reason for this check to grain deliveries is known to everybody. It may prove to be somewhat temporary if the price of wheat advances suddenly. Meantime, however, this phase of the international trade situation plays its part in the sterling market.

The bank statement was pretty much what had been expected. The net week's increase in the cash holdings was $5,905,700. About $3,000,000 of this sum came from interior remittances and sub-Treasury disbursements; the balance doubtless represents situation re deposits such as have influenced the returns throughout this month. Outstanding loans are again expanded heavily in the face of the slack demand for regular accommodations; the net increase this week is $8,631,300, against $8,856,200 increase last Saturday and $9,533,400 for the week ending Nov. 21. The continuance of this movement of expansion is again connected with the sterling rate and the course of London discounts. A net decrease in specie holdings of the banks, for the first time since the closing week of August, when the gold imports began, was a noticeable feature of to-day's returns. Last week's statements showed the specie holdings of the New York banks to have increased net since Aug. 29 no less than $29,816,000. But the actual gross gain was, of course, very much larger; at least 50 per cent. of the amount just named was paid by the banks into the sub-treasury for legal tenders deliverable at interior points. This week's decrease in specie had a similar cause, but the interesting fact is the large percentage of assay office cheques turned over by the banks, which means that the American gold product is now moving into the Treasury.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN KILLED.

Winner Murdered His Wife While Nelson Killed Her Babies.

Richmond, Mo., Dec. 5.—Six weeks ago this little place was startled by the discovery of the dead bodies of Mrs. Jessie Winner and her two little children in their cabin on the outskirts of the town. Suspicion attached to the husband as the murderer and he was arrested. To-day Maggie Catron, a woman with whom he was intimate, made this confession:

"On the night of the murder Winner, Con Lackey and Jim Nelson took a buggy belonging to Mr. Hubbell and drove to the Winner home. Lackey held the horse while Winner killed his wife and Nelson killed the children."

The feeling is very strong against Winner and he may be lynched.

Germany's Protest Received.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The formal protest of the German Government against the proclamation of the President, re-imposing the tonnage tax on German vessels in American ports, has been received at the Department of State. The President's reply to the protest, and his re-assertion of the grounds on which the United States' action has been taken will probably be laid before Congress in the message on Monday next.

Lost 62 Cattle.

London, Dec. 5.—The British steamer Lake Ontario, Captain Campbell, at Liverpool from Montreal, lost 62 head of cattle during the voyage.

AT TWO HOSPITALS.

Five Years in the Toils—Nothing But Dodd's Kidney Pills Could Touch the Spot.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

DISEASE AMONG CATTLE.

German Consuls are Making Inquiries Which Appear Rather Ominous.

Indianapolis, Dec. 4.—C. P. Sollier, German Consul at Cincinnati, has written the Governor of Indiana, asking what rules the state has for quarantine against the spread of disease among cattle. Many such communications come from German Consuls in different parts of the United States, all bearing indirectly upon the purity of American meat. Dr. Hurty, Secretary of the State Board of Health, is of the opinion that the facts are being gathered by the Government for the purpose of excluding American meats from that country, and he would not be surprised to hear of such action being taken any day. The frequency of these inquiries from the German Consuls of late seems to point towards a thorough investigation of the sanitary condition of American live stock.

Quebec Sawmill Burnt.

Drummondville, Que., Dec. 4.—The Drummond Lumber Company's sawmill at Forestdale, Que., was burned down this morning at 4 o'clock. The fire originated in the oil room. Loss, about $30,000, mostly covered by insurance.

As an emergency medicine, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral takes the lead of all other remedies. For the relief and cure of croup, whooping-cough, sore throat, and the dangerous pulmonary troubles to which the young are so liable, it is invaluable, being prompt to act, sure to cure.

For Dyspepsia and Bad Blood Humors Manley's Celery-Nerve Compound is unexcelled.

Mr. Geo. Reid, G.T.R. Operator, New Hamburg, Ont., under date of March 3rd, 1896, writes as follows: "I was troubled for two years with Boils and Dyspepsia of the worst kind. Tried several medicines, but none gave much relief. Until I tried Manley's Celery-Nerve Compound my blood was in a dreadful state, but I am happy to say your medicine cured me."

Trent Valley Canal.

Last week there were about 200 men and teams in proportion employed on the Corry-Laverdure section of the Trent Valley Canal. This week there will not be so many employed as the weather is not favourable to excavate. The earth can be taken out well enough, but is impossible with the earth frozen in lumps to make a good embankment. There is considerable activity on rock work excavation on the Nassau end. The rock is of varying depths and works out to nothing at about 1700 feet south of Nassau.

PUT OUT IN THE WORLD.

The Sad Story Which a Little English Lad Tells.

The Children's Aid Society put a young English boy in the Protestant Home on Saturday until full inquiries can be made respecting the story he tells of being driven out into the highway by the farmer with whom he was placed by the Barnardo Home in Toronto.

He says that without any cause, so far as he knows, the farmer told him he did not want him any longer and told him to go.

The society has written to Toronto and is sending an officer into the township to make full inquiries. The boy says that he went to a neighbours' and that they were kind to him and placed him in charge of a man who was coming into town. He is badly in need of clothes, and seems to be an honest sort of lad.

Frank Yeigh's Picture Travel Talk.

A most attractive programme was offered to a very large audience last evening in Association Hall by Mr. Frank Yeigh, who delivered a new picture travel talk on the British Empire, (such as he will give in the George street Methodist church on Dec. 11th), illustrated with a large number of really beautiful stereopticon views, and a series of suggestive and humourous cartoons depicting John Bull in Egypt, Africa and South America. The story of Westminster Abbey, with organ accompaniment to the views and description, was most effective, as was the orchestral accompaniment to the series of scenes telling of Nelson and the Victory. The Canadian views won hearty applause. The fact that yesterday was the anniversary of Queenston Heights was appropriately referred to, and "The Maple Leaf" was sung with hearty enthusiasm by Mr. Britton and the audience as the new Canadian flag was shown. An eloquent ending was made in connection with views of the citadels of Quebec and Halifax. The subject was an excellent one for rich pictorial illustration. Starting with the Queen and her Royal homes, the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey and Tower of London, the lecturer then included Balmoral, Edinboro and Holyrood Castles, and some striking Irish scenes. These, with the Nelson series, completed the first part of the programme so far as it related to the British Isles. Next came Britain's Keys of the Empire in Gibraltar, Malta and Cyprus, the English occupation of Egypt, with several pictures depicting the recent march to Dongola, and a particularly fine series of Indian, Australian and South African illustrations. St. Helena suggested a graphic outline of Napoleon's rise and fall, with views of the ballroom in Brussels, the Lion Mound and the death of the Emperor. The Venezuelan question was touched upon, the West Indies visited, and as has been said, Canada was included as an ending to what proved to be an exceptionally entertaining, instructive and attractive travel talk, the best, we think, Mr. Yeigh has yet done on this line, and one which won for him frequent outbursts of appreciative applause.—The Globe.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The time has arrived when the ratepayers are confronted with the duty of selecting their representatives to serve them for the coming year in the town council, and upon the wisdom of their choice depends the good government of the town or the reverse. The probability is that there will be no dearth of candidates.

The present representatives of No. 1 ward will, it is understood, again appeal to the people and the decision of other possible candidates has not yet been made.

In No. 2 Ward the three present councillors will again be candidates, and there is a possibility of others entering the field.

In No. 3 Ward it is stated that the three representatives with possibly one exception will enter the lists. New candidates in the persons of Messrs. G. M. Roger, A. Dawson and J. H. Cobb, all old councillors, are mentioned.

The candidates in No. 4 Ward will, very probably, consist of the present representatives, with the addition, it is said, of Mr W. H. Meldrum, Mr. Frank Mason and others.

In regard to the mayoralty, Mr. Yelland, who has given a year of good service to the town, as mayor, has again announced himself as a candidate, and he naturally feels that in this election he should receive the benefit of the practice that has prevailed for some years of allowing a mayor, at least a second unopposed term after a contest, and therefore he is seeking re-election for 1897. Mr. Yelland has been diligent and attentive in the discharge of the various duties of his office and has endeavoured, to the best of his ability to promote the interests of the town.

Mr. Councillor Moore's friends are, it is said, pressing his claims to the mayoralty candidature. At the same time this is being done in disregard of the unwritten law that has obtained in our municipal contests, that a mayor is entitled to a second term without opposition. Whether they consider themselves bound by such a condition is for the ratepayers to decide. It is stated that a requisition in favour of Mr. Moore is being circulated.

An active committee has the matter in hand, and an intellectual treat is promised.

The ladies' library in connection with the Association has been fitted up during the past week, and now presents a neat and cosy appearance. This library, it is understood, is for lady members only, and every lady joining the Association is entitled to the use of this room.

The directors of the Association have very kindly given the Sisters of St. Joseph the use of the rooms for their Christmas entertainment on Dec. 22nd and 23rd.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—I wish to make an explanation in contradiction of the rumour that the lack of smoothness in the singing of "With Verdure Clad," by Miss Chambers, in the concert on Thursday night last, was due to a mistake of mine. The fact is the singer omitted several lines and as I strictly followed the score, trouble naturally ensued. I would not have troubled you with this explanation had not an attempt been made to place the responsibility upon me by interested parties.

Yours truly,
AGNES (MRS. T.) DUNN.

CHURCH CHIMES.

St. Paul's choir sang "Christ, Our Passover," with full chorus, most harmoniously at last evening's service.

Miss Lulu McAllister, of Pembroke, sister of Mr. C. B. McAllister, town, contributed a solo at the evening service in St. Paul's church, last night. She chose Goetze's "O Happy Day," and her clear, firm notes could be heard distinctly in every portion of the large edifice. Miss McAllister's voice has great possibilities, its range and smoothness being most pleasing to note.

The services in the George street Methodist church on Sunday night were unusually impressive. The spacious edifice was filled throughout. Mr. Young's sermon, founded on James iv, 14, "For what is your life? It is even a vapour," was very ingenious in its construction, and though all might not agree in every particular with his exposition of the figure of the vapour, none could deny the beauty and pathos of many of his passages. All who know anything about preaching are aware of the great difficulty of dealing satisfactorily with allegorical subjects. Mr. Young was determined to make it go on the lines of thought he had adopted, and to say that he succeeded would be equivalent to paying him a high compliment. Taking it all in all it would undoubted be regarded as one of his best efforts. The choir was very large and the rendering of the solo, "Consider the Lilies how they Grow," by Mrs. W. W. Daly, could hardly fail to touch and delight all present. Her articulation was perfect, the naturalness and simplicity of her style truly refreshing, on the middle and lower notes it would be difficult to conceive of anything purer and sweeter. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Daly may have other opportunities of appearing in the same capacity.

THE OBJECT OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

THEY WERE WRITTEN FOR OUR SPIRITUAL LEARNING.

A Strong Sermon by the New Pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church—He Creates a Most Favourable Impression.

Rev. A. T. Dykeman, the new pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, preached to very large congregations at both the morning and evening services yesterday. Mr. Dykeman is a clear and lucid reasoner, and his illustrations are apt and to the point. Fluency and great earnestness also characterize his delivery and those in attendance at the Murray street church were greatly pleased with the impression which they received of the new pastor, yesterday.

In the evening he spoke from the text Romans xv, and 4th verse: "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope."

This the speaker thought was a beautiful text, being as full as possible of the MEAT OF THE SCRIPTURES.

The Bible was undoubtedly the book of the ages. It treated these wonderfully profound subjects in such a masterly manner, yet in such a simple way as to be understood by all. Compare it with the writings of man and mark the disparity, said he. Take the deeper works. For instance those on such subjects as transcendentalism. The common mind cannot understand the language used. Man cannot handle a difficult subject without using such technical terms as make his writings incomprehensible to the layman. Yet the word of God is so plainly written as to stamp it with the seal of Divinity and it bears the mark from Genesis to Revelations.

This grand old book has stood the test of time and the test of criticism all down through the centuries, and is even now subject to the latter. It has stood the test of human expression in all climes and the opposition of the world, the flesh and the devil in their multifarious forms and stands to-day as the book most read in the world, and of which more are sold than any other volume, its wonderful strength having successfully withstood all the attacks of man and the devil.

IN THIS WORLD

of change and advancement not a single fundamental doctrine of this old book has been altered. It stands like an impregnable rock in the ocean, that raises its proud head in defiance of the waves and says to them "Thus far shalt thou come and no further." Criticism has knocked the moss of superstition off it, but the rock of God's birth, death and resurrection is there yet.

The Bible was not written to tell everything about everything, or something about everything, or everything about something. It would be too cumbersome.

My subject, therefore, to-night, said the speaker, is to explain the object of the Scriptures: to tell why this wonderful book was given us. We are told in the text that it was written for our learning and so we see that our Heavenly Father is interested in our spiritual learning as our earthly parents are in our education in material subjects.

The scholars of the day ask why the Bible does not settle all the difficult problems in science, which are puzzling the world to-day, but it was not written for that purpose, although in the 38th chapter of Job, is to be found the first of which there is any record. Then we are also told of the "Sun of Righteousness, and the "bright and morning star" of Jesus Christ, which shines when all the others have disappeared in the darkness.

It was not written to teach us mathematics, although we are told to number our days, and in it have a lesson in profit and loss in the words "What profit is man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

It is not a work on materia medica, but in it we are taught to diagnose that most fell of diseases—sin, and we are told of the healing properties of the balm of Gilead.

It was not written as a work of history, but through it we hear of the Rose of Sharon and the Lily of the Valley.

It was not written as a work on biology, yet it tells us more of the true origin of life than all the biologists of the day.

So much for the negative side of the question.

The learning which the book was written to impart is of a purely spiritual nature—a knowledge of the life which is to come.

Man comes into the world ignorant of this life and of the world to come. The Bible comes in to answer the question: "Is life all of this world?" It tells of the power that can elevate the intellect of man and purify his mind so that he can come to know God and trust Him. It gives information of such a character as to transform the life of man, dead in sin; and teaches him to become a new man and lead a new life.

The particular object of learning in the Scriptures, as specified in the text, is Hope.

What is Hope?

It is a compound emotion composed of desire and expectation. Desire without expectation cannot be called hope anymore than can expectation without desire be characterized as such. Both

The hope of a child of God is made up of a strong desire to reach heaven and, associated with it, is a corresponding strong expectation of spending eternity there. This hope must be based on the strong rock of the atonement. The certainty of this hope comes through a

KNOWLEDGE OF THE SCRIPTURES.

The heathen does not possess this hope but the Christian's hope is an anchor of the soul because it is founded on the one impregnable rock.

A good strong hope of heaven is the grand desiderstum of a good man's life. Apart from the word of God there is no means of the soul of man knowing whether its desire will be realized or not except through the inferential theory, the theory which leads us to reason that if the grass and trees can die and come to life again in the spring, that man, the noblest creation of God, would not be stricken down and have no hereafter.

Hope is the word that steadies us in the hour of tribulation. It is the precious pearl in sorrow's cup. Let your hope rest on the shoulders of the living word and then, bye and bye, when your earthly tabernacle is destroyed you will have a home eternal in the heavens.

The Busy Store.

Some merchants would have the public believe that the big sale at Rowley's was only a "fake" sale, and that they can sell just as cheap. I might just say here that I have always paid a hundred cents on the dollar during my twenty years of business, and that my goods have been bought, and are now being sold at less prices than others can buy them. Yet it will last only a few weeks longer, as I am positively retiring from the retail business, and would like all who owe me accounts to call and settle before January 1st, 1897. C. B. ROWLEY.

High up again are piled the Bargain Tables of Underwear at Grafton & Co's.

A MEMORABLE MONTH AT R. H. KELLS & CO'S.

We have planned to make the last month of 1896 a memorable one. A woman's greatest mission in this world is to help baby. Teaching baby to eat, and to walk and to talk. A rightly constituted woman finds in these her happiest employment. Too many women miss this happiness because of their own ignorance or neglect. No woman should be ignorant of her own physical make-up. No woman has the right to neglect the health of those delicate organs of her body upon which depends the life and health and happiness of her children. The Mosaic command to "increase and multiply" was no idle, thoughtless edict. It was the command of Jehovah. The woman who annuls it by neglect of her womanly health commits a crime.

The best medicine for women is Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes a woman capable of performing her duty to herself, her husband, her children and mankind. It acts directly upon the organs distinctly feminine and makes them strong and vigorous. It does away with the discomforts of the period preceding motherhood. It makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It cures all weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism.

In a family of parents and children there is much care, many worries, numerous perplexities. But, if sickness comes, everything else is small beside it. How valuable then is a doctor in the same block, or an experienced neighbor next door. How much more comfortable for all concerned is a standard medical book on the table or the bookshelf. It is less expensive than the doctor, probably more reliable than the experienced neighbor. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the best thing of this sort ever published. It contains 1,008 pages of plain talk, and careful illustrations. Many of the pictures are colored and true to nature. Nearly 100 pages are devoted to the diseases of women. There are prescriptions for their cure at home. Send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of customs and mailing only, and get this book FREE in strong manilla cover. Send 10 stamps and get it in substantial, cloth binding. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE SAINT CAME.

"If you please, sir"—

"Eh? What now?"

The crusty old gentleman turned suddenly and sharply and glared from beneath his shaggy eyebrows at the little figure beside him. The figure was that of a girl 8 years old perhaps, but small and frail. She wore an enormous sunbonnet that might have been made for the wife of the giant Blunderbore, so out of proportion was it to the diminutive wearer, and out of its depths peered a thin little face, with big, frightened brown eyes. Her clothing was so clean and neat that one scarcely noticed how very poor it was, and as she stared up into the terrible face above her one of the little feet wriggled uneasily in the depths of the costly rug.

"If you please, sir, mother said to tell you that she couldn't come up to-day because she's sick."

The childish treble was a little shaken this time, for the shaggy eyebrows were very close to her, and they gave the old gentleman a look that was terrible beyond belief.

He was in a dreadful temper, this crusty old gentleman, and nothing made him angrier than for poor people to get into his house. He hated the sight of poverty, and all his servants had special orders to guard the doors and the gates and to see that no moan of want or woe ever reached his ears. And yet, after all, this little beggar had slipped past the bolts and bars into his very study, where his own servants scarcely dared to enter.

I don't know what dreadful thing might have happened if it had not been for that one little word "mother" in the child's fluttering speech. Children so seldom speak the mord nowadays that it gave a little shock of surprise. Instantly he found himself looking beyond the child, at an old, long-forgotten scene—a little cabin, with a white country road winding past it and an awkward boy going down the road, stopping at the last curve to wave his hand to his mother, who stood in the door watching him go out into the world.

Then he remembered himself, and asked sharply:

"And who is your mother, pray, and why should she come here?"

Please sir, said the quavering little voice, "mother's the dust woman."

"The what!" ejaculated the old gentleman, with another dreadful frown.

"She comes up once a week and dusts the bric-a-brac," explained the child. "The housekeeper hired her. She says she doesn't feel equal to it herself, and mother does it so nicely."

"Aha!" muttered the old gentleman with an angry gleam in the eyes under those fearful brows. "So Mrs. Murray brings outsiders into the house when my back is turned, does she? They're all alike, a pack of cheats and robbers! I'll teach her to violate my confidence and fill my house with irresponsible people! You may stay in this room till Mrs. Murray comes. Do you hear? And then I shall have a message to send to your mother."

"IF YOU PLEASE, SIR."

He rang the bell violently and ordered that Mrs. Murray be sent to him as soon as she returned. Having made this satisfactory arrangement, he took up his paper again and ignored the little figure in the sunbonnet.

But before he had read a dozen lines there was a light touch on his arm, and the brown eyes were looking up into his.

"Please, sir, may I look out of the window while we're waiting?"

He was so astonished that he could not reply for a moment, but he did finally give a scornful grunt of assent.

There was silence in the room for a long time. Not a clock ticked, for old Mr. Roberts could not endure the ticking of clocks. Not a leaf stirred, not a cricket chirped. The stillness disturbed him at last, and he looked up. The child was out on the little balcony, leaning on the stone balustrade. Her bonnet had fallen off, and the sunlight falling on the mass of brown hair, wove it full of gleams of gold.

Another touch on his arm—there she was again. Her hand—such a little morsel of a hand—trembled with some new emotion, and her eyes shone with a strange light.

"It must be nice to live on a hill!" was what she said.

The old gentleman in the arm chair had never been more astounded in his life. He stared at her and forgot to say anything.

"I have always wanted to live on a hill," she went on. "Our house is away down yonder, and you can't see anything but the houses across the street. But up here you can look so far, and the sky's so close to you. Don't you think people can be better when they live on a hill?"

The newspaper fell to the floor unheeded, and the crusty old gentleman and the little girl looked at one another. After awhile the old gentleman went to the balcony and looked down on the roofs of the crowded houses in the narrow streets below and then away to the far horizon. This beautiful home of his crowned the summit of this purple hill, and was uplifted so far above the noise and dust and wretchedness of the city that lay below. Truly it was a pleasant thing to live on a hill. He had never thought of it before, but all at once he fancied himself down among those miserable tenements, looking up at this beautiful home and thinking how near to heaven it reached.

There was a hurried tap at the door, and Mrs. Murray presented herself. Her comfortable figure was attired still in the neat dress that she had worn in the street. Her round face was wreathed with smiles, but she was obviously fluttered and quaking with fear.

"Did you leave word that you wanted to see me, sir?" she asked, and then waited for the blow to fall.

"Mrs. Murray," said the old gentleman in his stiffest and most formal manner, "am I to understand that you have employed a woman to come here once a week and dust the bric-a-brac?"

"Yes, sir. Mrs. Holmes her name is, and she's very careful, sir: I couldn't do better myself."

She glanced up anxiously at the wooden countenance before her. What terrible thing was he going to say next?

"Mrs. Murray, the woman has sent this child to say that she is too ill to come. That will do. You will excuse her until she recovers."

Mrs. Murray went back to her own room and fell into a chair. If it had been consistent with the dignity of Mr. Roberts' housekeeper to stagger, she certainly would have staggered. She kept repeating to herself, "Did you ever?" and "I can't believe it." She said afterwards that you might have knocked her down with a straw, though that was figurative, of course.

This was the beginning of Majorie's visits to the great house on the hill. Her mother did not come again, but every day the big sunbonnet went tolling up, and then the glint of the golden hair would be seen in the great room where no child had ever strayed before. Not that she was boisterous or laughing, or childlike in any way. She would sit in Mrs. Murray's room for hours, with her hands folded on her lap, watching the lady at her work and sometimes talking softly, or she would follow her from room to room, gazing wth rapt delght at every beautiful object.

Mr. Roberts knew that she was in the house, but he said nothing. He was conscious sometimes that the child stopped near him and stood with her hands behind her, regarding him with grave scrutiny, but he did not drive her away, as he might have been expected to do a few weeks before.

He was in his study one morning when he heard Mrs. Murray come into the adjoining room. The door was ajar, and, softly as she spoke, her words came to him distinctly:

"That was a present from my son last Christmas," she said. "Dear boy! He never fails to send me something every Christmas and every birthday."

Then came a small voice, full of wistful meaning:

"Mrs. Murray," it said, "do you like Christmas?"

"Why, Marjorie!" was the shocked reply. "Why, of course I do! Everybody likes Christmas!"

"I don't," said the small voice—such a desolate little voice it seemed. "I had rather leave Christmas out of the year."

"Marjorie!" No words could express the horror and amazement in Mrs. Murray's tone.

"I would!" The small voice had grown thinner and higher in its painful intensity. "What's the use of a Christmas that never gets to some people at all? There was little lame Peter Franks who lived in the room opposite to our, and oh, he wanted a Christmas so much, Mrs. Murray, so much, his stocking up every year, every single year, and he always thought there'd be something in it next morning, but there never was anything—not a single—and now poor Peter's dead, and he never had a Christmas in all his life!"

"My dear! My dear!"

The old gentleman in the study heard the exclamation, and he knew that the voice that uttered it was full of tears. He rose hastily and slipped out of the study, and then ordered his carriage and went driving.

The day following was Christmas eve. Carriers from town were busy all day bringing in the presents that he had bought for the servants, and there was great happiness in the servants' hall, with much confusion and many awkward attempts to thank the master, who waved off every such attempt with an air of lofty patronage. Outside of this family of servants he had never given anyone a present in all his life. He had never contributed to charities, public or private. He had never helped the poor—indeed he had never listened to their appeals.

He had important business in another city which would keep him away all through Christmas week, he explained

Mr. Fetherstonhaugh Says He Was Not Disfigured by the Civil Servant Who Assaulted Him.

Toronto, Dec. 5.

Mr. Frederick P. Fetherstonhaugh, who was reported in yesterday's World to have received a black eye in an encounter with Mr. H. H. Bailey, a patent examiner, at Ottawa, desires to explain the circumstances. He says that in the first place he was not at all disfigured by the blow which he received on the cheek. The blow, he claims, was quite unexpected, and his assailant followed it up by attempting to catch him by the throat. This the lawyer resisted and was forced to ward off repeated blows from the aggressor. He says the report is correct in that it intimates that Mr. Fetherstonhaugh gave no provocation for the assault, and the case is now before the Minister, where it will be thoroughly investigated. Mr.

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

to Mrs. Murray, and he must leave that evening. In the afternoon he muffled himself in greatcoat and furs and drove away, and as soon as the carriage was half way down the hill the servants relaxed from their usual stiff propriety and began to enjoy themselves in their own way.

A telegram was handed to Mr. Roberts at the station, as he was about to buy his ticket. What little things sometimes change the whole course of a life! The information thus received made the trip unneccessary, and after loitering about the city for awhile he returned home on foot and entered his house quietly by a side door.

Sounds of boisterous merriment came from the servants' quarters, and the owner of the house frowned ominously. So this was the way they took advantage of his absence?

He made his way to his study, unseen by anyone, and shut himself in—a lonely, selfish, desolate old man. Even the fire, which still burned in the grate, annoyed him, and he withdrew behind a screen and threw himself into an easy chair. He heard Mrs. Murray come in after a while, but she only moved about softly and decorously, setting things in order, and he did not speak. She was just passing into the sitting room when she gave a little cry of alarm, followed by the exclamation:

"Mercy, me, child! How you frightened me!"

"Mrs. Murray," said a thin little voice—a voice that Mr. Roberts had heard before—"I've come up here to stay all night!"

The listener behind the screen heard Mrs. Murray fall into a chair and again she cried, "Mercy me!"

"I just had to come!" the eager voice went on. "Mother's very, very sick—and she needs things, Mrs. Murray—and maybe Santa Claus might bring 'em if he knew—and how is he to know when he never comes there But I knew if I went to some fine house he'd come and find me, and so I came here."

"Poor child! Poor child!"

Mrs. Murray had gathered the little waif to her bosom and was rocking her softly to and fro. The old gentleman behind the screen could see that by the shadow on the floor. He could see, too, that the housekeeper was furtively wiping her eyes.

Presently she rallied and said cheerfully:

"I'll tel lyou what we'll do, Marjorie, I'll go right down and see your mother, and you shall go with me, and, who knows, maybe Santa Claus will come there, after all."

"Oh, no, he won't!" replied the child with sorrowful conviction. "You don't know that place! Santa Claus has never heard of it! He goes to rich people's houses, and so I've come here, and I must see him to-night—oh, I must, Mrs. Murray! I don't care for any other Christmas after this, but I must see him to-night, on mother's account, you know."

There was a dismayed silence on Mrs. Murray's part, but presently she said:

"Well, come along into Mr. Roberts' study—thank goodness he's away from home—and sit here before the fire till I come back. I'll take John and go down and see your mother."

In another minute the sound of her retreating footsteps had died away, and the old gentleman, peeping from behind the screen, saw a little figure sitting before the fire, gazing intently into the glowing coals.

Dusk was settling down over the city. He had not been conscious of it until the electric burner above his table flashed into sudden radiance. The flash startled the child, and he heard her moving softly about. What was she doing? Preparing to steal something probably. These children from the tenement districts were all thieves.

But, no! When he ventured to look again, she was at the study table—his table—writing. She had his sacred pen, which no other mortal had ever dared to touch, and she was writing slowly and laboriously. Could presumption go farther than that? What would these people be trying to do next?

It took her a long time to write the letter, but at last it was finished, and she laid the pen down with a weary sigh. Then she unrolled a little burden that had been lying beside her eyes?—a stocking, a poor, forlorn, ragged little stocking! Now, what could she want with that?

She stood on tiptoe and peered around the corners of the mantel for a place to hang it. Finally something struck her fancy as suitable, and she began pushing a heavy chair toward the mantel. When it was near enough, she climbed upon it and hung the stocking upon the "brave caduceus" of the bronze Mercury that he had bought last year in Rome and for which he had paid such a price!

Presently she had jumped down and was surveying the stocking with the greatest pride. Then the note was carefully folded, and she pinned the folded paper to the toe so conspicuously that the winged Mercury seemed to stand there for no other purpose than to hold up a ragged stocking for all the world to see.

And then—why, then she was lying down upon the rug with her thin cheek on her thin little hand, and the listener heard a tired sigh.

After a long while the old gentleman behind the screen ventured to move slightly. After a little longer he moved again and so gradually came out of his hiding place.

Was that old Mr. Roberts tiptoeing across the room to keep from startling the poor little waif sleeping on his hearth rug? Was that the sordid old man whom even his friends had come to call a mere money machine, that an whose hands trebled as he unpinned the little note and spread it out before him?

"Dear Santa Clause.—When you come to-night pleas look at me. I'll lie down on the rug. Yeuve never sen me before. You needent give me anything, but pleas fill the stocking with things for mother shes sick. I tied up the toe so they wouldent drop out. The docter says wine and things and housrent.

"MARJORIE HOLMES."

For a long time the old man sat in the chair before the fire. Something within him was breaking the cold and selfish crust that years had helped to form. He sat there looking from the sleeping child to the forlorn little stocking and from the stocking to the child. It was the first time a stocking had ever been hung up in his house—the first time!

Suddenly the old gentleman rose. He lifted the child gently and laid her on a couch which had always been sacred to his own use and covered her with rugs. Then he went softly out and astonished the unsuspecting servants by appearing among them and ordering the carriage.

Could this be old Theodore Roberts, the money machine, the selfish, brusque, irritable old man, this man who went from store to store, ordering and buying and spending money as he had never spent it before? Could this be the Mr. Roberts that Mrs. Murray knew, this man who went into that sickroom, followed by a great hamper filled with "wine and things and house rent?" Was this the man that all the charitable organizations shunned, this man who drove about half the night, leaving behind him a trail of Christmas rejoicing, mingled with such blessings as he had never heard before?

And who was it that drove up the hill at last under the silent stars, with a carriage full of bundles and with a strange, soft feeling tugging at his heartstrings? He smiled as he went, and yet he had to keep wiping his eyes. He was glad it was dark, so that no one could see.

And what strange figure was this in the study afterward, this figure that moved so steadily and that was so busy stuffing the stocking until it was ready to burst, and pinning things all over the outside of it until the bronze Mercury seemed almost to stagger under his burden? What had come over the old gentleman whom so many people envied and whom nobody loved?

Just before day Mrs. Murray, coming softly in, found him sitting by the fire, watching the sleeping child.

"It'll be a sad time for her," she said. "Her mother's gone, and whatever's to become of the little thing, I don't know."

"I don't see why the child shouldn't stay here, Mrs. Murray," said the old gentleman, with his face turned the other way. "It would be some extra trouble for you, but I dare say you would not mind it."

"S-sir!" Mrs. Murray managed to articulate.

Then the old gentleman turned around, and she saw what was shining on his cheek.

"Do you see that stocking, Mrs. Murray?" he cried, in a voice that she had never heard before. "That's the first stocking that was ever hung up in my house. It looks homelike, doesn't it? I have decided that we'll have stockings hung up every year. And here's a child that needs a home, and, thank heaven, I've a home to give her."

The child sighed and stirred and then suddenly sat up.

"Did he come?" she cried eagerly, with a dazed look at the bursting stocking, and, the old gentleman beside her gathered her up in his arms.

"Yes, my little one, he came!"—Philadelphia Times.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., prostrated by nervous headaches A victim of the trouble for several years.

South American Nervine effected a complete cure.

In their own particular field few men are beter known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell, is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headache, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell? The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system, as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

HOCKEY.

The Ontario Hockey Association went on a ramage at the annual meeting held at Toronto on Saturday afternoon and eradicated some troublesome things which had been like thorns in the flesh of the O. H. A. The Bank Leaguers of Toronto were dealt a deadly blow, from the effects of which they will be a longer time recovering that did Sharkey after Fitz. had "thrown that whizzing left into him." Mr. MacFadden, of Stratford, was the chief conspirator, and so cunningly warded was the motion which did the mischief that there was not a dissenting voice raised when an expression of opinion was asked for. The motion, which defined exactly what a recognised hockey association is, effectually debars any players who are members of Bank League teams from competing with any other, and as there are numbers of skilled puck chasers in Toronto association who lend their services to the Victorias and T. A. C., this will weaken both clubs and will in all probability force the former out of the business. The formation of an intermediate series was a happy move, and will undoubtedly be bountiful in good results, as there have been in the past seasons many clubs in the senior series which were altogether too weak to compete with the "upper ten," just as there were teams in junior division which outclassed the others. These were the salient points of Saturday's meeting, which was as enthusiastic a one as ever gathered in the Queen's.

When President C. A. B. Brown intimated to the swarm of well-dressed young men who were standing in knots of three and four around the room talking and laughing that a start had to be made some time, and that that particular moment had arrived.

The Peterborough delegates were Messrs. Walter Phelan and W. A. Buchanan. Dr. Clarry Piper looked after Norwood's interests and Charlie Bradburn was up for Port Hope.

President Brown thought that the association was to be congratulated on the rapid progress it had made since its formation. No other sporting organization in the country of a similar kind could boast of a larger bank account. As an evidence of the advancement of the association he pointed out that the membership had been increased by one-third more than it was at last meeting. He suggested that the surplus amount of $40 be expended in buying suitable souvenirs for the members of the clubs winning the championship, which was acted upon by the meeting later. He eulogized the various committees that had assisted him during his two years' term of office, and then announced his retirement. Secretary Alexis Martin then presented the sub-committee's report as follows:—"The season of 1894-5 was marked by one or two incidents that had not occurred in other years in the playing off of the championship ties in the senior series. One of these was that a Toronto team was not represented in the finals, and the other that a club west of Toronto namely Stratford, competed against Queen's for the O.H.A. Cup, which is good evidence that in the western part of the Province, if not in Toronto, the class of hockey is improving. Eleven clubs had team entered in the senior series, and sixteen in the junior last year. Queen's won the senior finals from Stratford in Mutual street rink on Feb. 26th by 12 to 3. The junior championship was played at the Granite rink between the Granites and Peterborough, and was won by the former by 7 to 3."

Treasurer Creelman's report was eminently satisfactory, showing a balance of $236.07. The receipts from all sources amounted to $330.47, and the disbursements totalled $114.40.

J. A. Macfadden spoke to his motion, which was shelved at the last meeting, regarding the formation of an intermediate series. His main argument was that there were clubs in the senior and junior series which were either too weak or too strong for the teams opposed to them, and on that account an additional series was an absolute necessity. A. F. R. Martin supported his contention. In his opinion there were a great many clubs of unknown ability in the two series, and it was desirable an intermediate division be formed. As to which series the clubs should play in, he thought advisable that is should be left to the discretion of the Executive Committee to decide. H. G. Wills, of the Victoria Colts, disagreed with the speaker. There was not the same necessity for a triple division in the O. H. A. as in the Football Union, as weight and age does not play so important a part. A committee would not be in a position to judge of the merits of the teams, and the clubs, for that reason, if the suggestion was adopted, should decide which series they would enter.

"An intermediate series is what we want," declared G. E. Goldie, of Ayr, "as there are clubs in the senior class that have no chance in the world of winning." He was followed by G. J. Horkins of Peterborough, who asserted that if an intermediate series was not formed, Peterborough, with its plethora of hockey material would have a hard row to hoe to keep up the enthusiasm among the younger players who would be frozen out of the game entirely. They would enter three teams and make a fight in every division. It was then moved by J. A. McFadden, seconded by A. F. Martin, "That an intermediate series be established by this Association; that each team in affiliation with the Association be notified of the intention to establish the series, and that they be requested to state which series they desire to play in, but it be understood that the Executive Committee have power to place the teams in whatever series they may deem to be in the best interests of the Association, and the clubs in affiliation with it; it being understood that the winners of the junior series shall be entitled to compete the following year in the intermediate, and the winners of the intermediate series shall be entitled to play in the senior series." The motion was discussed clause by clause, and after much additional talk, was passed without alteration. It was suggested that an age limit be adopted, but this did not meet with much favour.

It was pointed out by J. A. McFadden that it was imperative that a definition should be made of what shall constitute a recognised hockey association, and this motion was submitted and carried. "A recognised hockey association is defined to be an association or league that meets and elects officers and draws up a schedule for the playing of games in that association or league." It was added as clause L in the rules.

An amendment was made to the rules of the game, which should find favor in the eyes of all hockeyists. The suggestion emanated from R. G. Fitzgibbon, of Varsity, and this winter it will be necessary for a club to score a majority of goals in ten minute halves, five minutes each way, if at the expiration of full time the game is a draw. The referee will have power to order additional periods to be played if no result is arrived at in that time. Before the election of officers, A. F. R. Martin was entrusted with the task of securing the incorporation of the association. These officers were elected: President, J. A. Macfadden, Stratford; Vice-Presidents, A. F. R. Martin, Toronto, and G. J. Horkins, Peterborough, Secretary, A. H. Beaton, Toronto; Treasurer, A. R. Creelman, Toronto; Executive Committee, J. S. Noble, Petrolia, R. G. Fitzgibbons, of Varsity, — Beecher, London, E. P. Brown, of Upper Canada College, A. F. Campbell, of Trinity, and T. D. Morrison of the Wellingtons. A donation of $75 was voted Secretary F. W. Tiffin, who refused to stand for re-election, although pressed to do so, because of his approaching departure for Vancouver, B.C. He has been an earnest, hard-working official, and fully deserved the praise that was poured on him. Three cheers was enthusiastically given for ex-President C. A. B. Brown, and it was unanimously decided to present him with a testimonial as an evidence of the appreciation of the association for the great services that he has rendered it during his two years' occupation of the Presidential chair.

After the general meeting the Executive met and named ex-President C. A. B. Brown, A. H. Beaton and R. G. Fitzgibbons to compose the sub-committee. The changes in the constitution and several other matters were discussed, after which the Executive adjourned till Tuesday, December 15.

HIS LAST MESSAGE.

Mr. Cleveland's Deliverance to the 54th Congress.

AT PEACE WITH ALL THE NATIONS

The Cuban Insurgents Have Not Yet Earned the Right to Recognition as Belligerents—The President Stands to His Guns on the Tariff Question.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Congress reassembled to-day under "most favored nation" conditions, with bright sunshine, a generally bracing air, a temperature running from 40 to 55 degrees and both halls of assembly ventilated in a manner more nearly conforming to hygienic requirements than has ever before been attempted. Mr. Crisp's desk was draped in mourning.

The Senate Chamber was gay with baskets of flowers, the largest bedecking the desk of Senator Vest of Missouri. On the Republican side the display was strikingly large and handsome.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the English Ambassador, and M. Patrenotre, the French Ambassador, were the most conspicuous persons in the diplomatic gallery. The public galleries were crowded. Punctually at noon the Senate was called to order by Vice-President Stevenson, and prayer was offered by the blind chaplain, Rev. Mr. Millburn. In the House of Representatives 271 members were present.

The President's message was read, as follows:

To the Congress of the United States,—As representatives of the people in the Legislative branch of their Government, you have assembled at a time when the strength and excellence of our free institutions and the fitness of our citizens to enjoy popular rule have been again made manifest. A political contest involving momentous consequences, fraught with feverish apprehension, and creating aggressiveness so intense as to approach bitterness and passion, has been waged throughout our land, and determined by the decree of free and independent suffrage, without disturbance of our tranquility or the least sign of weakness in our national structure.

When we consider these incidents and contemplate the peaceful obedience and meek submission which have succeeded a heated clash of political opinions, we discover abundant evidence of a determination on the part of our countrymen to abide by every verdict of the popular will and to be controlled at all times by an abiding faith in the agencies established for the direction of the affairs of their Government.

IN REGARD TO CUBA.

The Insurgents Have Not Yet Earned the Right to Recognition

The insurrection in Cuba still continues with all its perplexities. It is difficult to perceive that any progress has thus far been made towards the pacification of the island, or that the situation of affairs as depicted in my last annual message has in the least improved.

If Spain still holds Havana and the seaports and all the considerable towns, the insurgents still roam at will over at least two-thirds of the inland country. If the determination of Spain to put down the insurrection seems but to strengthen with the lapse of time, and is evinced by her unhesitating devotion of largely increased military and naval forces to the task, there is much reason to believe that the insurgents have gained in point of numbers and character and resources, and are none the less inflexible to their resolve not to succumb without practically securing the great objects for which they took up arms.

If Spain has not yet re-established her authority, neither have the insurgents yet made good their title to be regarded as an independent State.

The spectacle of utter ruin of an adjoining country, by nature one of the most fertile and charming on the globe, would engage the serious attention of the Government and people of the United States in any circumstance. In point of fact, they have a concern with it which is by no means of a wholly sentimental or philanthropic character. It lies so near to us as to be hardly separated from our territory. Our actual pecuniary interests in it are second only to those of the people and Government of Spain. It is reasonably estimated that at least stop the conflict which is now consuming the resources of the island and making it worthless for whichever party may ultimately prevail. It would keep intact the possessions of Spain without touching her honor. It has been objected on the one side that Spain should not promise autonomy until her insurgent subjects lay down their arms; on the other side, that promised autonomy, however liberal, is insufficient, because without assurance of the promise being fulfilled. Facing such circumstances, to withhold the proffer of needed reforms until the parties demanding them put themselves at mercy by throwing down their arms, has the appearance of neglecting the gravest of perils and inviting suspicion as to the sincerity of the professed willingness to grant reforms. The objection on behalf of the insurgents, that promised reforms cannot be relied upon, must, of course, be considered.

Nevertheless, realizing that suspicions and precautions on the part of the weaker of two combatants are always natural and not always unjustifiable, being sincerely desirous in the interest of both, as well as on its own account, that the Cuban problem should be solved with the least possible delay, it was intimated by this from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 of American capital is invested in railroad, mining and other business enterprises on the island. The outcome of trade between the United States and Cuba, which in 1889 amounted to about $64,000,000, rose in 1893 to about $103,000,000. Besides this large pecuniary stake in the fortunes of Cuba, the United States finds itself inextricably involved in the present contest in other ways, both vexatious and costly.

The inevitable entanglements of the United States with the rebellion in Cuba, the large American property interests affected, and considerations of philanthropy and humanity in general, have led to a vehement demand in various quarters for some sort of positive intervention on the part of the United States.

It was at first proposed that belligerent rights should be accorded to the insurgents—a proposition no longer urged, because untimely, and in practical operation clearly perilous and injurious to our own interests.

It has since been and is now sometimes contended that the independence of the insurgents should be recognized. But imperfect and restricted as the Spanish government of the island may be, no other exists there. It is now also suggested that the United States should buy the island—a suggestion worthy of consideration if there were any evidence of a desire or willingness on the part of Spain to entertain such a proposition.

It is urged, finally, that all other methods failing, the existing internecine strife existing in Cuba should be terminated by our own intervention, even at the cost of a war between the United States and Spain—a war which its advocates confidently prophesy could be neither large in its proportions nor doubtful in its issue.

It would seem that if Spain should offer to Cuba general autonomy—a measure of home rule, which, while preserving the sovereignty of Spain, would satisfy all national requirements of her Spanish subjects—there should be no just reason why the pacification of the island might not be effected on this basis. Such a result would appear to be in the true interest of all concerned.

Whatever circumstances may arise, our policy and our interests would constrain us to object to the acquisition of the island or an interference with its control by any other power.

The Venezuelan boundary question ence between Great Britain and the United States, their respective Governments having agreed upon the substantial provisions of a treaty between Great Britain and Venezuela submitting the whole controversy to arbitration. The provisions of the treaty are so eminently just and fair that the assent of Venezuela thereto may confidently be anticipated.

Negotiations for a treaty of general arbitration for all differences between Great Britain and the United States are far advanced and promise to reach a successful consummation at an early date.

I desire to repeat the recommendation contained in my last annual message in favor of providing at public expense official residences for our ambassadors and ministers at foreign capitals.

We have during the last year labored faithfully and against unfavorable conditions to secure better preservation of seal life in Behring Sea. Both the United States and Great Britain have lately despatched commissioners to these waters to study the habits and condition of the seal herd and the causes of their rapid decrease. Upon the reports of these commissioners, soon to be submitted, and with the exercise of patience and good sense on the part of all interested parties, it is earnestly hoped that hearty co-operation may be secured for the protection against threatened extinction of seal life in the Northern Pacific and Behring Sea.

THE MONEY QUESTION.

A Deficit of Over $25,000,000 Reported for the Past Year.

The Secretary of the Treasury reports that during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, the receipts of the Government from all sources amounted to $409,475,408.73. During the same period its expenditures were $434,678,654.48, th

Inland Revenue Department on Adulteration.

JAMS AND JELLIES THE WORST.

On the Whole Tradespeople Have Been Fairly Honest—Maple Syrup Found to be Mixed With Glucose The Shoddy Blankets Scandal—Personal and Other Notes.

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—(Special)—The annual report of the Inland Revenue Department regarding the adulteration of food has been published and was distributed to-day. Out of 1295 samples analysed only 105, or barely 9 per cent. of the whole have been found to be adulterated. Jams and jellies were the worst adulterated of all the samples examined. Out of 155 examined, 25 were adulterated. The attention of the department was for some years directed solely to the inspection of foods and drugs.

The area of the operations was subsequently extended to take in fertilizers and articles of commerce largely used by the farmers of the country. Later paris green was an important item, inasmuch as if not pure the agriculturist in using was frequently undeceived only by the loss of a valuable crop. The results of the past year's operations demonstrated that nearly 90 per cent. complied with the requirements of the act. A similar improvement may be noted in all classes of food excepting maple syrup, which was analyzed for the first time and has found to be in many cases adulterated with glucose.

Mr. Robertson of Hamilton is in the Capital to-day to meet the Minister of Militia regarding the shoddy blankets scandal. The Minister states that he is determined to get to the bottom of the matter and Mr. Robertson, as an expert in the manufacture of such goods, will assist him.

A very fine specimen of blue sodality has just been placed in the Geological Museum after being polished. It was found in Hastings County by Mr. Barlow, and is the largest and most perfect specimens of this formation ever seen here.

Mr. Leferrier, secretary of the Hull School Board, wrote to-day to the British Consul of Brazil, making enquiry about his son and daughter-in-law, who left with the French-Canadian emigrants on the Moravia a few months ago. He has never received a letter and is very anxious as to their position.

The city bakers have decided to charge more for their bread, and to-day four-pound loaves went up one cent, making ordinary bread 11 cents and white 12 cents per loaf.

The commissioner appointed to investigate the conduct of John Crowe, Indian agent on the Saugeen Reserve, Bruce County, Ontario, has made his report to the Government. Mr. Crowe is shown by evidence to have been a very active political agent, and to have relieved the Indians from paying timber dues in return for their support in the election. It is said that Mr. Crowe will be dismissed.

Mr. Lavergne, M. P., the Premier's law partner, will shortly resign from the Commons and be appointed to the Supreme Court judgeship in the Ottawa and Pontiac district, now held by Judge Mathiot, who is to be superannuated on account of failing eyesight.

A report is current that all new appointments to the civil service are being made subject to the provisions of the Civil Service and Superannuation Amending Acts of next session. One of the Ministers, on being asked about the report to-night, while not admitting its accuracy, said there was much to commend it.

Hon. Sydney Fisher was in Cornwall to-day. He will be in Guelph to-morrow and will remain there three days.

Mr. Sifton will not reach here until about Christmas. He has been invited to a banquet in Toronto on the 15th inst., but he will be unable to accept. It is likely that it will be postponed to a later date.

Lieut.-Col. Harry Smith, Sergeant-at-Arms, is in the city.

Mr. Hugh O'Leary, Q. C., Lindsay, Ont., has been appointed the commissioner to investigate certain charges against the Indian agent on the Rama Reserve, Duncan J. McPhee. In the meantime Mr. McPhee has been suspended by the Acting Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs.

Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State, will address a meeting in Cornwall and Stormont at St. Andrew's this evening and at Northfield to-morrow.

Messrs. Choquette, Poulliot and Carroll, M. P.'s, arrived in the city to-day.

Hon. Mr. Foster leaves for New Brunswick to-morrow to attend the funeral of his brother, who died at Moncton yesterday.

BROWN HAD A TIME.

Stole a Horse and Got it Killed, But Escaped Himself and Took to the Woods—He Was Caught.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Dec. 7.—William Brown, an escaped prisoner from Toronto, Ont., came here this afternoon and stole a horse and buggy belonging to Dr. Scott. He drove the rig on to a bridge at Gill Creek, where a trolley car struck it, killing the horse and making kindling wood out of the wagon. The convict was unhurt and he took to the woods after an exciting run for two hours, in which Chief Dinan, Sergt. Maloney and several policemen took part. The thief was arrested by Officer Batts. He is now in a cell at Police Headquarters.

THE TERMS AGREEABLE.

Venezuela Accepts the Treaty of Arbitration and the Trouble is Over.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Venezuela has accepted the arbitration as agreed upon by Secretary Olney and Sir Julian Pauncefote. Secretary Olney has received a telegram from Minister Andrade at Caracas, stating that the memorandum between Great Britain and the United States for the settlement of the boundary question is accepted by the Venezuelan Government; that the memorandum will be published at Caracas this afternoon, and that an extra session of the Venezuelan Congress will be called as soon as possible, in order that the memorandum may be carried into effect by the necessary treaty between Great Britain and Venezuela.

Sour

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

"For over 12 years I suffered from sour with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla—for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. COBOURG CUSTOMS HOUSE CHARGES.

An Alleged Deal by Which the Collector of Customs at Cobourg was Induced to Resign for a Consideration—To Make Room for one of Mr. Guillet's Friends An Investigation Ordered.

At Cobourg on Friday last an investigation into a peculiar deal in relation to the Collectorship of Custome was opened before Mr. Charles Saeger, but the full hearing was postponed. The charges to be investigated are as follows:

"On a report dated 25th Nov. 1896. from the president of the Privy Council, stating that he has been informed that C. E. Ewing is now and has been collector of customs at Cobourg since the year 1865; that David McAllister is now and has been landing waiter at Cobourg since or before the year 1862; that shortly after the general elections held in June, 1867, and before the resignation of the late government, George Guillet, member for the West Riding of Northumberland, attended upon the said Ewing, and requested him to resign his office of collector of customs; that Ewing did not desire to resign, but signed a conditional resignation, such condition being that a certain number of years should be added to his service, whereby he might be superannuated at a higher rate, and that such resignation was delivered to the said George Guillet, and by him taken or transmitted to the Government.

"The Minister further states that he is informed that on or about the 4th of July last Mr. George Guillett again attended upon Ewing and requested an absolute, unconditional resignation, which Ewing refused to give; that Ewing finally agreed to give an unconditional resignation if he were indemnified to the extent of the difference in amount of superannuation allowance at which he could then be superannuated, and what his superannuation allowance would be if he had been in the service long enough to be superannuated on a full allowance, which difference would amount to about $90 a year; that in order to indemnify Ewing a bond was prepared by a solicitor in Cobourg, made by David McAllister with two sureties, in which it was agreed that Ewing should be paid annually the sum of $90, so long as he should live; that the bond was delivered to George Guillet, M.P., for delivery by him to Ewing, and Mr. Guillet did personally hand to Ewing the bond, and received an unconditional resignation; that Guillet took the unconditional resignation to the Government of Ottawa, and submitted it there to a member of that Government.

"The Minister further states that he is informed that the matter then went before the Treasury Board and was passed upon, and an order in Council was prepared and submitted to his Excellency in Council in respect thereto; that one John Hagerman was at the time of the said resignation, and still is, preventive officer in her Majesty's customs at Cobourg, and it is alleged that it was the intention to promote the said Hagerman in the event of such resignation taking place, and other changes consequent thereon, as aforesaid."

In consequence of this, the Minister recommended that an enquiry be held into these circumstances, under chapter 14 of the revised statutes. The commission is in accordance with this recommendation. We shall in all probability have, through the investigation, another evidence of the manner in which the Government administered the "spoils" system.

IT WAS BOUGHT.

Guillet, M.P., Found to Have Assisted to Purchase a Postmastership.

That the now well known loan of $1,000 which was made to Mrs. Schwabe, daughter of Postmaster Sykes of Cobourg, by Mr. George Guillet, M.P., and Mr. Edwin Guillet, was a colourable transaction was the decision which Mr. Charles Sager, the commissioner appointed to investigate the transaction, announced on Saturday. The decision was a full and important declaration, which was very carefully and calmly delivered.

Mr. Seager, after observing that the negotiations regarding the resignation and the raising of the $1,000 were contemporaneous transactions, went very fully into the question of the loan, deciding that the circumstances attending the loan were such as to exclude the supposition that it was really a loan. Instead of that it was a pretence, designed to cover the purchase of the resignation. Mrs. Schwabe and Mr. Edwin Guillett he regarded as the two principal parties in the transaction.

Mr. George Guillet, M.P., Mr. Seager adjudged to have been aware of the transaction and to have raised the money for it. Mr. Charles Guillet, Mr. Seager looked upon as appearing as the beneficiary of an illegal action, though he came into the affair only when he endorsed the note. In his case he would report the facts to the Post Office Department, and leave them to form their own conclusions. This concluded the case.

THE HARVEY SCHOOL QUESTION

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I wish through the columns of your paper to make a true statement concerning our school question. Had the matter been allowed to drop I would not have interfered, but I see a garbled account of the affair in your paper, sent by one of the interested parties, which tends to mislead your readers, as I always think that half a truth is more misleading than a whole falsehood.

Miss Down has been our teacher during this year, and though young, has performed her duties well, and her excellent teaching and uniform kindness to all her pupils have made her a general favourite. One day one of the trustees called at the school and enquired of her if she was willing to engage to teach the school for the coming year, and intimated that they were well pleased with her. She replied that she liked the school well, and was willing to remain, but thought they might increase her salary a little. There was to be a meeting of the school board soon, and the secretary told Miss Down that he would inform her when the meeting was going to take place, and they would discuss the subject of salary. Instead of notifying her of the meeting they sent her a dismissal, without stating any reason for changing their minds. Then it came out that for private reasons—in no no way relating to the school—the trustees had engaged the services of Miss Strachan, a young lady from a distance, who was visiting her sister, who is sister-in-law to one of the trustees, and an intimate friend of the family of another. Miss Strachan was engaged at an increase of salary of $35 above that which Miss Down is receiving. Finding she would be obliged to look for another school if she wished to teach, Miss Down requested the secretary of the school board to give her a copy of the Inspector's report for September, thinking it would be a good recommendation. The Secretary sent her a copy, but not a complete one. Miss Down had seen the report when Inspector Brown was making it out, and knew that for some reason part had been withheld, so demanded a complete copy, which was at length given to her. The first copy read as follows:

October 2nd, 1896.

"To whom it may concern:

I do hereby certify that Miss Jennie Down has been our teacher in said section for the year 1896, and will continue to complete the year; and that she is faithful and diligent as a teacher, and that the Inspector (J. Coyle Brown) reported on September as follows:

Progress of pupils, fair; order in school, excellent.

J. S. CAIRNDUFF,
Sec.-Treas.

The latter copy read:

Dated 29th September, 1896:

INSPECTOR BROWN:

"Standing of pupils examined, fair. State of discipline, order and management in school, excellent."

This is a true copy of Inspector's report to trustees.

Harvey, Oct. 28th, 1896.

J. S. CAIRNDUFF,
Sec.-Treas.

One can easily see how the value of the report is lowered by the leaving out of those two very important things in any school, namely, discipline and management. The parents were greatly incensed by the whole affair, and one of them sent a petition, signed by almost everyone who had children attending school, and many who had not, to Inspector Brown, and two of the parents wrote to him as well, enquiring into the truth of some things which had been alleged concerning the Inspectore's share in the engagement of Miss Strachan. It had been said by some who were interested in Miss Down's removal that it was by his recommendation that the engagement was made, and all were well pleased at receiving a denial and an avowal that he knew nothing of the engagement until he received those letters and that his opinion of Miss Down's teaching was embodied in his report, which upon enquiry, proved to be as we have stated. Then came the removal of Mr. Gerrard from the section and the necessity for choosing another trustee. The people annoyed at betrayal of the people's trust by their trustees determined to choose if possible one who would not let private friendship or personal interest rule his actions, chose Mr. Walter Ventress and the other side wishing to get one chosen who would not interfere with their actions, chose Mr. Raglan Richmond, who lives nearly four miles by the road from the school house and who has no children attending school. Mr. Ventress, without any strennous effort, received twenty-eight votes, sixteen of which were votes from men who had children attending school from their homes and twelve who had not. Mr. Richmond received thirty-three votes, only seven of which were from those having children attending from their homes, two of which were trustees, one the secretary of the school board and two who were actuated by personal spite towards the person with whom Miss Down boarded. The remaining twenty-six ware people with no interest in the school and were driven to the school meeting, many of them a long distance, in order to swell Mr. Richmond's list. One person brought for that purpose voted for Mr. Ventress. This may be one of those demurred at by your correspondent. Mr. Richmond, after most extraordinary efforts, was elected by a majority of five and was indeed carried out by the people, but it is a small victory to be elected and carried out by uninterested people. It is something like having Canadian members of parliament elected by the ratepayers of England. The supporters of Mr. Ventress consider that they have indeed won a victory, as it shows that the people have now awakened from their lethargy and are determined to assert their rights, which, judging from the past, is much needed. The people of the neighbourhood were astonished to hear that Mr. Richmond's bugler was dead and buried as no one had heard of the funeral until they heard him blowing his own trumpet. This is a true statement obtained by careful gathering together of facts. Thanking you for the large amount of space so kindly given in your valuable paper, I am

Respectfully yours,

Pleased With Her First Experience.

A wife and mother living in St. John, N.B., says: "I shall ever pleasantly remember my first experience with Diamond Dyes. My husband had a Sunday coat that was getting to be a dingy and faded shade of brown. He needed a new one very badly, but could not afford it. After a day or two of very serious consideration I suggested that the coat might be dyed a good black, and stated that I would undertake the work. I had never dyed anything before; but having heard how easy it was to dye with the Diamond Dyes, I bought a package of Fast Diamond Dye Black for Wool and proceeded with the operation. I was quite nervous and fearful lest I would completely spoil the coat; but after following closely the directions for dyeing, I was overjoyed with my victory. I was successful beyond all expectations, and my husband was delighted. The coat was dried, pressed and finished looked like a new one from a tailoring establishment. Thanks for your magnificent dyes."

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10¼ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

excess of expenditures over receipts thus amounting to $25,203,245.70. The ordinary expenditures during the year were $4,015,852.21 less than during the preceding fiscal year.

Of the receipts mentioned, there was derived from customs the sum of $160,021,751.67, and from internal revenue $148,820,615.66. The receipts from customs show an increase of $7,863,134.22 over those from the same source for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895, and the receipts from internal revenue an increase of $3,584,530.91.

The value of our imported dutiable merchandise during the last fiscal year was $369,757,470, and the value of free goods imported $409,967,470, being an increase of $6,523,675 in the value of dutiable goods and $41,231,034 in the value of free goods over the preceding year.

Our exports of merchandise, foreign and domestic, amounted in value to $882,060,938, being an increase over the preceding year of $75,068,773. The average ad valorem duty paid on dutiable goods imported during the year was 39.94 per cent.

The total amount of gold exported during the last fiscal year was $112,403,947 and of silver $60,541,670, being an increase of $45,941,466 of gold and $13,246,334 of silver over the exportations of the preceding fiscal year. The imports of gold were $33,525,065 and of silver $28,777,186, being $2,859,695 less of gold and $8,566,007 more of silver than during the preceding year.

The total stock of metallic money in the United States at the close of the last fiscal year, which ended on June 30, 1896, was $1,228,326,035, of which $599,597,964 was in gold and $528,728,071 in silver.

Of the first day of November, 1896, the total stock of money of all kinds in the country was $2,285,310,590, and the amount in circulation, not including that of the Treasury holdings, was $1,637,055,641, being $22.63 per capita upon an estimated population of 71,502,000.

The total coinage at the mints of the United States during the fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1896, amounted to $71,183,468.52, of which $58,873,490 was in gold coins and $12,309 978.52 in standard silver dollars, subsidiary coins and minor coins.

The number of national banks organized from the time the law authorizing their creation was passed up to Oct. 31, 1896, was 5051, and of this number 3679 were at the date last mentioned in active operation, having authorized capital stock of $659,041 895.

The total outstanding circulating notes of all national banks on Oct. 31, 1896, amounted to $234,553,807, including unredeemed, but fully secured, notes of banks insolvent and in process of liquidation. The increase in national bank circulation during the year ending on that day was $21,039,420. On Oct. 6 1896, when the condition of national banks was last reported, the total resources of the 3679 active institutions was $3,263,685,313.83, which included $1,893,268,839.31 in loans and discounts and $362,165,733.35 in money of all kinds on hand. The number of existing banks organized under State laws is 5708.

POSTAL MATTERS.

Deficit Less Than Last Year—Reforms in the Service Recommended.

Our Postoffice Department is in good condition and the exhibit made of its operations during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, if allowance is made for imperfections in the laws applicable to it, is very satisfactory. The total receipts during the year were $82,499,268.40. The total expenditures were $ 0,656,096.84, inclusive of $1,5.9,858 27, which was earned by the Pacific Railroad for transportation, and credited on their debt to the Government. There was an increase of receipts over the previous year of $5,516,980.21, or 7 per cent., and an increase of expenditures of $1,836,124.02, or 4.42 per cent.

Experience and observation have demonstrated that certain improvements in the organization of the Postoffice Department must be secured before we can gain the full benefit of the immense sums expended in its administration. This involves the following reforms, which I earnestly recommended: There should be a small addition to the existing inspector service, to be employed in the supervision of the carrier force, which now numbers 13,000 men, and performs its service practically without the surveillance exercised over all other branches of the postal or public service. There should also be appointed a few inspectors who could assist the central offices.

I especially recommend such a reenacting of the appropriations by Congress for the Postoffice Department as will permit the Postmaster-General to proceed with the work of consolidating postoffices.

The President refers to the Navy and the Interior Department, the pension roll and Civil Service reform, and then takes up the tariff:

THE TARIFF LAW.

Mr. Cleveland Stands by the Existing Bill as a Revenue Producer.

I desire to recur to the statement elsewhere made concerning the Government's receipts and expenditures for the purpose of venturing upon some suggestions touching our present tariff law and its operation. This statute law took effect on Aug. 28, 1894. Whatever may be its shortcomings, as a complete measure of freer and greater exchange of commodities between us and other countries, it has furnished a wider market for our products and manufactures.

The only entire fiscal year during which this law has been in force ended on June 30, 1896. In that year our imports increased over those of the previous year more than $6,500,000, while the value of the domestic products we exported, and which found markets abroad, was nearly $70,000,000 more than during the preceding year. I believe our present tariff law, if allowed a fair opportunity, will, in the near future, yield a revenue which, with reasonably economical expenditures, will overcome all deficiencies. In the meantime no deficit that has occurred or may occur need excite or disturb us. To meet any such deficit we have in the Treasury, in addition to a gold reserve of one hundred millions, a surplus of more than one hundred and twenty-eight millions of dollars applicable to the payment of the expenses of the Government and which must, unless expended for that purpose, remain a useless hoard, or, if not extravagantly wasted, must in any event, be perverted from the purpose of its exaction from our people. The payment, therefore, of any deficiency in the revenue from this fund, is nothing more than its proper and legitimate use.

This reference to the condition and prospects of our revenues naturally suggests an allusion to the weakness and vices of our financial methods. They have been frequently pressed upon the attention of Congress in previous Executive communications, and the inevitable danger of their continued toleration pointed out. Without now repeating these details, I cannot refrain from again earnestly presenting the necessity of the prompt reform of a system opposed to every rule of sound finance, and shown by experience to be fraught with the gravest peril and perplexity. I am more convinced than ever that we can have no assured financial peace and safety until the Government currency obligations upon which gold may be demanded from the Treasury are withdrawn from circulation and cancelled.

This plan of issuing bonds for the purpose of redemption certainly appears to be the most effective and direct path to the needed reform. In default of this, however, it would be a step in the right direction if currency obligations redeemable in gold, whenever so redeemed, should be cancelled instead of being re-issued. National banks should redeem their own notes. They should be allowed to issue circulation to the par value of bonds deposited as security for its redemption and the tax on their circulation should be reduced to one-fourth of 1 per cent. In considering projects for the retirement of U. S. notes and Treasury notes issued under the law of 1890, I am of the opinion that we have placed too much stress upon the danger of contracting the currency and have calculated too little upon the gold that would be added to our circulation or invited to us by better and safer financial methods. It is not so much a contraction of our currency that should be avoided as its unequal distribution.

Another topic in which our people rightfully take a deep interest may be here briefly considered. I refer to the existence of trusts and other huge aggregations of capital, the object of which is to secure the monopoly of some particular branch of trade, industry or commerce, and to stifle wholesome competition. When these are defended it is usually on the ground that, though they increase profits, they also reduce prices, and thus may benefit the public. Such occasional results fall far short of compensating the palpable evils charged to the account of trusts and monopolies. Their tendency is to crush out individual independence and to hinder or prevent the free use of human faculties and the full development of human character. Through them the farmer, the artisan and the small trader is in danger of dislodgment from the position of being his own master.

In concluding this communication its last words shall be an appeal to Congress for the most rigid economy in the expenditure of the money it holds in trust for the people. The way to perplexing extravagance is easy, but a return to frugality is difficult. When, however, it is considered that those who bear the burdens of taxation have no guaranty of honest care serving the fidelity of the public service, the duty of all possible retrenchment is plainly manifest. When our differences are forgotten, and our contests of political opinion are no longer remembered, nothing in the retrospect of our public service will be as fortunate and comforting as the recollection of official duty well performed and the memory of a constant devotion to the interests of our confiding fellow-countrymen.

An Interesting Lecture.

The Rev. E. Hooper, M.D., of the Beverly street Baptist church, Toronto, who was for some time Superintendent of the Kingston General Hospital, purposes giving a lecture in Peterborough on Thursday evening next, Dec. 17th, at 8 o'clock, on a subject of great interest, "Popular Modern Cures. Dr. Hooper deals with all the notions of the day, embraced under titles such as faith cure, mind cure, Christian Science, etc. The lecture has been spoken of by the press in a very complimentary way.

Window Dressing.

The show windows in our stores are putting on their holiday attire. Stocks generally are being arranged with all the skill and attractiveness that can be introduced and the window dresser feels the impetus that may be given to business by his effective display of goods. He realizes that his work must go further than bringing the probable purchaser to the front of the window. He must also bring him into the store. The Peterborough Bookstore has put in two very effective windows, and the pretty arrangement of articles with their attractive surroundings harmonize and blend well together. The window dresser has aimed at putting in two profitable as well as effective display windows.

FOURTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows and Their Friends Celebrate the Occasion.

Last night the elegant and capacious rooms of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, No. 13, was well filled with ladies and gentleman assembled to assist the brethren in celebrating the fourteenth anniversary of the resuscitation of the lodge.

Mr. John Nugent occupied the chair and in a few opening remarks very cordially, on be half of Otonabee Lodge, welcomed the guests on the occasion of the celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of the resuscitation of the lodge. He was glad to say that the lodge was in a prosperous condition and that since the last anniversary the membership had been increased by between twenty-five and thirty. He then introduced an excellent programme. Misses Ethel Wrighton and Edith Hall contributed a sparkling pianoforte solo with a finish and brilliancy that greatly delighted the audience. This was followed by a well sung vocal solo by Mrs. Stapleton. Mr. J. T. Richardson gave a pathetic recitation, "Smiting the Rock," in such an excellent and realistic manner that he was obliged to respond to a recall which he did with a humourous story. Messrs. Talbot and Roper contributed a rattling guitar duet, which was rewarded with a recall. The next number was a vocal quartette by Misses Annie Belleghem and McAllister and Messrs. Miller and Skitch, entitled "Fairy Moonlight," given with excellent balance and harmony. Miss Kittie Hurley gave a pianoforte solo in an artistic and finished style.

Rev. Bro. J. G. Potter gave a brief and pleasantly playful address, punctuated, however, with weighty references to the benefits of Oddfellowship, which he declared was the noblest institution compiled by man. He closed his address by congratulating the local lodges on their numerical prosperity and justifying the wisdom of their association by virtue of its being the ideal humane society.

Miss Aggie Patterson gave a humorous recitation, "Songs in the Night," and she was so warmly recalled that she was compelled to give another selection of a similar character.

Miss Clara Belleghem gave a charming vocal solo, which was very heartily applauded.

Messrs Talbot and Roper appeared in another banjo and guitar selection so favourably that they had to repeat their performance.

A male quartette composed of Messrs. Brown, Miller, Harvey and Edgecombe sang with great spirit a breezy sea song, and with so much success that they responded to an encore call.

This concluded the musical programme, and the company repaired to the dining halls, where tables were temptingly spread with excellent refreshments. The luncheon was all the more to be commended as it was of bachelor origin, no ladies whatever contributing to its preparation. If the "new woman" insists on her encroachment upon the domain of the sterner sex, the members of Otonabee Lodge, by the success of their little banquet last night, showed that they are able to compete successfully with women in the culinary sphere, even to the prosaic department of "dish-washing."

After the refreshments had been enjoyed, the younger members of the gathering took the programme in hand, and the recreation parlours were the scene of an hour or two's delightfully informal dance, the pianoforte furnishing the only music, but under the capable hands of the Misses Hurley, it was as satisfactory as an orchestra.

The number "13" may be an unlucky one for a dinner party, but it seems to be lucky for the lodge, which seems to be prospering finely, and the brethren have every reason to be proud of the success in every way of the celebration of their fourteenth anniversary. All the numerous guests departed, carrying away with them the pleasantest recollections of the graceful and cordial hospitality of Otonabee Lodge.

Marks Bros. Co.

Packed from pit to dome was Bradburn's opera house, when the above company opened their two week's engagement last night in the sensational four act drama "The Jail Bird." With Tom Marks in the title role, his every appearance was the signal for bursts of laughter; his support was excellent. Miss May A. Bell heads a long list of specialty artists, the specialties were all encored and went with a smoothness that was pleasant to see. This is the best Vaudeville and Dramatic Company seen here in years. The performances is continuous, and we predict large audiences during the engagement. To-night the play is "Cruiskeen Lawn."

McGill College Banjo and Glee Club.

McGill University is well known as an educational institution in the matter of liberal arts, and it appears that more æsthetic art of music is not neglected. The McGill Glee and Banjo Club, though not very well known in Western Ontario, they have won laurels in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Now they propose a western tour upon which it is likely that they will receive as warm a welcome and score as great success as they have done in the former places. The banjo club is under the instruction of Mr. John H. Parker, recognized in Canada and the Eastern States as one of the best banjoists on the continent. The Glee Club is directed by Mr. Edward Brown, who was conductor of the Welsh choir, which won first prize at the World's Fair. The club numbers 30 or 35 members, among whom are Mr. F. W. J. McKibbon and Mr. Will Connal, students of the department of applied science at McGill, both well known Peterborough boys. The programmes of the club are composed of club selections, quartettes, duets and solos by both clubs, besides elocutionary numbers. We believe it is the intention of the club to make a date in Peterborough, and a warm welcome is bespoken this galaxy of collegiate troubadours. The entertainment they present is certainly unique and fetching.

The Best on the Road.

Marks Bros. musical dramatic company opened a two week's engagement in the Opera House last evening and presented the comedy drama "The Jail Bird," to a packed house. Marks Bros. have achieved a reputation for producing crisp, clean and up-to-date entertainments, but last evening's presentation added fresh laurels to those already won. It is without doubt the best company that has visited Peterborough this year, and in last night's play an opportunity was presented for each member of the troupe to distinguish himself or herself. The inimitable Tom Marks, as Indigo McWherrill, "the jail bird," kept the house in roars of laughter until the curtain fell. Mr. James Field was very fatherly in his part, which is saying a good deal, and Chas. McKinley and Alex. Marks, as his step-son and son, gave an exceedingly faithful presentation of these parts. But Miss May Bell, as Ruth Glyndon, their mother, proved herself to be an actress of more than ordinary merit. She also took the part of Ned, the cabin boy, and her acting throughout the evening was one of the strongest features of the entertainment. She is without doubt the star of the troupe. The caste also sustained their parts well. The specialties between acts were rich and sparkling, the singing of May Bell and the other artists, as well as the clever dancing, are worth the admission price alone. The scenic effects of the play are worthy of especial notice. Marks Bros. have with them a clever company of artists, and to-night's presentation of "Cruiskeen Lawn" should place standing room at a premium.

FORMATION OF AN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION.

A LOCAL BRANCH WAS ORGANIZED YESTERDAY.

It is to be in Affiliation With the Pioneer and Historical Association of the Province of Ontario—Election of Officers.

A meeting was called yesterday afternoon in the town council chamber for the purpose of taking some action in regard to the formation of a local Historical Association.

Those present were Mayor Yelland and Messrs. Wm. Clurton, H. C. Rogers, J. M. Irwin, Hampden Burnham, T. A. Hay, Dr. Bell, W. D. Parker, John Carlon, C. Fessenden, E. B. Edwards, Mrs. Catharine Parr Traill, Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Greenwood, Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, Miss Halliday, Miss Archer, Miss Lundy, Miss Clementi, Miss Hall, Miss Spilsbury, Miss Dunlop, Miss Weller and the Misses Barlee.

Col. H. C. Rogers was voted to the chair and made a few brief remarks explanatory of the object of the meeting and the aims of the Historical Societies. Peterboroough, he thought, should boast of a good society, being on historic ground. As the history of Canada was as yet unwritten, local statistics should be prepared and memorials of the past collected. There was no part of Canada more interesting nor prolific of relics than the Trent Valley District. Already interesting discoveries had been made regarding prehistoric times at Rice Lake which would doubtless lead to many more similarly interesting facts being brought to light. He believed the serpent and egg mound of the Lake was the only one in Canada. He read from the hand book of the Pioneer and Historical Association of the Province of Ontario showing that its objects were to unite the various Pioneer and Historical Societies of the Province in one central head or organization, thereby the better to promote intercourse and union of all such societies for the better promotion of historical and other records and memorials of the Province, for the forming of new societies and such purposes, and for promoting and extending the influence and benefits thereof. Also, this Association shall publish an annual report, containing the names of all the members of each and every affiliated society, with such other matters as may be required, each such affiliating society to receive copies thereof." He believed the local society proposed affiliating with this Association.

Mr. Hampden Burnham explained that the main object of the Associations was to preserve the records of the country. The societies were binding themselves together for the preservation of the more recent records—records of events since Canada finally passed from the hands of the French into those of the English. The present histories were good but referred more particularly to political events. The ladies were taking a great interest in the way of preserving the records of old battlefields, etc. Quebec was far ahead of Ontario in such matters as these. Such gentlemen as Sir Henri Joly de Lothbiniere had succeeded in instilling their enthusiasm into the people.

The local society would have to collect the particulars and details of the early history of Peterborough. These would have to be collected from amongst the people themselves. It was necessary to aid and assist in every way possible those who had taken the initiative in the preservation of these incidents and Peterborough should not be behind in exhibiting the same public spirit which had actuated these people.

Miss Fitzgibbon and Mr. David Boyle had both written to him urging him to take some action in Peterborough in regard to forming such a society as that proposed, but up to the present he was sorry to say he had neglected to take the necessary steps. The subject was not a particularly entertaining one at the outset and it would be found necessary for all to cultivate in themselves the spirit of the antiquarian.

On motion of Messrs. Burnham and Irwin it was resolved that those present now form themselves into an historical society to be known as the Town and County of Peterborough Historical Society to be in affiliation with the Provincial and Dominion Historical Association.

Officers were then elected as follows:

Honourary President—Mrs. Catherine Parr Traill.

President—Col. H. C. Rogers.

1st Vice-President—Mrs. Dunlop.

2nd Vice-President — Mr. Hampden Burnham.

3rd Vice-President—Mr. Wm Clurton.

Secretary—Mr. T. A. Hay.

Treasurer—Miss Halliday.

Executive Committee—Mr. J. M. Irwin, Col. Bell, Miss Lundy, Mrs. Aylmer, C. Fessenden, E. B. Edwards and Mrs. Greenwood.

It was decided to leave the selection of a delegate to attend the annual meeting of the Pioneer and Historical Association of the Province of Ontario until some future date.

Before the meeting adjourned the chairman took occasion to remark upon the pleasure afforded all by the presence of Mrs. Catharine Parr Traill, the aged authoress of "Pearls and Pebbles" and other volumes of great local historical interest. Mrs. Traill gave her closest attention to the proceedings and evidenced her pleasure when chosen to fill the position of first honorary president of the Association.

Mrs. Traill is well deserving of the honour. She is the oldest living representative of the early pioneers. She was born in London on Jan. 9th, 1802, according to the biographical sketch, prefacing "Pearls and Pebbles," written by Miss Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon, a niece of Mrs. Traill. She will, therefore, if she lives till January 9th, next, have reached the advanced age of 95 years. She came to Canada in 1830, three years later than her old and faithful friend, Mrs. A. Dunlop, who came to the country in 1827. Mrs. Traill possesses her intellectual faculties unimpaired, and her physical strength remarkably, considering her years.

It is the intention of the Society to complete the honour roll, which was opened by the selection of Mrs. Traill as honorary president, by appointing honorary vice-presidents and members from among those who have been most prominent in the history of the county, as Rev. Vincent Clementi, B.A., Mr. H. T. Strickland and a few others.

SHEEP KILLED BY DOGS.

Thirteen Added to the List Yesterday—Mr. H. P. Kennedy's Flock Worried.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy's twelve dead sheep—done to death by dogs—add another dozen to the long list of valuable animals destroyed by worthless curs. He had a flock of one hundred sheep on his father's farm, River Road, Otonabee. Yesterday he shipped eighty-seven to Buffalo, reserving thirteen selected animals for the home market. On his return from the station to the farm, he found that in his absence of two or three hours dogs had destroyed twelve, one being saved by the timely arrival of Mr. Kennedy. The dog nuisance takes rank with the Turkish question in the great problems of the day. The authorities should devise some means of protecting valuable property from destruction by brutes that, ten to one, never paid a cent of taxes.

A Memorable Month

R. H. KELLS & CO'S.

We have planned to make the last month of 1896 a memorable one. Starting on WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 9th, we inaugurate an END-OF-THE-YEAR SALE that will unquestionably be the opportunity of the season to purchase High-Grade Dress Goods, Mantles, Linens, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, &c., at prices that have had no parallel in Peterborough. In all our experience we never have had so successful a year's business. While others have been constantly complaining of dull times, R. H. Kells & Co's Sales have steadily advanced month after month.

With Christmas trade under way, holiday displays ready to see, and the entire store from stem to stern ready for business beyond precedent, this sale becomes doubly attractive to present day shoppers.

50 Dress Patterns,

German and French stuffs—no two alike—imported direct for the very best trade—and bought under conditions more favourable than come often to the shrewdest buying. These and all Dress Stuffs must positively be cleared out before the New Year; even if we have to accept far below their true value.

Memorable Mantle Selling

Because we have sold more Mantles this year than ever, we can well afford to sell the balance at prices that will ensure their being quickly turned into cash.

Memorable Selling of Pure Irish Linens

Cutting 25 per cent. or one-quarter off regular prices, will surely dispose of all these beautiful goods—such as Table Covers, Doylies, Tray Covers, Shams, Five O'clocks.

EVERYTHING GOES!

We want the cash that's locked up—you need the goods. Now its PROFITS TO THE WINDS FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER! You have the broadest Kells' guarantee that there is not a yard of unworthy goods in the store.

A LONG SESSION OF THE COUNCIL.

A Tremendous Batch of Communications.

THE RENTAL ON POLES AND WIRES WILL STAND.

COUNTY COURT.

It Opened at Noon To-day Before Judge Weller.

The County Court opened at one o'clock o'clock this afternoon before Judge Weller. The Grand Jury was composed as follows:—Messrs. Geo. S. Ames, Peterborough; Edwin Brissett, Anstruther; G. K. Mr. John M. White was chosen foreman.

Judge Weller in charging the Grand Jury, said he was glad to say their duties would be light, as there would be only one criminal case on the list—that of Mark Lockington, charged with burglary. The Judge explained the meaning of the charge under which Lockington was committed for trial, and also spoke of the fact that previous juries had recommended some improvement in the way of caring for the aged.

The first case on the docket was that of Anthony vs. Grand Trunk Railway, in which Frank Anthony sues to recover $150 damages and costs against the Railway Company, alleging that 100 boxes of lemons, 5 barrels of cucumbers, 10 boxes of pears and 20 bunches of bananas, which were given them in good condition for him, arrived here in a damaged condition.

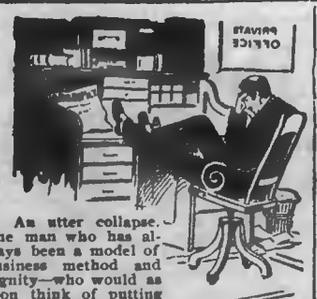
GEO. CARTON'S

A. C. CHAMBERS Manager. Table Supply House



An utter collapse. The man who has always been a model of business method and dignity—who would as soon think of putting his feet on the piano at home as on the desk at his office—finally goes to pieces all at once. Bankruptcy—with it has come an utter loss of ambition, dignity, and health. Ill-health is at the bottom of it all. Bankruptcy stares in the face every business man who neglects his health. A man cannot work on forever if he is suffering from brain fag, nervous exhaustion, and debility. All these can come to the man who neglects to keep his digestion perfect, his bowels regular and his blood pure.

Business men everywhere have come to recognize Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as an invaluable remedy. It makes the digestion perfect, invigorates the liver, restores the appetite, regulates the bowels, purifies and builds up the blood, makes the flesh and muscles firm, and tones up the nerves. It is a business man's medicine.

Thos. J. Torbert, Sr., of Old Springhill, Marengo Co., Ala., writes: "I want to tell you the good the 'Golden Medical Discovery' has done me. I had erysipelas and eczema. Had suffered for eight years. I tried all remedies and several doctors, but could get no relief. I bought a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and tried it. I used four bottles and a half. It completely cured me. I have had no symptoms of its return. It has been three years since my cure."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser has had a larger sale than any other book of this class ever offered the public. This book of 1,008 pages with 300 illustrations, is full, from cover to cover, of practical advice on health matters. This great book, in heavy manilla covers, is now offered FREE to whoever will send 21 one-cent stamps to pay for customs and mailing only. If an elegant French cloth binding is desired, send 50 stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

HARRY FOSTER KILLED.

A Brother of the Ex-Minister of Finance Fell Downstairs at a Hotel in Moncton and is Dead.

Moncton, N. B., Dec. 6.—A very sad fatality occurred here to-night, the victim being Harry Foster, brother of Hon. G. E. Foster, ex-Minister of Finance. It appears that Mr. Foster called at the Brunswick Hotel this afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock and called at the room of two friends. He remained there an hour or so and, leaving his companions, descended the stairs leading to the office. When about four steps from the bottom he slipped and fell to the floor. He was picked up by the proprietor, carried into the private office and medical aid summoned. It was found that the skull was fractured. Five hours after the accident he died in the presence of his family. It is understood that deceased had $5000 insurance on his life in favor of his wife.

TRUE LOVE WON THE DAY.

Sweethearts Separated in Europe United Again, the Girl Walking Day and Night to Reach Him—Now a Wedding.

Morristown, N.J., Dec. 7.—Frank Cuttle is an expert cyclist and a dealer in bicycles in Morristown. When he came to America three years ago he left behind him in an Italian city Rosa Girardi, a playmate of his childhood. Their separation was that of youthful lovers who covenanted to cement their affections by marriage. But before Cuttle became located in America, Rosa's parents came across the Atlantic and went to live in Bridgeport, Conn. In this way the couple lost trace of each other.

Cuttle has taken part in many of the cycle races and has achieved several victories. One of these was recorded in a New York paper a few weeks ago, and, while reading the paper one day the report of the race and her lover's victory caught the eyes of the young damsel in Bridgeport.

Rosa, who is but 16 years of age, said nothing to her parents, but gathered a few things in a little bag and came to Morristown, determined to find her lover. According to her story, the girl had considerable difficulty in getting here, being over a week en route. She walked a great deal of the way, sometimes at night, and was at times assisted by farmers.

The meeting between the lovers indicated that neither had allowed the love formed years ago to abate. Rosa explained to Frank the circumstances of her leaving home to seek him, and the young man then wrote to the girl's father, explaining the situation, and placed his sweetheart in the custody of a woman relative.

Wednesday Cuttle received a letter from Rosa's father, in which he said he entertained no ill feeling toward his daughter, and accepted Cuttle's invitation to be present with his wife at the wedding, which will take place to-morrow night in this city.

REFORMS IN TURKEY

A Conference of Ambassadors Has Been Called to Arrange Details—The Queen's Cattle Take Prizes at Smithfield Fair—Hamburg Strike Not Settled.

Constantinople, Dec. 7.—Husni Pasha, Turkish Ambassador to Russia, has telegraphed to the Porte informing the Turkish Government of the existence of a complete understanding between Russia and Great Britain in regard to the enforcement of reforms in Turkey. This information has created a sensation in the Sultan's circle. M. Nelidoff, Russian Ambassador to Turkey, who is now on his way to Constantinople from a visit to St. Petersburg, will, it is understood, call a conference of the ambassadors immediately upon his return to his post, to discuss the questions of financial and other reforms in Turkey and the opening of the Dardanelles.

THE GERMAN EDITORS.

Major Von Tausch Arrested for Perjury on the Evidence of Editor Levysohn.

Berlin, Dec. 7.—The trial of the five editors, Baron Von Luetzow and Herren Plotez, Berger, Foellmar and Leckert, for libelling Baron Marschal Von Bieberstein, Count August Von Eilenburg and Prince Alexander Von Hohenlohe, was resumed this morning. The court room was crowded with privileged persons expectant that additional sensations were imminent and in this expectation they were not disappointed. Herr Levysohn, a member of the editorial staff of The Berlin Tageblatt, was called to the stand, and testified that a certain article published in The Tageblatt casting serious reflections upon Baron Marschal Von Bieberstein had been personally inspired by Major Von Tausch, the chief of the political police. Upon the strength of this testimony the judge ordered the arrest of Tausch, who was in court, upon a charge of perjury, and he was taken into custody at once and conveyed to jail.

A motion was made by the public prosecutor that, in view of the conviction of Baron Luetzow, in which he stated that Herr Leckert supplied the material for the article against Count Botho Von Eulenberg, Leckert alleging that Baron Marschal Von Bieberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, inspired the article, Baron Von Luetzow and Herr Leckert be declared guilty and sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment each. The court retired to consider the motion.

HAMBURG STRIKE.

Contributions are Liberal—Employers Refuse to Accept Arbitration.

Hamburg, Dec. 7.—Numerous meetings of the strikers were held in this city to-day. The largest of these was a mass meeting, at which Herr Molkenbuhr, Socialist member of the Reichstag for Hamburg, announced that the subscriptions to the fund for the support of the strikers had so increased that the distribution of the fund would be enabled to raise the weekly grants to unmarried men by one mark a week and to give to married men an additional allowance according to the number of children in their families.

The employers have held another meeting, at which their refusal to submit the dispute between the striking dockmen and themselves to an arbitration tribunal was re-affirmed. This action of the employers is due to the fact that a guarantee fund amounting to $250,000 has been signed for the protection and aid of the smaller employers.

Five Years in the Toils—Nothing But Dodd's Kidney Pills Could Touch the Spot.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

Mrs. Richard Hawke of Shallow Lake Killed Herself While Mentally Unsound.

Owen Sound, Dec. 6.—(Special.)—On Wednesday evening last Mrs. Richard Hawke of Shallow Lake, 10 miles from here, wife of a shingle miller of that village, took a large dose of paris green, from the effects of which she died on Thursday. The unfortunate woman was in an unsound mental condition when she administered to herself the drug, and had been known to be so for some time back. Drs. Machell of Owen Sound and Campbell of Hepworth were called in as soon as possible after the fact was known, but were unable to do anything to save her life. She was about 45 years old, and leaves a family.

Man Found Dead.

Mount Vernon, N.Y., Dec. 5.—The dead body of a man apparently about 40 years old was found this afternoon in the room of a tenement house at 9 North Railroad-avenue. The house is occupied by Italians, and Coroner Fanning, who has taken charge of the case, says he believes it is a case of foul play. The body is badly decomposed and has evidently been lying where it was found for several days.

It Was John Haggarty.

Tecumseh, Ont., Dec. 6.—The unknown man found dead on the track one mile east of Tecumseh on Dec. 2 has been identified by his parents as John Haggarty of Detroit, his mother giving full description of his clothing and articles found upon him. Coroner Reaume made no hesitation in handing articles over to his mother as the belongings of her son.

Mason & Risch Pianos

Probably the most striking fact in connection with MASON & RISCH PIANOS is their suitability to all conditions. That they satisfy the social and aesthetic sense is evidenced by the fact that our cultured homes, from Rideau Hall down, use them. The fact that of importance in Canada is supplied with them, gives testimony to their musical excellence, and even in the homes of far off British Columbia, deep in the forest and far removed from the tuner's visit or care, they are still to be found standing hard usage like a rock, and cheering the distant home with their musical tone.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

HOW TO KEEP CHRISTMAS.

Lessons From the English Poets on the Holiday's Observance.

HRISTMAS, in its true spirit, may be sensed better than in any other fashion by turning to the English poets, old and new.

England was my England when Old Christmas brought its sports again, says Sir Walter Scott, and, instead of giving one little day to this festival, our motherland devoted 12 days to its commemoration.

So now has come the joyfulest feast;
Let every man be jolly;
Each room with ivy leaves be drest
And every post with holly.
Without the door let sorrow lie,
And if for cold it hap to die,
We'll bury it in a Christmas pie
And evermore be merry.

writes George Wither, a poet of the seventeenth century.

On every Christmas eve the bells of old Cambridge ring out this ancient carol:

God bless you, merry gentlemen;
Let nothing you dismay,
For Jesus Christ, our Saviour,
Was born this happy day.

As the song runs on, its burden is that the holy tide of Christmas must efface all evil memories and unite men in the bond of love and brotherhood.

Thackeray thus conveys the lesson of Christmas:

Come wealth or want, come good or ill,
Let young and old accept their part,
And bow before the awful will,
And bear it with an honest heart.
Who misses or who wins the prize
Go, lose or conquer as you can,
But if you fall or if you rise
Be each, pray God, a gentleman.

* * * * * *

My song save this is little worth,
I lay the weary pen aside
And wish you health, and love and mirth
As fits the solemn Christmastide,
As fits the holy Christmas birth.
Be this, good friends, our carol still—
Be peace on earth, be peace on earth,
To men of gentle will.

Charles Mackay's "Under the Holly Bough" breathes the true Christmas spirit by saying to all who have scorned or injured one another:

Let sinned against and sinning
Forget their strife's beginning
And join in friendship now.
Be links no longer broken,
Be sweet forgiveness spoken
Under the holly bough.

Tennyson sums up the teachings of scores of Christmas poets when in verses addressed to the bells he sings:

Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold,
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand,
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

Howells' Happiest Christmas.

The merriest Christmas I have ever known in my life is the first one that I can remember. The question of who experiences the greater happiness and sense of triumph, the child who has received a new and much coveted toy on Christmas morning or the military hero who has captured a great city, has often been discussed, but never satisfactorily decided.—W. D. Howells in New York World.

Fatal Result of Delay.

Sickness generally follows in the path of neglect. Don't be reckless but promptly take a few doses of Scott's Emulsion immediately following exposure to cold. It will save you many painful days and sleepless nights.

INSURGENTS ACTIVE.

Daring Horsemen Manage to Keep Weyler's Troops Busy and Terrify the People of Havana.

New York, Dec. 5.—Among the passengers on the steamship Vigilance, which arrived yesterday from Havana, was a young American who has been engaged in business in Havana for several years. Just before the steamer sailed, he says, rumors were spread about the city to the effect that the insurgents were displaying unusual activity in the provinces of Pinar Del Rio and Santa Clara. A body of daring horsemen dashed up within six miles of Havana, burned a plantation and escaped before the squadron of cavalry sent out to meet them got to the scene. Such incidents are alarmingly frequent. They produce the double effect of demoralizing the Spanish soldiery and shaking the belief of residents of the city in the ability of Weyler to keep the insurgents away from Havana. Outwardly the city is quiet, but under the surface there is much disappointment at the mismanagement of the Spaniards in both military and civil departments. A third of the inhabitants are friends of the revolution and many others sympathize with it. The rest are with the Spanish. Gomez is now investing the town of Santa Clara. He has shut off the garrison from all communication with the outside world, and unless the relief comes soon the town will surely fall into his hands. His cavalry has been particularly active in cutting off foraging parties. The hopes of the patriots in Havana have been greatly heightened by these exploits. They think it is only a question of time when Gomez will be under the walls of Havana itself. The Americans in Havana believe that if Gomez and Maceo hold out until President-Elect McKinley is inaugurated and the new Congress is in session, when American intervention is expected, they will win.

An incident occurred the other day which painfully illustrates the discredit into which American citizens have fallen. An American bookseller named Wilson had a sign out before his store which read: "The American Bookstore." In one of the outbursts of Spanish wrath following the Newcastle, Del, flag incident, a crowd collected about the store and threatened to loot it. Wilson became frightened, and changed the sign to read: "The English Bookstore." There were no more threats made.

COLLECTED $3500.

Methodists in Hamilton Whacked Up in Great Shape to Pay the Cost of Building a Church.

Hamilton, Dec. 6.—(Special.)—The new Methodist Church in Emerald-street was formally opened to-day. Rev. Dr. Williamson of Toronto conducted the morning service and at the conclusion of an impressive sermon made an appeal for special contributions to help to defray the debt incurred in building the church. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who is at present the guest of Senator Sanford, was in the church, accompanied by the latter, and these gentlemen donated $100 each. The pastor of the church, Rev. A. L. Gee, agreed to give $100, and a score of others in the large congregation gave sums varying from $100 to $25. This special collection amounted to $1,506. Services were held this afternoon and this evening, and the large gatherings at each of these responded to the call for financial assistance most liberally.

The total collections at the three services will amount to over $3500. This was all that was required to clear the cost of the new edifice.

M'KINLEY'S TRIALS.

The Office Hunter Makes a "Social Call" and an Illinois Man Talks on Reciprocity.

Canton, O., Dec. 5.—The President-elect had another active day. Congressmen were numerous and office-seekers were present to make "social calls."

Representative Albert Hopkins of the Eighth Illinois district was an early caller and had a long talk with Major McKinley. Mr. Hopkins is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee on Reciprocity, and it was on reciprocity legislation he came to talk. He found the President-elect a willing listener, and carried away the impression that Major McKinley would gladly support any legislation designed to give effect and redeem the promises of the Republican National platform on the subject of reciprocity.

Adopted.

THE STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE

through its chairman, Councillor Langford, reported

That they had asked for tenders for snow ploughing, and recommended that the committee have authority to award the contracts, and that the Mayor and clerk be authorized to execute the contracts on behalf of the town with the persons to whom they are awarded by the committee.—Adopted.

THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE

through its chairman, Councillor Mills, recommended:

1. That the Peterborough Light and Power Company be instructed to place electric lights at the following places: One at Cedar street, at the corner of Cross street; one at Barnardo Avenue, at the corner of Conger street; one on Smith street, at the corner of Harvey street; one on Dalhousie street, west of the bridge, over the creek, and one on Weller street, at the corner of Walton street.

2. A team of horses has been purchased to take the place of the team sold, in the fire hall. The price was $250, which has been paid. The horses were carefully examined and tested before being purchased.

3. That 400 feet of hose ordered to be purchased, has been delivered, and your committee recommend that a cheque for $361.30 therefor be issued to the Gutta Percha and Rubber Mfg. Co.

4. That another incandescent light be placed in the tax collector's office.

Councillors Weir and Denne moved that the report be adopted and that lights be placed in front of St. Andrew's and St. John's churches.—Carried.

Councillors Hughes and W. H. White moved in amendment that these two lights be considered by the Fire, Water and Light Committee.—Lost.

SOME BY-LAWS.

The by-law regarding the fixing of a rental for the erection of poles and wires for the transmission of electricity on the streets was introduced by Councillor Langford. The figures were those published previously.

Ex-Mayor Kendry spoke strongly against the imposition of a rental, which he considered a hindrance to the advancement of the town, as it would naturally tend to increase the cost of power to any manufacturer intending to locate in Peterborough.

After an unusually long discussion the by-law was passed.

The bylaw authorizing the execution of the contract for street lighting with the Light & Power Company then received its several readings and was passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

Councillors Sawers and Moore moved that tenders be asked for 200 cords of stone to be broken up during the winter, as usual, in order to provide work for the workingmen.

Councillors Langford and Best moved in amendment that the matter be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee, to report at the next meeting.

Councillor Langford's amendment was carried on the following division:

Nays—Sawers and Moore—2.

Yeas—Councillors Best, White, Hughes, Denne, Mills, Weir, Langford, Graham and White—9.

The usual grant was made to the reporters.

The by-law was then passed providing for the appointment of places for the nomination and election of mayor, councillors and members of the Board of Education:

Ward 1. Wm. Vanevery's shop, corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie. Joseph Lundy, deputy returning officer.

Ward 2. Market Hall. Chas. Cameron, deputy returning officer.

Ward 3. Metheral's shop, Aylmer street. John Irwin, deputy returning officer.

Ward 4. Wm. Lee's shop, Smith street. Geo. W. Powell, deputy returning officer.

Councillors Best and White moved that the town engineer be granted $150 re sewer—Carried.

The mayor mentioned that a great many of the citizens were anxious to have the matter of the addition of 5 per cent. to the taxes, postponed until about the 10th of January.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee with power to act, the understanding being that if the action is legal the time extended to January 15th.

The council then adjourned to meet again this evening.

IMPERATIVE DECEMBER DOINGS

—AT—

THE GOLDEN LION!

We propose making December a notable month in our business. November has been a booming month, for, mind you, we laid ourselves out to boom things—not talk, not thunder, not importuning to buy, but a solid boom that brought buyers. Our idea of booming is to put out some inducements that no one can afford to neglect. You will remember our special push for November was in Carpets, Curtains and Housefurnishings. We purpose to push the going out of other lines embracing Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Millinery, Dress Goods, Silks, Dress Trimmings, Hand Embroidered Irish Linens, Flannels, Flannelettes, Carpets, House-furnishings & Curtains.

We want to get these lines pared down by the month. We want you to help at the paring. We purpose to pay you for it in the values we will give.

TO EXTEND TRADE

Is One of the First Objects of Sir Richard Cartwright.

MANY VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS

Received in Reply to Circulars Which the Minister Sent Out to Boards of Trade —The Appointment of Sir Henry Strong to the Judicial Committee—Ottawa News

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 8.—Special.)—One of the first official acts of Sir Richard Cartwright as Minister of Trade and Commerce was to cause circulars to be sent to the several Boards of Trade throughout the country, inviting expressions of opinion on the best methods of extending the trade of Canada. Many replies have been received at the department, some of them containing valuable suggestions. In numerous cases advantage was taken of the opportunity to lay purely local considerations before the Government. For instance the Board of Trade of Thorold has sent a reply urging the advisability of leasing water power privileges on the Welland Canal, of using native cement in the construction of public works, and building a wharf for fruit growers of the Welland district. The board also suggests, for general advantage, the deepening of the canal system to 21 feet, the establishment of a fast Atlantic steamship service, the adoption of 2-cent letter postage, the enforcement of a 2-cent-per-mile railway passenger rate, and lower freight rates, and the passage of an alien labor law. Another suggestion is the following in regard to pulpwood: "That it would be in the interest of the country if an export duty should be placed on pulpwood, so that the pulp industry might be retained for our own people. That under the present tariff, we are reliably informed, a cord of pulp wood delivered at the United States border is worth about six dollars, but if manufactured in Canada is worth about eighteen dollars at the place of manufacture, the difference in price being almost all in labor. That about two thousand cords are exported from Canada every day in the year, and that if an export duty on pulp wood were exacted of, say three dollars per cord, it would yield a revenue of about two million dollars a year to Canada."

A reference to the record of cases which have been appealed to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London during the past twenty years show that there is less force in the objection that Sir Henry Strong in London will be reviewing judgments which he had delivered at Ottawa than was at first supposed. During the period mentioned there have been 112 appeals from Canada to the Judicial Committee, and of these 75 per cent. went from courts of appeal in the several provinces direct to London. It therefore appears that only about one quarter of the cases heard in London actually passed through the Supreme Court.

Representatives of fish and game clubs in Ottawa, which lease waters in the Counties of Ottawa and Pontiac, are to hold a meeting to-morrow for the purpose of devising measures to secure a change in the Quebec laws, imposing a heavy hunting tax upon persons not domiciled in that province, but who may wish to hunt in the wilds of Quebec. Members of the Quebec Government have been approached, and it is not unlikely that they will consider favorably a proposition to reduce the tax.

The Superintendent of the Government Telegraphic Service is engaged in preparing for the extension of telegraph lines from Esquimaux Point, the present easterly terminus of the line on the north shore of the gulf, to Belle Isle. In the course of the next year it is expected to add about 80 miles of line, which will carry the wires as far as Natishquan, 666 miles below Quebec.

As a result of this year's geological survey explorations there has been a splendid addition of specimens to the museum. Owing to insufficient accommodation, however, much that would be interesting to the public cannot be placed on exhibition. In many cases specimens are crowded together to too great an extent.

There is good reason to believe that there will be few if any superannuations before the superannuation and civil acts have next session been either abolished, and new acts passed, or else very materially altered. The Government has for some time past been quietly making enquiries into the working of the superannuation act, with a view to either amending or abolishing it at the next session of Parliament, and until this is done it is not at all probable that any important changes will be made in the civil service, although advantage will no doubt be taken from time to time of chances for dispensing with the services of extra employes.

This was a dies non in the public departments, Conception Day being a statutory holiday. Few of the Ministers were at their offices or civil servants at work.

Prof. Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries, left for the Maritime Provinces to-day.

Sir Richard Cartwright has returned to the city.

Hon. L. H. Davies expects to be back in Ottawa in about a fortnight.

James Robertson of Hamilton has been appointed Inspector of Militia Stores at Ottawa. It is said the appointment was necessary because Mr. Watson, the present inspector, owing to failing eyesight, has been unable to keep up with the work.

The City Council has decided to present a gold watch to the Collegiate Institute boy, Douglas Lyon, for his gallant attempt to save life in Ottawa last week.

The Supreme Court will hold a special session to-morrow for the delivery of judgments.

Mr. Julius Lay, the newly-appointed American Consul at Windsor, was entertained at dinner by members of the Polo Club last evening. Mr. Lay leaves for his new post to-morrow.

BIG FIRE IN MONTREAL.

About Half a Million Dollars of a Loss in the Heart of the City Caused in Two Hours.

Montreal, Dec. 8.—One of the most disastrous fires that Montreal has experienced for a long time broke out shortly before 8 o'clock this evening. The fire apparently started in one of the upper storey in the centre of the Barron Block, a long stone block on St. James-street, extending from St. John-street to St. Francois Xavier-street, and nearly facing the St. Lawrence Hall. The fire was in a most dangerous locality in the very heart of the city, in the immediate vicinity being the Temple building, the Standard building, postoffice, Carsley's, Canada Life building, and other great business structures.

The top storey of the block were occupied by offices of various kinds, while the ground floors were occupied by Fulton & Richards, Freeman's Restaurant, A. W. Ross & Co., Gibb & Co., Central Vermont and Intercolonial ticket offices and other smaller offices.

The fire spread with alarming rapidity and when the brigade reached the scene, the flames were shooting out of the heart of the block, while dense clouds of sparks rose and fell on the St. Lawrence Hall, postoffice and other structures, placing them in imminent danger of catching fire. The whole brigade was called out and the firemen made desperate efforts to stop the progress of the flames. The water towers and other apparatus were brought into requisition, but at first the volume of water did not seem to have much effect and the flames rose with increasing fury, creating a lurid reflection, which lit up the whole city and attracted thousands of people to the scene. St. James-street was almost completely blocked with people.

The fire spread into the old Bank of Toronto building, on the corner of St. John and St. James-streets, and it was soon a mass of flames. While the firemen were working on this building the corner of the wall fell out, sending a wave of flames across the street. It was a brilliant scene, but was fraught with the destruction of thundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of the most valuable property in the city.

After burning for over two hours with terrible fury, the fire was got under control by 10 o'clock.

The Barron Block, which is valued at $300,000, is a complete wreck.

Amongst those who occupied offices in the burnt block and who will lose all their effects, are: D R McCord, Advocate, Union Mutual Life Insurance Company; James L. Wiseman, engraver A H Burton, manufacturers' agent; Montreal and Western Railway; H J Beemer; James Hunter, electrician; Commercial Gazette; Pontiac Pacific Junction Railway; Ottawa and Gatineau Railway office; Dominion Alliance offices; Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, Manufacturers' Guarantee, Accident Insurance Company, the Ward Commercial Agency, Armstrong & Co., real estate; Mutual Investment, Freehold Company, and a number of smaller offices. The premises of John Parslow, stationer, Freeman's Restaurant and Fulton & Richards, publishers, on the ground floor, are also totally wrecked.

The loss, it is expected, will amount to nearly half a million dollars.

DURRANT'S GREAT LUCK.

The Alleged Slayer of Blanche Lamont Will be Allowed to Live for Some Time Yet.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 8.—The Supreme Court has given Theodore Durrant, the slayer of Blanche Lamont, another respite. His attorneys asked the court to withdraw its recent order preventing them from filing their brief on appeal, and the court continued the whole matter for two weeks, when the request will probably be granted. It was agreed that, on the filing of the Attorney-General's brief, ten days' additional time should be given the defence to file a reply. When the case finally comes before the court a long time will be taken for its consideration, so that many months will elapse before it will be known whether Durrant is to be re-tried.

THE BEST IN AMERICA

Provincial Fat Stock and Dairy Show

HELD IN THE CITY OF GUELPH.

All the Leading Cattle Breeders are on Hand With Choice Specimens—A Committee Appointed to Meet the Tariff Commissioners—Resolution as to Diseases.

Guelph, Dec. 8.—(Special.)—The thirteenth Provincial Fat Stock and Dairy Show opened in Victoria Rink to-day. The spacious rink, main building and annex, was completely filled by noon, by which time all the stock was brought in. Upstairs, in the curlers' room, a neat display of fine turkeys, geese and poultry carefully dressed, is on exhibition. The cattle, sheep and pigs are of uniform high quality. The entries in all classes are materially ahead of last year, totaling 569 to last year's 450. This show will undoubtedly be one of the finest exhibitions ever held on the Continent of America. All the morning the judges were working on the dairy cattle.

All the principal stock breeders throughout the province are on hand with their fat animals. Among them are A and G Rice, Currie's Crossing; J H Smith & Son, Highfield; B H Bull & Son, Brampton; A Hoover, Emery; W M & J C Smith, Fairfield Plains; W T Thompson, Rockton; Jas Grieve, Jas Hurley, Guelph; T H Dent, Woodstock; Jas Oke & Son, Alvinston; H & W Smith, Hay P O; J & P Crerar, Shakespeare; Jas Fried, Blenheim; W Rutherford, Roseville; W H Nicholls, Hamilton; Jackson & Son, Abingdon; Mr Simenton, Blackheath; Mr Whitelaw, Guelph; Mr Douglas, Galt; Mr Scott, Aberfoyle; J Kelly, Shakespeare; Gibson & Walker, Denfield; Mr Campbell, Woodville; Mr Bowman, Guelph; Peter Arkell, Teeswater; Smith Evans, Gourock; Mr Harding, London; Park & Son, Burgessville; W E Wright, Glanworth; D G Hanmer, Mt. Vernon, besides all the leading breeders in the County of Wellington.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Cattle Breeders' Association was held in the City Hall last night, at which about thirty breeders were present. Mr. John I. Hobson, president, occupied the chair, and delivered a short address, in which he referred to the question of better legislation in reference to matters pertaining to the association, and the advisability of modifying the quarantine regulations.

A letter was read from the Dominion Minister of Agriculture in reference to a revision of the tariff. After a few suggestions the following resolution was put and carried: Moved by D. McCrae, seconded by A. W. Smith, "That Messrs. Hobson, Snell, Johnston and McCrae arrange to deal with the whole work and meet the commissioners."

Considerable discussion then took place on transportation, quarantine and records, and a committee was appointed to look into the matter and report as soon as possible.

In reference to the cattle trade in the Northwest, the following resolution was put and carried: Moved by Messrs. J. C. Snell and Arthur Johnston, "That, believing that contagious pleuro-pneumonia is not at present existing in either the United States or Canada, this association is of opinion that so long as these countries are free from contagious diseases, cattle of all kinds should be admitted to either country without quarantine, but after careful and efficient veterinary inspection, under such regulations as may be mutually agreed upon between the two countries; that the Government also urge on the United States Secretary of Agriculture the necessity of doing away with the present rule of the Customs Department not acknowledging pedigrees recorded in the Canadian Herd Book, as the standard is equal to and in some cases higher than the American one."

The officers were re-elected with some minor changes, Mr. Hobson being president, and Mr. Hodson secretary.

The following gentlemen were then appointed to represent the association at Fair Boards: Messrs. A. Johnston and G. E. Day, Toronto Exhibition; Messrs. Joseph Yuill and J. G. Clarke, Ottawa; Messrs. R. Gibson and Capt. Robson, London.

The meeting adjourned until the first week in February to meet in Toronto, when the Executive and Program Committee, Winter Show Committee and Transportation and Quarantine Committees will be appointed and other business transacted.

SEALS WERE PLENTIFUL

When the Carolina Was Seized in 1886—Mr. Peters and Dan Dickinson Again Argue.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 8.—A. Milne, C.M.G., Collector of Customs for Victoria, yesterday furnished the Behring Sea Claims Commission with a list of the vessels that cleared for sealing in 1886. Mr. Peters, for the purpose of showing that seals were plentiful in the Behring Sea in August, 1886, which was the month the Carolina was seized, began to read an affidavit presented by the United States at the Paris Tribunal, stating that there was a migration of seals to the Behring Sea in June of that year, and that there were plenty of them in the sea during the month of July.

Mr. Dickinson objected to this affidavit being used as competent testimony in the present case, and said that, whereas the affidavit in question stated that the seals then in Behring Sea were mostly female, he could bring affidavits presented by the British representatives at Paris to show that they were all males and pups.

Mr. Peters replied that the object was to show, not the sex, but to prove by the affidavits used by the representatives of the United States at Paris that seals were plentiful at the time the Carolina was seized. He says he wanted to show this, and also that the Carolina would have made a good haul if she had not been prevented by the seizure. Mr. Dickinson held that, even if there were plenty of seals, it does not follow that the Carolina could have caught them. Other elements must be taken into consideration, such as the ability of the Carolina's crew. The commissioners then took the point under consideration.

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

INGERSOLL'S OBJECT LESSON.

A Hint to Other Municipalities who Want Good Streets.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

The people of Ingersoll have now had time to see the advantage of a good bit of roadway. As our readers are aware, the town council of that progressive town recently decided to put down a block of macadam street as a sort of a model. It was done by the council themselves under the direction of a man of experience from St. Thomas, who had done similar work work there under the direction of Mr. Campbell, city engineer, now provincial instructor in roadmaking. This street has been laid under conditions that will subject it to the severest test possible. It is on Thames street, between the C. P. R. track and the bridge in front of the Noxon works. A good foundation and perfect drainage had to be secured, and this to be done in such a way as to withstand the effects of frost and water in the fall and spring especially. The street has now been in use some weeks, and is giving the most perfect satisfaction. It has been described as a thoroughly good job by the Provincial Instructor in Roadmaking. If we were to offer any criticisms of the work, it would be that there might have been a few inches more crown, that nothing but fine broken metal should have been used in the surfacing, and that traffic should have been kept off the street until it was thoroughly dry. But as it is, the street is standing, and will stand the test of time. While the other streets of the town are in a deplorable condition, it is clean and dry—perfectly so, except for mud which is carried on it from adjoining roadways made in the old style.

It is safe to predict that the intelligent and progressive men in Ingersoll's town council, to whom the town owes this interesting and valuable experiment, will not turn back now that they have put their hand to the plough. They now know, and the people of the town can see, how streets ought to be made. It is safe to predict that in a few years Ingersoll will have as good streets as any town in Canada. She has roadmaking machinery now, men of brains to direct her policy, unlimited supplies of material close at hand at a nominal cost, and much less area of street than most towns of the same population—in a word, grand opportunities for having all her main streets properly made and maintained. It will be interesting to watch the effect of this year's experiment, and the progress of street improvement in Ingersoll during next season and succeeding years.

Good skating on the pond.

Herb Kidd spent Saturday in Norwood.

Rev. Mr. Robinson returned from the city on Saturday.

Mr. Morgan has a large gang of men at work at his new hotel. The foundation will be completed in a few days.

Mr. Bert Ried has secured a situation at Gananoque, and will leave on Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Weaver, of Toronto, conducted the services in the Baptist church on Sunday last.

Mr. S. R. Payne, who has been ill for some time past, is able to be out again.

While returning on horseback from a neighbour's on Wednesday evening, Mr. Arthur Edwards met with a serious accident. While coming down the English line the horse slipped on the ice and fell, throwing its rider in the ditch, where he was found about an hour afterwards and carried home in an unconscious condition having a deep cut in head and his leg sprained.

A farmer living south of the village lost one of his sheep some time ago, and lately he got word that his animal was on a farm near the village. Driving over one evening he found his sheep and was preparing to take it home when the farmer came out and demanded fifty cents damages. This was refused and a "scrap" followed during which the sheep escaped and no trace of it has since been found.

About 1.30 a.m. Thursday morning fire was discovered in the front part of Harry Clemens' blacksmith shop. The fire was first noticed by Thomas Clemens, who gave the alarm, but the flames were beyond control before sufficient help arrived. How the fire started is a mystery, as Mr. Clemens was not working in the shop in the afternoon. There was no insurance.

Taking advantage of the cold weather a few days ago one of the residents of Dummer transferred his winter's supply of pork from the pen to the cellar, and being out of salt at the time he drove to Lakefield the next morning to lay in a stock. He purchased the salt and was starting for home when he met one of his neighbours, and, together they drove down to Mr. Craig's and went in to get warm, leaving their horses tied at the door. In their absence one of the horses got uneasy and attempted to pull up the tie post. It failed in this but managed to smash the bridle and the owner was compelled to fasten his rig behind his neighbour's for the return trip. They got home all right, but the salt didn't. The family was formed into a searching party and set out the next morning to look for the salt, but after walking a couple of miles from home and getting chased back by a bear, they gave it up as a bad job, and now he has come to the conclusion that some one was mean enough to steal a ride and the salt into the bargain.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Andrew Wilson's oyster supper in connection with the Young's Point cheese factory on the 2nd inst., was a success. Mr. Wilson deserves credit for the grand spread, for not only were the oysters but everything that was served, was of the finest quality. After supper was served the young folks tripped the light fantastic toe until midnight. The factory has done a good business this season, and the report is as follows:

Total amount of milk, 522,403 lbs.
Expenses, $63.25.
Making cheese, $667.46.
To the patrons, $4,012.58.

Mr. A. Wilson, cheesemaker, W. J. Young, salesman, and P. A. Kearney, secretary.

Mr. J. Crow, of Campbellford, is the guest of his uncle, Mr. C. Young.

Mr. A. Fobert, of Chemong, is visiting the Point for a few days.

J. S. Moynes, agent for the Thos. Stevenson Co., of Cannington, Ont., spent Sunday at the Lake View House.

Mr. Frank McPherson, of Peterborough, has returned home, after spending a few days here.

V. Rev. Father Brown, of Douro, conducted services in St. Mary's R. C. church on Tuesday, the 8th inst., it being the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

A number of the young ladies and gentlemen of this place intend giving a concert on Christmas night. Will give particulars in next week's issue.

If you are anxious to find the most reliable blood-purifier, read in Ayer's Almanac the testimonials of those who have been cured of such terrible diseases as catarrh, rheumatism, and scrofula, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Then govern yourself accordingly.

Burns Died Penniless.

When Robert Burns died the following obituary appeared in The Edinburgh Advertiser of July 26, 1796, says the New York Press: "On the 21st inst., died at Dumfries, after a lingering illness, the celebrated Robert Burns. His poetical compositions, distinguished equally by the force of native humor, by the warmth and tenderness of passion and by the glowing touches of a descriptive pencil, will remain a lasting monument of the vigor and versatility of a mind guided only by the lights of nature and by the inspiration of genius. The public to whose amusement he has so largely contributed will learn with regret that his extraordinary endowments were accompanied with frailties which rendered them useless to himself and his family. The last months of his short life were spent in sickness and indigence, and his widow, with five children, and in the hourly expectation of a sixth, is now left without any resource but what she may hope from the regard due to the memory of her husband.

"The public are respectfully informed that contributions for the wife and family of the late Robert Burns (who are left in circumstances of extreme distress) will be received at the houses of Sir William Forbes & Co., of Messrs. Mansfield, Ramsay & Co., and at the shops of the Edinburgh booksellers. It is proposed to publish some time hence a posthumous volume of the poetical remains of Robert Burns for the benefit of the author's family; his friends and acquaintances are requested to transmit such poems and letters as may happen to be in their possession to Alexander Cunningham, Writer, George-street, Edinburgh; or to John Syme, Esq., Ryedale, Dumfries. It is hoped that, in the meantime, none of his original productions will be communicated to the public through the channels of newspapers or magazines, so as to injure the sale of the intended publication."

Mrs. James Davenport Makes a Statement for the Benefit of Others.

Mrs. Davenport is well-known in Tweed, and this is how she spoke to our representative concerning Doan's Kidney Pills. Said Mrs. Davenport:—

"I have suffered for some years from dizziness puffing under the eyes, pains in the side and back, sleeplessness, poor appetite, and in fact, was in a bad state generally.

"I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at P. K. Newton's drugstore, and experienced immediate relief from their use.

"I am now very much better indeed; appetite improved, pain almost disappeared and I feel stronger and healthier in every particular.

"I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert McIntosh, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said:

"During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realising great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

BASEBALL IN CANADA.

An Official of the Hamilton Club Says the Outlook for a Provincial Circuit is Good.

Toronto, Dec. 9.

Herbert E. Moore, the popular treasurer and one of the four stockholders of the Hamilton Baseball Club, was in the city yesterday. He is of the opinion that there is a bright outlook for professional baseball in Ontario, and all that is wanted is a compactly formed league.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Association is constitutionally fixed for Good Friday, but the officers have decided to convene at an earlier date, as the business of the League requires attention long before the spring. Secretary Cal Davis will shortly issue the call, and then the most important item, the making of a circuit, will be attended to.

The Hamilton club favors six clubs, Mr. Moore announced. They are Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph, Loudon, St. Thomas and Port Huron. His own opinion is that Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph and London would be the correct thing, and some Western Ontario baseballists would put a team in Toronto regardless of the Eastern League's decision, that is if the enthusiasts in this city would take hold of the club in opposition to the International aggregation.

Hamilton benefited by many experiments last season. They lost money, but will profit by the experience, and hope to not only have a stronger team but to come out ahead in '97. Guelph and London expect to work wonders, too, the coming season. St. Thomas and Port Huron say they can aggregate strong combinations and command good patronage, so they may be admitted.

It is likely that the office of president and secretary will be combined, and of course Cal Davis will get it.

The Canadian League will apply for National protection, and there will be no jumping of contracts, and signed men can be held by their clubs.

Jimmy Dean made a great hit in Hamilton last year, and they are anxious to have him back again. Jack Counsell, who will manage and captain the Varsity team, will endeavor to secure him to coach the college club, and Mr. Moore says this would be agreeable to Hamilton. Dean, too, has great respect for the students, for they batted out a victory with him in the box for the Hams last spring, but it was early, and Jimmy's arm was hardly in shape.

Some great duels should be fought out in the spring between Varsity and St. Michael's. With McDermott and Fitzgerald, S.M.C. should give Counsell's nine a race all the way. When not in the box for St. Michael's McDermott will officiate for Varsity.

IRELAND STILL AHEAD.

Teddy Hale Leads the Long Distance Wheelmen at Madison Square—New Indoor Records.

New York, Dec. 8.—Of the 27 men who were despatched on their journey at 12.00 on Monday morning by Starter E. C. Bald, 10 passed the starting line when the second 24 hours of the six-day international bike race at Madison Square Garden was completed six minutes after midnight to-night. Teddy Hale, the Irish champion, still held the lead, which he acquired at 8 o'clock last night. The Irishman again broke all the hourly records for the second day of a contest of this kind, and with four hours' rest since the start looked fairly fresh. Reading, whose wonderful endurance kept him in second place for so long, was ousted to-day by Rice, but Reading was steadily regaining the time lost in taking a much needed rest, and was in fourth place at the 40th hour. Schock, the winner in '93, by steady plodding worked up into third position, thereby brightening the hopes of many who think he can repeat the victory. Forster kept close on Reading, and of the next division Moore, Taylor, Smith and Pierce were fighting for position.

There were between 5000 and 6000 persons present this evening when a match race and exhibitions enlivened the six days' performance. Tom Linton made a five mile exhibition in 12.04 4-5, which is a new world's indoor record, unpaced. E. C. Bald did a half mile in 1.09 3-5, paced by a quad.

A. J. Latham of Saratoga easily defeated W. C. Ilsome of the New Jersey A.C. in two out of three one-mile heats. The first heat was done in 2.42 4-5 and the second in 2.35 1-5.

The 10 o'clock score (40th hour) was as follows: Hale 734, 2; Rice 715, 3; Schock 697, 8; Reading 684, 6; Forster 682, 3; Moore 671, 0; Taylor 666, 6; Smith 651, 5; Pierce 640, 0; Elkes 599, 1; Ashinger 588, 0; Gilick 592, 6; Maddox 589, 1; Cassidy 571, 9; Calnen 531, 2; McLeod 450, 0.

Sir Charles Tupper on Preferential Trade.

HE SAYS MR. LAURIER FAVORS IT

Speech by the Ex-High Commissioner at a Luncheon Given to Him by the United Empire League in London—Monster Combine in Manufacture of Thread.

London, Dec. 8.—The United Empire Trade League gave a luncheon to-day to Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. John Lowles, M.P. The Right Hon. James Lowther, M.P., presided. Sir Charles Tupper delivered a speech, in which he said the policy of the league promised in no slight degree to draw closer together England and the colonies. If the Trade League succeeded in its efforts, Sir Charles declared, it would place both the home and the outlying portions of the empire in more favorable positions as regarded each other, while it would also destroy the competition of other countries. Preferential trade relations he regarded as a solution of the matter. Right Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, Sir Charles said, had declared himself as emphatically in favor of preferential trade relations between the Mother Country and the colonies, and had promised to send a commission to wait upon Lord Salisbury in connection with the subject, and he (Sir Charles) had no doubt that the Premier's pledge would be honorably redeemed. Both parties in Canada were united, and, whatever doubt might remain, he could assure the league of the support of Premier Laurier on his policy in this direction.

The Great Thread Monopoly in Britain Extending Its Grapplers.

London, Dec. 8.—The Coats Threads Co., which last summer became amalgamated with the Clark Company, Jonas, Brooks & Brothers, and James Chadwick & Brothers, and announced that the company would raise its total nominal capital from £5,750,000 to £7,500,000, has made known that the Coats concern has absorbed the Thread Mills of Finlayson, Bousefields & Co., Scotland, and that it is also negotiating with the Knoxes for their factories in Scotland and America.

AN UNEASY FEELING

Because Von Tausch Promises Some Sensational Exposures in Berlin.

London, Dec. 8.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News says: "An uneasy feeling still exists that there must be some high personage behind Von Tausch, the commissioner of detectives, who was convicted in connection with the journalists here. Many names are mentioned, but it would not be fair to repeat them. The trial has therefore failed to attain its chief object. But it has been a political and personal success for Baron Marschal, who has suddenly gained a place in the forefront of Germany's eminent statesmen. He has perforated the political atmosphere, and has swept the Augean stable of the political police."

The Daily Telegraph's Berlin correspondent says: "A report is current that while Von Tausch was on his way to prison he exclaimed: "When I speak out there will be a trial in comparison with which this is mere child's play."

FOUND A JEWEL.

An Important Find by a Brockville Jeweller.

Mr. Joseph Lane, the well-known jeweller of Brockville, says: "For some years I have suffered with severe pains in my back and sides and flashes of heat between my shoulders. I had a tired, wornout feeling.

"The numerous medicines that I took gave me very little relief. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I thought I would try a box, and got one at Curry's drugstore.

"After the first two or three doses I felt much relieved, and the longer I took them the greater the change for the better in my condition. I am much better in every respect and recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble as the best remedy I know of."

A MESSAGE TO MEN.

Proving that True Honesty and True Philantrophy Still Exist.

If any man, who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge, the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-being to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c. silver to cover postage and address, Mr. Geo. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich.

To Stain Wood:

It is a fact not universally known that almost any dry pigment, mixed with spirits of turpentine, will stain wood. It should be applied until the desired shade is obtained. Strong ammonia applied to wood will give it an aged appearance. The best finish for carved work is beeswax or linseed oil.

An Alleged Fraud in Connection With an Electric Light Metre.

The first case of alleged fraud with electric light metres was brought to the attention of Mr. Johnson, the Divisional Inspector of Electric Light, while in town yesterday. The metre in question had been so tampered with that it did not register, and hence the light was used without the amount of electricity consumed being recorded, and therefore with no means of ascertaining the amount that should be paid.

The penalty for an offence of this kind is a fine of from $50 to $100.

Mr. Johnson has the facts before him and will decide as to what is the best course of action to pursue in the matter.

The Grand Jury Bring in a True Bill Against Mark Lockington.

The jury in the case of Anthony vs. the Grand Trunk Railway, last evening, brought in a verdict of $50 damages for the plaintiff. Judge Weller has, however, withheld judgment in the matter for the present.

The case of Doran vs. Young, in which the plaintiff claims $200 from the defendant for trespass in entering on his land and cutting wood, is still on. W. H. Moore for plaintiff, and Edmison & Dixon for defendant.

The grand jury brought in a true bill against Mark Lockington for burglary, and his trial will probably take place to-morrow.

The members of Branch No. 30, of the C.M.B.A., held a large and enthusiastic meeting last night and elected the following officers :

Christmas Ale and Porter.

Special brewings of Cristmas stock now ready at reduced prices to private families during the holidays. Kegs, $1.25; quarter, $1.75; one-third, $2 50. Bottles, 13 to doz, $1.00 Terms Cash. H. CALCUTT, brewer and malster. Telephone 98.

A Shaving Machine.

The new shaving machine, which has not yet been patented, and which, as yet, only exists in the active imagination of most people, is of no importance, compared with the obtaining of the Christmas groceries, the best of which are obtained at E. Brown & Co's, importers of wines and liquors.

Crowded to the Doors.

Marks Bros. are drawing as of yore. Last night dozens had to stand, although chairs were brought out and placed in the rear for those ladies who could not obtain a seat. That fine old comedy drama, "The Cruiskeen Lawn," was presented in the able manner which characterises all of the company's productions. Miss May Bell's songs were greatly appreciated, as were the other specialities, which coming in between the acts are a pleasing innovation. Petite Gracie took the house by storm. The company is certainly deserving of the liberal patronage which it is receiving.

The Busy Store.

Some merchants would have the public believe that the big sale at Routley's was only a "fake" sale, and that they can sell just as cheap. I might just say here that I have always paid a hundred cents on the dollar during my twenty years of business, and that my goods have been bought, and are now being sold at less prices than others can buy them. Yet it will last only a few weeks longer, as I am positively retiring from the retail business, and would like all who owe me accounts to call and settle before January 1st, 1897. C. B. ROUTLEY.

Frank Yeigh's Picture Travel Talk.

A most attractive programme was offered to a very large audience last evening in Association Hall by Mr. Frank Yeigh, who delivered a new picture travel talk on the British Empire, (such as he will give in the George street Methodist church on Dec. 11th), illustrated with a large number of really beautiful stereopticon views, and a series of suggestive and humourous cartoons depicting John Bull in Egypt, Africa and South America. The story of Westminster Abbey, with organ accompaniment to the views and description, was most effective, as was the orchestral accompaniment to the series of scenes telling of Nelson and the Victory. The Canadian views won hearty applause. The fact that yesterday was the anniversary of Queenston Heights was appropriately referred to, and "The Maple Leaf" was sung with hearty enthusiasm by Mr. Britton and the audience as the new Canadian flag was shown. An eloquent ending was made in connection with views of the citadels of Quebec and Halifax. The subject was an excellent one for rich pictorial illustration. Starting with the Queen and her Royal homes, the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey and Tower of London, the lecturer then included Balmoral, Edinboro and Holyrood Castles, and some striking Irish scenes. These, with the Nelson series, completed the first part of the programme so far as it related to the British Isles. Next came Britain's Keys of the Empire in Gibraltar, Malta and Cyprus, the English occupation of Egypt, with several pictures depicting the recent march to Dongola, and a particularly fine series of Indian, Australian and South African illustrations. St. Helena suggested a graphic outline of Napoleon's rise and fall, with views of the ballroom in Brussels, the Lion Mound and the death of the Emperor. The Venezuelan question was touched upon, the West Indies visited, and as has been said, Canada was included as an ending to what proved to be an exceptionally entertaining, instructive and attractive travel talk, the best, we think, Mr. Yeigh has yet done on this line, and one which won for him frequent outbursts of appreciative applause.—The Globe.

COUNTY COUNCILS IN PETERBOROUGH.

THE THREE FORMS THAT HAVE PREVAILED.

The Predecessors of the New Regime—District Councils—The Present County Council—List of Wardens Since 1850—The New System in Operation Next Year.

"The days of the County Council are few, but they have been many."—Junius.

The "days of the county council" to which the great satirist refers are a little over a half century—55 years. Before the year 1840 Ontario had no county councils. They are a development from the primitive form that previously existed. Municipal government was conducted by the magistrates, the quarter sessions and the township councils then composed of three commissioners or "town wardens." In 1840 this system had out-grown its usefulness and something more in touch with popular demand was introduced into Upper Canada.

The province was divided into districts, and the Governor determined the number of councillors and appointed the warden. This system had been in use in Lower Canada but was not sufficient for the more fully developed aspirations for popular institutions of Upper Canada. It served one good purpose—it furnished the basis of the Municipal Act of 1841, which provided district councils, to be composed of one or two members, elected in each township, to hold office three years, retiring in rotation. The warden, treasurer and clerk were appointed by the Governor-in-Council, and the first order on the assembling of a new district council was the reading of the warden's commission. All bylaws were submitted to the Governor for approval. The first district council for this district—the Colborne district—was held in Peterborough in 1842, meeting in the present Court House, which had been completed in the previous year, with George Arundel Hill, Dummer, Warden, and John Darcus, clerk, and the following members : Thos. Harper, North Monaghan ; Stephen Nicholls, Smith ; Switten D. Gibbs, Douro ; Thos. Carr and Jas. Doris, Otonabee ; D. Costello, Ennismore ; W. Cottingham and Josiah L. Hughes, Emily ; Francis Kelly, Ops ; John Langton, (afterwards M. P., and later Auditor-General) Verulam ; Thos. Nead, Harvey ; Daniel Costello, Ennismore ; S. Davidson, Mariposa ; A. Campbell, Eldon ; and Alex. Kidd, Dummer. The minutes of the first meeting contain this note thus written—"Obadiah roger absent."

This form of municipal government continued eight years, till 1850, when the present municipal system and the present system of county councils was introduced. The first council for the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria, consisted of but twelve members as follows ; Messrs. Langton, Benson, Short, Baubell, Bell, McDonnell, Clarke, Cottingham, Fortye, Jacobs, Ferguson and Forsythe. The minutes do not contain any information as to the townships these councillors represented. The seal of the county, which is still in use, was adopted January 31st, 1850 ; an impression of it on pink paper adorns the page of the minutes where the resolution adopting it is recorded.

On January 27th, 1863, the division of the previously united counties of Peterborough and Victoria took place. The first strictly Peterborough county council was composed of the following fourteen members : P. M. Grover, reeve, and Richard Birdsall, deputy-reeve, Asphodel ; Peter Pearce, Belmont and Methuen ; Francis Crow, Dummer and Burleigh ; Geo. Clarke, Douro ; Evans Ingram, reeve, and Andrew Nelson, deputy-reeve, Otonabee ; R. D. Rogers, Ashburnham ; Geo. Locker, North Monaghan ; Wm. Gainer, Minden and Stanhope and Robt. Richie, Snowden.

In perusing the following list of elected Wardens those who have attended the annual inauguration meetings of county councils can form some idea of the lively contests that are represented by the choice of the forty-seven Wardens that have occupied the chair from 1850 down to the present time. The following is the list :

Mr. Edg. Pearse has been Clerk and Treasurer of the county for nearly thirty years, he having been appointed in January, 1867. His predecessor in the office of clerk was Mr. Walter Sheridan.

ANOTHER CHANGE.

As the population of the county increased, increasing village population led to the formation of village and other municipalities, and in many county councils the voting power of the smaller municipalities did not bear a true relation to their tax-paying liability, which circumstance led to some degree of friction with the larger municipalities. And county councils had grown till in some counties the number of the members increased to unwieldly proportions, some county councils having a larger number of representatives than some of the Provincial Legislatures. The question of overcoming this difficulty, as well as inequality in representation was one that engaged the serious attention of the government for years. There were numerous petitions presented from county councils, Grange and Patron lodges in favour of the reduction of the number of representatives and their adjustment on a more equitable basis.

The means adopted is embodied in the "County Council's Act of 1896," which has been previously described in these columns. By this the county is made into five divisions, each electing two members. Thus the new county council of Peterborough, which will meet in January next, will consist of ten members, two less than the membership of the first county council, and four less than the present council, which meets for the last time to-day, and is composed of twenty-three representatives. The new county council will be quite independent of the township and village councils, and each county councillor will hold office for two years. Under the circumstances there will likely be a pretty lively fight in the several divisions for the honour of being first representative under the new system, which is the third form of county council and the fourth or fifth form of local government employed in Ontario since the beginning.

HARD UP FOR A DRINK.

Two Young Men Force Their Way Into the Brewery.

Sunday evening between the hours of six and seven o'clock, while those engaged in and about the Calcutt's brewery were at supper, two young men, thoroughly knowing the "ins" and "outs" of the brewery and knowing where the front door key was kept, effected an entrance into the brewery.

They also carried several keys, one of which opens the "tap" room, another the "ton" room, where they thought they might make an other addition to their already well filled tanks, but they were detected in the act, not, however, before the lock of the tap room had been sprung. The intruders were promptly ordered from the premises. If they persist in loitering around the brewery hereafter, it is Mr. Calcutt's intention to make things most interesting for them, as they have on several previous occasions been notified to make themselves scarce.

AN HISTORICAL CHAT WITH THE CHILDREN.

Mr. Hampden Burnham Talks of Canadian History.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Hampden Burnham addressed the pupils of the third classes of the George street public school on Canadian history, and held the undivided attention of the youngsters for an hour and a half—a pretty certain evidence that a prosaic and naturally dry subject like history, was made particularly interesting.

Mr. Burnham took up the origin of the Indian tribes, dealing with the districts occupied by the different aboriginal peoples, which was amply illustrated by use of maps. His description of the dress, habits and customs in peace and war, religious beliefs and practices, rivetted the attention of the pupils, who were delighted with the graphic manner in which the subject was presented. Attention was then given to the early explorers, and details of great interest were given in connection. The French occupation, with its romantic features was strikingly dealt with, as was also the end of the French regime and the taking of Quebec by the English.

The address was distinguished especially for the apt moral lessons drawn from the incidents dealt with, and the patriotic appeal to the girls and boys of Canada, with which it was concluded, seemed to set the heather on fire in the hearts of the little auditors, who were told in simple but forcible terms the points of superiority of Canadian institutions over those of other countries.

The moral value of such addresses cannot be over estimated. The more we know of Canada's past, the more we shall value our present great privileges, and the deeper our love becomes, the greater will be the efforts of young and old to unitedly promote its advancement. Canada is the best country on earth, in the infinite variety of its resources of field, forest and mine, in its climate, in its political and civil institutions, in its educational advantages, and most of all, in the sturdy, steady, self-reliant, manly character of its people. Our past is not a long one, but it is one to be proud of, not only only on account of what it has been, but on account of the earnest it gives of a great future, which will be all the greater the more the people are aroused to a just and full appreciation of our past achievements, our present potentialities and our possible future.

THE LAST SESSION OF THE OLD REGIME.

FORTY-FIFTH AND LAST YEAR OF THE PRESENT COUNCIL SYSTEM.

The Warden's Address—The Compliments of the Season—The County Bridges—Clearing up the Slate.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 9th.

A special session of the County Council opened at the Chambers in the Court House to-day. The following members were present. Messrs. Burnham, Casement, Finlay, Brown, Hales, Mansfield, Johnston, Lancaster, Crowe, Hawthorne, Anderson, Peoples, Shaw, Crough, Anderson, Buck, Moloney, Leeson, Andrews, Forster and Armstrong, Mr. Joyce, of Havelock, being absent.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

After routine

The Warden, Mr. Jas. Middleton, in the chair, addressed the council as follows:

To the Members of the County Council of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—In compliance with the wish expressed by you when last in session I have called this meeting for the purpose of finishing (as far as the same can be done) the business of the year.

Sale of Debentures—In conjunction with your clerk I have issued a circular asking for tenders for the purchase of the ten thousand dollar debentures about to be issued, and I have no doubt you will receive satisfactory offers for the purchase of the same.

Little Bob Bridge—This bridge has been so thoroughly repaired that it is now as good as a new bridge. Some repairs have been made to the other Bobcaygeon bridges, refloording, pointing the stone work, etc. A statement of the expenditure, as passed by the Council of Victoria, will be submitted for your approval.

Steel's Bridge—Nothing has been done in the matter of building a bridge in lieu of the present Steel's bridge, the special Bridge Committee and the Township Council of Asphodel not having been able to arrive at a satisfactory agreement.

Kinmount Bridge—As the plaintiffs in the suit, Somerville vs. Peterborough, have paid the taxed costs, I assume that we may consider this matter settled. Sundry accounts and other matters will be submitted for your consideration and approval.

As this is the last meeting of the present County Council, I avail myself of the opportunity thus offered to thank you for the valuable assistance which you have rendered me in the discharge of my duties as Warden, and at the same time to express the wish that you may all enjoy a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

JAMES MIDDLETON,
Warden.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, Dec. 9th, 1896.

On motion of Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. Mansfield, the Warden's address was referred to the following committee: Messrs. Burnham, Buck, Andrews, Peoples, Anderson (R.), and the mover and seconder.

NOT FROM THE BARNARDO HOME.

The Ill-treated Lad Little Lad From the County Goes To Toronto.

The Agent of the Children's Aid Society left this afternoon for Toronto with the little boy who came into town a few days ago with the pitiable tale of being put out of doors by the farmer who had agreed to provide for him. The lad is not a Barnardo Home boy, but is from the Greenway Fegan Home in Toronto. A telegram was received from that institution this morning asking for the boy to be sent on and agreeing to pay all expenses. The greatest care is always exercised in connection with the placing out of Barnardo Home children and therefore the rumour that the lad was from that institution was received with surprise and it is with pleasure that the EXAMINER contradicts the first statement of the facts.

—Several rinks from Winnipeg will be present at the big Lindsay bonspeil.

—Miss Vair will sing Braga's "Angel's Serenade" at St. Paul's church concert to-morrow evening, when Mr. McCaig will take the violin obligato.

—Freight rates on the I.B. & O.R.R. for wood have been doubled. Heretofore the charge was 50c. a cord for 17 miles—now it is a dollar, and it is said that contracts for 3 000 cords have been cancelled by Toronto parties.

—In order to prevent delays by snow blockades on this division, the Grand Trunk management have leased strips of land at all the worst points, and are having the fences moved back a considerable distance.

—A rubber goods factory is in course of erection in Bowmanville, and the work of construction is being rushed, over 100 men being now employed. The projectors promise that the factory, which will turn out druggists' novelties, will add considerably to the population of the town, inasmuch as expert hands will have to be employed.

—Warden Wade, of Durham and Northumberland, will inaugurate a diversion this year by way of entertaining members of the counties' council. The time-honoured custom has been for the Warden to devote a portion of his annual grant to entertaining the council, either at dinner, or in some other way. This year the Warden will introduce an innovation by holding a smoking concert, or a "Smoker," as it is usually called, at the Balmoral Hotel on the evening of Thursday or Friday of next week. An orchestra will provide good music, a comic programme will be presented, a farce or two put on by funny people, to wind up with a go-as-you-please social time, which will be new to most of the councillors. The "Smoker" is an up-to-date entertainment, and Warden Wade is keeping right in line in introducing it.

The happiest moment in a woman's life is when she feels for the first time the clinging caress of her own baby's fingers. How many thousands of women miss this greatest, womanliest happiness and live out dreary, babeless, loveless lives, because of ill health. Every woman should realize the supreme importance of healthy vigor and strength of the organs distinctly feminine. Unless a woman is willing to be that least envied of her sex, a childless woman, she cannot afford to neglect this feature of her health.

The best known and most successful medicine for the cure of all diseases and weaknesses of the female reproductive organs is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Hundreds of homes that for years remained childless now ring with childish laughter as a result of the beneficial effects of the "Favorite Prescription." It is the prescription of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce. For years it has been used by Dr. Pierce in his daily practice in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., the greatest institution of the kind in the world. It has relieved thousands of women from suffering and pain and prepared thousands for the successful performance of the duties of maternity.

W. R. Malcolm, of Knobel, Clay County, Arkansas, writes: "Since I last wrote you we have had a baby girl born to us. My wife took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also your 'Favorite Prescription' all during the expectant period and until confinement, and she had no trouble to mention. A stouter, heartier child was never born. Our child will be one year of age the 8th inst. and she has not been sick a day. Has not had so much as the colic. It is a fact, sir, and we have not had to be up with her as often as twice at night since her birth. My wife had not even a fever for the two or three days after the child was born, although the attending physician told us that such would be the case. Our neighbors remarked to me that they thought my wife the stoutest little woman they ever knew. We think our good health due to the use of your family medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them.

THE HUMAN BACILLUS.

"Man Himself Is a Curable Contagious Disease."

That "man is a curable contagious disease" is the contention of a witty contributor to the current number of The New Review. He has discovered that the world is alive—is a strange, gelatinous creature, pulsating imperceptibly throughout every acre of its surface; and, with the aid of a seismograph, he has found that these pulsations or earth-waves, long and short, are the symbols of a language far transcending all spoken languages in directness and simplicity. His new language "can be learned in an hour"; and the earth's soliloquies have been overheard, and its thoughts and reflections caught, as a perfect physiologist might catch the thoughts of a man if the skull vibrated with the movements of the living brain. Unanswerable evidence has thus been secured that the whole generation of men is regarded by the earth with heart-felt loathing and contempt; that our annihilation is the object of the big creature's most fervent wishes; for it (or perhaps we should say he) has been heard to express its aversion in the following terms: "They crawl on me, they burrow into me....They are soft and filmy and small, but they bore into my rocky skin. In the bath of light where I, the orderly one, the crown and joy of myself, turn my exquisitely punctual somersaults, they hatch uncleanlinesses and kill them and gorge their pulpy little bodies with death. They gather together in nests, and where their nests are, my skin is furrowed and polluted, and the air wherein I wrap myself is blackened. I, the orderly one, the solitary roller on the path of perfection, am diseased with vermin! When I turn them to the light, they push themselves hither and thither, and prop themselves on their protuberances; when I turn them away from the light, they fall against me in millions, and sleep, touching me." Such being the earth's unfriendly disposition, the conclusion is obvious—that he "may one day wrinkle his back and shake himself, as a dog shakes his ears, and send us tumbling to a thousand surprising deaths." The mood of disdain for all the concerns of human society can no further go.

This is the mood of disappointment and of failure. Beneath the humor in the expression lies a pessimism that in this country at this time will hardly be understood. But it is a mood which we have just escaped. If the great problems which our people have faced this year had been decided not for the right, but for the wrong, there would to-day be sympathetic American auditors for one who should entertainingly discourse of human bacilli.—Harper's Weekly.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

It cured myself of a long-standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

FIGHTING FOR MRS. STERNAMAN.

The Buffalo Woman's Case to Come Under Review of Judge Coxe in Syracuse on Habeas Corpus Writs.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 7.—The legal war intended by her attorneys to prevent the Canadian authorities from securing the person of Mrs. Olive Sternaman, accused of poisoning her husband, is not ended. The attorneys say it has just begun. The case is set down for review before Judge Coxe, in Syracuse, to-morrow on writs on habeas corpus and certiorari issued Saturday. It is possible that the hearing will be deferred, as the papers in the proceedings before United States Commissioner Fairchild, who determined to hold Mrs. Sternaman, pending the application of the Canadian authorities to the Secretary of State for her extradition, will hardly be ready in time. As soon as the papers can be prepared, however, the review of the case will be had before Judge Coxe.

"On what ground did the writs issue?" Mr. Thayer, of Duckwitz, Thayer & Jackson, Mrs. Sternaman's lawyer, was asked.

"On the ground that there was not a particle of evidence to warrant the United States Commissioner in holding her," was the response.

"Mrs. Sternaman will be taken to Syracuse?"

"No. We will waive that right. The writ of habeas corpus orders her production there, but we will waive that formality."

Mr. Thayer expressed himself as confident that the result of the new move would be Mrs. Sternaman's release.

Mrs. Sternaman spends her time in the jail in a seemingly happy frame of mind. She denies herself to all callers save her relatives, and says she is certain of ultimate acquittal.

"She is a model prisoner," said Mrs. Halliday, the matron. "She is happy and cheerful and no cares seem to trouble her. She is firm in her declaration of innocence, and says she is not afraid to go to Canada or anywhere else the authorities wish to take her. The legal fight now being made for her, she says, is on the advice of her lawyer. Yes, she helps us with our work, taking care of her own room and working with the rest of us in the corridors. When there is any washing or ironing to be done she assists in that, too. She always goes about everything she does smilingly and happily. Mrs. Sternaman has a large number of relatives here, you know, and they all come to see her from time to time."

TEDDY HALE AHEAD.

The Irish Rider's Long Lead in the Six Days' Race at New York—Fast Indoor Wheeling.

New York, Dec. 7.—The feature of the first day of the six-day international bicycle race at Madison Square Garden was the battle for the leadership in the nineteenth and twentieth hours between Teddy Hale, the Irish rider, and Reading of Omaha. Hale retired for about 45 minutes at 12 o'clock, being then in the lead at 230 miles eight laps. Reading, who had been following close on the Irishman's heels, then assumed the lead and held it until 8 o'clock. Hale had been gaining steadily and a desperate sprinting match between the pair set in at 7 o'clock, when Hale was a trifle under two miles behind the Omaha man. The Irishman had the speed of the Yank, and shortly before 8 o'clock he wrestled the lead away from him. Reading distinguished himself during the early hours by his endurance riding. He remained in the saddle without change until he had accomplished 200 miles in 14 hours 10 minutes, establishing a world's record for endurance in a bicycle contest of any kind. The value of his contest was further enhanced by the fact that he only dismounted to change his saddle. He divided the honors of leadership with Hale throughout the afternoon and was close up at midnight. All previous records at this style of racing, unpaced, six-days, indoor, were surpassed every hour by the leaders. Waller, who was badly shaken up in a collision with Van Emburg in the early morning, was forced to retire during the afternoon. Van Emburg was unable to ride after the fall, but Waller went on for a time. It is doubtful if the latter will be able to come in again.

Champion Bald rode an exhibition mile in the evening, paced by the "Black and White" tandem. His time was 2.08 1-5 on the outside of the track, the fastest mile ever ridden in the Garden.

The score in miles and laps of the men remaining at 1 o'clock was as follows: Hale, 433, 3; Moore, 408, 4; Reading, 406, 9; Taylor, 398, 3; Shock, 382, 6; Ashinger, 382, 1; Rice, 381, 4; Pierce, 377, 3; Foster, 360, 5; Elks, 358, 9; Glick, 355, 2; Smith, 351, 1; Conklin, 340, 2; Maddox, 328, 6; Gannon, 322, 6; Cassidy, 321, 0; Von Steeg, 315, 7; Golden, 290, 6; McLeod, 287, 0.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Dec. 7.—There were about 550 head of butchers' cattle, 25 calves and 300 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End abattoir to-day. More than half the cattle on market to-day were left over from last week. The butchers were out in considerable numbers, but it was not beef they required most, and the sales of cattle were slow, with very little improvement in the low prices of last week.

The best cattle sold at about 3½c per lb.; pretty good stock sold at from 2½c to 3c do., and the common beasts at from 1½c to 2½c per lb.

It is probable that some of the leaner animals would bring even less than 1½c per lb. Calves were in demand, but they were almost all small young veals. Mr. Bourassa bought 11 calves, paying from $3 to $7 each for them. Mutton critters were scarce and higher in price. Sheep sold at from 2½c to 3c per lb., and lambs at from 3½c to 4¼c do. There were no sales of fat hogs reported to-day. The prices offered were about 3¾c per lb.

Mason & Risch Pianos

Probably the most striking fact in connection with MASON & RISCH PIANOS is their suitability to all conditions. That they satisfy the social and aesthetic sense is evidenced by the fact that our cultured homes, from Rideau Hall down, use them. The fact that of importance in Canada is supplied with them, gives testimony to their musical excellence, and even in the homes of far off British Columbia, deep in the forest and far removed from the tuner's visit or care, they are still to be found standing hard usage like a rock, and cheering the distant home with their musical tone.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10¾ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

A MILLINERY LESSON.

THE NINTH OF THE PRACTICAL SERIES BY AN EXPERT.

Children's Winter Hats—How to Make a Becoming One for a Little Girl—A Lace One for Special Occasions—The Simple Trimming to Be Used.

The style of hat shown in Fig. 1 is more generally used now than the bonnet with flaring brim, mainly because it enables the child to hear better, as its ears are not covered, and also because it stays on the head comfortably. A head band is made for it as described in Lesson No. 4—that is, it should be about one and a half inches wide, of net or buckram wired on both edges. The size must be decided by the child's head. It is always necessary to measure children's heads, they vary so much in else.

Put in a Tam-o'-Shanter as described in Lesson No. 3, and then bind the lower edge of the band with a strip of the silk the brim is made of. A yard and a quarter of taffeta silk is cut into four strips—across from selvage to selvage, not lengthwise; these are then accordion-pleated. You will always find that taffeta silk cut lengthwise does not stay pleated as well as when cut the other way. When cut bias and pleated it is perfect, but that is only necessary when the silk is to be used single. The hat Fig. 1 has the silk used double. First join all the strips together. Double the pleating, edge to edge, with the seams, prepared as in Lesson No. 8, on the inside; then, with your two hands inside the circle of silk, stretch it out till the pleats are all opened; run a very strong shirring thread at the edges, taking rather large stitches in the double silk. Next run in two threads to run a wire between; when the wire is in, draw up the first shirring thread to the size of the head band and sew it very firmly on the outside of it. Fasten off the wire and draw up the other threads as described in Lesson No. 8.

The silk in this hat is shaded dark blue and green, and the crown is a piece of blue serge to match the coat of the little girl the model was made for. A twelve-inch square of serge with the corners rounded makes the crown, which is drawn up with a thread. The two rough edges (serge and silk) are then hidden by a twist of black satin ribbon, which also forms the bow at the front of the hat. Two and a half yards of ribbon are needed. The making of the bow will be no difficulty if you follow the directions on bow-making in Lesson No. 7.

Ties of ribbon are not allowed for in this measurement, as elastic was used, but they may be added for small children if desired.

The model Fig. 2 was made in pale blue velvet for a little maid who was to wear it with a pelisse of the same shade in silk. It is started in the same way as the hat Fig. 1, and also has a ruffle of double pleated taffeta, but much narrower, only about one inch deep in front, and three inches at the back. The object of having the silk is to keep the fall of lace and chiffon standing out better, and it also gives a tinge of color to the white chiffon above it.

The particular unique idea about this hat is the short front and long back. The fluted ruffling called chiffon was really a white lamp-shade ruffling, as you will see by the little silk loop along the edge, but it was the very thing to give a fluffy effect under the lace, which was slightly yellow in color. One and a fourth yards of the ruffling were used, and two and a half yards of lace. The crown you will find easy to make by studying the illustration. Half a yard of bias material does it, using one of the corners for the round centre-piece. The strips when joined together and gathered at both edges are joined to this centre-piece, with a thick cording between.

The trimming is very simple, consisting only of bias strips of the blue taffeta frayed out and made into bows, a piece of it being around the join of crown and brim. If silk be used instead of velvet, for the crown, the bows should be of satin ribbon. A thick corded silk would be very rich; or it could be made entirely of taffeta, with an applique of a bit of rich lace in the centre of the crown. The aigrette should be of the soft kind, as that is not so easily broken as the stiffer ones; white is the best color.

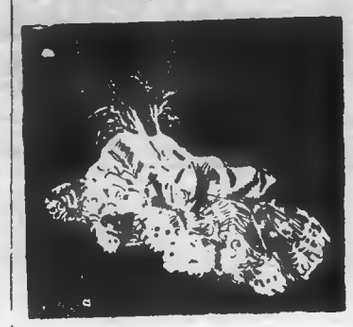

FIG. 2.—LITTLE GIRL'S HAT.

A hint as to cleaning white aigrettes, which show the effect of dust very quickly, may be useful. Take two or three handfuls of Indian or other meal on some clean paper and gently rub the aigrette in it, taking great care not to break the fronds. When it is as clean as it can be made, just shake and blow the remaining flour out. Colored ones may be improved a little by this process, but they are usually faded by the time they are soiled.—Harper's Bazar.

A Great Book Free!

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 21 one cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

Among the new materials for draperies is a lattice cloth which comes in shades of terra cotta or of apple green. The fabric, though it is of cotton, has a silk appearance. It hangs in beautiful soft folds, but requires lining. With draperies of this cloth, striped wall papers that harmonize are used. Another new stuff for draperies in boudoirs, small bedrooms or little drawing-rooms is known as the colonial cross stripe. It, too, is a cotton, most frequently in soft shade of green, with the stripes in black. A more desirable color in the same fabric is of blue, with stripes of white, bordered by darker blue than the ground. A plain stuff of the same color and weave is used with these draperies for the side walls of rooms.

Fatal Result of Delay.

As Well as Ever

FOOTPRINTS OF TIME.

But yesterday, it seems to him,
He waited underneath the dim
Light of the parlor chandelier
For her to come And then her dear,
Sweet voice called to him from the stair,
And said: "Sweetheart, I'll soon be there!"
But yesterday—years after, yes—
He stumbled home in vague distress
And wearied to the very soul.
Again her voice a greeting sent
That filled him with embarrassment.
It said: "Bring up a pail of coal!"

But yesterday—how fast time flies—
It seems, he looked into her eyes,
And, dumb with love, reached for her hand
To try to make her understand.
They lingered by the large front door,
As they had often done before;
But yesterday—can he forget?
He climbed the steps, fatigued and wet,
And glad to leave the muddy street.
And she stood on the front-door sill,
And screamed, in accents sharp and shrill:
"Why don't you wipe your dirty feet?"

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease. It may lead directly to consumption. Catarrh is caused by impure blood, and the true way to cure it is by purifying the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh because it removes the cause of it by purifying the blood. Thousands testify that they have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HOod's Pills are purely vegetable and do not purge, pain or gripe. All druggists. 25c.

Mrs. M. says: "My daughter was pale, langnid and unable to stand any exertion. Miller's Compound Iron Pills made her strong and gave her colour. 50 doses 25 cents." Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, druggist.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego Cal. says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. Sold by John Nugent. 349 George Street.

Two Box Cure

MILVERTON, 23RD JULY, 1895.

Gentlemen,—For the last ten years I had been troubled with kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie in bed at night nor stoop to the ground.

I had tried all the remedies I could find without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.

I am most happy to say it for my own sake as well as for others that I am perfectly cured after using four boxes.

PETERBOROUGH PICKPOCKET.

He Has Been Robbing Market Women in Various Ontario Towns.

The Toronto Evening News says:—A young man who gave the name of Harry Ferguson, but who is believed to be Brydon Weese, a well-known pickpocket of this city, whose parents live in Peterborough, is under arrest at Ingersoll on a charge of stealing a purse and its contents from a lady who was marketing there. In his possession were found bills of the same demonstration as those stolen. The prisoner was in St. Thomas a short time ago, when some ladies lost their pocket-books. He was also in Woodstock a week or so ago, and the same thing happened. The markets are generally the place of his operations. Weese was convicted here of picking pockets in Eaton's and his photograph adorns the Rogues' Gallery. He has a brother in Hamilton, and one time was a bell-boy at the Palmer House.

Chief Roszel this morning received a letter from the Ingersoll Chief of Police asking for Weese's identification. He is from Peterborough all right enough, and the Chief does not give him a savoury reputation.

FLEMING FOUND GUILTY.

Convicted of Forgery but Recommended to Mercy at the County Court.

The case of the Queen vs. Fleming occupied Judge McDougall's attention all day yesterday at the Toronto sessions. The circumstances of the case are well known, having been investigated in the police court a few days ago. Wm. Fleming of Bewdley, is charged with forging Geo. Gooderham's name to a check for $2,700. On November 23rd he presented it for payment at the Bank of Toronto, but was arrested in the office. Crown Attorney Dewart conducted the case for the Crown, and W. G. Murdoch for the defence. The defence set up was that the prisoner was at the time mentally incapable of appreciating the gravity of the offence, and it was stated that at times he was mentally unbalanced. The case was given to the jury just before six o'clock, and at 6 30 they returned with a verdict of guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Miss Edwards, of Dummer, is visiting friends in the village.

Miss Effie McWilliams, who has been visiting friends at Havelock, returned home on Wednesday.

Mrs. and Miss Carveth were suddenly called to Toronto last week, owing to the illness and death of Mr. W. Mounce.

A lively contest it is expected will take place at our municipal election. Mr. W. H. Casement, our present reeve, has decided to retire and contest a seat in the county council, therefore the reeve's chair will be vacant. A number of names are mentioned but those brought most prominently before the public, are the names of Messrs. F. J. Lillicrap and W. M. Graham.

On Sunday last Rev. A.C. Reeves preached a very appropriate sermon at the memorial service in reference to the deaths of Mr. Hugh Davidson, sr., and Mr. Wm. Baptie. Taking for his text Matt. 6, 10, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, is to preach at the preparatory service in the Presbyterian church, on Friday afternoon at half past two. Sacrament will be held on Sunday morning at 11.

Have you read R. Graham & Sons advertisement in this week's issue? It is brim-full of bargains, and should create large sales this month, for it is a well known fact that they are considered the cheapest place in Lakefield at which to make your Christmas purchases.

The steam drill is now in operation at Mr. Buchannan's cut on the Lakefield lock and is attracting large crowds watching it do its work.

Mr. Richard Simpson has a number of men engaged in making the excavations for the dry wall which is being built under the supervision of Mr. Patterson. Mr. Alex Richardson being the government overseer.

Mr. Fitzgerald with his men are excavating and blasting at the lower end of the Lakefield cut, making excavations in the rock for the lock.

The sidewalk has now been relaid across the canal, which is a very great comfort to those who had to go through the mud.

As yet we have not heard as to the intention of the Government, whether we shall have a swing or high level bridge. We hope that it may be a swing.

The Girls' Guild of St. John's church are holding a sale of fancy work, etc., at Reydon House, the residence of Mrs. Tate, this (Thursday) afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. Admission, only 10 cents, including refreshments.

Munro Camp, No. 150, S. O. S., meets this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock in the Orange Hall.

At Tanner's drug store you will find a full assortment of Christmas novelties.

MILLBROOK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is rumoured that Mr. William Sowden, of Souris, Man., and for many years one of the most prominent men in this community, intends coming to Millbrook to spend the rest of his days. Mr. Sowden was at one time reeve of Millbrook and warden of the united counties of Durham and Northumberland.

Mr. A. A. Smith, barrister, gave a very interesting lecture at the Epworth League, in the Methodist church, on Monday last, the subject being "The Bible the Foundation of Law."

Activity in municipal politics becomes greater as the time for elections draws nearer. Already candidates are in the field and active canvasses are being conducted. By the new arrangement Millbrook is in No. 2 division, with the north of Hope and south of Cavan. The gentlemen who have already announced themselves as candidates are ex-Reeve Ferguson, of Millbrook, Thos. Leith, of Hope, and ex-Deputy-Reeve Donaldson, of Cavan.

The Curling and Skating Rink Company advertised for tenders for the renting of the rink, but as none of them were very high none of them were accepted. Indeed it is a question whether the rink will be run this season or not. The curling club organised some time ago, but the hockey boys are waiting to see if they will have any ice.

Mr. J. R. Young has moved his restaurant business to a much larger store in Mr. James Gardiner's building.

The trouble between the Electric Light Company and the town council is about reaching a crisis. At Monday night's meeting of the council, Councillor Bateson gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would bring in a motion that the clerk be instructed to notify the company that their services for street lighting were no longer required. This is owing to the very poor service the company have been giving the town.

Miss Bertie Read, of Detroit, who has been visiting Mr. R. J. Doak, returned home this week.

If your eyes trouble you in any way, have them tested by W. Madill, optician. No charge for examination.

THE TARIFF ENQUIRY

Another Busy Day Put In at Toronto.

GRANT ASKED FOR DOMINION FAIR

Also for the British Association—Mr. Fielding Gave a Cool Reply—After That Business People Got a Show—Some Wanted Reductions, Others an Increase.

Toronto, Dec. 10.

When the tariff investigation was resumed at the Board of Trade yesterday only Hon. Messrs Fielding and Patterson were present. Sir Oliver Mowat has dropped out altogether, and Sir Richard Cartwright has been obliged to return to Ottawa on departmental business. During the morning session Hon. G. W. Ross dropped in and had a friendly talk with the Minister of Finance.

The first two delegations to claim the Ministers' attention were not tariff deputations, as they consisted of representatives to the British Association Committee and the Industrial Exhibition. The most important immediate outcome of the day's work was Mr. Fielding's promise that the Government would favorably consider and very shortly come to a decision regarding the respective money grants asked by the two organizations.

The first deputation, consisting of gentlemen who are arranging for the holding of the next meeting of the British Association in Toronto next summer, included: Messrs. B E Walker, Prof Macallum, Chancellor Burwash, President Loudon, Mayor Fleming, E B Osler, M P, Geo H Bertram, Edward Gurney, J Short Mcintyre, Jas Ball, jr, H P Dwight, Provost Welch, A H U Colquhoun, Hon G W Allan, E F Clarke, M P, A F Rutter, Wm Lount, M P, Wm Christie and W D Hamilton.

Mr. B. E. Walker, acting as spokesman, asked that the Dominion Government increase by $5000 the grant of $10,000 promised by ex-Finance Minister Foster towards defraying the expenses of the British Association meeting here next year. If the Ministers would thus grant $15,000 there would be $25,000 at the disposal of the committee, as the city of Toronto had donated $5000, and the Ontario Government $7000. Mr. Walker explained that the additional $5000 was needed so that the celebrated scientists who would attend the convention might be sent to all parts of the Dominion and made acquainted with the vast resources of the country. If the attention of the world could only for a few months thus be drawn to Canada the results from an advertising standpoint would be splendid.

President Loudon, Professor Macallum and Messrs. Bertram and Gurney also spoke. One of these gentlemen observed that when the British Association met in Montreal in 1884 the Government had given $30,000 towards defraying expenses.

Mr. Fielding, in reply, said that extravagant expenditure in the past furnished no reason for similar action now. He appreciated the importance of the purpose for which the money was asked, and promised to favorably bring the matter to the attention of his colleagues at Ottawa.

The deputation from the Industrial Exhibition, which came to ask an appropriation of $50,000 towards the holding of a Dominion Fair in Toronto next fall, consisted of President J J Withrow, Dr. A Smith, Mayor Fleming, Geo Booth, Wm Lount, M P, Ald O B Sheppard, S J Score, Wm Christie, P G Close, W B Hamilton, Ald J K Leslie, Robt Davies, Geo Vair, G E Briggs, Ald J H Boustead, Dr J O Orr, C W Postlethwaite, W G McWilliams, Manager H J Hill, J P Edwards, Robt Jaffray, E B Osler, M P, E F Clarke, M P, R W Elliot and A F Rutter.

President Withrow laid before the Ministers the object of the deputation in asking the grant. He said the idea of holding a Dominion Exhibition in Toronto next year grew out of the arrangement for bringing the British Association here. The grant was needed to bring exhibits from every province of Canada that the visitors might see what Canada's resources were. Such a show, it was also urged, would encourage interprovincial trade. It was likewise pointed out that an announcement as to the Government's intention should be given out at once, as there was no time to lose if the scheme was to be carried out.

Manager Hill and Messrs. Lount and Christie supported Mr. Withrow.

The Finance Minister, in reply, said that as a result of the jealousies existing between different cities he believed it to be unwise to make money grants to local expositions. Such aid should be undertaken by the Provincial Governments. If it could be shown, however, that the proposed fair would be recognized in the other provinces as a Dominion Exhibition the association would have a strong claim on the Government. He agreed that it was important that the association should know what the Government was going to do at once, and he promised that he would go back to Ottawa very shortly, bring the matter before his colleagues and see that a decision was come to and announced.

Messrs. R. Millichamp, president, and Geo. T. Irving, managing director of the Irving Umbrella Company, constituted the first deputation of the morning on tariff matters. They asked that if a reduction were made in the 35 per cent. duty on umbrellas a corresponding reduction on the raw materials should also be made.

Mr. Millichamp is also interested in the manufacture of blankets, and he presented the commission with the following written statement regarding the tariff on those articles:

"Canadian blankets are made from Canadian grown wool. Medium grades of imported goods are made from a low-grade East India wool and shoddy. A medium quality of English blanket would cost about 42 1-2 cents per pound. The Canadian manufacturer sells a first-class all pure wool blanket at about the same price, and in very large lots about two cents less. The Canadian manufacturers have kept on using pure Canadian wool, producing the best wearing blanket in the world and intrinsically the cheapest blanket in the world. We have no machinery at present capable of working up as low a grade of stock as is used by the English manufacturer, nor are our work people accustomed to it, therefore we cannot compete with the low-grade English goods, which would be imported if the specific duty was removed, that is unless the ad valorem was increased sufficient to equalize the present rate. The English manufacturer, with his specially adapted machinery and highly skilled labor, can and does produce an article which in appearance is as fine looking as the superior Canadian blanket. The English blanket is so cleverly manipulated and finished that the ordinary consumer is deceived, and does not know what a worthless article he has purchased until he begins to wear it.

"If the English manufacturer put clean wool into his blanket of the same quality and strength of staple as used by Canadian makers, we should not ask for any protection whatever. We want protection from inferior and shoddy goods; we can hold our own when pure wool is used. The removal of the specific duty would seriously affect the blanket business, not in any too flourishing a condition now, owing to the keen competition for orders among the Canadian manufacturers themselves. Within the past two years we have suffered from the introduction of cotton, and mixed cotton and wool blankets from the United States, which have the appearance of wool and are very sightly. They can be sold in Canada for about half the price of all wool. These have displaced thousands of pairs of Canadian wool blankets, very considerably lessening the demand for all wool goods, so that the outlook for our manufacturers is not by any means hopeful nor encouraging. It is to be hoped that the tariff on blankets will be allowed to remain as it now is. We do not ask for an increase; a higher duty would not increase the price of Canadian goods: local competition would keep down the price. The blanket manufacturers have no combination or association of any kind."

Messrs. Ritchie & Ramsay, manufacturers of cardboard and coated papers, asked that the tariff relating to their business be left untouched. Were the duties lowered the United States and German manufacturers would force them out of the market and cause them to close their factory, which they had only, in 1893, fitted up with expensive machinery. Their raw materials are chiefly paper and wood pulp.

Representatives of the American Rattan Company had a private interview with the commissioners.

Messrs. Selby, manufacturers of and dealers in kindergarten goods, asked for a lowering of the duties on certain lines which they turn out. If the duty were lowered so that the goods might be sold here at the same figure as in the United States, there would be a greater consumption of the lines, and a great educational benefit to the country would result. They claimed to be the only manufacturers and importers of these goods in Canada, and to supply the whole country.

The dealers in coffee, cocoa, chocolate, baking powder, flavoring extracts, spices, etc., were represented by C. C. Dalton, A. Jardine, James Todhunter, W. A. Mitchell and J. W. Cowan. They asked for a careful consideration of the tariff on the numerous lines they handle, their representatives being generally in favor of a retention or increase of the present duties.

Messrs. Daniel Rose, James Murray, W. H. Apted, James Dudley, Dan A. Rose and A. F. Rutter, representing the employing printers, bookbinders and allied trades, came next.

Mr. Daniel Rose, on behalf of the deputation, presented Mr. Fielding with the following statement of their wants:

Plates of Books.—The admission of plates for books free had been a great advantage to the trade. It has increased the consumption of paper, and given extra employment to the pressman and bookbinder. We are strongly of the opinion had plates remained on the dutiable list, work we are now getting would not have come to Canada.

Books.—We are of the opinion that a change could with advantage be made in the tariff on books, so as to promote the bookbinding industry, and

THE HONEY INDUSTRY

There's Money in It When Properly Handled.

BEESWAX IS ALSO PROFITABLE

The President of the Beekeepers' Association Talks to His Colleagues at the Convention in Toronto Officers Elected—Next Year's Meeting Will be in Hamilton.

Toronto, Dec. 10.

The Bee-Keepers' Association assembled again yesterday in the Council chamber. Other members present besides those mentioned yesterday were: Irving Kinyon, Camillus, N.Y.; J. F. Davison, Unionville; A. E. Hoshel, Beamsville; M. W. Vernon, Newmarket, and Peter Byer, Markham.

The president's address, to which reference was made yesterday, after mentioning the Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association as the largest and most influential organization of its kind in the Dominion, referred to the absolute need of bee-keeping being conducted on scientific principles. He spoke of moveable frames, honey extractors and similar improvements. In connection with the suitability of Canada for honey production, he said: "Bee-keeping in Ontario (and my remarks apply to many other parts of the Dominion), is an industry for which our country is naturally adapted; the farther north you go the better the quality of honey obtained, provided that blossoms will distil nectar in sufficiently large quantities to pay the bee-keeper. . . . Again, ours is a profession that creates wealth. The honey crop displaces no other crop on the farm, and, further, the primary object of the existence of the honey-bee is not to gather honey, but to assist by the distribution of pollen the cross fertilization of plant life. The honey-bee is of the greatest value to the fruit-grower, and all that Bee-Keepers ask in return from the fruit-grower is a little nectar from the flowers in his orchard and field, and the firm and kindly grasp of his hand, acknowledging the common interest and common benefits."

Referring to the possibilities before bee-keepers, he said: "There is no doubt but that if the attention of manufacturers of such articles as confectionery, vinegar, liquors and tobacco were drawn to the usefulness of honey, it would lead to a hundred-fold increase in consumption. . . . Take Germany, for instance; the last statistics give the number of colonies kept as 1,910,000; the annual production of honey, 44,800,000 pounds. Spain, 1,000,000 colonies and annual production of honey 42,500,000 pounds. France, 950,000 colonies and the annual production 22,500,000 pounds, and European production of honey, 35,000,000 tons; wax, 15,000 pounds; and yet we find such countries as Britain, Germany and France importing honey from the North American continent. We know that England imports a large quantity of honey, as we have very strong evidence that those who have tried the American product prefer it to all others, except their own production. . . . Many parts of our Dominion never see honey, and even in this city in which we are at the present gathered, 200 pounds could to advantage be consumed where one is used to-day. How few of the restaurants, lunch counters and hotels have honey on their bill of fare! . . . Concerning wax, I know of one firm in the Province of Quebec willing to place an order for 1000 pounds of bees' wax a month, a quantity this country is at present unable to supply. . . . As to quality, Canadian honey is generally pure. In the few cases where adulteration has taken place it has, I feel satisfied, almost always been done by the dealer."

Other matters referred to were the amendment of the Adulteration Act, the questions concerning the cheapening of the cost of production, better methods of wintering, the reduction of swarming, comb foundations and foul broods.

The greater portion of the morning session yesterday was taken up with an address by Mr. Thomas Macfarlane, the Chief Dominion Analyst in the Inland Revenue Department. The subject which he entered was the state of the law in reference to adulteration, and the steps to be taken to detect, prevent or punish for adulteration. He pointed out that the department would investigate cases where there were reasonable grounds for suspecting adulteration. The enforcing of the act was in the hands of the department, an officer of which would purchase the article, and, dividing it into three parts, would give one to the vendor, one to the district analyst and retain the other at Ottawa for analysis. There are eight district analysts distributed throughout the Dominion. Both the district and the central analysts would test the samples, and, in case of adulteration prosecution would follow. The department intended to adopt the same system for honey samples as in the case of other articles of food. Bulletins would be printed and widely distributed. When adulteration was discovered the vendor would for a first offence be allowed to pay the costs of the analysis ($9).

After some discussion, it was referred to the Executive to investigate complaints of adulteration before putting the law into motion.

By special request, Mr. Irving Kinyon delivered an address.

The election of officers at the afternoon session resulted as follows, Mr. Holterman announcing that he was not in the field for re-nomination to the presidency, and all except Messrs. Post, Couse and Hall being elected by acclamation. Mr. Hoshel and Mr. Craig acted as scrutineers:

J. K. Darling, Almonte, president; M. B. Holmes, Athens, first vice-president; W. J. Brown, Chard, second vice-president; directors to represent Ontario Agricultural College, Dr. Mills; District 4, C. W. Post, Trenton; 5, J. W. Sparling, Bowmanville; 6, Wm. Couse, Streetsville; 7, A. Picket, Nassagaweya; 8, Israel Overholt, South Cayuga; 9, J. B. Hall, Woodstock; 10, F. A. Gemmell, Stratford; 11, W. A. Chrysler, Chatham; 12, H. Hughes, Barrie. Secretary and treasurer will be elected after the board meets; Wm. McEvoy, Woodburn, inspector of foul broods; F. A. Gemmell, Stratford, sub-inspector of foul broods; R. F. Holterman, Brantford, Toronto Exhibition representative; John Newton, Thamesford, London Exhibition representative; J. K. Darling, Almonte, Experimental Farm representative; A. E. Hoshel, Beamsville, and John Newton, Thamesford, auditors; J. D. Evans, Islington, and D. W. Heise, Bethesda, Revising Committee.

The new president, Mr. J. K. Darling, took the chair in the afternoon. It was decided that the next convention should be held at Hamilton.

Mr. McKnight introduced the subject of the manufacture of honey vinegar. He gave his opinion that one gallon of water needed two pounds of honey, and that nothing more was requisite than honey water and time, with a little yeast, if necessary. The temperature should not go below 42 deg. Skim-milk, isinglass or white of eggs will refine, and 12 months will mature the vinegar. Ordinary vinegar will realize wholesale from 22 to 25 cents a gallon, and extra pickling vinegar 35 cents a gallon.

Mr. A. E. Hoshel opened a discussion on "The Principles of Summer Management," which he illustrated by diagrams.

At the evening session an address was, according to the printed program, to have been delivered by Mr. James, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture. As he was not in attendance, it was thought probable he had been called away to Guelph.

A vote of thanks was passed to Dr. Sproule, M.P., and other M.P.'s and Senators who assisted in getting the Adulteration Act amended.

On the question of union or affiliation with the Bee-Keepers' Union of North America and the North American Bee-Keepers' Association, it was decided after discussion not to take action at the present time.

Discussion took place on the best methods of rendering old comb, in which nearly every member gave his experience, and the almost unanimous verdict was in favor of the Sun Extractor.

It makes pure, rich, red blood, and from this comes nerve, mental, bodily and digestive strength.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1896.

BRITISH COMMERCE.

Mr. Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, was banquetted recently at Birmingham, and in his speech on that occasion he told his hearers some sound truths about commerce and colonies. As these same truths are well-fitted to enlighten some apparently benighted people here in Canada, we take the liberty of calling attention to them, in a specific way.

In his statement, that "the most important duty and most absorbing care of the Government is the development and maintenance of our vast agricultural, manufacturing and commercial enterprise," all British and Canadian statesmen will unreservedly concur. The minds of foreign politicians may run on military glory and territorial conquest, but the chief anxiety of the people of Great Britain is to remain at peace and to trade freely with the whole world. Napoleon Bonaparte called them in his contemptuous fashion "a nation of shop-keepers," but the intended slur is a real compliment. To manufacture goods and engage in commerce are nobler occupations than to blast industrious communities by the sweep of invading armies or to paralyze maritime enterprise by means of costly iron-clads. "Commerce," as Mr. Chamberlain puts it, "is the greatest of political interests."

Mr. Chamberlain's assertion that "the British alone appear to have been successful in making colonial acquisitions profitable," is amply borne out by history. The one great fatal blunder in a long series of triumphant success, is the alienation of of the American colonies by the assertion, during the decade from 1764 to 1774, of the right of the British Parliament to tax the colonists. But for the unfortunate obstinacy and crass stupidity of George III and his three ministers, the whole of North America from the Gulf of Mexico to the North Pole might have been still part of the British Empire. The lesson learned was never repeated, for there was no need to emphasise it. Britain's policy of conceding to her colonies ample powers of self-government has been fully justified by the result.

The policy of free trade was never more emphatically defended than it was by Mr. Chamberlain in his Birmingham speech. He contrasted in his strong way the magnanimous attitude of Great Britain, in allowing all foreign nations to trade with her colonies on the same terms as those on which she was herself forced to trade with them, with the selfish exclusiveness of other nations in trying to shut out of their colonial markets all trade except their own. And this magnanimity has had, as he showed, its reward. While the colonies of Britain rapidly become self-sustaining and a source of profit to the mother country, the colonies of other nations continue to be to them a bill of expense.

Lastly, Mr. Chamberlain pointed out the absurdity of the "scare" over the increase in the amount of foreign manufactures imported into Great Britain and her colonies. During the past decade the exports from the mother country to her principal colonies and dependencies had been increased by $40,000,000 a year. During the first half of that period the rate of increase of general exports had been large, but it had fallen off during the second half, and the aggregate was small. His tone, while it was one of warning as to the necessity of alertness on the part of both the government and the manufacturers, was one of firm and uncompromising adherence to freedom of trade as the best national and colonial policy.

SIR OLIVER MOWAT is no longer connected with Ontario politics, but he has got Ontario so much in the habit of winning Privy Council appeals, that the winning is now done automatically, so to speak. Two appeals—one by the Dominion against Ontario, and one by Quebec against Ontario, were decided yesterday in favour of Ontario. The matter involved the liability of this province to the payment of certain annuities to Indians for lands which the latter ceded to Upper Canada prior to Confederation. This is an important matter to this Province, as the amount of liability was—past and prospective—a large one. It places Ontario in a much more favourable financial position.

UNITED CANADA, a Catholic paper, thus discusses the school settlement: "Those who in arrogant insolence and surprising ignorance maintain that the Pope will condemn the terms of the school settlement entered into by the Governments of Canada and Manitoba, overlook two facts of significance: (1) That the Holy See never seeks or provokes quarrels with civil governments (witness its attitude on the Belgian school question twelve years ago); and (2) that the Holy Father gave indirect approval to the famous Faribault plan of Archbishop Ireland, which secured for Catholics nothing save religious instruction after school hours. In the city of Windsor, Ont., with a large Catholic population, all the schools are under the control of the Public School Board. The majority of that Board is Protestant. It treats the Catholics with every just consideration. In New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Ontario Catholics express themselves gratified at the fairness of Protestants in school matters. Is there any reason why the same may not in a few years be said of the majority of the people in Manitoba? None that we can see."

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT.

His Long and Useful Parliamentary Life.

Ottawa, Dec. 9.—Sir Richard Cartwright has been so long in public life that most people naturally think of him as an old man. Last Friday was his sixty-first birthday, so that he is really in the prime of life. A man of strong vitality and considerable physical strength, Sir Richard no doubt feels a touch of rheumatism a bit irksome, but on the score of good health he has much more in his favour than the generality of mankind. He is now the senior member of the House of Commons in point of service, having been thirty-three years continuously either in the old Parliament of Canada or the new, with the exception of one session. Experience is the most coveted and costly thing in the world. It is especially valuable in public life and Canada is most fortunate, irrespective of party, in having this long experience placed unstintedly at her disposal by such a well balanced statesman.

CHEESE REPORTS.

The Annual Meeting of the Lakefield Dairy Company.

The Auditors are pleased to report that they found the secretary's books in a satisfactory condition, being kept in a very business-like way. They have also to report, although there has not been as much milk to manufacture as last year, the price of cheese has been somewhat better. Comparing the cheese industry with other products of the farm, it may be fairly said to be one of the most remunerative products of the farming community. We have gone through the monthly receipts of milk, the monthly production of cheese, the shipments of the local sales, etc. The monthly sales are as follows:

Month.	Lbs Cheese.	Price.
May	13,423	$ 850 90
June	22,032	1584 37
July	20,180	1443 37
August	14,949	1322 27
September	14,895	1498 19
October	16,824	1729 96
Total	102,302	$8,458 95

Total lbs of milk received for season, 1,101,234 lbs.

Average lbs of milk to lb of cheese, 10.76; last year average, 10.74.

No. of standards manufactured for season, 376; No. of standards last year, 425.

Total value per standard, $22 65; last year, $21.94.

Price of butter fat per lb, 21½c.

Average price of cheese for season, 8.27 cents—a little over 8½c.

As compared with last year there is a decrease of milk by 16,351 lbs, and a deficit of cash by $368.09.

Your manufacturer deserves high commendation, as there has not been a "cull" cheese in the whole season's make. Your cheese has been amongst the first selections and the price secured has been amongst the highest on the Cheese Board, thereby making it comparatively easy for your salesman.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert Melanson, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said:

"During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realizing great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

Science is "knowing how." The only secret about Scott's Emulsion is years of science. When made in large quantities and by improving methods, an emulsion must be more perfect than when made in the old-time way with mortar and pestle a few ounces at a time. This is why Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil never separates, keeps sweet for years, and why every spoonful is equal to every other spoonful. An even product throughout.

In other emulsions you are liable to get an uneven benefit—either an over or under dose. Get Scott's. Genuine has a salmon-colored wrapper.

THE TARIFF ENRUIRY.

would suggest that unbound books be continued at six cents per pound, and the rate on bound books be increased from six to eight cents per pound, and that hymnal and prayer-books be taken from the free list and added to the dutiable. Such changes will not affect the price to the consumer.

Subscription Books, bound or in sheets.—This is a most important item to the trade. The United States copyright law affects the item, as under that law, if copyright is desired in the United States, the type for the book must be set there. The effect of this is that all the subscription books used in Canada are now being imported (except those on local subjects), it being cheaper to pay the present duty of six cents per pound than to ship a duplicate set of plates, but with an increased duty on the book, a large percentage of these books would be made here, and the price to the public would not be affected, while employment would be given to paper-makers, printers and bookbinders. The present duty is six cents per pound, and we would suggest that it be increased to ten cents per pound.

Paper.—The duty on marble papers, coated and enamelled cover papers, fancy papers, crinkled tissue, together with cardboard, also leatherette, skydogen, imitation cloth or leather, is at present 35 per cent.; all of these, we think, should be reduced to 25 per cent.

Straw Board.—This article is not made in Canada suitable for bookbinders' purposes; a quality of this straw board is manufactured here, which is used for the manufacture of egg cases, etc. The firms in the United States, from which the largest portion of the bookbinders' supply is drawn, have entered into a Trust, so that there is practically only one place to buy at in America; and we understand that they hold patents that will prevent the Canadians manufacturing, even if the demand warranted it. Present duty, 30 cents per 100 pounds, equal to 30 per cent. Suggested change, 10 per cent., the same as is now collected on mill board, which is used by bookbinders for the same purpose.

Wire.—This article is not made in Canada suitable for bookbinders' purposes. The wire imported by the manufacturers of boots and shoes for use on their sewing machines is free. Present duty, 25 per cent. We would ask that when imported for bookbinders' use, it be free.

Duck, suitable for covering blank books, and very largely used, is not manufactured in Canada. The kind of duck or canvas now manufactured here for overalls, tents, awnings, etc., will not answer our purpose. Present duty, 30 per cent., and when imported for making hose, free. Suggested change, when imported for bookbinders' use, 10 per cent.

Leather.—A very important item, which enters largely into the cost of producing a book, and especially those of a higher grade, should be placed on the same basis as the privilege now accorded the glove manufacturers. Present duty, 22 1-2 per cent. Suggested change, 10 per cent.

Type, present duty, 20 per cent.; galleys, present duty, 30 per cent.; cabinets, present duty, 35 per cent.; type stands, present duty, 25 per cent.; type cases, present duty, 25 per cent.; brass rule, present duty, 30 per cent.; wood furniture, present duty, 25 per cent.; metal furniture, present duty, 20 per cent.; printers' patent blocks and quoins, present duty, 25 per cent. We would suggest a reduction on all these items to 10 per cent.

Advertising pamphlets, etc., are now six cents per pound, and 20 per cent. We would suggest a change to bring them into the same class as advertising matter, etc., viz., 15 cents pound, 25 per cent.

Mr. G. W. Noyes waited upon the Ministers on behalf of the Oneida Community, manufacturers at Niagara Falls, N.Y., Niagara Falls, Ont., and other places of animal traps, chains, saddlery and harness specialties, sewing silk, canned goods, silver-plated ware, etc. He asked that the present duty on traps and chains be maintained. If it were lowered, he said, the Canadian factory would be closed, and the market here would be supplied with the company's American product.

W. A. Langton and H. P. Gordon asked the commission for the abolition of the present duty on architects' drawing materials. They argued that the duty was of no use to anyone, as it was simply a revenue arrangement.

When the commission resumed in the afternoon there was quite a large number of gentlemen in waiting, anxious for an interview. The first to be attended to were Messrs. John Smith of Smith Woolstock Company and Alfred Parker of the New Toronto Woolstock Company. They asked that the present duty of 20 per cent. on shoddy be maintained. They gave a resume of how wonderfully their industry had thrived in this country, and if the tariff was taken off the cheaper goods from Yorkshire would come in and seriously affect the business.

Mr. John Dwyer of the Calvert-Dwyer Co. asked to have ramienolia, a vegetable fibre, used for the same purpose as fibre, placed upon the free list.

The fruit and commission men were represented by J. P. Clemes of Clemes Bros., Mr. Dawson of Dawson Bros G. C. Husband of Husband Bros. & Co., and Joseph McWilliams of McWilliams & Everist. They wished to see a specific duty on most lines of fruit instead of ad valorem. For instance, on pears the duty is now 20 per cent. The deputation favored a specific duty of 40 cents a barrel. On apples, now 40 cents a barrel, they would like to see lowered to 25c. On tomatoes, now 20 cents per bushel and 10 per cent., they wished a straight specific duty of 25 per cent. Cranberries, now 25 per cent they would like to see changed to 50 cents per bushel. They named other lines on which similar changes were desired. On bananas they wanted the duty removed altogether and they also wanted all fruit and oyster packages to come in free.

The picture frame and mouldings men were represented by Messrs. W. L. Matthews, William Phillips, F. Phillips, George Woltz and W. Adamson. They pointed out that metal leaf and silver leaf constituted a lot of their raw material and that the duty on it at present is 25 per cent. They would like a reduction. They had been greatly affected by the last change in the tariff regarding frames and mouldings. The duty is now, frames 30 per cent., mouldings 25 per cent. It was formerly frames 25 per cent. and mouldings 30 per cent. The deputation would like it to be put back where it was before. Firms in Chicago and other American cities have such a large market that they can centralize their time and attention in one branch and can sell very cheaply in large quantities. They get their labor cheaper in the States, as a lot of children are employed at the business there. And, besides, the Americans sell 20 per cent. cheaper in Canada in order to allow for the duty.

Mr. J. G. Greey represented Messrs. W. & J. G. Greey, manufacturers of mill machinery. He stated to the commissioners that the present duty on flour mill machinery is sufficient to enable his firm to keep their market, but he wished particularly to call attention to the duty on chilled iron rolls. These were used extensively throughout the country. The duty on pig iron and machinery, which are the raw material used in the manufacture of chilled iron rolls, is 50 per cent. of its cost at the place of manufacture. Mr. Greey contended that the product should be protected equally as much as the raw material is. If there is to be any change in the duty at all, Mr. Greey said he would like to see it increased. The duty on chilled iron rolls now is 35 per cent., and he would prefer a specific duty of 3c per pound on rolls less than 9 inches in diameter, 2c per pound on rolls from 9 to 12 inches in diameter, and 1 3-4c per pound on larger rolls. In order to get the trade of Canada for Canadians there should be more duty and the duty on raw material should not be reduced, as, in his opinion, it would be prejudicial to the best interests of the country.

Mr. E. C. Hill of E. C. Hill & Co., bicycle agents, said that if the duty on bicycle parts was removed a good wheel could be sold here at $50. This would benefit the whole country and would create a bigger rush for wheels. The tariff was at present 30 per cent. This was not too high when the wheel was simply used as a luxury. Now that it was a necessity to the workingmen he thought the duty should be removed. Mr. Hill took exception to some statements made by Mr. Thomas at a recent interview regarding the quality of goods used in wheels that could be made for $40. He thought the goods were much better than Mr. Thomas had claimed, and he produced documents in support of his contention.

Mr. H. McLaren, manufacturer of dental supplies, said that the last change in the tariff had greatly affected his business. There was now a trade association here that purchased all its goods across the border, and Mr. McLaren could not compete, in fact they would not buy from him. He wanted to have the tariff raised to what it was formerly, and higher if possible.

Richard Garland, representing the Dunlop Tire Co., wanted the 22 1-2 per cent. duty on fabric taken off. It was impossible to get the material here, and without it the Dunlop tire would not be the Dunlop tire. The fabric made down in Yarmouth, N. S., would not do and the proper thing was only manufactured in New York. It was made from South Sea Island cotton and there was no loom in Canada wide enough to make it.

Mr. Alf Jury was the last to wait upon the commission. He was opposed to all tariff and had no sympathy with the cry that factories would be closed, etc., if changes were or were not made in the tariff. What was the use of a factory or an industry that was not self-supporting? He looked upon them in the same light as he would a tramp who had to beg for a living, and as something of no use to the country. He instanced several cases where, in his opinion, the consumer got all the worst of it owing to the tariff.

At 7 o'clock the commission rose. The Ministers will leave for Ottawa to-day.

People of St. Paul's, Hamilton, Join Hands and Call a Pastor.

Hamilton, Dec. 9.—(Special.)—After having been at enmity for over a year the two factions of St. Paul't Presbyterian Church joined hands again to-night, when Rev. Neil McPherson, D.D., of Petrolea was unanimously called to fulfill the duties of pastor of the church, made vacant by the death of Rev. Dr. Laidlaw. The proposed minister's salary was fixed at $2000 to start with, and a resolution was passed to the effect that this should be increased to $2500 as soon as the church was in a healthy condition financially. A committee was appointed to support the call before the Hamilton Presbytery, also to prosecute the call before the Barrie Presbytery.

Do the kidneys talk?
Well, yes, both loud and long.
You are learning the kidney language.
Backache in kidney language means kidney ache.
Lame back means weak kidneys.
Weak back means weak kidneys.
The kidneys are talking trouble.
Here is some Norwood talk:

Mr. George Taylor, well known in Norwood, has this to say about Doan's Kidney Pills:—

"For a great many years I have been a sufferer from kidney disease. Terrible pain in my side and back made my life a burden. The urine was a dark wine colour, and I was greatly troubled with frequent urination. My sleep was destroyed because of this annoying trouble.

"I have taken scores of medicines, but could get no relief, and thought that I would never be cured. Happily I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box at J. C. Moffatt's drug store, and have continued their use for one month.

"I am thankful to say as a result that they have fixed me up. I feel like another person. I do not now have to get up at night, and in fact am entirely cured.

"I think they are the grandest medicine ever placed before the public, and I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney disorder of any kind."

Did He Kill Himself?

Buffalo, Dec. 8.—William Robinson, an ostler, was asphyxiated by coal gas last night at Richman's sale stable, East Buffalo. He slept in a small room over the stable. Last night Robinson put fresh coal on the stove, left the door of the stove open, shut the door and window of his room and went to bed. He never woke up. Little was known at the stables about him.

This company met with a very cordial reception at the Opera House last night. The four-act drama "North Carolina" was rapturously received by the audience, and the consensus of written opinion concerning the play and its performance was very favourable. Christmas—the Children's Joy.

Part of the delightful anticipations of Christmas is the happiness of the children. Bring them, therefore, to see all that is to be seen at the Peterborough Bookstore. Part of this store's policy is to welcome the litttle ones as though they each had dollars to spend. We are anxious for trade, but we are also anxious to make holiday shoppers thoroughly welcome and perfectly at home. That applies equally to the children. We want them to come this week before the prettiest things are gone, and parents should remember the crowds next week will be almost too great for comfort. Doldom reigns over quite a section of this store, which, with the dolls' cradles and carriages, picture books, sleighs, rocking horses, games, Christmas cards, toys of all kinds, childrens's sets of dishes, etc., makes a veritable fairyland. A BOILER FOR THE KOOTENAY.

The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company Complete a Fine Piece of Work.

An unusually large marine steam boiler is to-day leaving the works of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. for the west.

It was ordered by the Columbia & Kootenay Steam Navigation Co. for a stern wheel steamer sailing the Columbia river and Arrow lakes in the Kootenay country.

This boiler is of the locomotive type, and has a working pressure of 160 pounds per square inch. The length of the boiler over all is 26 feet, and the barrel is 6 feet in diameter. The fire box, in which over two cords of wood can be consumed at a time, is 8 feet long, 7 feet 7 in. high, and 5 feet 6 in. wide. It has two fire doors through which the furnace is fed.

There are 310 tubes, two inches in diameter from fire box to combustion chamber, through which the smoke is led to the combustion chamber.

A wire cloth screen is placed in the combustion chamber to prevent sparks from going up the smoke stack. The cinders fall off this screen into a receptacle on the bottom of the combustion chamber, in which there is a series of pipes, which spray water constantly into this receptacle and the water is continually being blown out, carrying the cinders with it.

On the top of the barrel of the boiler is placed a steam drum, ten feet long, by thirty inches in diameter. The steam is conducted from the boiler to the drum by two branches, 16 inches in diameter on top of the barrel. The shell of this boiler is made of 11-16 and ⅝ steel plating. There are over 1,000 screw stays in way of the fire-box. The office of those stays is to support the outside shell and that of the fire-box shell. The ends of the boiler or heads are substantially stayed.

Prior to leaving the works this boiler was subjected to the hydrostatic test of 240 pounds per square inch. The total weight of the boiler, complete, is 25 tons.

So excellent is the work of this company that there is a constant demand for the products of the big concern the country over. Peterborough could have no better advertising medium than the William Hamilton Works, as the firm's name is found adorning machinery of every desceiption in all quarters of the continent.

A DECEMBER WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. W. Arthur Head and Miss Etta Day.

An interesting event took place at the residence of Mr. Henry Day, 200 Edinburgh street, last evening, when his daughter, Miss Etta Day, was united in marriage to Mr. W. Arthur Head.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's, in the presence of a large number of the friends of the young couple.

The bride was assisted by her neice, Miss May Fitzgerald, and Mr. Harry Hutchinson was the groomsman.

During the evening a most inviting wedding dejeuner was served.

The young couple received a large number of most beautiful presents.

CIVIC COMMITTEES MEET.

The Addition of 5 Per Cent. to the Taxes Cannot be Eluded.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was called last evening, with the object of holding a consultation with the solicitor and ascertaining the legality of extending the time for the payment of taxes, without the addition of 5 per cent. At present the percentage is added to all taxes not paid by December 14th, and the councillors were desirous of extending the time until January 15th, if possible, as by that date the merchants would be in far better shape, financially, to meet the obligation.

The town solicitor, however, knocked the philanthropic scheme on the head by stating that the council had not the power in this matter to do as it wished and so the tax bills will have to be met by the 14th or 5 per cent. will be added.

The question of the adjustment of the salaries of the town clerk and town treasurer came up for discussion, but it is not probable that the present council will make any change, as opinions differ very widely on the subject.

The Street and Bridge Committee also held a meeting during the evening, when the tenders for snowploughing were opened, and the contracts awarded as follows :

Northern division—John Parnell, $37.50.
Southern division—Robt. Nicholls, $60.00.

A meeting of the council will be held to-night.

A Shaving Machine.

The new shaving machine, which has not yet been patented, and which, as yet, only exists in the active imagination of most people, is of no importance, compared with the obtaining of the Christmas groceries, the best of which are obtained at E. Brown & Co's, importers of wines and liquors.

At the Opera House.

Another full house greeted the Marks Bros. Company at the opera house last night. This clever company made a big hit with "North Carolina." Tom Marks as "Elbert Rogers" put no end of fun into the play, and he was well supported. The acting of Miss May Bell in her role in the drama, as well as her vocal specialties, was quite up to her old form, which has always given such delight. To-night "An Irish Immigrant" holds the boards.

A Memorable Month.

R. H. Kells & Co. have determined to make the last month of the year a memorable one. Right in the middle of the Christmas trade, and when holiday shopping is steadily increasing, they announce a December clearing sale of all their winter goods. Everything in the store is included in this sale, and while the reductions are general throughout, some lines will suffer greater reduction than others. This firm makes the satisfactory statement that their business since January first is of larger volume than for the whole of last year, and that therefore they can afford to do business for the balance of the year for their customers' benefit. The lateness of the winter season, and the uncertainty about the tariff changes, are other reasons why they have decided on a rapid reduction of stock. A reference to their advertisement will demonstrate that prices have been made sufficiently attractive to crowd their store any day until New Years.

THE LAST SESSION OF THE OLD REGIME.

FORTY-FIFTH AND LAST YEAR OF THE PRESENT COUNCIL SYSTEM.

The Warden's Address—The Report of the Special Committee—The Services of Mr. Middleton, Retiring Warden, Recognised.

THURSDAY, DEC. 10TH:

The County Council went into session this morning, the Warden in the chair.

Mr. Burnham presented the report of the special committee appointed yesterday on the Warden's address, as follows :

1. Your committee recommend that the tenders for the sale of the county debentures be referred to the Finance Committee.

2. Your committee congratulate this County that the maintenance of the Bobcaygeon bridges has not been as onerous as was anticipated. As to the building of Steele's bridge in Asphodel, your committee feel that the difficulties that have arisen can be satisfactorily adjusted and that the county is prepared to deal liberally in the matter with all parties.

3. Your committee congratulate this county on the final settlement of the suit of Somerville vs. Peterborough and that the attempt of Victoria and other adjoining counties to lighten their own burdens by putting them on the shoulders of this county has been defeated.

4. Your committee beg leave to place on record their high appreciation of the services of the present Warden during his incumbency of the office and to congratulate him on the courtesy and zeal which he has always displayed in the performance of his onerous duties.

JOHN BURNHAM, Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, Dec. 9th, 1896.

The council then adjourned.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY ABOVE PAR.

Her Debentures Sell at a Premium of 2.45.

At the meeting of the Finance Committee of the County Council at the Court House this morning the tenders for the $10,000 of bridge debentures placed upon the market were opened and of the five offers submitted all were above par. The highest tenderer, which was closed with, was that of Æmilius Irving & Co., Toronto, $102 25. The debentures are four per cent., with a currency of twenty years, the principal payable in twenty equal annual instalments. At this rate the debentures will net between 3 6-8 and 3¾ per cent. per annum. This will be considered by many as a first rate sale, considering the short run of securities and the instalment repayments, which are a condition of the bonds. A financial expert, one of the local bank managers, considers the sale an excellent one.

But it was to be expected that a rich county like Peterborough, and one in so good a financial position, should have her securities regarded as gilt-edged. Her total indebtedness, including the last lot of debentures, is the small sum of $45 000, with the sinking fund fully paid up to date—a really paltry sum, compared to the paying power of the county, with its assessed value of $8,531,736. This condition of things is exceedingly creditable to the county councils of the past, and it must be gratifying that the present system, which is now passing its last days, has been productive of such good results. The county councils of the future, though in some details they may be an improvement on the present system, will have to do some pretty good work to improve on the manner in which the county councils of the old regime have looked after the interests of the county—efficiently administering our affairs, and with an economy that places us in such a creditable financial position that our securities take rank with the best on the market.

COUNTY COUNCIL CANDIDATES.

The Announced Candidates in the Several Divisions.

There promises to be brisk contests in most of the five county council divisions of Peterborough, though the latest information does not afford much change from the list of candidates previously published in the EXAMINER.

In No. 1 Div., Otonabee and Ashburnham, the present indications point to a walk-over for Mr. John Burnham and Mr. Wm. Anderson, the only two candidates so far who have expressed a decision to run.

No. 2 Division, embracing Smith, North Monaghan and Ennismore, will have four candidates, Mr. Jas. Middleton, Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, Mr. Jos. Forster and Mr. Wm. Crough.

In No. 3, or Lakehurst division, there will be four candidates, Messrs. Robt. Shaw, Brown, Hales and Mansfield. This division covers a very wide territory, and it is not likely that there will be a house to house canvas, unless the candidates learn to fly in the meantime.

But the big fight will be put up in the Norwood division, No. 4. Here the candidates will be John Finlay, who has been twenty-seven years in municipal life—nine as reeve and 18 as councillor, Mr. W. Buck, Mr. J. B. Pearce, Mr. S. S. Joyce, Mr. John Brown and Mr. John Walsh.

Lakefield, or No. 5 Division, will have four candidates, Messrs. W. H. Casement, E. Hawthore, John Moloney and Richard Crowe.

However the nomination day may bring out some "dark horse" candidates in all the divisions.

Your Christmas buying will be done best where stocks are fullest and most varied. Few stores in Canada begin to make the holiday displays that we have here every year—this year greater and grander than ever.

The holiday impulse is strong in all stocks, and useful things of every sort will continue to go for gifts. Many striking novelties are here in wood, metal, leather, brass and china. Many goods here are totally different to anything you'll see outside, and prices are positively below anything you'll find anywhere. For the next three weeks the province of this store news will be to suggest suitable gifts and emphasize earlier shopping.

The choicest things will go first as a matter of course, and sensible people will buy early, before the rush.

WESTERN CORN FOR FODDER,

Several Matters of Interest to the Farming Community Discussed by Judge Dean.

At the Victoria county court and general sessions, which opened yesterday at the court house, Lindsay, his honour Judge Dean, when charging the Grand Jury, referred to two matters of general public interest.

The first was this: In travelling through the eastern part of the province he had found the farmers in a prosperous condition, notwithstanding that much of the soil was poor and exhausted. He was universally told that the cause of this prosperity was the extensive growth of western corn. He had seen thousands of acres of it growing luxuriantly; but it was necessary for success that the land should be prepared as carefully for this western corn as for spring wheat, although less labour was required. The land should be abundantly manured, and the corn should be planted in drills or hills, and afterwards carefully cultivated by horse cultivators. A splendid crop of fodder would be result. A farmer in this very county has for years past kept throughout the winter four cows to the acre, in good flesh and with abundance of milk, simply by the use of this western corn as fodder, varied slightly by other feed. Year after year Mr. Carnegie, M. P. P., had kept sixty animals upon fifteen acres of corn by the help of his silo. There were many silos in this county, but many of the farmers further east were getting along without silos. They simply stood the sheaves of corn against the fence or against longitudinal poles mounted on crotches or otherwise, with a little space between each sheaf, so that the air could circulate, otherwise the corn would mould. In fact the great difficulty with corn as fodder was its liability to mould. The corn was left in this way until the winter, or it was drawn in near the barn or under shelter in the fall. The corn was cut just after it had formed nicely in the ear and had begun to glaze. This simple matter had brought comparative affluence to parts of the country where the soil had been completely exhausted. Western corn was raised in this way in places where they could not raise wheat or even coarse grains; so that there was dairying and stock-raising instead, and the western corn was the sheet anchor, as one farmer put it. In the northern part of Hastings, what drouth had been severe, they never failed to get a good crop of corn where the land was properly prepared, no matter how dry the season. Another valuable point was that the grasshoppers would not touch the corn crop. It was of great importance that the farmers of this country should grow things that they could export to the hungry hordes of Europe.

DOLLS IN THE WINDOW.

THEY APPEAL TO THE HEARTS OF ALL.

In Preparation for the Holiday Trade The Various Stores Have on Exhibition a fine Assortment of Little Waxen Women.

Peering out of the window was a tiny waxen face. Its cheeks were flushed. Its eyes were bright with childish expectancy. A smile curved the red lips, revealing a glimpse of pearly teeth. The arms were outstretched. The small body was leaning forward. The attitude was an invitation. The winsome lassie was tucked far down in the corner, but all who passed by saw her and stopped if only for a moment to smile to her. She was in a George street store window. She was not alone. The window was filled with dolls. There were big dolls and little dolls. There were short dolls and tall dolls, dolls with blue eyes and dolls with brown eyes, dolls with eyes open and dolls with eyes shut, dolls fast asleep and dolls wide awake, dolls in pink, dolls in every colour and hue. There were sturdy boys in jeans and jumpers and lovely lassies in gingham gowns. There were princes in velvet and princesses in satins and silks. Wondrous queens with jewels and gold spangles smiled at magnificent kings gorgeous in royal robes.

It was a leaf from Lilliputia. It seemed as if the merchant, Gulliver, had thrust his mighty arm back into the land of the midgets and culled from it the fairest of its people. There were the nobility in the centre, and then to their left was the chiefest of the commoners none-the-less. Below them were the men and women of the masses. Then came the children, and around them all were the outcasts, the nondescripts. It was evidently an accidental grouping, perhaps it was the fancy of the spectator that arranged them thus. There were other windows along George street, however, filled with dolls grouped in much the same manner. Crowds collected occasionally before them. They did not tarry long. Dolls are the delight of children, but the old person must have a young heart, tender instead of tough, to find interest in these families of fairies. The children swarmed to them. The doll above all else is the harbinger of the holidays.

It was late in the afternoon when the spectator stopped in front of the big window full of dolls. The grey of early evening was creeping over the town. Lights popped out of the dusk like stars in the evening sky. They twinkled and trembled throwing out a spray of brightness into the gloom. Women hurried along the sidewalks, burdened with bundles or babies, and often both. The trend of humanity was homeward. The day was dying. Mankind was deserting it. In all the push and rush and bustle and confusion only the dolls stood still and unchanged. They smiled or slept or stared at you without a quiver of an eyelid or a flutter of the breast. It mattered not if you jumped or shouted or pounded on the pane. They never moved.

Off in one corner was a wee might of a baby doll, with wavy brown hair and without the full, red cheeks of most of her sisters She was dressed in white—a simple, plain little dolly gown. She lay on her back, her eyes closed and her tiny wax hands meeting across her breast. A woman with pale face and big brown eyes stopped before the window. She was dressed in black. There were dark rings under her eyes. A shadow of sorrow seemed to accentuate the lines about her eyes and mouth. Slowly the big brown eyes roamed over the feast of little faces. Once or twice the woman smiled at a quaint face or pretty pose. Finally the big brown eyes rested on the pale little face in the corner. They filled with tears as their owner turned away. And the wee little doll lay still as before.

He was old and bent and feeble. He shuffled close up to the glass where the woman had stood. His face was wrinkled and puckered. He is a popular man, brainy and crusty and crabbed. The hard old face was pressed close to the pane. The blinking eyes opened wide. The dolly seemed too coo a welcome. She was dressed in pink, with a big Gainsborough hat. Her hat was cocked to the left and her eyes were brimming with mirth. The grim old visage beyond the pane relaxed. The stern lines vanished. He began to chuckle. He nodded and rubbed his hands. Then he laughed aloud, nodding all the while. Suddenly he bumped his nose against the pane. With a start, he straightened up and scowled and moved away. He hesitated and turned back and looked again at the little pink princess. The clouds rolled away, the sunshine came again and the old man near the midnight of life, moved on, while he chuckled and and rubbed his hands, and chuckled yet again.

He left too soon. The tots crept up to the window. They were children of the street with hardly even a window for a home.

"Dare she is!" said the one, a mere midget in tatters, with a torn school bag slung on his shoulder.

"Der yaller one!" queried his companion, gazing awe-stricken at a Duchess of Orange.

"Naw, yer yawp!" was the disgusted reply. "Der empriss in pink. Dat one wot is grinnin' at yer, like she was jes' treated ter ice——"

The answer was lost as they edged away to make room for a group of women.

"There's the style I mean," said one, a tall creature in a seal coat. "The narrow sleeves on that cerise doll are——"

"Here they is! Here they is!"

Three youngsters, bearing and hauling their mother, forced the women aside.

"There's Jack and Jill!" said one, flattening his face on the glass.

"And Red Riding Hood!" said another. The third lad was silent.

"Where is yours Jack?" asked his mother.

Slowly, shyly, with head hanging low and finger in his mouth, the little fellow edged along the window until he was close to the other end. Then he stopped, raised the other hand, extended the forefinger and pointed, oh! so tenderly, to a dainty little miss with golden hair and cheeks red like the rose in the dew of the morning. Then he darted to his mother's side and hid his head and heart with its tale of love safe in the folds of her skirt.

Two business men stopped a moment, ceased their talk and eased their features in a long look and quiet smile, then took up their workadays ways and moved on. Others came and went. None who stopped and looked failed to respond. Man is indeed a mirror of what he sees and thinks. Reflected in the faces that feasted at the window were all the tenderness and gentleness of a home with its loved and loved ones. True it was only a window full of dolls, but even the sight of a rough box or a mound of dirt can make strong men weep. It may be memory. It may be imagination. Perhaps the dolls know.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL!

Prevented From Giving Goods Away.

Owing to the action of certain parties, the attention of our local guardians of the law was called to Fairweather & Co's Great Gift of a High Grade Bicycle which we had announced to give away on Dec. 31st.

We find on consulting legal authority our method of giving the wheel to the party who held the lucky number was unwittingly infringing on the lottery act, and we will consequently have to make a change. We had noticed that in Toronto and other places the same method had been adopted as we were using, and consequently thought that it was all right. However, as we do not wish to break the law and also do not wish to break faith with the public, we have determined to give this wheel away in another way that will keep within the laws demands and still give justice to our numerous patrons.

No doubt the parties who interested themselves sufficiently to stop us will feel that they gained a great deal by having the authorities take this action until they know that we are going to give that Bicycle away in spite of all they can do.

On December 31st we will announce the new method by which we will give away our wheel. In the meantime we advise our customers to and secure as many more as they can, as we intend to make them valuable to them. We are still issuing Tickets to all purchasers but not on the same basis as before.

Furs FOR PRESENTS

We're doing overtime to keep even with Christmas orders—some people with more foresight than others placed their orders away back in September—tardy ones have put off till now, and now it's all rush. Well that's the way we like to be—if we were not we'd not be satisfied. Every order will be out in good time.

There's always our fine stock of rich and costly furs to fall back on, and just now the fur department is stocked to the ceilings with new and novel things in Coats, Capes, Caperines, Muffs, Ruffs, Capes, Gauntlets, Collars—and we're doing a land office business in them—we've put all prices at the lowest notch to ensure an entire clearing of the whole lot by the new year.

Come in and look about, you're welcome. If you have a dollar or $10 to spend this is the place to spend it.

FAIRWEATHER & CO

When a man is ruined and there is no help for it, a good wife is the one stay and comfort left to him. But no man, who is a man, wants to put his wife to this extremity. For woman in her gentle nature suffers with the husband she comforts and consoles. It is a humiliation to any proud woman that the man of her choice should prove at last a failure—broken in purse and in spirit. Back of all business failures lies ill-health. No man who is suffering from brain fag, nervous prostration and debility, due to impure blood and a disordered digestion can long succeed in business. Every woman should make it her duty to see that her husband takes proper care of his health.

The best medicine in all the world for hard-worked business men is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is medicine for both body and mind. It makes the digestion good, the liver active, and the appetite keen. It fills the blood with the life-giving elements that build new tissues. It invigorates and purifies. It is the one great blood-maker and flesh-builder. There's nothing in the market "just as good."

A. L. Purdy, Esq., of Otterpond, Caldwell Co., Ky., writes: "I herewith inclose stamps to pay postage on one of your cloth-bound 'People's Medical Advisers.' I know your book to be a good one. I had suffered seven years with liver complaint when I read about your 'Golden Medical Discovery' in one of your books. After using a few bottles of the 'Discovery' and three vials of the 'Pleasant Pellets' I was completely cured."

One copy of a good, practical, medical work is worth more in a home than a thousand works of fiction. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the best home medical book extant. It contains 1,008 pages and three hundred illustrations and is written in plain, everyday language that any one may understand. Over a million women own copies of it and 680,000 of them paid $1.50 each for their copies. A new and large edition will be given away absolutely FREE. If you want a copy in a paper cover, send thirty-one one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing and customs only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. If you desire a fine French cloth binding, send 50 one-cent stamps.

NEW DOMINION NOTES.

They Are Issued in $3000, $1000 and $500 Values to Be Used Between Banks.

Toronto, Dec. 9.

The Dominion Government has just issued new Dominion notes running away up in the millions in value. The new notes do not constitute any additional liability for the Government, but simply replace old paper that has been called in.

The issue is made up of five-thousand, one-thousand and five-hundred dollar bills, which are intended exclusively for use by banks, with a view to facilitating the regular transactions between such institutions and the Dominion Department of Finance. The notes would therefore be dishonored if presented by a private individual.

A similar issue was made some time ago by the United States Government, and is now for the first time resorted to in Canada.

The utility of the issue can be easily seen when it is considered that, should a bank messenger lose or be robbed of a large number of the notes, his bank would be nothing out. The banks are therefore likely to generally employ the new bills when sending big sums from one point to another.

The $5000 notes are ornamented with the head of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, the $1000 bills with that of the Queen, while the $500 paper bears the likeness of the Marquis of Lorne. Judging from the fact that the late Chieftain's head is used to decorate part of the issue, it is safe to say that the move was decided upon by the Tupper Government before it fell from power.

POPULATION NEEDED.

Hon. Mr Sifton Promises a Vigorous Immigration Policy—Tory Postmaster Bounced—Winnipeg News

Winnipeg, Dec. 8.—(Special.)—Hon. Mr. Sifton made an interesting speech at the Liberals' banquet at Moosomin. He said he fully realized that what Western Canada most needed was population, and he promised an energetic regime.

Roger Marion, who has for many years been postmaster of St. Boniface, has been dismissed, and Alfred Levecque, a Liberal, appointed to succeed him.

Dr. Barnardo has established a branch of his institution for the relief of poor children of the larger cities of England in this city. The Winnipeg branch is conducted on exactly similar lines to those of the Toronto branch, which serves as a distributing point for the graduates of English homes.

Premier Greenway will accompany Mr. Sifton to Ottawa early next week. Mr. Sifton is to be banqueted by the Winnipeg Liberals next Monday night.

At the Winnipeg civic nomination to-day five candidates entered the mayoralty contest, which will be the most exciting in the history of the city. The five are: John Sproule, W. F. McCreary, Alex. McMicken, E. F. Hutchings and Alex. Black.

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Bacteriologists Are of the Opinion That the Scourge in Bombay is Not Contagious.

New York, Dec. 8.—A special to The Herald from Bombay says: The Government bacteriologists are of opinion that the plague, unlike cholera, has a tendency to stick to the locality where it originated. A few authentic cases are reported in adjacent towns, but they are all of Bombay origin.

The disease, where reported, was dying out without spreading. In Bombay for two months the plague remained confined to one ward. It has now spread to all districts of the city, and is increasing largely with the cooler weather.

Only one case is reported of a person dying by attending a patient having contracted the plague. This disease, though infectious, has not been proved contagious.

Eight hundred deaths are reported up to date, but the number is believed to be much larger. Crowds of panic-stricken natives are fleeing from the city. Trade and travel are seriously affected.

The famine which threatened the whole of India has been partially averted in certain districts by the recent rains. Grain speculation continues and aggravates the situation.

Mr. Benj. Scott, Van Horn, Ont., says: "My heart caused me great uneasiness. My appetite failed, and I became very weak and discouraged. Miller's Compound Iron Pills made me all right; I feel well and strong." Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, druggist.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all summer complaints and fluxes of the bowels in children or adults.

Karl's Clover Root will purify your blood, clear your complexion, regulate your bowels and make your head clear as a bell. 25c 50c. and $1.00.

ONTARIO BEEKEEPERS.

The 17th Annual Meeting of the Association Opened at the City Hall, Toronto—Hon. Mr. Fisher Present.

Toronto, Dec. 9.

The Ontario Beekeepers' Association assembled for its seventeenth annual meeting at the Council chamber of the City Hall yesterday afternoon. The chair was occupied by Mr. R. F. Holterman of Brantford, the well-known editor of The Canadian Bee Journal, and a large number of gentlemen interested in beekeeping also occupied seats at the aldermanic desks, among them being: S F Pettit (Belmont), J D Evans (Islington), J H Shaver (Kingsville), W J Craig (Brantford), J Fixture (Ottawa), W A Chrysler (Chatham), H N Hughes (Barrie), Israel Overholt (South Cayuga), James Armstrong (Cheapside), J H Best (Balmoral, Ont), F A Gemmell (Stratford), John Pirie (Drumquin), Alexander Black (Sonya), William McEvoy (Woodburn), A Pickett (Nassagaweya), W J Brown (Chard), M B Holmes (Athens), Rev W F Clarke (Guelph), W H Hardy (176 Arthur-street Toronto), Samuel Hall (Pine Orchard), W B Button (Greenwood), W S Walton (Scarboro Junction), D W Heise (Bethesda), Lewis Mapes (Headford), D Rainer (Cedar Grove), A D Allen (Marlbank), L Baker (Ringwood), R McKnight (Owen Sound), C Wurster (Kleinburg), Martin Enrigh (Holbrook), J K Darling (Almonte), J Reaman (Carrville), J W Sparling (Bowmanville), Thomas J Dourail (Stouffville), Samuel Wood (Nottawa), John Newton (Thamesford), Mr. Couse (Streetsville), the secretary of the association, rendered every assistance in his power. Mr. Thomas Macfarlane, the Dominion Government analyst, also attended.

The President's opening remarks were brief and to the point, and the same may be said of all the speeches which were made later on. It is seldom speeches are so closely followed and attentively listened to as those of yesterday.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, visited the convention and spoke briefly at the invitation of the President. He expressed his pleasure at being present, and congratulated the association upon the important position which it occupied in connection with the agricultural interests of the country. He pointed out the advantage to the farmer that he should become a manufacturer of the higher forms of agricultural produce. Personally, he had no plan to suggest, and was not acquainted with the details of beekeeping, but was prepared when the association came forward with a definite proposal to give it due consideration.

The report of the Committee on Honey Legislation was brought up and after considerable consideration was laid over for future discussion.

An address of condolence was voted to the family of the late Allen Pringle of Selby.

At the evening session the President read his address, for which he was heartily thanked. It is a most carefully-prepared document and will be discussed at a later stage. As one of the speakers said, there are enough subjects treated of in it and sufficient matter to occupy the remaining two days of the session. The World will refer to it more fully to-morrow.

Mr. Macfarlane, Dominion Government analyst, thought bees should be provided with the food which would produce the aroma desired in honey.

Mr. Pettit and Mr. Darling thought honey should not be removed from the hive in the "green" state, and not till it had been matured by the bees. Mr. McKnight, Mr. McEvoy and Mr. Best also spoke on the subject. Mr. Pettit claimed that honey was the best of all natural sweets, maple syrup coming next.

Referring to the request of the Minister of Agriculture that the association should formulate its desires, it was proposed that the Dominion Government should undertake experiments in beekeeping with a view to cheapening the cost of production and improving the quality; that the same assistance should be rendered by the Dominion Government as to other branches of agriculture for developing home and foreign markets, and Mr. Holterman was nominated as apiarist at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Mr. Hughes, Mr. Pettit, Mr. Gemmell, Mr. Craig, Mr. Fixture and Mr. McEvoy all strongly supported the resolution, which was carried unanimously, and the President returned thanks.

Mr. W. J. Craig stated he had recently had considerable experience of the retail selling price of honey in the Old Country and was satisfied there was a good market there for the Canadian article. He had seen Californian honey retailed at 1s a pound, which was greatly inferior to Canadian, of which latter he had not seen any on sale.

Mr. Heise brought up the question of the careful revision of the stenographer's notes of the proceedings. In the ensuing discussion it was generally conceded that correction was necessary, and the proofs of the principal speeches will in future be revised by the speakers themselves and the others by a committee.

Mr. McEvoy presented the foul brood report, which was adopted. He named the counties he had visited and the assistance rendered him by beekeepers and was glad to say it had not been necessary to use fire to any bee colonies in 1896.

To-day there will be three sessions. At the morning meeting, opening at 9, there will be a debate and discussion, and treasurer's and auditors' and other reports presented. In the afternoon the new officers will be elected, after which, and at the evening session, papers will be read and discussed.

Brussels, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I starting taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

BUFFALO BEEF MEN SORE.

They Complain That Canadian Competition Is Hitting Them Hard.

Buffalo, Dec. 8.—The Buffalo wholesale dealers in dressed beef are just now feeling sore about the tariff laws of this country. They claim that the twenty per cent. now imposed is not enough to protect them from Canadian competition. Last month 19,000 pounds of dressed beef came into Buffalo by way of the ferry, but this amount was insignificant and little complaint was heard from the wholesale men. Within the last ten days, however, wagon loads of the meat have been coming over every day, and while this is not enough to meet the total demand, it is sufficient to break up the schedule of prices which the local wholesalers were formerly able to maintain. The commission men who handle the imported meat claim that the wholesale meat men have formerly been very arbitrary, and whenever the supply was moderate and the demand good they would corner the retail market and force prices up as high as they wished. They claim that the Canadian product has steadied the market without lowering it more than a quarter of a cent.

As an emergency medicine, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral takes the lead of all other remedies. For the relief and cure of croup, whooping-cough, sore throat, and the dangerous pulmonary troubles to which the young are so liable, it is invaluable, being prompt to act, sure to cure.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

THE HONEST FARMER.

He is Simple and Unsuspecting, But Scoops the Piano Drummer.

"Talk all you want to about the bunco steerers and other sharpers of the metropolis," remarked a drummer the other evening at a down-town hotel to a Star reporter, "but some of the sharpest of the sharps are to be found in the country. Out among the fields and lambs and sheep and other innocent things, don't you know."

"That's because you don't expect to find such sharpness among the rurals," explained the reporter, who was born and raised in the country, and didn't like to see his fellow-countrymen libeled.

"Expecting it or not," insisted the drummer, "the sharpness is there just the same, and it is just as sharp. For instance," and the drummer fixed himself for a longer heat, "some years ago, when I was a drummer in pianos, I'll tell you what an experience I had. Our house was one of the big ones, with an advertisement in every newspaper in the country, and the way we sold pianos was a caution to snakes."

"Also a tip to alleged business men who don't advertise," interruped the reporter.

"Your 'also' is sustained," said the drummer and proceeded. "As I was saying, we sold pianos right and left, and, as might be expected, we picked up a bad customer at frequent intervals. One of these had got a $300 piano on a small spot cash payment, balance monthly, on the strength of a farm we thought was his, also on his general reputation, which up to this time had been as good a anybody's in the community."

"Like Eve's in the garden?" ventured the reporter.

"Exactly," smiled the drummer, "If the devil had not tempted that hitherto exemplary female she would have come through in good shape, and just so with our customer. A $300 piano was more than he could stand, and he went down before it. After his first payment he failed to respond, and we waited as long as was our practice, and then sent word to him to return the piano, as per contract. In due time the piano box, in as good trim as when we sent it, came back, and we put it in stock. A month later it was shipped to another customer, and we heard from it soon to the effect that there wasn't any piano there, but that the box was filled with pieces of wood and iron of about the piano's weight, and wedged soldily into the box. Ordinarily we would not have been so careless, but we were rushing things, and had to neglect details. Now we had to make up for that neglect and went after our bunco friend in the country. He lived two hundred miles away, and at a short distance from the small town to which we had shipped the piano, which was on the railroad. Well, I got there one morning about 11 o'clock, and, tackling the first driver I saw, I asked him if he could take me to Jim Peters' place. He was a nice, honest-appearing sort of a chap, and he told me Jim had moved to another place, about twenty miles away, and that I could only get there by driving over five miles to another road and go ahead on that to Jim's station. I paid him a dollar to drive me over, and he told me, as I have never seen Mr. Peters, to ask anybody, and he would be pointed out, as everybody knew him. The station where he caught the train was only a crossing, and my driver flagged the accommodation, the conductor nodding familiarly to his as I got aboard. As the train moved off my driver drove briskly away, and when the conductor came around ten minutes later, I asked him if he knew Jim Peters, and he almost toppled over on me in his surprise. 'Why—why,' he stammered, 'that was Jim Peters driving you.' Then it occurred to me that the piano card on my satchel had given me away and Mr. Peters had done the rest. We tried to get the piano again," continued the drummer, "but we lost all trace of it, and finally gave it up, and Mr. Peters, I presume, went with it."

Knew the Platform.

McDowell County, West Virginia, has a citizen who has never been known to admit ignorance on any subject and very few things ever happen that he did not have some part in. Here is the latest story about him:

A group was gathered in a country store, discussing politics. George Whalen, the man of wonderful knowledge and achievements, although a staunch democrat, so departed from the declaration of principles that one of the men said: "You don't know a thing about the democratic platform."

"Don't I? Know the democratic platform? Why, I built it myself. There wasn't a stick of anything but solid poplar. A thousand people were on that platform and it never settled the hundredth part of an inch. Talk to me about not knowing anything about the platform! If you'll come down to the cove where they held the barbecue I'll show you the platform standing yet."—Washington Star.

Probably the most striking fact in connection with MASON & RISCH PIANOS is their suitability to all conditions. That they satisfy the social and aesthetic sense is evidenced by the fact that our cultured homes, from Rideau Hall down, use them. The fact that of importance in Canada is supplied with them, gives testimony to their musical excellence, and even in the homes of far off British Columbia, deep in the forest and far removed from the tuner's visit or care, they are still to be found standing hard usage like a rock, and cheering the distant home with their musical tone.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10¾ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

IS GEN. MACEO DEAD?

Spanish Reports Declare That He Has Been Killed.

CUBANS IN NEW YORK DOUBTFUL

A Fierce Hand-to-Hand Fight in Which the Insurgents are Said to Have Suffered Severely—A Son of Maximo Gomez Also Said to Have Been Slain.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Ricardo Diax Albertini, second secretary of the unrecognized Cuban Legation here, was seen this morning regarding the alleged killing of General Antonio Maceo in battle. He had no official information, but said the story was obviously untrue, and that this was about the 20th time that Maceo had been killed, according to Spanish advices. He further said that the reported self-inflicted death of young Gomes was equally ridiculous, just as much so as the reported death of his father, Gen. Gomez, who had recently been reported killed just as he had won an important victory.

Palma Don't Believe It.

New York, Dec. 9.—General Thomas Estrada Palma, head of the Cuban Junta, said to a representative of the United Associated Presses to-day that he did not believe the report from Havana stating that Gen. Maceo had been killed. He declared it was a sensational piece of news sent out by the Spaniards to counteract the effect of Mr. Cleveland's message. "If Maceo were dead," he added, "I would know of it."

IT IS CONFIRMED.

Spanish Government Receives Definite News of the Death of Maceo.

Madrid, Dec. 9.—The Government has received official information of the death of the Cuban insurgent leader, Antonio Maceo.

The Government learned from Havana that Major Cirujdea sent a battalion of troops to San Quentin yesterday, and obtained confirmation of the death of Maceo and young Gomez, son of the rebel leader, Maximo Gomez, the despatch adding that Gomez committed suicide upon seeing Maceo dead.

The correspondent of The Imparcial, the only newspaper representative accompanying the Spanish army in its campaign against the insurgent leader, Antonio Maceo, sends an account of the engagement fought on Dec. 7, about 15 miles from Havana, between a reconnoitering party of 500 Spanish troops, under Major Cirujeda, and about 2000 insurgents, in which Maceo is alleged to have been killed. The rebels were found in a good position at San Pedro, sheltered behind stone walls, etc., though the Spanish troops had been under the fire of detachments of debels for some time before coming up to the main body of the insurgents. Major Cirujeda charged the rebels with fixed bayonets, and desperate fighting at close quarters ensued, lasting until night. The Spaniards then retired to Punta Brava, having exhausted their ammunition and lost a number of men. During the reconnoisance upwards of 40 dead rebels were found, among them two bodies which were undoubtedly those of Antonio Maceo, the insurgent leader, and son of General Maximo Gomez. Upon the body alleged to have been Maceo were found a revolver and a drinking cup, and upon his hand a ring, inscribed "Antonio and Maria." His clothing was of fine texture, and his shirt bore the initials, "A.M." The man was a mulatto, with haid and mustache slightly tinged with grey. In his coat was found a diary containing a sketch of the operations covering the period from Nov. 27 to Dec. 7. Some of the entries were as follows:

"Dec. 2.—Left to explore Trocha, and on 4th passed adjoining forces, with Lieut. Vasques, on 5th; Colonels Acosta and Sartorius on 6th and Sanchez on 7th."

The other man was white, and was not more than 18 or 20 years old. Just before he died he had scribbled with a pencil on a bit of paper: "I die, as I will not abandon the corpse of Gen. Maceo."

His clothing bore the initials, "F.G.," and in his pocket was found a letter, from which the following is an extract:

"Army of Deliverance, Headquarters' Staff,
"Cuba, Sept. 25.

"My Dear Rancho.—For three days we have been attacking Casleror, and already have sufficiently weakened the enemy, and if reinforcements do not arrive, who knows if we may not take it. I can write no more, as reveille is sounding, and I must mount.

"Your affectionate father,
"M. Gomes."

Some Little Fights.

Havana, Dec. 9.—Gen. Aldave reports that while reconnoitering at Maguaray and other points in the Province of Santa Clara, he met and dispersed several small rebel groups, and in the fighting had one private killed. Col. Jaquebot was severely bruised in one of the encounters.

Col. Martines reports having met the band of insurgents led by Luis Perez at Calman, in the Pinar Del Rio Province, capturing and destroying their camp and dispersing the band. The rebels lost 35 men killed. The Spanish losses are not state.

GUELPH'S FAT STOCK SHOW.

American Visitors are Most Enthusiastic Over Canadian Exhibits—Stock Men are Hopeful—Prominent Visitors.

Guelph, Ont., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—The judging at the Fat Stock Show began this morning before a large attendance of spectators. The high quality of the exhibits was much commented on. An American visitor was very enthusiastic in his praise, and remarked it was far ahead of their biggest shows. A number of the American exhibitors at the big show in New York were coming to Guelph to try their fortunes, but, owing to the quarantine regulations, they could not get their stock here in time. The display of dressed poultry was good. Mr. A. Hales, Guelph, swept the board in poultry, taking nine prizes. Prices throughout were fair, and stockmen are hopeful of the American market stiffening and giving better prices, as all classes of stock are short in the States, owing to the depression. The judges for cattle are Messrs. Thomas Crawford, M.L.A., Toronto, and James Smith, formerly of Bow Park, Brantford. Mr. Nichols' big steer, weighing 2276 pounds, was sold for over $200 to go to St. John, N.B.

Among the distinguished visitors so far have been: Hon. Messrs. Fisher and Dryden, Mr. Pattullo, M.L.A., J. Featherston, M.P., John Mutrie, M.L.A., John Craig, M.L.A., George Moore (Waterloo), Thomas Cowan (Galt), John Prain (Harriston), Colin Burch of The Wool Journal, Chicago, and John S. Pearce, London. Regt., hon. president; Major Harston, Royal Marines, hon. vice-president; Bergt. Thomas Tyler, 30th Regt., president; William Simmons, Royal Navy, vice-president; William Hall, Royal Artillery, secretary-treasurer; Henry Flight, Royal Artillery, corresponding secretary; R. Curtis, Michael Wren, H. Flight and John Nunn (chairman), sick committee. The band committee consists of the executive officers and Messrs. Nunn and Gibbs. John Nunn was also appointed press correspondent, general organizer, and empowered to receive subscriptions, etc.

The ladies of the officers and members will procure a big banner, on which honors won by members since 1827 will be inscribed. It will be presented at the Royal celebration next June.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

Sir Richard Cartwright Going to Washington

TO TALK ON RECIPROCITY MATTERS

The Militia Department Looking Into the Matter of Discipline—Queen's Own Trouble to be Investigated—Emigrants to Brazil to be Brought Back—Other Items.

Ottawa, Dec. 10.—(Special.)—The important announcement is made that Sir Richard Cartwright will visit Washington at an early date The object of his trip is to sound the Republican leaders as to the possibility of an early commencement of negotiations for reciprocity between Canada and the United States after the McKinley administration has been installed.

Two cases affecting the discipline of militia battalions have been under consideration in the department. In the matter of the dispute between Col. Egan of the 63rd Battalion, Halifax, with one of his subordinate officers, Capt. Dixon, it is reported that the Minister has approved of Gen. Gascoigne's decision, upholding Col. Egan. The ground upon which this had been done is that in this case a full investigation into all the circumstances of the dispute was held by a board of military men, with Col. Maunsell, D. O. C. of the New Brunswick district, presiding. The report of that board was duly transmitted to Ottawa, and, as stated, was endorsed by the General, and in turn received the approval of the present Minister.

As regards the Queen's Own Rifles, it is contended that the case is a somewhat parallel one to that of the 63rd, viz.: as to whether the commanding officer should be able to maintain discipline in his corps by securing the unqualified support of his subordinate officers.

The trouble in the Q.O.R. is said to have been due to the dissatisfaction existing among the officers and noncoms. of the regiment with the manner in which Lieut.-Col. Hamilton, the commanding officer, conducted its affairs.

The non-coms. complained that the Colonel was dilatory in attending to matters which they from time to time brought to his attention, and this end of the row a few months ago almost resulted in the closing of the petty officers' mess.

The real cause of the present investigation, however, was the fault found with the commandant by the members of the officers' mess. The financial affairs of the company are said to have got into an awful tangle, and some officers blamed this on alleged mismanagement by the Colonel. So high did the feeling run that at the last annual meeting hardly any members could be got to serve on mess committees. At length the then Minister of Militia handed over the stores of the regiment to Major Delamere, the second in command, and he has controlled the corps ever since.

It may be added that Colonel Hamilton charges some of his officers with conspiracy against their commander, a serious accusation if it can be proven true.

As no official investigation was held into the dispute between Col. Hamilton and his subordinates, as in the Halifax case, it is altogether likely that a formal investigation will be in order at an early date.

Owing to the strong representations respecting the unfortunate condition of the Canadians in Brazil, the Government has decided to take steps to ameliorate their lot. The British Consul at San Paulo has, therefore, been requested to send back to Canada those Canadians in his district who are in indigent circumstances, the expenses being defrayed by the Dominion Government. Mr. Choquette, M.P. for Montmagny, had an interview with Mr. Laurier to-day about the Brazilian exiles, many of whom went from Montmagny County. He strongly urged the repatriation of these unfortunates.

The High Commissioner has been requested by the secretary of the Imperial Institute to supply photographs of Canadian vineyards and samples of Canadian wine for use in connection with a series of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Institute throughout Great Britain, by Dr. Thudichen.

Sir Henry Joly sums up as follows his impressions of the Ottawa and Parry Sound Railway: "A trip over Mr. Booth's railway to Parry Sound is necessary to realize the magnitude and importance of the work accomplished by him. The amount of blasting through the rock and of trestle work across rivers and lakes, some of great depth, is enormous. A glance at the map will show how he has succeeded in shortening by several hundred miles the distance between the wheat fields of the west and our shipping ports. I cannot help thinking that nothing will do more than the Parry Sound Railway towards settling the Northwest, by offering to the farmer cheaper transportation for his produce, and in favor of Eastern Canada. It will divert a great part of the grain trade which now enriches the American Soo ports to Canadian ports, along with the produce of the splendid forests through which this railway runs. Now is the time for Quebec to act on its proud motto, 'Natura fortis industria crescit.'"

Arrangements are being made to renew the experiment of several years since of putting up butter for shipment to China and the Indian markets. Prof. Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, is of the opinion that the non-continuance of the shipments was due to poor financial arrangements. For years the French butter makers have made large profits out of canned butter, and there is no reason why the same should not be done by Canadian producers.

Speaking of the tariff changes in the United States involved by the accession to power of the McKinley Government, a member of the Government states that none of the modifications may be looked for inside of a year's time. The new President will take the reins of office in March, and with the forces which are opposing him it is certain that no tariff measure can become law without long months of argument.

The annual dinner of Ottawa Garrison was held to-night at the Russell House and was a great success. The chief guests were Minister Borden and General Gascoigne. The Minister in the course of his remarks expressed himself as opposed to the name of the permanent force. He would like to see the old designation of "Schools of Instruction" restored. He did not believe there was any necessity for a permanent force in the Dominion.

According to official advices received by the Marine and Fisheries Department it appears that during the season just closed the catch of the New England fleet in the Gulf of St. Lawrence was 40,000 barrels, and on the Atlantic seaboard about 20,000, making a total of 90,000 barrels, valued at one million dollars. The number of American vessels engaged along our coasts was 179, of 18,000 tons, employing 3200 men.

Enquiry at the Department of Railways and Canals to-day elicited the assurance that the report of the Government having taken over the Baie des Chaleurs Railway is at least premature. No transfer of the property has yet taken place, whatever may be the intentions of the Federal authorities. It was learned, however, that the report of the engineers sent to make an inspection of the line with a view to its acquisition as a feeder to the Intercolonial has been received at the department.

The Free Press, local Liberal organ, confirms my statement of a fortnight ago about the meeting of the Parliament. It says: "The date at which Parliament will meet has not yet been discussed in council. The business in hand is not far enough advanced to allow of any definite date being fixed. The Ministers know no more at present than that the session will not be one day later in the year than is absolutely necessary, possibly about the last of February."

The Militia Department have made an issue to the city corps of 25 new Lee-Enfield rifles for purposes of instruction. There is a strict injunction that the rifles must not be taken from the drill hall, as it is considered that they might be dangerous if used on the Rideau ranges.

Mrs. Charron, who keeps a tobacconist store, was to-day fined $10 and costs for selling cigarets to an 8-year-old boy.

A meeting was held this afternoon to further work out the details in connection with the formation of the new Eastern Ontario Liberal Association. It was attended by Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Frank Frost, M.P., and other leading Liberals. The dividing line between the two jurisdictions will be drawn at Belleville.

Mr. John Charlton, M.P., was a visitor to the Capital to-day.

Major Gordeau, Deputy Minister of Marine, left for Montreal to-day.

L. Homfray Irving of Toronto was here to-day.

The Tariff Committee of the Privy Council will meet next Wednesday in Montreal, and it is expected they will be kept busy in that city until very near Christmas.

Comptroller Paterson returned to Ottawa to-night. Mr. Fielding will be back to-morrow.

Sir Henri Joly leaves for Quebec next week to spend the Christmas holidays.

A few temporary employes of the Public Works Department, who were off some time ago on account of lack of work, have been taken on again this week.

Mr. Maurice Glyn of London, Eng., a member of one of the oldest banking houses in the English capital, is in Ottawa with Mr. William Wainwright, of the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. Glyn is making a tour through Canada, and while here made calls upon the Ministers of the Crown, to whom he brought letters of introduction.

If your eyes trouble you in any way, have them tested by W. Madill, optician. No charge for examination.

GEN. MACEO'S DEATH

Is Confirmed by Advices From British Sources.

SHOT ON SEVENTH OF DECEMBER

Jubilation at Madrid Over the Fall of the Cuban Leader—People Shouted Themselves Hoarse and Paraded the Street—Maceo Was Hit by Two Bullets.

Havana, Dec. 10.—Dr. Maximo Zertucha, who was formerly General Antonio Maceo's physician, has surrendered to Col. Tort at San Felipe, and confirms the report of the rebel leader's death, which occurred at 2 p.m. on Dec. 7, in the engagement between the rebels under Maceo and the Spanish troops. Maceo received a bullet, which penetrated his head, breaking his jaw and passing out at the back of the neck and the shoulder, and was also wounded by another shot, which struck him in the stomach. Another attempt was made this morning to discover what disposition has been made of the rebel leader's body.

Great Joy at Madrid.

Madrid, Dec. 10.—Last night's popular manifestation of joy over the reports of the death of the rebel leader Antonio Maceo was of the most enthusiastic character. An excited crowd gathered in front of the Prefecture and Town Hall, cheering and shouting, and the Mayor appeared upon the balcony of the hall and joined in the "vivas" for Spain and the Spanish army. The Governor of Madrid, who was watching the demonstration, caused the United States Legation to be protected by gendarmes.

The crowds, after shouting themselves hoarse in front of the Town Hall, marched to the War Office, where they sent a deputation to wait upon the Minister of War and congratulate him upon the death of Maceo. From the War Office they went to the Military Club, whose building was illuminated. After cheering in front of the Military Club they retraced their steps, and endeavored to march to the United States Legation, but they were prevented by the police from doing so. Having been turned back by the police, the mob went to the offices of The Imparcial and The Heraldo, each of which newspapers was cheered wildly. The crowd then went to the residence of the Captain-General of Madrid, where the guard presented arms to the mob.

The news of the death of Maceo was received in the provinces with every manifestation of delight, each town demonstrating its joy to the fullest extent of its lung power. Tremendous demonstrations were held in Cadiz, Valencia and other cities, and the bourses of Madrid and Barcelona each went up one point on the strength of the news. The struggle of the populace to obtain special editions of the newspapers announcing the death of the rebel leader was unparalleled, and every newspaper office was besieged until a late hour.

The Cabinet Council, which was to have been held here to-day, has been postponed on account of the illness of Premier Canovas Del Castillo.

Heard From British Sources.

London, Dec. 10.—The Daily News says that Conde de Casa Valencia, the Spanish Ambassador in London, had not heard the report of the death of General Maceo until he visited the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon, when Lord Salisbury congratulated him upon the news, which was confirmed from British sources.

THE SHEEP BREEDERS.

Large Meeting of the Ontario Association at Guelph Officers for the Ensuing Year.

Guelph, Dec. 10.—(Special.)—One of the best attended and most successful meetings of the Sheep Breeders' Association of Ontario was held in the City Hall here last night. President James Tolton of Walkerton presided, and delivered an able address on this important industry, in which he prophesied a more profitable season for 1897 than the last.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, James Tolton; vice-president, D. G. Hanna, Burford; secretary-treasurer, F. W. Hodson, Guelph; directors, for the various breeds: Cotswolds, J. C. Snell, Snelgrove; Leicesters, Alex. Smith, Maple Lodge; Southdowns, John Jackson, Abingdon; Shropshires, R. Gibson, Delaware; Oxfords, Henry Arkell of Arkell; Hampshires, John Kelly, Shakespeare; Lincolns, John Gibson, Denfield; Dorsets, R. H. Harding, Thorndale; Merinos, W. M. Smith, Fairfield Plains; general director, John I. Hobson, Mosboro; auditors, G. E. Day, O. A. College; Andrew Whitelaw, Guelph.

Considerable discussion took place over the selecting of delegates to the fair boards, several of the members ventilating their grievances at the alleged mismanagement at the Montreal Fair. The delegates appointed last year were all re-elected. The various directors then held a committee meeting of the different breeders and appointed the expert judges.

Fat Stock Show.

Guelph, Ont., Dec. 10.—(Special.)—The attendance at the fat stock show to-day was a large one. The receipts at the door were over $175. The success this year is beyond expectation. The judges of sheep have had the hardest task in the whole show. The exhibition closes this evening.

A meeting of the Provincial Winter Fair Board was held this morning, Mr. J. I. Hobson in the chair. A deputation was present from Victoria County, asking that the next show be held in Lindsay. The deputation consisted of Dr. McKay, M.L.A., Major Smythe (Lindsay), R. Bryans, President South Victoria Agricultural Society. From Brantford, Ald. H. B. Fourds and Major Elliott were also present, but the latter had to leave early. London was represented by J. S. Pearce. The members of the deputations addressed the board in reference to their railway fares and accommodation, and said that it would be in the interests of the Province to have it moved about. The board decided that the various places should put their claims in writing, and a guarantee of what accommodation would be afforded, and send the same to the secretary. President Hobson and Secretary Hodgson were appointed a committee to receive communications and visit the various places and report to the board in February.

Hamilton Has a Blaze

Hamilton, Dec. 5.—(Special.)—Fire broke out at the residence of W. Cook, 81 Cannon-street west, shortly before 8 o'clock to-night, and did damage to the extent of $800 to the building and furniture. The loss is covered by insurance.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Toronto Star takes this view of the matter:—If all the girls in Toronto who work in the stores, and whose fathers are able to keep them comfortably, were required to remain at home, there would be plenty of employment for all idle men in the city.

THE fat stock show at Guelph was magnificent success and was eye-opener to our American cousins. The "Yankees" may beat us solid-souled Canadians in the manufacture of wooden nutmegs, basswood hams, etc., but in the matter of stock breeding and the production of cheese we are miles ahead of them.

SEVERAL trusts are coming to grief in the United States. Trusts are a conspiracy of individuals and corporations whom a high tariff has permitted to unite to rob the public. It would appear that the reduced tariff has brought some of these trusts—the nail trust and the glass trust—to grief, and now the sugar trust is threatened. But the "trusts" will come up serenely again when the new Congress adopts another McKinley tariff. Trusts are peculiarly constituted—they can't exist on anything but high living—high tariff.

MAJOR KITSON, of the King's Royal Rifles, has been appointed to the command of the Royal Military College, at Kingston, in place of Sir Charles Tupper's son-in-law, and Sir Hibbert Tupper's brother-in-law, Lieut. Col. Cameron. The appointment was made by Lord Lansdowne, secretary of war, at the request of the Dominion Government. Major Kitson is said to be a man of marked ability and well qualified to fill the position. He is just forty years of age, and has served in the army since 1875. In 1884-85, he was A.D.C. to the brigadier-general at Aldershot, A.D.C. to the major-general commanding the western district till 1886, and district staff officer and deputy assistant adjutant-general in Bengal in 1890. He saw active service in the expedition to Manipur, India, in 1891, and was mentioned in dispatches to London for the same. At present, he is stationed with his corps at Aldershot, but will be in Canada to take hold of his new office by New Year's.

OUTSIDERS do not take kindly to the modest proposition of Toronto, that the Dominion Government made a grant of $50,000 for the annual exhibition, which is the city's financial harvest. Respecting this the Ottawa Free Press sets the pace of remonstrance with the following:

The ministers will doubtless give due "consideration" to the cool demand of certain Toronto grabbers for $50,000 for the annual exhibition held in that city. Their "consideration" will doubtless bring them to the conclusion that there is no justification for any such grant of Dominion moneys to a local commercial enterprise. The pretense that the commercial undertaking known as the Toronto Industrial Association partakes of "Dominion character" adds to the effrontery of the demand. It would be interesting to know in what particular there is anything more of a Dominion character about the Toronto fair than any other. How many people in the Dominion, outside a short radius of the city, have ever seen it? The government will see, doubtless, that to grant this sum to a local affair will be the prelusive step towards giving similar grants to other enterprises of the same kind, which would have quite as much right to ask for them.

If you are anxious to find the most reliable blood-purifier, read in Ayer's Almanac the testimonials of those who have been cured of such terrible diseases as catarrh, rheumatism, and scrofula, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Then govern yourself accordingly.

The Best Cough Cure is Haggart's Pectoral Balsam. It heals the lungs and cures coughs and colds.

BELMONT MAKES A NIGHT OF IT.

A Fifteen Hour Session of the Township Council—All About Payment of Sheep Killed by Dogs.

On Monday morning, afternoon, night and Tuesday morning the township council of Belmont had an almost all night session, and on this one occasion at least proved themselves as diligent time-killers as our own town council. But the Belmont legislators had a legitimate excuse for a protracted session, while our town solons seldom have beyond the consuming desire to hear themselves talk. It was a "killing" matter too, a discussion arising over claims for compensation for sheep killed by dogs. Six ratepayers had lost eighteen sheep and five lambs. While a good deal of time was consumed in hearing evidence as to the value of the animals killed, no little time, legal lore and eloquence were expended upon the question of the liability of the township, which it appears the statute holds liable for such damages, unless a bylaw relieving them is passed. It appears that in 1895 such a bylaw was passed—but for that year only. Therefore it was finally decided to recognise the responsibility of the council in the premises, and a fixed amount was agreed upon as compensation to be divided between five of the applicants, but these agreeing to include a sixth whose claims had been excluded on account of his not having applied within the statutory limit of time, he was included, and therefore the price per head, $2.37 for sheep and $1.20 for lambs was fixed at these figures. The total amount appropriated being $8.66.

A FARMER IN TROUBLE.

A Grenville County Man Speaks his Mind—Feels Like a New Man—Cured by Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert McIntosh, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said:

"During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realising great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

GERMAN SHIP LOST WITH ALL HANDS

The Imperial Government to Increase the Army by Eight Battalions of Infantry and Eighteen Batteries of Artillery—English Protectionists Hold a Meeting.

Cape Town, Dec. 10.—Advice from Blantyre, the chief town of British Central Africa, dated Oct. 25, announces the despatch of three British columns against the Angonisuelas, under Chief Chikusi, who have invaded Southwest Nyassaland and burned a British mission station, besides massacring the inhabitants of a number of villages.

The Portuguese at Tete have invited the co-operation of the British.

Chikusi commands 30,000 warriors and the British troops only number about 500. Great anxiety was felt at Blantyre when these advices left that town and an attack upon it was feared.

BRITAIN'S FISCAL POLICY.

Protectionists Had a Meeting in London to Talk of a Reform.

London, Dec. 10.—The conference at St. James' Hall to-day, open to all favorable to the reform of the fiscal policy of Great Britain on protection lines, called by James Lowther, who presided, was thinly attended. Mr. Lowther is a Conservative member of Parliament for the Isle of Thanet, division of Kent, was at one time Chief secretary for Ireland, and is an ardent protectionist.

Those present included Lord Marshall and Messrs. Howarth, Disraeli, Sandys and Seton Karr, members of Parliament. Letters of regret were read from Commoners Muntz and Finch Hutton. Mr. Lowther, in a long speech, stated that there was a rapidly increasing opinion among a great number in Great Britain that her fiscal policy was radically wrong. The Sultan of Turkey, he said, was the only ruler under heaven who had adopted the principles of the Cobden Club. He referred to President-elect McKinley, saying that he would never have occupied his present position had not his name been associated with the most protective tariff ever framed with the United States, and the same could be said of M. Meline, the French Premier.

Mr. Lowther then referred to the recent Canadian general election to prove that the settled policy of Canada was protection, declared himself as being as much opposed to the ruin of England by Manitoba as by Minnesota wheat, and asserted that it was no longer true that the masses in England were opposed to any imposition of duties. Between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 acres of land, Mr. Lowther explained, had been driven out of cereal production in England for £130,000,000 of imports, of which the most could be produced here. He said that he favored a 5 per cent. duty on wheat, which, he said, would produce £12,500,500 ($62,500,000) of revenue, while only raising the price of bread for a full-grown man 3s 9 1-2d yearly.

Sir Henry Hoyle Howorth, M.P., a well-known writer of financial and political subjects, submitted resolutions in favor of such a change in the Government policy as would secure to the country a never-failing supply of food, and by means of the establishment of preferential duties between the Mother Country and the colonies secure a market for British manufactures. He declared that preaching to the free traders of Great Britain was preaching to deaf ears, and held that the only effective means of securing the objects of the conference was to make matters extremely uncomfortable for the free traders. Continuing, he dwelt at great length upon the conditions created by foreign competitors, dwelling upon the inroads made upon British trade by German manufactures, and said that under the existing free trade policy there was nothing for the English workingman to do but to dig his own grave, using a foreign-made spade for the purpose, and then to be buried in a coffin "made in Germany" or some other foreign country.

Lord Masham of the silk manufacturing firm of Cunliff, Lister & Co. of Bradford also addressed the conference. In the course of his remarks he paid a tribute to Sir Charles Tupper, recently Canadian High Commissioner in London, who, he said, was the originator of the idea of preferential trade with the colonies. He quoted statistics to prove that the British export trade had shown no increase during the past thirty years, and he said that the foreign trade of Germany in that time showed an increase of upwards of £35,000,000.

A number of resolutions declaring in favor of preferential duties were unanimously adopted, as was also another favoring the establishment of protection leagues throughout Great Britain.

TO INCREASE THE ARMY.

Eight Battalions of Infantry and 18 Batteries of Artillery for Britain.

London, Dec. 10.—The St. James' Gazette says it has the highest authority for the statement that the army estimates for the ensuing year, which will be presented to Parliament upon its reassembling, will be greatly increased. According to the statement of The Gazette, eight new battalions of infantry and 18 new batteries of artillery, with four guns each, will be formed, and the cavalry service will be reorganized.

GERMAN STEAMER LOST

The Saller Gone Down Off the Spanish Coast With All Hands.

Bremen, Dec. 10.—The steamer Saller, Capt. Wempe, from Bremen for Buenos Ayres, is believed to have been totally lost. She left Corunna Dec. 7. The Saller was an iron screw steamer of 3214 gross and 2229 net tonnage, 351 feet 2 inches long, 39 feet beam and 32 feet deep. She was built in Hull in 1895 and owned by the North German Lloyd Steamship Company of Bremen.

A despatch from Corunna says the steamer Saller is reported to have foundered off Villagracia, 20 miles north of Vigo. The fate of those on board is not known.

A steamer has been sent in search of the Saller, which, it is believed, was lost in the heavy gale which has swept the western coast of Spain. No further information concerning the steamer is as yet available.

It is not known whether she had any passengers on board. She left Corunna Dec. 7 for Villa Garcia, Spain, and foundered in the heavy gale which recently prevailed off the Spanish coast.

London, Dec. 10.—Lloyds' agent at Vigo telegraphs that the Saller has been totally lost on the Coronas Corrubeda shoals. Not a single person on board the steamer was saved. It is believed in London that the disaster occurred on Tuesday, when a terrible gale along the European Atlantic coast did extensive damage to shipping.

A Jam at the Opera House.

Over eight hundred people pushed and crowded into the opera House last night to see the Marks Bros. Dramatic Company in "An Irish Immigrant." New specialties were put on between acts. To-night the five act drama "Driven From Ireland." Saturday matinee, "Little Lord Fauntleroy"; Saturday night, "The Waif of the Mines." The engagement lasts all of next week.

The "Irish Immigrant."

Marks Bros. were treated to another full house last night, the opera house being crowded before 8 o'clock. The play for the evening was the "Irish Immigrant," the title being a singularly appropriate one, as the piece never appeared here before. Tom Marks played the Irish character to perfection, and his support was in every way satisfactory. So general was the applause with which the piece was greeted, that it is likely to be repeated by special request. The other features of the evening were all good—a cleverly trained dog, the dancing and the singing—all coming in for enthusiastic cheering.

COLLECTION OF TAXES.

Mr. Denne Declines to Recognize Last Night's Action of the Council.

The following is a copy of a letter sent by Mr. Denne, tax collector, to Mayor Yelland this morning, in reference to the extension resolution of last night:

Wm. Yelland, Esq., Mayor of Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—In reference to the resolution as passed by council last evening, extending time for the collection of 6 per cent. on taxes past due to the 15th of January, I am perfectly willing to comply with same providing the council will pass a by-law relieving me and my sureties from any personal responsibility in the matter: and unless the same is done I cannot see my way clear, in the face of legal advice, to act under the resolution referred to above.

Tax Collector.

MARK LOCKINGTON ACQUITTED.

There Was Not by Any Means Enough Evidence for Committal.

The jury in the Mark Lockington case, in which the prisoner was charged with burglarising the Morgan House, were only out half an hour this morning when they brought in an unanimous verdict of "not guilty," the evidence against the prisoner not being sufficient to convict upon.

Lockington is, therefore, a free man again.

[The case of Scrivener vs. Adams, in which the plaintiff is suing to recover $250 for false arrest, from Police Constable Adams, is still on.

The officials at the institution were very glad to get him back, and said that he presented such a miserable appearance that they hardly recognized him, except by a little buckle at the knee, which was the last surviving remnant of the clothes in which they had sent him out. He was in rags. The home authorities will investigate the matter.

Though neither Collingwood, Barrie nor Orillia had representatives at the O. H. A. annual, still it is altogether likely that they will put in applications for admission to the O. H. A. intermediate series, which will necessitate the formation of a northern group.

In the senior series of the O. H. A. there will probably be Queen's Peterborough, T. A. C., Trinity, Stratford and London. In the intermediate the following clubs will likely figure:—Ayr, Peterborough II, Norwood, Varsity II, Frontenacs, Berlin, R. M. C., Lindsay, Petrolia, whilst in the junior these are the possibilities:—Wellingtons, U. C. C., Victoria Colts, T. A. C. The Busy Store.

Some merchants would have the public believe that the big sale at Routley's was only a "fake" sale, and that they can sell just as cheap. I might just say here that I have always paid a hundred cents on the dollar during my twenty years of business, and that my goods have been bought, and are now being sold at less prices than others can buy them. Yet it will last only a few weeks longer, as I am positively retiring from the retail business, and would like all who owe me accounts to call and settle before January 1st, 1897. C. B. ROUTLEY.

He will guarantee to select the quality needed, and see that it is what is wanted, and that the measurement is correct. Ladies who visit the market to buy wood are often deceived in quantity and quality. By employing Mr. Chalmers they are sure to get what they want, both in quality and quantity. A SUCCESSFUL SACRED CONCERT.

A Delightful Musical Evening at St. Paul's—A Decided Credit to Conductor Crane, the Choir and the Other Contributors.

S-U-C-C-E-S-S in capital letters, is the way to spell the result of the sacred concert given in St. Paul's last night, under the direction of Mr. John Crane, organist, by the choir, assisted by Mr. W. H. Dingle, solo organist, and Mr. Frank Eaton, baritone, Belleville. It was in every way a delightful success. There was a large audience, comprising many of the most musical citizens, and the programme provided, while of intrinsic excellence, was very smoothly and artistically presented.

The opening chorus was Simper's "I am He that Liveth," a fine composition occupying a middle position between the severe classicality of the compositions of the old masters and the cheap compilations of many of the American anthem-builders. Mr. Frank Eaton, baritone, took the solo in a competent manner, doing his best work of the evening. He has a resonant, robust baritone voice, which is at its best in the head notes, his chest notes being of not so perfect a quality. His distinct enunciation gives a charm to his singing that was greatly appreciated. His next number was a very exacting one—"Why Do the Nations Rage?" from the Messiah. In this the cold, which it is fair to say, troubled Mr. Eaton, interfered with his execution, exhausting his voice in the trying cadenzas that bristle in the selection. In Van der Water's "Night of Nights," Mr. Eaton in the second movement especially, was very successful. This movement was just suited to his voice and he did it noble justice. His last song "Fear not ye, O Israel," was also beautifully sung. Mr. Eaton is generally a very satisfactory singer, his method is excellent, his enunciation a delight, and the upper register of his voice, especially, of a rich clear quality. He is evidently a conscientious singer and has been well instructed. Much was expected of Miss Vair, who is generally regarded as Peterborough's foremost vocalist, and she was in no way disappointing. In her solo to the chorus, "Lead Kindly Light," Buck's setting of this grand old hymn, she sang to excellent advantage, and in her solo in the second part, Braga's "Angels' Serenade," the full effect of her sweet, rich cultured voice and finished style was enjoyed and she provided a delightful interpretation of this pathetic song. The violin obligato was played with much sympathy and taste by Mr. McCaig.

Mr. W. H. Dingle, the solo organist, shows marked improvement over his form when he was in Peterborough. He contributed four sterling selections, one of classical calibre, Haydn's "Andante in D (the clock movement), and a double number by Guilmant, the famous French composer. An E minor fantasia by Lemmens, which introduced a storm, was admirably interpreted, the beautiful mimetic effects being given with graceful skill. A volunteer number, Mendelssohn's spring song was played in a very sprightly and free manner, as also was the concluding selection, the overture to the opera, "Masaniello." A special word of praise is due Mr. Dingle for his charming treatment of the second theme in the first part of his double number; the Adeste Fideles theme with its spirituile variations, was given with exquisite delicacy and tenderness. If a word of criticism may be given it is submitted that Mr. Dingle takes most of his work at too rapid a tempo. It may be a matter of taste, but it appears that what is gained in brilliancy is lost in distinctness, especially in rapid passages. However, Mr. Dingle is so brilliant and capable an organist that he will always be heard with delight.

It is with genuine pleasure that one can refer to the work of the choir. Four anthems and choruses were given in a splendid manner. The choir is fairly well balanced as between the several parts, and they gave evidence last night of both scrupulously skilful training by Mr. Crane and of a capacity to respond to instruction. The attack was excellent, and the harmony without fault; whilst the expression and shading were excellent. The piano passages were particularly well given. The chorus "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace," was a severe test of the confidence of a choir in their leader and in themselves. It was sung without accompaniment and was splendidly sung, too—all the conditions of a good rendering being most happily met.

Altogether the concert was a most satafying success and Mr. Crane has excellent reasons for taking pride in the fact he has demonstrated, that, under proper training and management local talent is able to produce results that render us independent of outside assistance. St. Paul's have reason to be proud of their choir, which presents a pleasing example of harmony both musically and otherwise.

Ready for Christmas

We're ready in advance with the wide range of Holiday Goods—ready after weeks and months of careful planning, straining every nerve, enlarging every effort and building for a bigger success than you or we have yet known. The store is full of wonders, full of useful things, full of pretty things, full of surprises, full of what nobody expects, full of what everybody expects, full as it never has been before near holiday time.

Your Christmas buying will be done best where stocks are fullest and most varied. Few stores in Canada begin to make the holiday displays that we have here every year—this year greater and grander than ever.

The holiday impulse is strong in all stocks, and useful things of every sort will continue to go for gifts. Many striking novelties are here in wood, metal, leather, brass and china. Many goods here are totally different to anything you'll see outside, and prices are positively below anything you'll find anywhere. For the next three weeks the province of this store news will be to suggest suitable gifts and emphasize earlier shopping.

The choicest things will go first as a matter of course, and sensible people will buy early, before the rush.

1. That your committee has awarded the contract for the snow ploughing for the southern district to Robert Nicholls at $20, and for the northern district to John Parnell at $27.50.

2. Your committee cannot recommend that the sidewalk asked for on the west end of Cedar street be granted this year, as it is too late to put it in this season.

3. Your committee recommend that no action be taken in the petition asking for a change in the by-law prohibiting bicycles from being ridden on the sidewalks.

Adopted.

THE LICENSE COMMITTEE,

through its chairman, Councillor Hughes, recommended that the auctioneer's license issued on February 3rd last to Ed. Smith be transferred to Myer Bros., as requested by Ed. Smith, on the payment of the usual fee.—Adopted.

Councillors Denne and Hughes moved that the collector of taxes be instructed to write off or remit the taxes on the property rented from the town of those tenants in the market building whose rent covers the taxes, on securing a statement from the secretary of the Town Commission that by their lease they are not to pay the taxes and the clerk ask the secretary for the same.—Carried.

EXTENSION OF TIME.

The mayor introduced the subject for which the meeting had been called to discuss, viz., the extension of the time from December 14th to January 15th, in which to pay the taxes before five per cent. would be added. The mayor explained that this year had been a particularly hard one, and he thought if more time were given the people to pay their taxes they would greatly appreciate the favour. After the Christmas trade money would be far more plentiful, and it would be a good deal easier for the citizens to meet the obligation. He was strongly in favour of an extension of the time.

Councillor Lanford objected. Other previous councils had taken no such action, and times had been just as hard. The solicitor had been asked for his opinion, and had pronounced the action to be illegal. Such a matter should be given great consideration, and no change should be made, in his opinion, by this year's council. The citizens would say that it had been done to catch a few votes.

Councillor Best thought that he was in the council to represent the people, and as a great many had spoken to him in favour of the scheme, he advocated it strongly.

A great many citizens had also spoken to Councillor Weir, and he expressed himself as thinking it would be of great advantage to the taxpayers if the date could be postponed

UNTIL AFTER CHRISTMAS.

Councillor Moore stated that the solicitor was of the opinion that the action would be illegal, but as illegal grants were made at almost every meeting, no one would object. In Mr. Moore's own opinion the change would be unlawful, but it would be expedient.

Councillor Denne asked how the collector was to be protected in the matter, and Councillor Hughes wanted to know if the changing of the time would allow a taxpayer to get out of paying the five per cent. altogether?

Councillor Moore thought that the resolution of the council would protect the collector, and as regarding the question of evading the 5 per cent. altogether explained that in reality the resolution was not worth the paper it was written on as affecting the bylaw, which imposed the 5 per cent fine. It was purely discretionary with the tax collector whether he paid any attention to the resolution at all so the by-law stood good all right. The only objection which could be taken was that the town would lose several hundred dollars interest in postponing the date, and if any one chose to take legal action the council would be responsible for this sum.

Councillor Hughes thought the CITIZENS WOULD APPRECIATE

an extension of time more than any action of the council during the year.

Councillor John White thought the passage of such a resolution would place the public in a false position, as even after it was passed the collector could collect the five per cent. from a man who thought he was protected by the resolution. On this ground he would vote against the resolution.

Councillor Sawers opposed the passage of the resolution.

Councillor Langford threatened to file a memorandum with the collector forbidding him to take any notice of the resolution if it was passed.

Councillors Best and White moved that the collector of taxes be instructed to receive the taxes for 1896 up to the 15th of January next without the addition of five per cent, if then paid.

Councillor Langford and Graham moved to the contrary in amendment.

The vote on the motion of Councillors Best and William White stood as follows:

Yeas—Councillors Best, Wm. White, Hughes, Weir, Moore—5.

Nays—Councillors Denne, Sawers, Langford, Graham and John White—5.

The mayor was then called on for the casting vote and declared the motion carried, throwing his vote in favour of extending the time.

The council then adjourned.

HUNTERS' OPINIONS OF THE GAME LAWS.

THE AMENDMENTS OF LAST YEAR MET WITH DISFAVOUR.

The Majority Would Like to Kill Deer in the Water, Have the Season Lengthened and Abolish the License System, Particularly as Affecting the Settlers.

A meeting was called yesterday of the members of the Central Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association for the purpose of hearing the views of the hunters concerning the amendments which were made to the game laws last season.

Amongst those present were Messrs. F. J. Lillicrap, Levi Payne, W. H. Casement, Lakefield; Richard Crowe, Dummer; Thos. Fraser, Norwood; J. E. Kearney, Young's Point; Samuel Best, D. W. Dumble, of Peterborough; Wm. Macfarlane, of Young's Point; Mr. Tait, Dr. Fraser, of Lakefield; J. D. Collins of Peterborough; Alex. Simpson, Lakefield; Thos. Gladman, J. B. McWilliams, David Breeze, Peterborough; J. K. Stabler, Bridgenorth; R. C. Strickland, Lakefield; T. E. Bradburn, Sam Ray, and Geo. W. Hatton, Peterborough.

The president, Mr. D. W. Dumble, took the chair and explained the object of the meeting, after which he called on a number of the prominent hunters present for their experiences during the past season.

The first speaker was

reeve of Lakefield. He thought that this year there were a great number of deer lying dead in the woods, which had been shot in the runways and only wounded. In his own party five were shot and only wounded. Those killed were shot through the body or back. Only old, experienced hunters could shoot them in the neck or head when they were on the runways. If shot in the back or front quarters the blood clots and spoils the venison to a certain degree. If shot in the depth of the woods it is hard to clean them without water. Deer have to be dragged into the camp and the hair is rubbed off the sides, blackening the meat and jellying it. If dragged miles it would be of no use at all. If there was snow this, of course, would not apply. If he had to take the carcase a mile to camp he would have to leave it, only taking to camp what he could carry. Of the eight deer shot by his party six were bucks. It is not easy to tell whether a doe or a buck is coming along a runway unless horns are very large. At this season of the year the bucks are rutting and travelling. This is why they got so many more of them. Another reason why they got more bucks was that their scent is stronger than that of the doe, and, travelling as they did in the night, the dogs caught it fresh in the morning. They killed just as many deer this year as in former seasons, proportionately. In other years few deer got away from them after being shot. The most humane way of hunting a deer is to kill it in the water. They do not then get away to die in the woods. Speaking from a sportsman's standpoint there is no sport in knowing that a deer has gotten away to die in the woods. One could not still hunt at that time of year unless there was snow. To preserve the deer the season should be lengthened to at least a month. Then all the hunters would not be in the woods at the same time. If there were only a few hunters there at a time the deer would often get away from the dogs, but with so many hunters the deer is shot at almost every time it shows its head in the open. If every captain of a party furnished statistics it would give a great deal of information. Every man who gets a license should make a report.

His suggestions as the result of a season's hunt were that licenses should be abolished, the season be extended and deer be allowed to be killed in the water. The settler in particular should not be charged for a license.

His reason for abolishing the license was that it was a little too much to ask a settler to pay for killing a deer on his own farm. It was a hardship to a farmer who had several sons who also shot deer to have to pay for all of them. He had had twenty years experience as a hunter.

of Lakefield, said he was still hunting by himself this year, and got one deer. He wounded another. He was in favour of allowing the deer to be killed in the water on account of the number which would otherwise be only wounded and get away to die in the woods. In still hunting he got more does than bucks. If he got a doe's track she did not travel as far or as fast as a buck and he could soon find her. Still hunting would, therefore, have the effect of killing off more does than bucks. When dogs are used more bucks are killed, as they travel a great deal in the night and their scent is generally quite fresh in the morning. The one that he shot was in a bad mess in the morning, as it got away from him and he did not find it, having no dogs until next day, when two settlers came across it, dead. The meat was consequently not up to the mark. If the season were extended more deer would be killed. He objected to dogs being allowed to run deer and not to put them into the water to be killed, as it did a great deal of damage. If dogs were let run at all the deer should be allowed to be killed in the water.

Since the season had been shortened the deer have increased, as, though a hunter is only allowed to kill two, if he is with a party he can keep on shooting until two have been secured for each member. It was a hardship for a settler to pay a license, as they regarded the deer almost as cattle, frequently feeding them. He had 40 years experience as a hunter. He never saw meat spoiled by being killed in the water, though plenty of it was spoiled by being shot in the woods.

MR. RICHARD CROWE,

of Dummer, was in favour of dog hunting. He had been hunting over 20 years. He agreed with everything Mr. Casement had said.

MR. SAMUEL BEST, of Peterborough, killed two bucks this year. He thought killing deer in the water tended to preserve them better, as many got away, which were wounded on the runaways. Five were wounded and got away from him this year. Such would not have been the case if they had been in the water. He had no objection personally to the license, although the settlers were against it. He had been hunting for 15 years. He would like to have seen the same arrangements in force this year as last. There was more danger to the hunters in shooting on the runways, as many narrow escapes had come under his observation.

MR. THOS. FRASER,

of Norwood, and party, got three deer—two does and one buck. Four were wounded and got away. Roblin's party from Belleville got three deer and wounded five. Thos. Morrison's camp got three and wounded four. Morrison is the best shot in Ontario. Samuel Edwards, of Paudash Lake, wounded one; Pat Finnegan, of Farraday, wounded two and got three; Dr. Noble, of Sutton, wounded three; P. Huffman, of Farraday, wounded three; Tait, of Island Lake, wounded three, Scott Vader, of Farraday, got one and wounded four; Robert Vader wounded two and got none. These were all cases which had come under Mr. Fraser's notice and he was consequently much opposed to the amendment of the game laws. All these hunters had dogs. He thought the season should be extended from the 1st to the 25th of November. There was more danger this year than in the last twenty years. It was unfair to ask a settler to pay a license when the deer has fattened on their own crops. Wounded deer almost invariably seek the water and once there they are safe, now, from molestation and are found dead by dozens on the shores as the hunters are forbidden to go to the water for them. Buckshot was largely used this year and a great deal of meat was thus spoiled. There are, said Mr. Fraser, more wounded and dead deer in the woods today than there have been during the last ten years put together. There was more humanity in shooting a deer in the water than on the runway, in his opinion. Many of the deer were killed in the water this year in spite of the law. He saw 150 deer on the Central Ontario Railway and more than half of them had their hair slicked to their sides, whereas those killed in the woods has loose hair. Fully half were shot in the head, when if got on the runway they would have been shot in the body or neck. In past years he and his party had killed as many bucks as does. The deer are not getting scarcer. The present law is not calculated to preserve the deer to a greater degree than before it was amended.

He suggested that every county send a representative hunter to wait on the minister and lay these points before him.

of Lakefield did not think the amendments were calculated to preserve the deer. The meat was better when killed in the water, as the deer was then carefully bled and washed, whereas in the woods the meat was frequently spoiled by being dragged out over the boulders.

It takes more skill to get a deer in the water than on a runway, as it takes a good paddler and shot to get one in the water. The present law, in his opinion, is more destructive on deer than the former. More does and fawns were shot, this year, than ever before. Moorison's—the Indians' party actually got more fawns and does than bucks.

Too many mothers are helpless invalids. A mother's proudest and happiest privilege is to help an ambitious son in his early struggles to attain eminence in his chosen walk of life. To such a son, a robust mother, a grand mother with a healthy mind in a healthy body, is the best counselor and the best spur. Many mothers are sickly, fretful, helpless creatures tortured beyond endurance by the pains of their own wrecked constitutions. An ambitious youth receives but little encouragement or sound advice who appeals to such a mother. Most ill-health among women is due to weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. If these parts are weak and diseased the entire system suffers.

The most wonderful remedy for all weakness and disease of the distinctly female organism is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It allays inflammation, soothes pain and imparts vigor and health to these delicate organs. It makes healthy mothers and capable wives. It prepares a woman for motherhood. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period and makes parturition easy and almost painless. Over 90,000 women have testified to its virtues, in writing. Druggists sell it.

"It is with pleasure I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to suffering ladies," writes Mrs. I. Ferguson, Box 29, Douglas Station, Selkirk Co., Manitoba. "After suffering untold tortures I thank God I found relief and cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

It don't pay—sickness. Constipation often causes it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, forty of which are contained in a two-inch vial. Druggists sell them and have nothing else "just as good." They regulate the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

QUAKER MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

How Members of the Society of Friends Wed Each Other.

A young man and woman in this city, belonging to the Society of Friends, who have certified their intention of marriage at the City Hall, are having to undergo the regular form which the society imposes by waiting for the approval of the monthly meeting before they can be married, says the Worcester (Mass.) Gazette. The first stage in the proceedings is for them both to appear at the monthly meeting of the society, which is the only time that any business is done, and make known their intention. They both stand up before the meeting, and the man says: "With divine permission and Friends' approbation, I declare my intention to take this woman (and he calls her name) to be my wife," and then they sit down. But the sanction of the society for the marriage requires more than this formality. It is never granted unless both parties are Friends, and so if one of the young people is out of the fold they have to be married without the formal approval of the society.

When the approval is secured the couple marry themselves. The ceremony is appointed by the society to take place at some regular meeting, or else at one specially appointed. In the latter case it may be at a house where any one of the society has the right to be present. But the most interesting ceremony is that which takes place in the regular assembly of the society at the meeting house. Anyone who has been to a Quaker service knows the fashion of the meeting house, with its high seats in front, facing the rest of the meeting. The elders usually sit there, but when a couple of young people are going to get married they have to occupy this conspicuous place, and have to stand up bravely, without minister or elder, and marry themselves.

An old Quaker minister, who said he had seen six couples stand up in this way before the congregation, was asked why the young people had to do it alone, and he said it was a matter that did not concern an intermediate person, but rested between themselves and God. Then he described how the young man would stand up in that high-perched place in the meeting house along with his bride and, taking her hand, say: "In the presence of God and this assembly, I take thee, A. B., to be my wife, promising to be unto thee an affectionate and loving husband until the hand of the Lord by death shall separate us." The bride then speaks in a similar fashion.

At the end of this ceremony a minister prays or speaks, and then, when there is a pause and the spirit moves no one else, the meeting is adjourned. At the close of the meeting the marriage certificate, which is made of parchment, is brought forward, and anyone can sign it. A special law sanctions this marriage ceremony. This document, which amounts to the legal sanction of the marriage, is greatly prized among the descendants of Friends, so much so that the children often have similar marriage certificates made for themselves, though they may have been married outside of the society.

Prof. Robertson, Agricultural Commissioner, has had prepared plans for the equipment of creameries with cold storage compartments. Over 100 copies have been sent to creameries of which the proprietors are desirous of equipping in this manner and thus earning the Government grant. LEND YOUR EARS

To Your Back and Listen to its Talk—A Peterborough Man Tries It.

Did you know the back could talk;
Tell you why it aches and pains;
Tell you why it's lame and weak;
Warn you of the kidney's ills;
Tell you of Doan's Kidney Pills?
Listen to them when they speak.
Relieve the kidneys, cure the ache.
Bad back, acute pains and kidney ills,
Are quickly cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is proof of it at home. The testimony of Mr. George N. Graham, the genial host of the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, is as follows:—

He says:—"I have been a great sufferer for some time with pain across the back, extending up between the shoulders, swelling of the limbs, dizziness, loss of appetite, and in fact felt completely broken up.

"I had lost 17 pounds in three months, and thought that I would never get better. I have taken many kinds of patent medicines, and have also been treated by medical men, but did not seem to get any better at all, in fact was constantly growing worse.

"I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertisement and got a box of them at Lynch's drugstore, and by the time I had taken one box noticed a marked change for the better.

"I have taken seven boxes altogether, and am now free from pain; the swelling in the limbs has disappeared, and my appetite is good. In fact, I feel that I am completely cured.

"I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from any form of kidney trouble. They are the best kidney medicine I have ever used.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10¾ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

UNTOLD MISERY
FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

A MAN WITHOUT FEAR

INTERESTING SKETCH OF THE BOER PRESIDENT AS A MAN.

Anecdotes Which Illustrate His Personality as no Estimate of Another Can Do—His Persistence Under Pain and in Very Trying Moments.

Kruger's Christianity is not one which he reserves for the pulpit—far from it. He carries his religion about with him, and there are plenty of well-authenticated stories about him to show that his life was a fair reflection of his faith. For instance, he once saw a Kaffir struggling in the river, while other Kaffirs stood on shore as spectators. At once he jumped in for the purpose of saving his life. But the black man lost his head, and grappled Kruger with such violence as to render it more than probable that both would drown together. Kruger was a splendid swimmer, and was able to remain a very long time under water. On this occasion he could only rid himself of the frantic black by total immersion, and so he remained under water for a period of time which thoroughly alarmed those who witnessed the performance, but at last he emerged upon the surface—without the Kaffir.

Another instance of Kruger's readiness to suffer in the place of another occurred during the troubles with the Orange Free State. Its President, Bosshoff, had made prisoner some Transvaal burghers, who had been under his (Kruger's) orders. In the language of Kruger's friend, who was present: "When hearing this, the President at once saddled his horse and rode to the Orange Free State as quickly as possible, informing Mr. Bosshoff that he ought to set those men free and hold him (Kruger) instead; that those men had merely carried out the orders given by himself as subcommandant of Pretorius. This was about 1857." It certainly is not common in modern war for an officer to offer himself a ransom for the men who have been taken prisoners while acting under orders.

The President has a violent temper, and his old friends think that of late years he has had increasing difficulty in restraining it. But quickly as he is roused, so quickly does his passion cool again; and no man more frankly asks forgiveness for a wrong committed. One day in 1881 Kruger and his Minister of State, Dr. Leyds, had a sharp altercation. Strong language was used, for the minister too is a man of emotion. At length matters came to such a pitch of passion that Kruger burst out with these words: "One of us must get out." Of course Leyds said, "Then of course, I am the one to make way," with which he took his hat and went home, supposing that his career in the Transvaal was at an end.

In the middle of the night came a rap at the door of Dr. Leyds, and in walked the President. He had saddled his horse and come over by himself, explaining that he had been unable to sleep, and had come to say that he had been in the wrong and to ask Dr. Leyds that what had passed might be completely buried. This story Dr. Leyds told me to illustrate the President's generous nature, and, above all, his mastery of himself.

Kruger is a strict member of the Independent Congregational Church. But he is not on that account intolerant. When Dr. Leyds was first asked to become Secretary of State he declined on the ground that he was not of the same religious faith as the President, but Kruger at once disposed of this idea. "If you are an honorable and able public servant, I shall never ask you what your religious views are." This was a very strong concession for a man of Kruger's convictions. This generosity of Kruger is notable in his political life. He fights heart and soul for the success of his measures, but when the majority has decided he loyally abides by its decision, and works with it as though it were his own. In this way Kruger has steadily increased the volume of political followers, and commanded respect from even his enemies.

Kruger was shooting one day when his gun exploded and blew away part of his thumb. The surgeon to whom Kruger finally submitted the case found that the flesh had begun to mortify, and advised amputating the arm half-way up. But Kruger said he could not afford to lose his arm, for then he would no longer be able to handle his rifle. Then the doctor said that Kruger should at least allow him to cut off his left hand. But even this was too much for Kruger. The surgeon thereupon told Kruger that he would have nothing whatever to do with the case, and left. Kruger then got his jack-knife and sharpened it carefully, so that it became as sharp as a razor. He then laid his thumb upon a stone and himself cut off its extreme joint. But, to his great chagrin, the flesh would not heal at that point, as putrefaction had gone already too far. Again he laid his hand upon the stone, and this time carefully cut away all the flesh about and above the second joint of the thumb, and this time the flesh healed and his hand was spared. He now uses his left index finger as a thumb, and seizes small objects between the first two fingers of that hand.

Dr. Leyds almost capped this anecdote by telling me that while in Lisbon Kruger had a toothache, and paced up and down the room, seeking relief in vain. At last he quietly pulled out his penknife and cut the tooth out of his jaw by patience and persistence. What can such a man know of fear?—what can be to him such things as nerves?

It is gratifying to recall now that of all the stories I have heard about the Transvaal President, not one indicates that he is cruel or vindictive or untruthful. Men of all political opinions unite in acknowledging his courage, his good sense, his honesty, his patience, and a host of other estimable qualities. If some member of his family had collected but a tithe of the good things he has said, I have no doubt we should have to-day a volume of table-talk replete with rough wit and homely wisdom—another Martin Luther.—From "White Man's Africa," by Poultney Bigelow, in Harper's Magazine for December.

Nelson's Famous Signal.

At the United Services Institute, Whitehall, at which relics connected with Trafalgar and Nelson are to be exhibited, there is a time-stained document, framed, and hung on the western wall, from which it appears that the famous signal, "England expects every man to do his duty," was not wholly Nelson's, says St. James' Gazette. Lieut. Pasco, who was responsible for the signalling on the Admiral's ship, makes the following statement: "His Lordship came to me on the poop and, after ordering certain signals to be made, about a quarter to noon, said: 'Mr. Pasco, I want to say to the fleet: "England confides that every man will do his duty."' He added: 'You must be quick, for I have one more to add, which is for close action.' I replied: 'If Your Lordship will permit me to substitute "expects" for "confides" the signal will soon be completed, because the word "expects" is in the vocabulary, and "confides" must be spelt.' His Lordship replied in haste and in seeming satisfaction: 'That will do, Pasco; make it directly.' As the last hoist was handed down Nelson turned to Capt. Blackwood, who was standing by him, with:

"'Now I can do no more. We must trust to the great Disposer of all events and the justice of our cause. I thank God for this opportunity of doing my duty.' When Lord Nelson's message had been answered by a few ships in the van, he ordered me to make signal for close action and keep it up. Accordingly I hoisted No. 16 at the topgallant masthead, and there it remained until shot away." Such, then, is the duly sworn and attested statement of Nelson's flag lieutenant, which he gave to Col. Baylis, Q.C., who presented it to the museum.

A MESSAGE TO MEN.

Proving that True Honesty and True Philantrophy Still Exist.

If any man, who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge, the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-being to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c. silver to cover postage and address, Mr. Geo. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich.

A Great Book Free!

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. HUNTERS' OPINIONS OF THE GAME LAWS.

The deer this year were shot in every portion of the carcase, and meat was thus spoiled. He would like to see the season lengthened, as every deer now that was started was shot at by some one, as there were so many hunters in the woods at once. Settlers should not have to pay a license. More bucks than does are killed in the water, as the dogs follow the stronger scent, and will drive a buck to water, when a doe will dodge around through the underbrush with her fawn.

R. C. STRICKLAND, of Lakefield, a hunter of 35 years experience, had always hunted with dogs until this season. He had been out in the woods one day this year, but as the bullets were whistling all around, he was glad to get safely back to camp without trying to get a deer. He was in favour of lengthening the time to two months. At present a deer could find no shelter once it was started, as there were so many hunters out at once. He would allow the settlers to kill all the male deer they chose in season. The change in the law, he thought, had more of a tendency to destroy them to preserve deer. The deer then got off as they dodge around in the woods rather than take a long run to water. The hunters do not see the females, as they are all posted on the watches near the lakes.

When the season is so short the hunters are out in such numbers that the deer, being thoroughly roused, are easily shot by the settlers, who get out on the runways. He advocated the abolition of the present form of licenses, but the placing of a higher license on the killing of does. It was better to kill off the bucks, as on account of their great number many of the does were barren. If a license was placed on the head of a doe, a man would be very careful in shooting one.

J. D. COLLINS, — with over thirty years' experience, had hunted in water, on runways and by still hunting. There was no more cruelty in hunting a deer in the water than otherwise, but there was no chance of the deer getting away once it was in the water. Deer were preserved by not being allowed to be killed in the water. Not so many hunters would go out if they could not shoot in the water, but if as many went out then more deer would certainly be wounded. He got twenty-two deer this year in his party of twelve. Two were wounded, but they were followed and secured. His party was composed of old experienced hunters. He had to drag his over several miles to camp and the hardship was so great that many of his party would not go again. The deer would thus be preserved by the number of hunters being lessened. Last season his party only got fourteen deer. This season there twelve bucks and ten does killed. Last year there were twelve bucks and two does. He acknowledged that this appeared to show that under the present law more does were being killed off than formerly. He had no suggestions to make in regard to any changes in the present law, but thought a heavy penalty should be imposed on any man who shot at a man in mistake for a deer.

MR. TAIT,

of Lakefield, thought that the old law preserved the deer better than the present amendments. He thought 200 deer were wounded to 100 that were killed. If a deer were put into the water it was killed, but if shot at along the runway, it was probably only wounded and would get away.

MR. SAM RAY, of town, thought that the old law preserved the deer better, but still he approved of killing in the water, as there was less cruelty, and the venison was in better shape. Many more deer were wounded on the runways and got away, than if shot in the water. He had hunted for 18 years and thought deer more plentiful than ever. He approved of lengthening the season on the same grounds as the previous speakers. His party wounded five or six deer this year which they did not get. When hunting deer in the water he never wounded one and allowed it to get away. The best way to preserve the deer was to lengthen the season, when hunters would not be out in such numbers at once, and a deer would stand some chance for its life. If it were started, under the present state of affairs, some one of the big crowd of hunters would kill or wound it.

MR. ALEX. SIMPSON,

the well known hunters' guide, of Lakefield, did not agree with Mr. Collins about killing deer out of the water. He approved of running them to the water. He had hunted for 20 years, and his experience was that on the runways two deer got away wounded to every one that was killed. This year he got seven deer—three bucks and four does. Two of these had been wounded before by others. Each had a leg broken. The venison was not as good when shot on the runway as in the water. Deer are as plentiful as ever. There are not as many wolves. He would like to see the old law restored and the season lengthened from October 20th to to November 15th. He was a settler himself and all of them residing near him were kicking about having to pay for killing a deer which fattened itself off their crops.

MR. WM. MACFARLANE, of Young's Point, who has hunted for 26 years, remembered killing deer as early in the year as September 15th. He had killed deer on the runways and in the water. In his opinion the deer which was killed in the water was better meat than the other, nine times out of ten. When a deer fell on the runway it struck the ground hard and the flesh was bruised under the skin, spoiling it. Then, again, if a deer was shot in the body it would bleed inwardly and would keep soft and bloody and was hard to preserve. If shot in the head, as a deer generally was in the water, it bled properly and would keep splendidly. Last year with a party of ten he got ten deer. This year the same party got fifteen on the same ground, and five were wounded and got away. None got away wounded in '95. He did not approve of the present law. The deer would be better preserved by shooting in the water. He would like the season extended from Oct. 20th to Dec. 1st, or even later. Something should be done to stop the killing of deer out of season for their pelts. He suggested the paying of deputy wardens to look after this matter more strictly.

MR. J. B. M'WILLIAMS, of town, was in favour of extending the season, and the abolition of settlers' licenses. Gentlemen from the towns and cities did not mind paying the license, but it was a hardship for the settlers. He was in favour of deer being killed in the water.

MR. F. J. LILLICRAP, of Lakefield, was in favour of doing away with dog hunting altogether, being a still hunter himself. He thought it would be very hard to decide on whether the old law or the amendment was the best for the preservation, but thought it was far better to kill the deer outright as was done in the water. He was in favour of extending the season from November 1st to December 15th. This would give both the dog hunters and still hunters a chance.

MR. J. E. KEARNEY, of Young's Point, thought that if the dogs were used at all the deer should be allowed to be killed in the water, although he was in favour of doing away with the dogs altogether and getting the deer by still-hunting. This would preserve the deer better than anything else. He urged the abolition of the license system for settlers.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE

in closing the meeting made a few remarks in which he stated that he gathered from the evidence taken, that the hunters were, as a whole, in favour of running deer with dogs and shooting them in the water as being more humane and more calculated to preserve the deer, as the does were not so likely to be killed and so many wounded ones did not get away to die. He also gathered that there was a strong opposition to the imposition of the license, especially on the settlers, and that there was an impression that deer could be still further preserved by lengthening the season so that all the hunters would not be out at once.

Mr. Dumble also brought up the matter of the establishment of a fish hatchery at Buckhorn, in which project he has been greatly interested for some time. He stated in this connection that he had interviewed Mr. Prince, of the Fisheries and Marine Department, in regard to establishing a hatchery for bass and maskinonge at Buckhorn, and also asked him to make provisions for fish slides in the new dams on the river; also drawing his attention to the need of a change in the law, so that salmon could be taken by nets, it being impossible to catch them with hook and line in the summer.

Mr. Prince had, however, declined to do anything stating that bass and lunge did not run and therefore there was no need of putting in fish-ways in the dams. As the fish spawned in the lakes he saw no need of a hatchery and concerning the salmon was sure that they could be caught easily. Mr. Dumble explained how hard it was to deal with a man of this nature, who could be told nothing but asserted his intention of working until something was accomplished.

Before adjournment the Association expressed itself as of the opinion that partridge should not be allowed to be shot for the market for years to come.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL!

Prevented From Giving Goods Away.

Owing to the action of certain parties, the attention of our local guardians of the law was called to Fairweather & Co's Great Gift of a High Grade Bicycle which we had announced to give away on Dec. 31st.

We find on consulting legal authority our method of giving the wheel to the party who held the lucky number was unwittingly infringing on the lottery act, and we will consequently have to make a change. We had noticed that in Toronto and other places the same method had been adopted as we were using, and consequently thought that it was all right. However, as we do not wish to break the law and also do not wish to break faith with the public, we have determined to give this wheel away in another way that will keep within the laws demands and still give justice to our numerous patrons.

No doubt the parties who interested themselves sufficiently to stop us will feel that they gained a great deal by having the authorities take this action until they know that we are going to give that Bicycle away in spite of all they can do.

On December 31st we will announce the new method by which we will give away our wheel. In the meantime we advise our customers to and secure as many more as they can, as we intend to make them valuable to them. We are still issuing Tickets to all purchasers but not on the same basis as before.

Furs FOR PRESENTS

There's always our fine stock of rich and costly furs to fall back on, and just now the fur department is stocked to the ceilings with new and novel things in Coats, Capes, Caperines, Muffs, Ruffs, Capes, Gauntlets, Collars—and we're doing a land office business in them—we've put all prices at the lowest notch to ensure an entire clearing of the whole lot by the new year.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

Goods Ordered in Canada Have Not Been Delivered.

THE FREIGHT RATES ARE TOO HIGH

Commissioner Larke Wants a Line of Freight Boats From Montreal Which Will Carry Goods at Low Rates—The Queen's Own Dispute—General Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 11.—(Special.)—Mr. J. S. Larke, Trade Commissioner in Australia, in his last report states that within the last few months it has been impossible to secure delivery of goods ordered in Canada. The line of steamships running from Victoria to Sydney are refusing to carry goods that are given to them for transportation to Australia. It is only the most paying kinds of freight that are taken on board, and of what is left some has to go by the American lines, a very undesirable step, or else away round by Yokohama and Hong Kong. Mr. Larke dwells upon the necessity for sending an occasional sailing vessel from Montreal, which could carry a large cargo of freight at low rates. Non-delivery of certain goods from Canada has seriously hampered the chances of our building up a trade. Mr. Larke speaks very hopefully of the opening for Canadian wheat and flour in Australia, and encourages an increase of the large shipments which have already been made. Till shipping facilities are improved, he sees little hope of Canadian producers building up the sales in Australia which enterprise would give them.

The Dairy Commissioner has been placed in possession of information which will lead to improvement of the present facilities for handling milk in the larger cities, to keep it from absorbing disease germs, which thrive so well in milk. It is a plan which is being used in some of the larger English centres of population, and would be of great advantage in places like Toronto and Montreal.

Col. Hamilton of the Q.O.R. was in the city to-day and had a lengthy interview with the Minister of Militia in regard to the affairs of the regiment. Col. Hamilton informed your correspondent that he had good reason to be satisfied with his talk with Dr. Borden, although he did not feel at liberty to state what had transpired. As stated last night, it is definitely settled that the case will be referred to a board of officers, to investigate into the nature of the dispute between Col. Hamilton and his brother officers.

Col. Hamilton is remaining here until to-morrow.

Apropos of the dispute among the officers of the Queen's Own Rifles and other corps, the remarks of Gen. Gascoigne at the Ottawa Garrison dinner last night are very significant. The General remarked that where he found officers of any corps not working in harmony, but squabbling and quarrelling, and therefore neglecting their regiment, the question might come before him to decide whether it was not better to allow the corps to be disbanded, so that impracticable officers would give way to others who would work together in unison and good-fellowship.

Three prominent steamship men of Montreal, Messrs. Torrance, Reford and Thom, had an interview with Sir Richard Cartwright to-day on steamship matters. It is said the fast Atlantic question was under consideration.

To-morrow's Ontario Gazette will contain application for incorporation of the Lady of the Lake Mining Company, with headquarters at Ottawa, and a capital stock of $500,000. Among those interested in the enterprise are: J. A. Seybold, J. W. Wurtele, Taylor, McVeity, F. W. Bindon, A. Bannerman and Albert Hudson. The property is situated on an island of 22 acres in the Rainy Lake district, within seven miles of Rat Portage, and within a mile and a half of the famout Sultana mine. Assays of ore run from $11 to $40 to the ton.

A writ has been issued at the instance of Mr. Moses Bilsky and others against Moses Goldstein, Samuel Hopleman, J. Freedman, I. Rubenstein and the Society of the Sons of Jacob, to set aside a mortgage under date of Sept. 23 against the lands and premises of the Society of the Sons of Jacob, known as the Jewish burial ground. It is claimed by the plaintiffs that J. Freedman and I. Rubenstein wrongfully assumed to act as the president and secretary of the society, and purported to have affixed the corporate seal of the society to the instrument, thereby doing a fraudulent and wrongful act. The court is asked to direct that the mortgage be cancelled and the registration of the instrument be declared void.

Mr. Laurier has consented to address two meetings at the close of the campaign in Cornwall. The Premier will speak at Cornwall on the evening of Wednesday, the 16th, and at Moose Creek in the afternoon of the following day.

The investigation into the Sparks-street fire will begin on Monday evening. Messrs. G. Ross, John Ferguson and G. M. Holbrook will be asked to appear and give evidence.

Mr. J. R. Booth, President of the Parry Sound Railway, having expressed his feelings that any testimonial to himself should be in the form of a resolution of the Board of Trade, the special committee met last night and decided to draft such a document, which will be ratified at the next meeting of the board.

Evidently this is a free coal government. The new furnaces to be placed in the Eastern block are to be specially constructed for the consumption of anthracite coal, instead of bituminous and wood, as at present. The intention is to convert the remaining furnaces into hard coal consumers, which will mean a consumption of 8000 or 10,000 tons of American anthracite in the Government buildings.

The shareholders of the C. Ross Company, limited, have decided unanimously to put up another building to replace the one destroyed by fire last week.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintending engineer of the Trent Valley Canal at Peterboro, is in the Capital.

Mr. John Davis of Windsor, formerly Inland Revenue Inspector, is here.

Mr. John O'Leary, who has held the contract for one section of the Soulanges Canal, is in the city. He has one of his steam shovels still at work on the excavation. He will stop work this week.

Hon. Justice Ouimet is in the city making arrangements for the removal of his household furnishings to Montreal.

Hon. J. I. Tarte returned last night from Quebec.

Mr. Robertson, contractor for the gardening on Parliament Hill, has lost his contract, John Greaves beating him in tendering.

Mr. McNeill, M. P., is in the city.

Beckles Willson of The London (Eng.) Daily Mail is in the city and presented letters of introduction to the Premier to-day.

Two men, David Spicer and Henry Murphy, engaged in removing the debris from the Hartney Building on Sparks-street, which was destroyed by fire last week, were nearly killed this afternoon by the collapse of a portion of the building. Murphy will not likely recover.

Later.—Spicer has since died.

There were more prosecutions to-day for selling cigarets to minors, and convictions were secured in three cases.

Hon. John Costigan returned to Ottawa to-day after an absence of nearly two months spent in the wilds of New Brunswick. Mr. Costigan is looking remarkably well after his hunting trip.

NIAGARA FALLS TOPICS.

A Bank on the American Side Shuts Its Doors—Massive Steel Pieces for the New International Bridge.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 11.—(Special.)—This afternoon one of the immense steel bases for the new arch bridge was lowered from the bank to the bottom of the gorge and placed on the stone foundations. These bases are the heaviest pieces of steel that have to be handled on the work—they weigh 23 tons. A great crowd of people lined the bank and the bridge while the section was being lowered.

Late yesterday afternoon four tough characters were arrested at Port Colborne on suspicion of being the burglars who attempted to crack the safe in Welland the night previous. They are now lodged in Welland Jail.

Interested gas men throughout the gas belt in the south end of this county claim that the flow of natural gas is not decreasing, as reported, as another "gusher" has been struck at Port Colborne. It will take many similar strikes, however, to restore perfect confidence.

The First National Bank of Niagara Falls, N.Y., did not open its doors this morning, and, instead, posted an order of "Closed, awaiting examination." The failure was due to the withdrawal of the funds of the Niagara County Savings Bank and heavy advances made by an ex-cashier without the knowledge of the other officials. All the depositors will be paid in full. The failure has caused the collapse of the Cataract Mills, the wheels of which have been stopped for the first time in 14 years.

A GLUT OF FREIGHT.

C.P.R. Has Its Hands Full and Ocean Steamships Have to Leave Goods Behind at St. John.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 11.—The C. P. R. are having all they can do to handle freight outward bound. The elevator is full of grain for the first time since it has been built, and many cars of grain are on the sidings. The Lake Huron had to leave some behind and the Lake Superior will have to do the same, while the Alcides, of the Donaldson Line, now loading, will not be able to take all the Glasgow freight.

REV. M'DONNELL WANTS $100,000

From The Brooklyn Eagle Because That Paper Said He Played the Races, etc.

Brooklyn, Dec. 11.—A trial of a suit for libel brought by Rev. Patrick McDonnell, an ex-priest, formerly connected with St. Paul's Church, this city, against The Brooklyn Eagle, is now occupying the attention of the Supreme Court in this city. The alleged libel was contained in an article published in The Eagle, in which the plaintiff was accused of playing the races, intoxication and other questionable practices while he was sojourning in Washington on a certain occasion in a clerical capacity.

OVATION TO WEYLER

The Havana Populace Cheers the Spanish General

ON HIS ARRIVAL IN THE CUBAN CAPITAL

He Rode in on Horseback and the Crush Was So Great That He Had to Stop His Horse—Cheers for the King and Spain's Army—Rebellion Believed to be Crushed.

Havana, Dec. 11.—Gen. Weyler arrived here at 5.30 o'clock this evening. He rode into the city on horseback, accompanied by two squadrons of cavalry. His coming had been made known to the public, and large crowds gathered to welcome him. He was given a popular ovation from the time he reached the city limits until he arrived at the Palace. At some places along his route girls strewed flowers in his pathway and he was in other ways treated as a popular hero.

Calle Chispo, Calle O'Reilly and the other streets in the vicinity of the palace and the Plaza de Armas were jammed with people, who enthusiastically cheered the Captain-General as he rode along. When he arrived near the Palace the enthusiastic crowd surrounded him despite the military and he was compelled to stop his horse in order not to ride down his admirers, who greeted him with all manner of loyal cries.

A passageway was finally opened and Gen. Weyler proceeded to the Palace. Shortly after he had entered the building he appeared upon a balcony and was greeted with the most tumultuous cheering. The scene was reminiscent of the time when Martinez Campos arrived in Havana years ago after pacifying the Island.

When Gen. Weyler called upon his audience to cheer for the King, Spain and the army, a roar went up that could be heard across the bay in Morro Castle and the fortress of Cabanas.

When silence had been restored, Gen. Weyler made an address, from the tenor of which it would be supposed that the suppression of the rebellion was an accomplished fact. He said, among other things, that everything that had been done had been accomplished by the army which had been entrusted with the pacification of the Island and the maintenance of Spain's sovereignty.

He was continually interrupted by cheering, which was continued after he had left the balcony.

Later Gen. Weyler gave a reception that was attended by the members of the municipal corporation, delegations from various societies and prominent residents of the city. All congratulated him upon the success that had attended the Spanish arms and complimented him upon the effectiveness of his campaign in Pinar del Rio.

The city to-night presents a most animated aspect, reflecting the joy felt by the Spaniards because of Maceo's death and Gen. Weyler's triumph over the insurgents in the western province. Casa Blanco, the little village under the walls of the Cabana fortress, and Regla, on the southern side of the bay, held little demonstrations of their own.

A CANADIAN HERO.

He Was Single and Gave Up His Chance of Life to a Man Who Had a Family—Montreal News.

Montreal, Dec. 11.—(Special.)—The Swedish and Norwegian Consulate at Quebec has been requested to assist in tracing the relatives and chronicle the act of a young Canadian seaman, supposed of French extraction, Charles Gebhardt by name, who formed part of the crew of the Norwegian barque Caledonia, of Drammen, Norway, and at the foundering of that vessel in the Bay of Biscay, on the 7th of October last, when, at the last moment, going to fetch a life buoy for the preservation of his own life a little longer from a watery grave, finding the carpenter of the vessel going with the same purpose in view, exclaimed: "Do you also want it, carpenter? Well, take it; you have a family. Don't mind me."

Gebhardt could not swim, and was drowned, while the carpenter, a married man, residing at Drammen, Norway, was picked up by the boat of an English vessel near at hand and was saved. Relatives or acquaintances of this Canadian hero are asked to communicate their name and address to the Swedish and Norwegian Consulate, Quebec, or to the owner of the vessel, Mr. James S. Lorentzen, Drammen, Norway. Gebhardt was shipped in Liverpool, England, in the latter part of last September.

TEDDY IS STILL AHEAD

And the Irish Lad Has Already Beaten the Six Days' Record—Band Played Irish Airs.

New York, Dec. 11.—One minute after 8 o'clock to-night Teddy Hale, the Irish hero of the six-day bicycle race at Madison-square Garden, passed the previous record for six days, made by Schock in 1895—1000 miles—and had 25 hours 50 minutes to the good. He not only broke the record himself, but forced the six men following on his trail to break the previous best for 116 hours—1457 miles 8 laps. Hale was sprinting miles in 2.24 at 7 o'clock this evening, and appeared so fresh that he was looked upon as the sure winner of the contest.

The battle for second honors was waged again to-day between Forster and Rice. At noon the former had a little the best of the Wilkes-Barre entry, and led him by a few miles, but later on Rice regained the lead. For a time it looked as if Rice's weakened frame would scarcely support his wonderful pluck. He was very weak at times, and the nervous strain was making him irritable. He was poorly handled up to last night, when Pete Golden, the old-time trainer, was hired by a committee of Wilkes-Barre citizens to look after him. Golden humored the wearied and nervous rider, and in the evening Rice was going much better, though still somewhat weak. The pace was telling on Forster also, and he went off pretty frequently during the day. Reading, Schock, Smith, Taylor, Moore and Pierce kept in about the same relative positions after the leaders all day. Ashinger, Maddox and Cassidy made the third division, about 40 miles behind Pierce, while, of the other four, Gannon and McLeod are likely to get the tail-end of the 11 prizes if they keep on at the same rate.

A tremendous burst of applause greeted Hale when the announcement was made at 8 o'clock that he had broken the six-day record. The band played the Irish national airs and pandemonium reigned for a few minutes.

There were fully 5000 people in the garden at the time, and the crowd kept pouring in, until by 10 o'clock there were between 9000 and 10,000 present.

What the World's Great Cities Are Doing to Improve the Health and Comfort of the Poor.

The excellent results of the municipal and other efforts for the improvement of the conditions of the poor in our large cities have been attained partly through the labours of sanitary aid associations, and partly through the erection of model dwellings. Sanitary aid associations organise and mould public sentiment in favour of wise sanitary legislation; they assist boards of health in the discharge of their duties; they devote themselves to the education of the poor on sanitary questions. A certain Dr. Thresh investigated the causes of the excessive mortality in one of the districts of Manchester, which ranged from 40 to 80 per 1000. The mere publication of the fact aroused public opinion. The causes of the existing evil were discovered and removed. The New York board of health maintains a special summer corps of physicians whose duty it is to visit the tenement houses, and give medical advice and treatment, distribute literature, give hints for the care of infants, and to search out insanitary conditions. The Mansion House Council on the Dwellings of the Poor is a sanitary association presided over by the Lord Mayor of London, with the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Chief Rabbi and Lord Salisbury as its vice-presidents. In their report for 1891 we read that "there is hardly a parish in the Metropolis to which our services have not been called, and it is one of the most hopeful signs that the public are becoming increasingly alive to the value of sanitation, as shown by numerous applications we receive almost daily for aid for the redress of grievances arising from sanitary conditions in connection with dwellings or workshops." The Social and Sanitary Society of Edinburgh employs male and female inspectors. The Boston Better Dwellings Society, the Sanitary Protective League, and the Ladies' Health Protective Association, of New York, are societies whose value is testified to by Dr. Gould, the author of the 8th report of the U. S. Commissioner of Labour.

Model block buildings are of various classes. (1) Buildings composed of blocks of houses each sheltering more than four families. (2) Model small houses, each accommodating from one to four families, and (3) Model lodging houses. Some are conducted on a purely commercial basis, others are semi-philanthropic in aim, in which, whilst the commercial element is by no means lost sight of, the dividends are limited to a sum equal to, or slightly inferior to normal commercial rates on investments of the highest class. Then there are philanthropic trusts, such as the Peabody Donation Fund, and municipal model enterprises.

Model housing of working people on a large scale began in England, and has had its chief development there. It is estimated that in London 130,000 people live in block buildings. One third of this number are accommodated by the Peabody Donation Fund, and the Improved Industrial Dwellings Company. We will, therefore, give a short account of these two companies.

The capital for the Peabody fund was recruited from three gifts and a bequest from the late George Peabody for the purpose of improving the housing of the working people of London. In 1862 Mr. Peabody gave £150,000, in 1866 £100,000, in 1868 £100,000, and at his death he left £150,000 more to the same fund. The capital fund now amounts to £1,111,000, of which £800,0000 has accrued from interest on the original capital, which amounts to about 3½ per cent. The rents in these tenements are about 25 per cent. less than for similar accommodation in the neighbourhood. They are very much in demand, although stringent rules are binding on all the tenants, such as: All rents to be paid in advance; no application for rooms will be entertained unless every member of the applicant's family has been vaccinated. Tenants are required to distemper and whitewash their rooms at least once a year to the satisfaction of the trustees or their agents, but must not paper, paint, or drive nails into the walls. The gas will be turned off at 11 p.m. The Peabody trustees take great pride in the salubrity of their numerous block buildings. In 1893 the birth rate was 4.1 per 1000 above that of all London, and the death rate 3.7 below the average of the metropolis.

The Improved Industrial Dwelling Co. was founded by Sir Sidney Waterlow, its present president. It has a total capital of £750,000. It pays an annual dividend of 5 per cent., and carries a large sum annually ally to the reserve fund. Whereas the Peabody fund is a purely philanthropic institution, the Improved Industrial is purely commercial, at the same time the utmost attention is given to sanitation, and the statistics of births and deaths are quite equal to those of the Peabody buildings.

The Brady street block of the 4 p. c. Industrial Dwellings Co., of London, accommodates no less than 1,161 persons. The rentals are from 20—50 per cent. below those of other buildings in this district. The buildings enclose a playground of over one-third of an acre for the children, and there is a large club house containing a men's club room, men's conversation room, billiard room, women's club room, women's conversation room, library, class room, concert room and bath rooms.

The volume from which the above information is derived [the eighth special report of the Commissioner of Labour for the United States] will be placed on the shelves of our Public Library, and as it contains scores of illustrations, ground plan, elevations, etc., it should be of interest to architects and builders. The December number of the American Review of Reviews contains an interesting article on New York's great movement for housing reform with a portrait of Mr. E. R. D. Gould, the accomplished author of the Eighth Report.

IN THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

THE CONDITION OF MANY YOUNG GIRLS IN CANADA.

Pale Faces and Bloodless Lips—Given to Headaches — Extreme Weakness, Heart Palpitation and other Distressing Symptoms—The Means of Cure Readily at Hand.

From the Leamington Post.

The attention of the Post has lately been frequently called to a remarkable cure in the case of a young girl living within a few miles of this town, whose life was despaired of, but who was completely cured in a short space of time by the most wonderful of remedies, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Since reading in almost every issue of the Post of the cures effected by the use of this medicine, we felt it to be a duty we owed to investigate this case, which has so urgently been brought to our notice, and we are sure the interview will be read with interest by the thousands of young girls all over Canada, as well as by the parents of such interesting patients. The young lady in question is not anxious for notoriety, but is willing to make her case known in order that others who are similarly afflicted may have an opportunity of being equally benefitted. The symptoms in her disease differed in no way from those affecting thousands of young girls about her age. She was suffering from extreme weakness, caused by an impoverished condition of the blood, and her chances of life seemed to grow less every day. The best and brightest fade away as well as others, but when we see a young girl of sixteen years, who should be in the best of health, with cheeks aglow with the rosy flush of youth, and eyes bright and flashing, just the opposite, with sallow cheeks, bloodless lips, listless in every motion, despondent, despairing of life with no expectation or hope of regaining health, and with only one wish left, that of complete rest, physical and mental, we think it one of the saddest of sights.

In the quiet little hamlet of Strangfield, in Essex County, just such a case was presented to the sorrowing eyes of loving friends a few months ago in the person of Miss Ella Beacon, who frequently said she did not care how soon she died, as life had no charms for her. To our reporter she declared that life had been a burden, but after suffering in this way for months, and after trying all sorts of remedies prescribed by physicians or furnished by friends from some cherished recipe handed down from their grandmother, but without being benefitted in the least, she was at last persuaded by a neighbor to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial; but she had tried so many remedies without giving relief that she still refused for some weeks. However, after repeated urgings by her parents and friends she began the use of the pills. Before one box was taken she experienced some relief, and after the use of a few more boxes she was restored to perfect health, and there are a few young girls now who enjoy life more. She says she owes her life and happiness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and is willing that all the world should know it. Her case attracted much attention and her perfect recovery has occasioned much comment.

The facts above related are important to parents, as there are many young girls just budding into womanhood whose condition is, to say the least, more critical than the parents imagine. Their complexion is pale and waxy in appearance, troubled with heart palpitation, headaches, shortness of breath on the slightest exercise, faintness and other distressing symptoms which invariably lead to a premature grave unless prompt steps are taken to bring about a natural condition of health. In this emergency no remedy yet discovered can supply the place of Dr. William's Pink Pills, which build anew the blood, strengthen the nerves and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. They are a certain cure for troubles peculiar to the female system, young or old. Pink Pills also cure such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitas' dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration, the after effects of la grippe, influenza and severe colds, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of any nature.

A Grenville County Man Speaks his Mind—Feels Like a New Man—Cured by Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert McIntosh, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said: "During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realizing great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

SOME STARTLING FACTS.

In ordinary Pipes the Tobacco at the bottom of the bowls becomes saturated to such an extent as to be unfit for use and about one-fifth part is therefore wasted.

There is no waste in using Mackenzie Pipes as every particle of Tobacco can be smoked.

The average consumption of Tobacco in this country is 1 lb. 10½ oz. per head of population, and an economist has estimated that the use of the Mackenzie Pipe by every smoker would result in a saving of $500,000,00 a year.

in a surprisingly short time. It's a scientific certainty, tried and true, soothing and healing in its effects.

W. C. McCOMBER & SON, Bowmanville, Ont., report in a letter that Pyny-Pectoral cured Mrs. C. Garesson of chronic cold in chest and bronchial tubes, and also cured W. C. McComber of a long-standing cold.

MR. J. H. HUTTY, Chemist, 398 Yonge St., Toronto, writes: "As a general cough and lung syrup Pyny-Pectoral is a most invaluable preparation. In less given the utmost satisfaction to all who have tried it, many having spoken to me of the benefit derived from its use in their families. It is suitable for old or young, being pleasant to the taste. Its sale with me has been wonderful, and I can always recommend it as a safe and reliable cough medicine."

VOLUNTEERS OF AMERICA.

Ballington Booth's Army, After Considerable Deliberation, Has Adopted a Constitution.

New York, Dec. 11.—After nearly a week of deliberation the directors of the Volunteers of America have succeeded in framing a constitution to meet the requirements of the movement started by Ballington Booth about nine months ago.

The field officers of the Volunteers representing battalions in every part of the United States have been in session in this city since last Monday. They elected a Grand Field Council composed of 30 members. In making up their constitution the members of the Grand Council endeavored to follow the spirit of the constitution of the United States and remove entirely any semblance of autocratic power and also to avoid any possibility of theological discussion.

Article I. affirms the purpose of the organization as follows: The Volunteers of America is a movement, military in its methods, organized for the reaching and uplifting of all sections of the people and bringing them to the immediate knowledge and active service of God.

Article 2 provides that "This is and must ever be an American institution, recognizing the spirit and justice of the constitution of the United States, and it is not and never shall be controlled or governed by any foreign power whatever. It is further provided that all members of the incorporated society must be citizens of the United States or persons who have declared their intention of becoming citizens."

The standard of the Volunteers, while being emblematical of the principles and truths in which they believe, will be distinctively American. Accordingly, the ground of the standard will be white, emblematic of purity. In the centre there will be a five-pointed star, typical of hope. In the centre of the star there will be a white cross, emblematical of sacrifice for others, and in the upper corner or standard, nearest the staff, there will be, on a blue field, as many stars as there are States in the Union. Over the central blue star is the motto "The Lord, My Banner."

There are ten cardinal doctrines of the Volunteers of America. They affirm belief in one Supreme God, in the Trinity, in the inspiration of the Bible, in the divinity of Christ, in the saving quality of repentance, and in the resurrection.

A Grand Army Man Crosses Swords With Heart Disease and Wins a Glorious Victory With the Aid of Dr. Agnew' Cure for the Heart.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart cannot be over estimated, says H. M. Musselman, a well-known G.A.R. man, of Weissport, Pa., and he continues: "My ailments were palpitation and fluttering of the heart. I used two bottles of your valuable cure and feel like a new man. I have taken bottles and bottles of other medicines without help. I introduce it to my friends at every opportunity possible. It is a great medicine. Inside of 30 minutes after the first dose I had relief."

THE CHERRY LIBERIANS.

Fired on Another British Warship and Demanded Customs Duties.

Liverpool, Dec. 11.—The British steamer Erasmus, which arrived here to-day from the West Coast of Africa, brings another report of an outrage by Liberians. When the steamer was preparing to anchor at Capa Palmas, the Liberian gunboat fired at her, the shot passing between her masts. After she had anchored he gunboat ran alongside and her commander boarded the Erasmus, and insisted that the passengers on the steamer, who were Kroo laborers, should be landed at Cape Palmas, instead of Rocktown, whither they were bound. Capt in Haynes of the Erasmus refused to land the men and the Liberians eventually contented themselves by levying customs duties on the Kroos. Capt Haynes made a formal protest to the Liberian Government at Monrovia, and has informed the British Government of all the facts of the case. It was only a short time ago that Liberia was forced to pay $1000 for outrages on British subjects, two war ships going to Grand Bassa and enforcing the demand by threatening to seize the customs house.

THE SALIER DISASTER

It Was a Most Appalling Calamity.

OVER THREE HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

She Had on Board a Large Number of Emigrants, All of Whom With the Crew Perished—17 People Lost in the Bristol Channel—Collapse of Buildings in Spain.

Bremen, Dec. 11.—It is now positively known that when the North German Lloyd steamer Salier, from Bremen for Buenos Ayres, foundered on the Corunna Corrubedo shoals in the gale that swept the European Atlantic coasts in the early part of this week, she had on board 214 passengers, all of whom, together with her crew of 28 men, went down with the ship. The Salier carried no cabin passengers.

What They Say in Madrid.

Madrid, Dec. 11.—A despatch received here from Villagarcia estimates the number of victims at 400.

The disaster occurred during a dense fog and very heavy weather. The Salier had a fearful passage from Bremen to this port. Two of her boats were swept overboard by the heavy seas, which beat over her, and she sustained other damage from the same cause. It is believed that about 403 persons perished. The steamer struck, during the night of Monday last, on a ledge of rocks about two and one-half miles off Cape Corrubedo, on her way from this place to Villagarcia, where she was to ship another lot of steerage passengers, bound for Buenos Ayres.

The Salier was an old vessel, which the North German Lloyd Company had agreed to sell to an Italian firm trading between Italy and American ports; but, owing to some slight disagreement as to the terms, the deal was not completed, and the steamer was sent on another voyage. She was considered to be in every way seaworthy.

This Report Says 381.

London, Dec. 11.—A despatch from Lloyd's agent at Corunna says that 381 persons lost their lives by the wreck of the Salier.

Bodies Washed Ashore.

Vigo, Spain, Dec. 11.—Twenty-eight bodies from the ill-fated steamer Salier have been washed ashore, including that of the captain. It was found that his watch had stopped at 5.30 o'clock, presumably on Tuesday morning, a very short time after the vessel went down. It is stated here that the number of persons lost was 281.

Only 214 Passengers.

Bremen, Dec. 11.—It is said here that the despatch from Corunna to The Cologne Gazette stating that the loss of life occasioned by the foundering of the Salier may possibly be as high as 500 is entirely groundless. It is reaffirmed here that there were not more than 214 passengers on board, all in the steerage, a crew of 66 and a pilot.

In heavy weather there is a fearful surf on the reef where the Salier struck, and if she had not foundered she would have been quickly pounded to pieces.

279 People on Board.

London, Dec. 11.—The Daily Mail will to-morrow publish a despatch from Corunna saying that there were 184 men and 95 women on the steamer. Only 51 of this number embarked at Carunna. The despatch adds that the completeness of the disaster precludes the obtaining of any details.

ANOTHER DISASTER.

Seventeen Lost Their Lives in This — Another German Steamer Too.

London, Dec. 11.—The German ship Rajah, Captain Bellmer, from Barry, Wales, for Hong Kong, has foundered in the Bristol Channel. Two of her crew have been picked up. Seventeen others, comprising the remainder of the crew, were drowned. The Rajah was an iron vessel, of 1200 tons. She was built at Liverpool in 1864 and owned by D. Schilling of Bremen.

AND STILL ANOTHER.

This Time a Building Collapsed and Many Persons Were Killed.

Cadiz, Dec. 11.—A terrible disaster occurred at Xeres in the Province of Andalusia, and 16 miles from this city, this morning through the collapse of a building. A house containing twenty-five persons collapsed without warning, burying all of its inmates in the debris. The house fell upon an adjoining tenement building, which also gave way. The tenement house was inhabited by 85 persons, all of whom were buried by the wreckage. Eleven dead bodies and 46 seriously injured have already been taken from the ruins and the work of excavation for the purpose of recovering the others is progressing as rapidly as possible.

Aching Joints

Announce the presence of rheumatism which causes untold suffering. Rheumatism is due to lactic acid in the blood. It cannot be cured by liniments or other outward applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, removes the cause of rheumatism and permanently cures the disease. This is the testimony of thousands of people who once suffered the pains of rheumatism but who have actually been cured by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Its great power to act upon the blood and remove every impurity is the secret of the wonderful cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

National Dishes of Germany.

There is a picture, more or less well known, from the brush of a humorous and perhaps patriotic German painter that very accurately describes the prevailing impression concerning the German palate. The picture in question represents a charming young German girl picking cabbages from a Christmas tree, and beneath the painting an inscription which, being freely translated, means that Germany offers a wonderful kitchen to the contemplation of civilization. This national taste for cabbage is carried into their Christmas dinner. That meal consists of boiled pork and sauerkraut, sausages, black puddings, goose stuffed with chestnuts, cheese cakes and baked apples, beef with sour sauce, smoked goose and potatoes, washed down with beer.

GRIP HERE AGAIN

Dread Bacilli which came from Russia in 1889 still at work.

If You Have a Stubborn Cough and Sore Throat, You Are a Victim.

Epidemic Checked by "77."

Grip is here again but it is here in a much milder form than it was in 1889 and 1890, when it counted its dead by the thousands on both sides of the Atlantic.

The malady has been prevalent for perhaps a month, but it is only within the last few days that it has been recognized as our dread visitor from Russia, who came in December, 1889. At first the doctors passed the cases off as colds, but they have found them so stubborn and unyielding to treatment that they now are taking the more serious view.

LIKE A COLD, ONLY STUBBORN.

The symptoms as described by physicians in all parts of the town are first a slight fever with chills, followed by a catarrhal condition of the head, descending to the throat and even to the larynx and bronchial tubes. In most cases there is a most distressing and stubborn cough. The severer cases run for weeks unless checked by the use of Dr. Humphreys' Specific "77."

"77" meets the epidemic condition and is the cure for all its manifestations. Taken early, cuts it short promptly.

"77" breaks up a Cold that hangs on.

THE COURT ADJOURNED.

The Verdicts in the Last Three Cases Pronounced.

In the case of Scrivener vs. Adams, in which Police Constable Adams was sued for damages for locking up the boy Scrivener for kicking his dog on the market place, the Judge after hearing the witnesses stated that no evidence had been submitted showing that the defendant had acted maliciously or without reasonable and probable cause. The Criminal Code authorized him to arrest without a warrant anyone who was found committing an offence under the class of cases relating to cruelty to animals. A constable is justified in arresting anyone whom he, on reasonable and probable ground, believes to have committed an offence, even though the person is not guilty. The Judge, therefore, held that there was no evidence in this case in which the jury could properly find against the defendant and he directed that a non-suit be entered.

E. B. Stone appeared for the plaintiff, and E. B. Edwards for the defendant.

In the case of Doran vs. Young the plaintiff sued for $200 on two charges, claiming that the defendant had started a fire, which crossed into his premises, and after being warned that a certain right of way on the plaintiff's property had not yet been surveyed, had nevertheless cut timber upon it.

The defendant acknowledged cutting two cords of wood, and selling them for $3.50, and the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, awarding him $3.50 damages.

W. H. Moore for plaintiff; Edmison & Dixon for defendant.

Howson vs. Bickle—This action was brought by Geo. H. Howson, of town, against Samuel Bickle, with whom the plaintiff was employed as bookkeeper and salesman. He claimed $145.27, as balance of the salary due him. The defendant claimed that Howson had already been overpaid to the amount of $3.57. The jury awarded the plaintiff $73.48.

E. B. Stone for plaintiff and Jno. Burnham, Q.C., for defendant.

In the case against Mark Lockington for burglary, of which a brief mention was made yesterday, merely noting his acquittal, the defence was most ably handled by Mr. F. D. Kerr, of the firm of Kerr, Gladman & Kerr. The jury was unanimous in its verdict of acquittal. The Crown's interests were looked after by Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney.

WILL ISSUE AN INJUNCTION.

Boathouse Owners Say the C.P.R. is Infringing.

When the Canadian Pacific Railway obtained permission to put in a spur line running up the Dickson Company's mills, it was on the understanding that the rights of property holders along the river should be respected.

The property holders now claim that their privileges are being threatened, as the opening which is left under the trestle work of the bridge for the boats to go through, is being filled up with piles, which would have the effect of debarring the boats and canoes from the English or Peterborough Canoe Company's boathouse from getting out to the river, as well as shutting off the Otonabee Canoe Club and many of private boathouses.

It is understood an injunction will be applied for to restrain the railway authorities.

OTONABEE CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM.

ADELARD VINETTE IN A WATERY GRAVE.

His Little Brother Oliver was Drowned Near the Same Spot a Year ago Last May.

A most distressing accident occurred yesterday afternoon, just at the piers which have been constructed for the new bridge at Auburn, whereby Adelard Vinette lost his life by drowning.

It seems that, accompanied by Napoleon Gagnon, he had paddled up the river in a punt to the scene of the recent Meldrum-McAllister fire, at Auburn. They loaded a quantity of old scrap iron and waterlogged slabs on the punt, and were returning down the river when the heavily-laden boat was caught in the eddies at the new bridge and swirled around so quickly that one corner went under and sufficient water was taken in to submerge the punt completely.

Thinking it would sink to the bottom, Vinette sprang into the water and struck boldly for the shore, but the numbing coldness of the water was too much for him, and he went down in plain view of his companion, who remained clinging to the boat.

A couple of men on shore put off in a punt to the rescue, but Vinette went down before they could reach him. They succeeded, however, in rescuing Gagnon, Pike poles, etc., were immediately put into service, and the search for the body was continued nearly all night but without avail.

It is now thought that the swift current has carried the body a great deal further down the river, and to-day parties are watching at Martin's dam.

A sad coincidence exists in the fact that little Oliver Vinette, the brother of the drowned man came to his death through falling into the river off the Waterworks dam a year ago last May. As might be imagined, the heart-broken mother is almost distracted.

The victim of the accident was 19 years of age, and was an employee of the Auburn Woollen Mills.

A HAPPY ENDING.

The County Council Concludes its Finally Final Session in Rousing Style—Hands all Around—Auld Lang Syne.

The concluding sitting of the last session of the last county council under the old regime, came to an end this morning in a most happy manner, which one could hardly expect of the expiring hours of a moribund body—figuratively speaking the curtain was rung down on red fire effects.

Complimentary and congratulatory resolutions were passed to the Clerk and Treasurer, the Sessional Clerk, the County Engineer, the County School Inspector, and even the press, to the tune of hearty applause and "For they are jolly good fellows. Happy little speeches of acknowledgment followed, in which all the orators spoke in warm terms of the high character and prompt business practices of the County Council.

After this the members of the council introduced a new style of adjournment by rising, joining hands and singing "Auld Lang Syne" lustily, led by the melodious baritone of the county engineer, who took the levels and struck the harmonic grade with the skill of a Campanini. The warden capped the climax of valedictory enthusiasm by proposing three cheers for the Queen, which were given with a vim and energy that agitated Her Majesty's portrait in its frame and made the Lion on the Coat of Arms, wink with emotion. If it is a pleasant thing to see brethren dwell in unity, it is a pleasanter thing to see them part in harmony and with so philosophical acceptance of the fate that must come to 13 of them, who necessarily cannot expect to come back next year. The end of the old regime of county councils in Peterborough brought to an end one of the best councils that occupied the chamber during the past 45 years—as jolly and jovial hosts on a bridge inspection tour, as they were steady-going, solid legislators when they got down to business. To ten of the old council, at least, we will say not "good bye," but "au revoir"—till next January.

Wahnapitae Fine.

The Crown Lands Department will send as soon as possible a corps of rangers to examine into the value and extent of the pine forests existing north Lake Wahnapitae, with a view to throwing open the land to miners. The land has never been opened to prospectors, but it is said that valuable mineral deposits are to be found in parts of this now forest-covered area. The reason for this is that the prospector's camp fire often endangers the pineries, and extensive fires have been traced to this origin.

Doctor Hooper's Lecture.

As was announced some time ago, Rev. E. Hooper, M.D., of Toronto, will deliver his famous lecture on "Some Popular Modern Cures" in Peterborough on Friday evening, Dec. 18th, a special musical programme will be given by Miss McAllister, Miss Stevens, Mrs. A. L. Davis and Mr Geo. W. Mulligan. The committee in charge have gone to great expense to secure Dr. Hooper, and with a desire to have every one hear his great lecture, the price has been placed at 20c per ticket instead of 50c. It is earnestly hoped that the public at large will assist the committee to meet expenses. Dr. Hooper was for a number of years Superintendent of the Kingston General Hospital, and is especially able to deal with such things as secret nostrums, shrine and faith cure, hypnotism, Christian Science, etc. The address is replete with incidents and there is not a dull moment from start to finish. Prof. Goodspeed says he would like to have it delivered to every congregation. A leading divine in Toronto says it clears the air more than anything I have heard for many a year. Tell your friends about it and remember the place, Sons of England Hall, Hunter street, Peterborough, Friday evening, Dec. 18th, at 8 o'clock. Tickets may be had at J. D. Tully's drug store, or from any of the resident physicians.

Benediction.

There was a crowded house and the children rendered their pieces in good form. The singing of the Misses Butcher and Lumsden and playing of Messrs. Freeburn and Sabin was well rendered and received great praise from the Auburn people. Miss Holmes pleased the little ones greatly with her recitations. Rev. W. R. Young acted as chairman with his usual grace, and kept the crowded house in good order. Good nature and tact make him an ideal chairman.

During the evening Miss Jessie Godfrey, on behalf of the school, presented Miss Annie Ellis with a fine pair of fur gauntlets, whilst Miss Mary Carter read the following address:

To Miss Ellis:

DEAR FRIEND,—Your fellow-workers and scholars in the Auburn Sunday school take this opportunity of expressing their high sense of your zealous and commendable work in the school. You have taken that interest in the progress that ensures successful results. By your application and example you have shown us all how we may labour for the Master's cause. By your patient love and devotion to the truth you have encouraged others to go on and assist in the work—a work that we know must bring its reward.

We, teachers, officers and scholars ask your acceptance of this gift, and trust as you have it in your keeping, it will serve to remind you of the hours you spent with us at the Auburn Sunday School. It is true that your work and our work is one that is cheerfully given, and a work that brings no remuneration, save the sense of the duty well performed. In your case we are sure you have faithfully done your part and on the records of the school will be found for the information of those who look back no name around which gathers more memories of love and devotion, or one more esteemed, than yours.

Signed on behalf of the school,
G. W. POWELL, Supt.
G. G. PEATLEY, Secretary.

OVER THE WORLD-WIDE EMPIRE.

A Picturesque Journey With Mr. Frank Yeigh—Imperial Greatness on Canvas—A Stirring Appeal to Patriotic Impulses.

The spacious auditorium of the George street Methodist church was well filled last night with a gathering assembled to look and listen—to look at the magnificent views of the mighty monuments of greatness of the vast British Empire, and to listen to Mr. Frank Yeigh's eloquent and patriotic descriptive address in connection.

An orchestra was present and enlivened the proceedings with music appropriate to several of the views. The entertainment was prefaced with a brief sketch of British history, in which Mr. Yeigh paid a tribute to her Majesty, and when the portrait of the Queen in her regalia was thrown upon the canvas the audience broke into impulsive applause, showing how deeply respect and love for her royal and womanly qualities are enshrined in the hearts of her Canadian subjects, and the orchestra played "God Save the Queen." A map of the world was presented, showing the world-wide disposition of her Majesty's possessions. Mr. Yeigh, then by means of views and narrative took the audience to the various parts of the world owing allegiance to the British Crown, and interlarded the illustrations which were beautifully clear and exact, with interesting information in respect to each, till he encircled the world and came to an end at British Columbia, to the magnificent reproduction of our mountain scenery were added several pictures of the Rossland mining district. During the evening pictures of prominent statesmen, and of scenes and structures in England, Ireland and Scotland, as well as pictures of the key to Britain's greatness—her fleet, were shown. The entertainment was eminently interesting as well as educative, and serves a useful purpose in arousing patriotic impulses of young and old and sentiments of pride in their grand heritage in the greatest Empire the world has ever known. Among the pictures thrown on the canvas were two supplied by Mr. R. M. Roy—one of the church and one of the pastor and the applause with which the latter was received showed warm a place he holds in the hearts of his flock. It should be mentioned that the presentation of the picture of Westminster Abbey was much increased in interest by an imitation of her famous chimes played by Mr. Kenward Mark upon Mr. David Spence's locally well known tubular bells.

The committee who brought Mr. Yeigh here, as well as Mr. Yeigh himself, are are entitled to great credit for presenting such a splendid entertainment.

JUVENILE FORESTERS' CONCERT.

An Unusually Pleasing Programme was Presented.

The Juvenile Lodge, of the Canadian Order of Foresters, held a concert last evening, on the occasion of their sixth anniversary, and the boys are entitled to the greatest credit for the entertaining programme which they furnished.

Mr. Frank Trollope occupied the chair, and welcomed the large audience which gathered, after which the programme was rendered as follows:—

Mr. M. Carton and sister furnished the accompaniment to the club swinging with piano and accordeon. Miss Holmes was encored and Walter Hooper and Mr. Matchett also responded to encores. The Dialogue "From Down East," went off capitally. Miss Aggie Patterson gave "Mr. Brown on the occasion of getting his hair cut," and recited "The Dentist" as an encore. Little Master Ruby Phelan made his first appearance in public, and certainly showed a great deal of cleverness in his singing. He is a pupil of Miss McCabe. Mr. George Adams was a whole show in himself and had to respond to encores in all his numbers.

CONDITION OF GEORGE STREET

An Ex-Councillor Suggests That the Big Street Scraper be Utilized.

George street is truly in a most deplorable condition, and even the county councillors are cracking jokes at Peterborough's expense in regard to the matter.

The streets in Lakefield are almost dry. Peterborough the crossings are well nigh impassable.

An ex-councillor, and one who is well posted on street making, suggests that the big street scraper be brought out and the loose mud scraped off to the sides and carted away. This would also have the effect of doing away with the mud in the spring of the year as the street has a good stone bottom.

We are offering these goods at such low prices for two reasons

1st.—To make room for our Pork Department.

2nd.—To give the general public bargains in these lines.

Should the consumer ask the quality of Pork he buys?
Should he be told the truth? We decidedly say Yes.
Is it consistent to be able to throughly recommend that which you never have seen in any state, except by selling it over the counter? No.
Is it right to blame Clerks for praising the goods they sell? No.
Why? Because in a great many cases they but comply with their employer's requests and do what they think right.
In order to be able to truthfully recommend the PORK we sell, we deem it advisable to cure our own, which we are now doing.

C. B. ROUTLEY, 379 George Street.

A pickpocket is despised, dreaded and avoided. He is a sneaking, despicable foe who robs a man unawares. Men hate him worse than the more bold highwayman whose attack is made in the open. There are some diseases that are like pickpockets. They are sneaks. If men only knew it, these sneaking diseases are more to be dreaded than small-pox or yellow fever. The sneaking disease begins with some slight disorder of the digestion and sluggish action of the bowels. The blood becomes disordered and the body receives insufficient or improper nutriment. Emaciation follows and the sufferer is troubled with nervous prostration, brain fag, and debility, and very likely falls a victim to that dread destroyer, consumption. All this happens before the sufferer fairly realizes that he is in danger.

These sneaking diseases that undermine a man's constitution, and rob him of his health are conquered by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts strength into every fiber of the body and replaces the lethargy of sickness with the buoyancy of health. It is the best blood-maker and flesh-builder known to science.

Mr. A. W. Caynes, of Elkhart, Elkhart Co., Indiana, writes: "I send you a testimonial in regard to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and what it did for me in acute inflammation of the liver, about six years ago, when I had an attack in Los Angeles, Cal., and also one since I came here. I consider Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery one of the best medicines offered to a suffering people to-day. It has only to be given a fair trial to prove itself such."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser has had a larger sale than any other book of this class ever offered the public. This book of 1,008 pages with 300 illustrations is full, from cover to cover, of practical advice on health matters. This great book, in heavy manilla covers, is now offered FREE to whoever will send 21 one-cent stamps to pay for customs and mailing only. If an elegant cloth binding is desired, send 30 stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Have You Ever Tried ?

Have you ever tried to dye over your cast-off garments ?

Thousands in Canada answer "Yes, and very successfully, too." To those who have not attempted the work we would say, "There is money in it if you use the Diamond Dyes."

Old dresses, mantles, jackets, coats, pants and vests, and other articles of wearing apparel, can easily be re-created and made fit for wear at a trifling cost. Ten cents expended for some fashionable colour of the Diamond Dyes will save you several dollars. This wonderful transformation and money-saving work can only be done perfectly by using the Diamond Dyes. Ask your dealer for them ; be sure you refuse all substitutes.

BRADLEY SENT TO JAIL.

The Judge at Brampton Refused to Allow Him Out on Bail

Brampton, Dec. 10.—(Special.)—This has been a heavy day in the Bradley-Clarke affair. Twenty-one witnesses had told their story at 10 p.m., when court adjourned. A large number of these witnesses are representatives of various firms, who testified to their dealings with Clarke and Bradley, and among them were: Messrs. Brock, Eby and Redmond of Toronto, and furniture men from Chesley, Hanover and Wiarton. The court room, inside the bar, is about as much miscellaneous goods scattered about it as would be found in a small country store, and they are in most cases but samples of the discoveries made by Detective Hefferman in half a dozen places in Toronto and ont in the country.

The evidence showed that in many instances the goods were in the original crates or packages. Among the new witnesses introduced was Mrs. Cook of Leslieville, sister of Actor Wallace. Wallace, who, during the past summer, sold large quantities of goods in the city, stored with her about three weeks before the fire, a load of goods.

In one of the cases was found the ledger of the Bradley House, which several parties testified Bradley had told them had been burned. The discovery is looked upon as a strong point, showing collusion.

Shoeman Redmond of Toronto, in his evidence, confessed that outside of careful inquiries as to the good standing of Bradley financially, he had received a tip that Bradley was a regular mark. Furniture Traveler Kauffman shortly afterwards had the same information. During his inquiries at Caledon East as to Bradley, Clarke assured him Bradley was a good mark, and, like the other man, concluded sales were safe.

This evening it took Detective Hefferman over an hour to tell where all the goods in sight had come from. Then Nell Burton, the hero of the alleged fake mortgage, once more told his story of that affair. It took him an hour to tell how Clark had approached him, got his consent, and how he had come to Brampton about a week before the failure; how he had been met by Bradley and recognized, although he had never seen the man before; how Clark came along, the visit to the lawyers, and the regular and careful proceedure that was observed. This was all told in a shame-faced way by the witness, and not a cent of money passed in the transaction. Burton gave two notes of $1000 for the $2000 mortgage, and confessed that it would be impossible for him to pay them. Burton also told how Clark had suggested a letter to be sent to the assignee, regretting inability to be present at the meeting of the creditors. The witness said he had made a clean breast of the whole affair of his own accord, because, after the assignment, he recognized the fact that he had got int to a bad box.

Cross-examination failed to shake the story in the least. Lawyer Shaw, who was secretary at the creditors' meeting, read his minutes on that occasion, when Bradley told that he had got $2000 in cash in exchange for the mortgage, and how he had given $1200 to Mrs. Bradley to take to Clark's brother in Cleveland. Then Mr. Shaw went on to tell of his interview with Clark after that meeting, and Clark's denial of knowing anything at all of Bradley's affairs, and denial of Bradley's statement that Mrs. Clark had been paid $1200 for his brother. Bradley had said Clark had been with him up to within a few days of the fire, but Clark said he had not been at Caledon East for three months, and Clark said he left Bradley's employ because that man drank, and he could not work for a man who drank.

Bail was refused Bradley to-night, and he had to go to jail.

HALE STILL AHEAD.

The Irishman Appears Likely to Win the Prize in the Big Bicycle Contest.

New York, Dec. 10.—As the 15 plucky riders hourly reel off the miles which bring them nearer the goal in the six-day international bicycle race at Madison Square Garden the public interest in the event seems to grow in proportion. To-night fully 8000 persons were present, and the enthusiasm was raised to a high pitch, especially when any rider of the leading division indulged in a sprint. Teddy Hale, who keeps his position in the van and continues hourly to bury records, was the idol of the crowd. The wonderful endurance and desperate grit of Rice, the little Wilkes-Parre man, who, despite badly swollen hands, resulting from his exertions, and the damaged knees, with which he entered the race, has kept among the leaders, excited much admiration. Forster, who at 5 o'clock this morning, wrested the second place from Rice, came in for a measure of applause. With the exception of the change in second place, about the same order has been maintained all day.

At 10 o'clock Hale had a 40-mile lead on Forster. Only five miles divided Rice from Forster, and the brave little Wilkes-Barre boy looked as if he would regain his lost place. Reading was leading the second batch, 30 miles behind. Rice, Schock and Moore were practically tied at 1235 miles, and Taylor and Smith brought up the rear of the division. Pierce led the next lot, consisting, besides himself, of Maddox, Ashinger and Cassidy, while Glick, Gannon and McLeod were still the tail-enders.

The feature of the evening, the 10-mile race between Tom Linton, the Welsh champion, and J. F. Starbuck of Philadelphia, was started at 10 o'clock. The race began with an accident, as Starbuck fell immediately after the start. The conditions stipulated that should one of the men fall the other should go on and win. Despite this, Linton waited on his fallen rival, and the race was re-started, the foreigner getting a defeaning round of applause. Starbuck had gained a half a lap on the Welshman before they covered two miles, and the issue from that on was never in doubt. The Philadelphian won handily in 10.23 2-5, Linton easing up on the last lap. During the race all the six-day men cleared off the track. After the race, Pimmmer offered to match Linton to beat Starbuck at any distance for $5000.

The score at 11 o'clock (95 hours), the previous record held by Schock, being 1,218, 6, was: Hale, 1344, 4; Forster, 1,303, 2; Rice, 1297, 3; Reading, 1271, 5; Taylor, 1266, 1; Schock, 1243, 0; Moore, 1235, 0; Smith, 1230, 0; Pierce, 1214, 8; Maddox, 1155, 2; Ashinger, 1153, 0; Cassidy, 1130, 1; Gannon, 1011, 7; Glick, 951, 5; McLeod, 883 7.

The score at 12 o'clock (96 hours) was: Hale 1361, 3; Forster 1314, 6; Rice 1314, 0; Reading 1289, 7; Taylor 1260,6; Schock 1258, 0; Smith 1241, 7; Moore 1235, 0; Pierce 1229, 5; Maddox 1170, 8; Ashinger 1168, 2; Cassidy 1131, 0; Gannon 1024, 1; Glick 950, 5; McLeod, 896, 8.

Paines Celery Compound Renews Another Life.

Twelve Years Work of Medical Men Did Not Effect a Cure.

Kidney Disease Surely and Permanently Banished by Paine's Celery Compound.

A terrible record of suffering and misery! Twelve years a martyr to kidney disease and other serious ailments! Money spent for medical attendance and a vast variety of patent medicines and no cure!

Such disappointments and failures added to physical and mental agonies were sufficient to drive many a sufferer to the verge of insanity.

Deliverance from suffering and disease was long and earnestly prayed for, and a kind Providence directed a friend of the suffering lady to advise her to make trial of Paine's Celery Compound. It was used. There were no blank disappointments ; no vain experiments ; no waste of hard earned money. Relief and cure came to gladden the soul. Mrs. George Stone, of Eganville, Ont., writes about her case as follows :

"For more than twelve years I was afflicted with kidney, stomach and female troubles, and had been attended by five doctors, and tried medicine after medicine, without any good results.

"My sufferings a year ago from the kidneys and stomach were dreadful. I was in such a state that I thought I could not live, and concluded there was no use trying other medicines.

"I was advised, however, to try Paine's Celery Compound, and finally decided to give it a fair trial. Before I had finished the first bottle I had improved very much, and after the use of a few more bottles I had not been so well for long years, and am now altogether a different person. The use of Paine's Celery Compound also banished my nervousness. I can, therefore recommend Paine's Celery Compound to anyone suffering from kiney, stomach and female troubles."

Mrs. M. says : "My daughter was pale, languid and unable to stand any exertion. Miller's Compound Iron Pills made her strong and gave her colour. 50 doses 25 cents." Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, druggist.

SEES AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

Miss Helen Beers, Blind From Her Birth, Receives Her Sight by An Operation.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 11.—Miss Helen Beers of Newtown, was born blind, 50 years ago, and to-day for the first time in her life she was able to see. Many oculists have said her case was hopeless, but a short time ago she came under the observation of Dr. L. M. Wilson of Bridgeport, who is on the surgical staff of the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital of New York.

After a careful study of her case he believed that an operation would restore her sight, for he considered it to be a peculiar form of congenital cataract. The operation was performed by Dr. Wilson in the presence of a large number of surgeons at the Bridgeport Hospital. This afternoon the bandages were removed for a few moments, and Miss Beers became wild with joy when she found that she could see perfectly well.

She utterly fails to recognise objects she has handled all her life. She could not tell a bouquet of flowers, and only when she shut her eyes and felt them with her fingers did she know them to be roses. Neither did she know a chair until she put her hands upon it. Whatever she sees the tries to pick up, although it may be seen through a window or be on the opposite side of the room.

Dr. Wilson says it will be very interesting to observe how she will learn to read, for her only knowledge today of letters is by the sense of touch.

An Elephant Who Has Killed Four Persons to Be Electrocuted in Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Gypsy, the elephant with a record of having killed four keepers, is to be publicly electrocuted. The animal is well known all over the country and is considered the most dangerous elephant in captivity. At present Gypsy is in winter quarters here.

Last winter Gypsy escaped from her winter home, and caused great excitement on the West Side by running through the streets, damaging everything with which she came in contact. Before she was captured Frank Scott, her keeper, was killed, the elephant stepping on him and crushing out his life. Since then Gypsy has had a dozen keepers. Yesterday the man who has had charge of Gypsy for a month resigned. The managers of the circus have been unable to fill his place, and so decided to have the famous elephant killed. Arrangements are now being made for the execution by electricity.

London, Dec. 10.—The condition of Frederick Kast, co-defendant with Lady Tina Scott, John Cockerton and William Aylott, in the action for criminal libel brought against them by Earl Russell, who is ill with pneumonia, is now regarded as hopeless. He has suffered a relapse and his physicians say there is no likelihood of his recovery. Lady Scott is also ill with fever and is in a critical condition.

"I HAD NO FAITH."

But my Wife Persuaded me to Try the Great South American Rheumatic Cure and my Agonising Pain Was Gone in 12 Hours and Gone For Good.

J. D. McLeod, of Leith, Ont., says,—"I have been a victim of rheumatism for seven years—confined to my bed for months at a time ; unable to turn myself. Have been treated by many physicians without any benefit. I had no faith in rheumatic cures I saw advertised, but my wife induced me to get a bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure from Mr. Taylor, druggist, in Owen Sound. At that time I was in agony with pain. Inside of 12 hours after I had taken the first dose the pain had all left me. I continued until I had used three bottles, and I now consider myself completely cured."

SIR KNIGHT JAMES OSBORNE

RESCUED.

Reported on by the Sick Committee.
His Death Claim a foregone conclusion.

A REPORT having been made, February 20th, 1896, to Barton Tent, No. 2, Knights of Maccabees, Hamilton, Ont., that Sir Knight James Osborne was very ill, the standing "sick committee" was instructed to wait upon him. They did so, and at the next meeting of the Lodge, reported that his disease was stated by his physician to be Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, and that he could not possibly recover ; further, that he would only last a short time. Upon receiving this report the Lodge expected to pay his death claim, but were surprised a few months later on when Sir Knight Osborne entered the Lodge room in apparent good health. His marvellous recovery is due entirely to Ryckman's Kootenay Cure, as he discontinued the use of all other medicine when he commenced to take that remedy. He now works every day, is getting stronger and healthier steadily, and appears to be a long way from death as far as Bright's disease is concerned.

Signed,

GEO. RIACH, Commander. EMORY L. HARTWELL, R.K.
HUGH SYMINGTON, F.K., Barton Tent, No. 2.

Bright's Disease Yields to the New Ingredient.

Bright's Disease, that has hitherto been supposed incurable, fastened itself upon James Osborne so firmly that his case was considered hopeless by physicians, friends and himself. All the well marked symptoms of that dread disease were in evidence. The pains across the kidneys were so bad that for hours at a time he could not turn in bed. The skin became pallid, pasty, dry and hard. Digestion bad, heart palpitation, shortness of breath and prostrating weakness. So weak did he become that his strength was like that of a child. He could not walk. Appetite gone, nervous, very restless during sleep, awakening several times during the night with a desire to urinate, which at times was very painful. Under the eyes the skin was puffed out, legs and feet were swollen, and he felt the use of them were gone. Reduced to this deplorable, helpless condition 'tis no wonder that he exclaimed : "what is to become of me." To be brought from this condition to a state of health that enables him to take up his usual work is marvellous, and proves the far-reaching, curative powers of Kootenay. From head to foot he suffered, and from head to foot he was cured by Kootenay, and by it alone, as substantiated by the following :

[COPY].

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF WENTWORTH, TO WIT : I, JAMES OSBORNE, of the City of Hamilton, County of Wentworth, do solemnly declare that I reside at 62 Catherine St. South, in said City, and am employed as engineer by the Sandford Manufacturing Co., Hamilton, Ont. Some time ago I was severely attacked with kidney trouble, and finally had to leave my employment. I was treated by Hamilton physicians who, after a consultation, diagnosed my case as "Bright's Disease of the Kidneys," and said I could not be cured. Upon this information I gave up treatment with the doctors, and began the use of Ryckman's Kootenay Cure. I am now pleased to state that after taking four bottles of that wonderful medicine I feel entirely like a new man. The swelling has left my body, my skin is a better color, and I am recovering my health and strength steadily.

Knowing the benefits which I received from the medicine, it gives me pleasure to recommend it to anyone suffering from Bright's Disease or other kidney trouble. I am now working in my old position as engineer, and owe my present strength and improved condition to Kootenay Cure.

And I make this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act, 1893.

DECLARED before me at the City of Hamilton, in the County of Wentworth, this 16th day of Sept., A.D. 1896.

(Signed), JAMES OSBORNE.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

The report on honey legislation and the directors' report were presented and adopted.

The Board was recommended to provide the members with the Canadian Bee Journal as usual.

A resolution was passed urging the adoption by the Dominion Government in the interest of the consumer of an Order-in-Council fixing the specific gravity (or its equivalent on an analysis of honest unadulterated honey, and the carrying out of the resolution was left in the hands of the Executive.

Among the questions was one in reference to a small worm which sometimes made an attack on the hives of one of the members. Few of the others had met with or heard of the pest, and the member was recommended to send specimens to the entomologists at Guelph and Ottawa.

Fruit growers were urged in the common interest not to spray trees in the bloom time.

For lack of time the question of "Wintering Bees" was discussed at short length only, and the other subjects, "Building Up of Bees in Spring" and "Granulation and Liquifying Honey," were not taken up at all.

Nearly the whole of the session was occupied in an address by Mr. F. C. Harrison, B.S.A., the bacteriologist of the Ontario Agricultural College, who had returned with ex-President Holterman from Guelph. The subject was highly technical, but the lecturer succeeded in making it admirably clear and interesting. An unusual feature was seen in the agreement between the chemist (Mr. Harrison) and the practical man (Inspector of Foul Broods McEvoy), who were at one both as to cause and remedy. In the subsequent discussion it was stated and not contradicted that the sting of a bee operating on buckwheat is more severe than that of a bee drawing from clover.

At the time of the midday adjournment the Mayor was introduced to the meeting, and after thanking the association for making Toronto the place of convention hoped the members had had a pleasant time and would return again. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Mayor and City Council for the use of the hall and another to the press for very full and accurate reports.

At a directors' meeting, held subsequently at the Palmer House, Mr. Couse and Mr. Enright were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

AT TWO HOSPITALS.

Five Years in the Toils—Nothing But Dodd's Kidney Pills Could Touch the Spot.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23—(Special)—Mr. W. P. Jackson, a telegraph operator of this place, has had an experience which should be, when known, of value to every man in Canada. He says:—"Without relief for five years, I have gone from bad to worse with kidney disease. Have been treated at two hospitals—Chicago and Montreal—and took the hot springs course, all to no purpose. I have taken doctors' advice and their medicines with the same result. My cure commenced as soon as I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking ten boxes, I am happy to say that my cure is perfect.

REWARDS FOR THE BRAVE.

Life Savers in Canada Who Have Been Honored for Promptness and Pluck.

Hamilton, Dec. 10.—(Special.)—Notwithstanding the threatening condition of the weather there was an exceedingly large attendance at the annual meeting of the Royal Canadian Humane Association, held in the capacious schoolroom of Centenary Methodist Church, this evening. Mr. Adam Brown of this city, president of the association, occupied the chair, and the duties of the secretary were attended to by J. W. Murton, sheriff of Wentworth county.

President Brown in his address spoke at considerable length regarding the Sanford gold medal, which was awarded for the greatest deed of daring during the year, and added that medals and parchments awarded to people who live a great distance from this city had been sent to prominent men in various localities to be presented by them to the brave ones for whom they were intended.

Christmas Holly.

The holly was so frequently seen at Christmas that it was itself often popularly called "Christmas." Mistletoe, often called simply "missle," everybody knows about. The Druids used it, and only the oaks on which it grew were sacred to them. When hung up in a house, it was supposed to drive away evil spirits. Not only did the young men hang it up at Christmastide that they might have the privilege of kissing every girl who walked under it, but it was further said that the maid who was not kissed under it would not be married the coming year. The most learned antiquarians maintain that a berry should be plucked for every kiss, and some insist that this berry should be given to the girl kissed.

The Indispensable Tree.

Of all things for Christmas a Christmas tree is indispensable in a house where there are children. The exploring of overflowing stockings will not give half the pleasure that comes from the discovery of a "real live" tree, with a gray bearded, snow specked Santa Claus peeping from its branches. It matters not how small the tree if it be prettily decorated. In this it is chiefly the first cost which counts. The same ornaments, with very few additions, will do year after year. As for the tree itself, there are five different kinds, all beautiful in themselves — pine, hemlock, spruce, cedar and balsam fir.

A Great Book Free!

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 31 one cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

Mason & Risch Pianos

Probably the most striking fact in connection with MASON & RISCH PIANOS is their suitability to all conditions. That they satisfy the social and aesthetic sense is evidenced by the fact that our cultured homes, from Rideau Hall down, use them. The fact that of importance in Canada is supplied with them, gives testimony to their musical excellence; and even in the homes of far off British Columbia, deep in the forest and far removed from the tuner's visit or care, they are still to be found standing hard usage like a rock, and cheering the distant home with their musical tone.

...Nearly Every College And Music School...

The Fairweather Bicycle
MUST BE GIVEN AWAY.

OWING to the action of certain parties, the attention of our local guardians of the law was called to Fairweather & Co's Great Gift of a High Grade Bicycle which we had announced to give away on December 31st. We find on consulting legal authority, that our method of giving the wheel to the party who held the lucky number was unwittingly infringing on the Lottery Act, and we will consequently have to make a change. We had noticed that in Toronto and other places the same method had been adopted, and, consequently thought it was all right. However, as we do not wish to break the law and do not wish to break faith with the public, we have determined to give this Wheel away in another way that will keep within the law's demands and still give justice to our numerous patrons.

No doubt the parties who interested themselves sufficiently to stop us will feel that they gained a great deal by having the authorities take this action until they know that we are going to give that Bicycle away in spite of all they can do.

On December 31st we will announce the new method by which we will give away our Wheel. In the meantime we advise our customers to RETAIN THEIR TICKETS and secure as many more as they can, as we intend to make them valuable to them. We are still issuing Tickets to all purchasers but not on the same basis as before.

DEATH OF MR. HENRY COX.

A Former Resident of Peterborough Dies in Toronto.

The Toronto Star of yesterday contains the following reference to one, who, by the description, would appear to be Mr. Henry Cox, who formerly resided on Murray street, town. The Star says:

Henry Cox had been working for only a few minutes at his place in the Wanderer Cycle Company, on Church street, this morning, when he fell to the floor and expired, probably from heart disease, said Dr. E. H. Adams, who was called in. Coroner Johnston has ordered an inquest for Monday afternoon and in the meantime the body is at the Morgue, waiting the discovery of Cox's friends, or home, if he has any. Cox was an old man and was reserved to the point of eccentricity. He would tell nothing about himself and kept aloof from association with his fellow workmen. They never learned whether or not he was married or where he lived; once when someone asked him his address, he replied that he had a post office address and that was enough. In view of this reticence it was impossible to-day to notify his friends or the people with whom he lived.

In his pocket was a Public Library card, bearing his name and the address 65 Walton street, but he does not know live there, though he may have done so before the people now at that address moved in. On the card was a memo which indicates that he was in some way interested in a patent.

Cox was about sixty years of age, of medium height and had a thin brown beard, tinged with grey. He was an assembler in the Wanderer Co.'s shops and had been employed there for a few months only.

Adds his Testimony to the Merits of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for Catarrh and Cold in the Head—He Says it is Peerless.

Mr. John McEdwards, the genial purser of the C. P. R. "Athabasca," says, "I used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for cold in the head. It is very effective, easy to apply, mild and pleasant For catarrh it has no equal. I have tested nearly every catarrh cure made, and found none to compare with it. I recommend it first, last and always."

INDUCTION AT BOBCAYGEON.

Rev. Mr. Innes Inducted at Bobcaygeon.

On Tuesday last, the Rev. Mr. Innes was inducted into the pastoral charge of Bobcaygeon and Dunsford. The service was very interesting and was largely attended by members of the congregation.

Rev. A. C. Reaves, of Lakefield, prbided. Rev. Mr. Potter, of St. Andrews, Peterborough, preached the sermon, Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's, Peterborough, addressed the minister, and Rev. Mr. Tanner, of Orcemee, addressed the pople.

After the service the congregation repaired to the hall, where a splendid tea was served. After tea a programme was rendered in the church, consisting of music by the choir and addresses by the Revs. Messrs. Shier and Creighton, of Bobcaygeon, Rev. Mr. McKinnon, Fenelon Falls, Rev. Mr. McKnight, of Harvey, and Rev. Mr. Tanner, of Omemee. An interesting feature of the programme was a short lecture by the Rev. Mr. Potterton "Can you eat sawdust without butter." The meeting was closed by a few words by the pastor. Mr. Innes and wife begin their labours under very favourable auspices.

THE LAST SESSION OF THE OLD REGIME.

FORTY-FIFTH AND LAST YEAR OF THE PRESENT COUNCIL SYSTEM.

Conclusion of Business—The Last Sitting of the Last Session.

The council went into session this morning for the last time under the old regime, all the members present, Mr. Middleton, the warden, in the chair.

After routine, Mr. Mansfield, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on PETITIONS,

as follows:—

The Committee on Petitions beg leave to report as follows:—

Your committee recommend that in response to the circular of the county of Kent, this county memorialize the Dominion Parliament to so amend the law as to Railway Companies to make them liable for all damages from fire caused by locomotives, whether such locomotives are the safest and best obtainable or not.

Your committee recommend that no action be taken with reference to the circular from the county of Huron, asking the Legislature to provide power to county councils to offer any reward for the apprehension of horse thieves.

Your committee recommend that no action be taken with reference to the circular from the county of Simcoe, asking for legislation with respect to the maintenance of the Victoria Industrial School.

Your committee recommend that the warden and county clerk memorialize the Ontario Legislature for more stringent legislation with respect to dogs killing sheep.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. MANSFIELD,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, December 12th, 1896.

Mr. Johnston called attention to the fact that a petition from the Otonabee Sunday schools to prevent the desecration of the Sabbath by Sunday steamboat traffic on the river had not been noticed by the committee. It is understood the matter will be brought up at the next session.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Moloney, chairman, presented as follows the report of the committee on

ROADS AND BRIDGES:

1. Your committee recommend that the County Clerk reply to the letter of R. B. Rogers, Esq., Superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, of the 14th July last, stating that this county repudiates any responsibility in connection with the Benefort bridge, either as to guide boom, caretaker or in any respect whatever.

2 That the county Engineer be instructed to purchase from Mr. J. J. O'Donnell 6000 feet of flicats for Mud Lake and Pigeon Lake bridges provided they meet the same specification as last year and are furnished at required points at a price not more than $3 a foot.

3. That the report of the County Engineer be received and accepted.

That the matters of repairs to one hundred feet of the eastern approach to Burn's bridge in the township of Douro be left in the hands of the Reeve of Douro with power to act and that the Country Treasurer pay the cost thereof upon the certificate of such Reeve.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Chairman.

MACEO WAS BETRAYED

By the Treachery of One of His Own Staff.

LED INTO A TRAP AND SHOT DOWN

Spanish Commander Sent a Request to Him to Meet and Confer Looking to a Cessation of Hostilities—The Cubans More Determined Than Ever Now.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 13.—The Constitution's Key West special gives the following account of Maceo's death, indicating his betrayal and implicating Dr. Zertucha.

"Your correspondent is now enabled to state, upon the most undoubted authority, that the death of Gen. Maceo was a premeditated assassination, and that the failure to produce his body is because its mutilated condition would shock even Spanish official sensibilities.

"It seems that General Maceo had planned a successful crossing of the trocha, and that taking the sea route with a bodyguard, he was to rejoin his forces east of Mariel. This was accomplished in safety, and, while standing alone, within sight of a line of skirmishers, the General was shot down by men in hiding who were awaiting their victim. His body, so far as Spanish reports go, at once disappeared, but the truth is that it was hacked up by the assassins, who exhausted every indignity of which brutal minds are capable.

"It has been well-known for a year past that there was a price set upon Maceo's head, and Gen. Weyler's first official act upon reaching the island was to give notice of recognition to the Plataedos, bands of freebooters. These men, following in the wake of both armies, would murder and plunder, and when chased down by the indignant Cubans would find protection within the Spanish lines, whilst the latter would officially deny all knowledge of the matter. A few weeks ago a band of these men attacked a convent in the Province of Puerto Principe, which was filled with young girls, who were most shamefully abused. Some of these men were caught by Gen. Lacret, the insurgent leader, and executed, while the greater part of them found protection within the Spanish lines. Although the enormity of the crime was known and their victims were convent school girls, the criminals were protected from molestation and are to-day free.

"For three weeks it has been known in Havana that a clever bribe was out for the surrender of General Maceo. It was to the effect that he held the ticket which called for the grand prize of $50,000 in the Havana lottery. He did not care to call for the cashing of this cleverely arranged bribe; and upon the departure of General Weyler for the hills several days ago, it was bruited about that the man who killed Maceo could have the prize.

"The story of Maceo's death, as told from official sources, sustains fully the story of the assassination. General Maceo, instead of crossing the trocha directly with his men, was, through some covert influence, induced to pass Mariel on a boat, and to reach his forces on the east side of the death line. There everything was in readiness by the conspirators, and the brave leader fell a victim to the trap into which he had walked. It is regarded as very singular that Maceo's physician, Maximo Zertucha, was allowed to surrender. Instead of being put in chains and rushed off to a dungeon, he is treated with distinction, is paraded before newspaper correspondents and has freedom of speech, which is a novelty in Cuba.

"The feeling of depression into which the Cubans were thrown upon the first announcement of Maceo's death, now that the fact of his cowardly assassination is confirmed, has changed to that of desperate determination.

BASE TREACHERY.

Plans for Cessation of Hostilities With Cuban Independence as the Basis.

Jacksonville, Dec. 12.—A letter received by M. Huau from Havana, dated Dec. 8, says:

"We are at present under the sad impression caused by the death of our brave general, Antonio Maceo, murdered, together with the greater part of his staff, by the Spaniards, acting under the assassin Major Cirujeda, and instrumental in this horrible drama Maceo's second surgeon, Maximo Zertucha.

"Convinced as Weyler was that, notwithstanding his enormous army, he could do nothing against our gallant leader, who has so repeatedly defeated the Spanish General in Pinar del Rio, he conceived the idea of gratifying his beastly instincts by cold-blooded murder, and, making the best of his secret relations with Dr. Zertucha and the Marquis of Ahumada, he planned with the latter his hellish scheme. Weyler took the field and in his absence Ahumada proposed, through Dr. Zertucha, a conference with Maceo, to take place at a certain point in the province of Havana, with a view of arranging plans for the cessation of hostilities, on the basis of Cuba's independence and a money indemnity to Spain, with, moreover, certain advantages that would be agreed upon for Spanish commerce and Spanish capital here invested. To carry out the plans orders had been given to the detachments of troops stationed at the trocha in the station between Mariel and Guanajay to allow Maceo with his staff, to pass the military line unmolested.

"These combinations took time to mature, and to give them all semblance of truth, Ahumada feigned that before acting he must make known his plans to Weyler for his previous approval, and this explains the sudden arrival of Weyler at Havana and his prompt return to Pinar del Rio. Having arranged the conditions and place of meeting, Maceo crossed the trocha over the road to Guanajay without being molested by the forts, but once arrived at the place decided upon he and his party were greeted by a tremendous volley from the forces under Major Cirujeda, lying conveniently in ambush. Most of the officers of his staff fell with Gen. Maceo. Zertucha is alive because he was aware of the scheme and remained in the rear. The Spaniards know where the bodies are, but are bent on feigning ignorance to blot out the vestiges of crime.

WAR WILL NOT END.

"Havana and all Spain are rejoicing because in the midst of their stupidity they hope that the war may end with the death of this gallant leader. Far from this, the spirit of the Cubans has grown more ardent, and to-day the latter are resolved to make every sacrifice before laying down their arms to the relentless tyrants, and in this very Province of Havana, where our army is less numerous and possessed of less means of defence, the Cubans are operating with greater activity than ever, and not a day passes that we do not hear in this city the firing on Guanabacoa.

"The Spaniards may treacherously murder some of our patriots, but there is no earthly power that could annihilate the spirit of liberty floating now as ever over the Cuban people."

Speaking of the letter, Mr. Huau said: "Maceo is dead, but Cuba will live long. The death of no one man can crush the brave spirit of the patriots of Cuba, who are fighting gallantly for liberty.

"From this day Cuba will fight harder than ever before. This will be a sad day for Spain.

"I do not know who will succeed Maceo, but I think it will be Rios Rivera, a brave and intelligent soldier."

A TALK WITH WEYLER.

The Captain-General Says He is Pretty Well Satisfied With the Outlook.

Havana, Dec. 12.—The representative of the United Associated Presses in this city had an interview this afternoon with Captain-General Weyler, who returned to Havana last night from the Province of Pinar Del Rio. The Captain-General received the press representative with much cordiality. When asked concerning his opinion of the campaign in general he said that he was very well satisfied with the course of events, and expressed the hope that in a short time there would be a change that would modify some aspects of the situation.

He was asked concerning the result of his operations in Pinar Del Rio, and replied that he was pleased with the outcome since the rebels in that province are now broken up into small bands and are rapidly losing ground in the hills, the Spanish forces dislodging them from their hiding places. At Rangel there was one position occupied by the insurgents which the rebel leaders considered impregnable. This is now in the hands of the troops, the rebels having been driven out of it. The Spanish troops are now fortifying the place in order to prevent the rebels from making an attempt to recapture it.

Continuing, General Weyler declared that the fact was well known to all that owing to the active pursuit of the rebels by the Spanish columns, Maceo had been obliged to abandon the province, proceeding to sea to the Province of Havana, where it was known he had met his death.

Regarding the effects that would be produced in the rebel ranks and among rebel sympathizers by the death of Maceo, the Captain-General said it would be demoralising, since Maceo's prestige among them was very great. He was filled with the fighting spirit, was a dashing commander and was always ready to give battle to the Spaniards when the time and opportunity suited him. There were, however, other rebel leaders of importance. The prestige of a leader was an important factor for the insurgents. When one disappeared the others were seized with demoralisation and disorganisation followed, a fact that would be taken advantage of by the Spaniards.

Speaking of Rios Rivera, who it is supposed will succeed Maceo in the command of the rebels in Pinar Del Rio, General Weyler remarked that he was now at the head of the insurgent parties in that province. He added that Rivera had no history as a leader of men, nor did he have the capacity to lead his forces. He thought it would take about 20 days more to terminate the rebellion.

WHAT PALMA SAID.

The News of Treachery Did Not Surprise Him—Where is Spanish Chivalry?

New York, Dec. 12.—The Cuban Junta in this city, late this afternoon, received the following telegram from their Jacksonville agent, J. A. Huau:

"Received letter from Havana confirming death of Maceo and staff by a combination between Marquis Ahumada, second in command to General Weyler, and Dr. Zertucha. They were murdered."

Delegate T. Estrada Palma, after the receipt of the above, dictated a statement for the press. It was in part as follows:

"The news does not surprise me, because the first reports were so contradictory that I read a mystery. I was inclined to believe that the news was false at first, but finally concluded that if Maceo was dead it was by the assassin's knife. It seems now that he has been murdered.

"General Weyler, in addressing the crowd from the balcony of the palace, seemed anxious to shirk the credit for the responsibility of Maceo's death, when he said that victory was clearly due to Ahumada. Perhaps his conscience begins to feel remorse. This very act of the Spanish General proves the straits of the Spanish army. They must resort to treachery.

"They did not face Maceo. They stabbed him in the back. Let me ask where is the Spanish chivalry of which they boast so much?"

The actions of the Spanish troops were so suspicious that Maceo felt that they had him cruelly trapped, and his suspicions were confirmed when a peremptory order came from a splendidly mounted officer to surrender. 'Never,' was the reply, and hardly had the word been uttered when volley after volley was poured into the little band of patriots, who, although hemmed in on all sides, outnumbered almost one hundred to one, struck spurs to their horses, and, with cries of 'Cuba libre,' rode gallantly to their death.

"Maceo is reported to have fallen at the first fire with a bullet through his head, breaking his jaw. Another hit him in the abdomen. Both were fatal. Gomes was the next to fall, and in a few moments a number of bloody corpses, shot almost beyond recognition, were all that remained of the gallant Cubans who trusted to Spanish honor.

"Only one member of the staff escaped, and that was Dr. Zertucha. The corpses were buried on the field, and every precaution was taken to keep the details from being made public."

TWO WERE DROWNED.

British Brig Victoria Lost at Sea—Five of Her Crew Saved.

London, Dec. 12.—The British steamer Damara, Capt. Chambers, at London from Halifax, reports that on Dec. 6 last, lat. 48, long. 21, she sighted the British brig Victoria, Capt. Morgenborg, from St. John's, Nfld., for Bristol (previously erroneously reported arrived at the last-named port), in a sinking condition. Two of the Victoria's crew were drowned and five were rescued by the Damara.

The British steamer European, Capt. Barnes, from Montreal via Quebec, for London, before reported arrived at Liverpool in a damaged condition, had lost her after wheel and steering gear, part of her rails, capstan and deck load of deals.

LOVE'S TRIUMPH.

An Heiress Worth a Million Skips Out With and Marries a Youthful Civil Engineer.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Dec. 11.—The friends of Miss Naomi Voise, aged 18, granddaughter of the late millionaire, Alfred Duncomb, were surprised to-day when they learned that she had been secretly married to Charles Hollister, aged 19, a young civil engineer of this city. On Nov. 25, the young couple, accompanied by two friends, journeyed to Newark, N. J., where Rev. Charles Dodd married them.

It is said that Mrs. Duncomb is not inclined to forgive the young couple, but the friends of the bride believe that everything will be all right in the end. The bride is the wealthiest heiress in Westchester County.

HEREFORD BREEDERS.

Annual Meeting of the Association at Guelph—Election of Officers.

Guelph, Dec. 12.—The annual meeting of this association was held at the Royal Hotel, Alfred Stone, Guelph, first vice-president, in the chair. Secretary H. Wade read an apology for non-attendance from H. D. Smith, Compton, Que., president. He forwarded a paper reviewing features of interest in Hereford matters. There had been a marked increase in the demand for Herefords at much more satisfactory prices than had been obtained for the previous four or five years. Increased competition and interest had been displayed at the last fall shows. At Mr. Southam's sale of Herefords last spring the average price for 109 young bulls was $300.25. This fall Cudgell & Simpson and J. A. Funkhouser sold 24 young bulls at an average price of $196.07. Most of these animals were purchased by ranch owners.

The Secretary read his sixth annual report, in which he stated: "We have received 150 animals from Dec. 1, 1895, to Dec. 1, 1896, and we have on hand 533 pedigrees for the first volume, and 1114 pedigrees lost in the fire have not been returned to copy, but are still coming in slowly. There are 27 members on the roll. Exhibitors in 1896 at Toronto were H D Smith (Compton, Que.), D M Wilson (Moo's River, Que), Alfred Stone (Guelph), and Fleming & Co. (Weston). There is a balance of $200 in hand.

President, H D Smith (Compton, Que.); vice-president, Alfred Stone (Guelph); vice-president for Nova Scotia, W W Black (Amherst, N.S.); vice-president for Manitoba, Sir Donald A Smith (St. James); vice-president for the Northwest Territories, H A Munts (Olds, Alberta).

Directors, George Brent (Warwick), A Waldie (Acton West), Richard Stutt (Forest), James Carswell (Renfrew), F A Fleming (Weston), A Rawlings (Forest), Isaac Wiser (Prescott), H Reed (Mimosa), Joseph Shaman (Toddburn, Man.); auditors, D W Green (Toronto); secretary-treasurer, H Wade (Toronto).

Socialist Sympathy.

Rome, Dec. 11.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day, Signor Imbriani, the leader of the Socialists, declared that the names of the Italian Radicals who had sent a message of salutation to the Cubans were worthy of notable memory. The insurgent leader Maceo, he said, had died for his country. "Rebellion," he continued, "is not only the right but the duty of the oppressed, and glory comes to those who die in such a cause." The remarks of Signor Imbriani were received with prolonged applause.

The Committee on Schools beg leave to report as follows:

Your Committee recommend that this council having heard the parties on behalf of School Sections numbers 5 and 12, Asphodel, and the interested parties who appeared before this council on behalf of the ratepayers of School Section No. 5, having stated that the trustees of said School Section No. 5 will consent to the transfer of any property from School Section No. 5, to School Section, No. 12, when request is made in legal form, and the representatives of School Section, No. 12, having stated that the trustees of School Section, No. 12, will consent to such transfer.

15—Your committee recommend that the the application of the Reeve of Galway for a refund of the county rate on certain lands in the township of Galway be referred to the next sitting of this council.

W H CASEMENT, Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, Dec. 12th, 1896.

Mr. Shaw moved, seconded by Mr. Mansfield that the treasurer be instructed not to collect the interest on over due taxes in all the municipalities and that the interest already paid be refunded.

Mr. Shaw did not think the council could legally go back and collect interest as far as twenty years. It was clearly illegal in his opinion.

Mr. Finlay thought that the council could not go back more than six years.

Mr. Hales said that his township had entered the county as a separate municipality on the understanding that there were no such claims. There being a misunderstanding on this matter in the back townships, and he thought a discussion in open council would have a good effect.

Mr. Moloney said if there had been a misunderstanding it was the fault of the representatives. It was an injustice to ask these municipalities which had paid their county rates to pay interest on account of these municipalities who had neglected to pay promptly.

Mr. Hales agreed with Mr. Moloney that it was the fault of the representatives, who had assured the ratepayers that there was no back claims. He was not objecting to the payment in itself, his township was clear—but he wanted the matter to be understood.

Mr. Shaw—Are you willing to pay arrears for twenty years?

Mr. Brown (Alex)—Yes; because it is just.

Mr. People's submitted that the county should have collected the rates promptly.

Mr. Casement said it was understood in committee that the matter was not to be brought up again—that it was so agreed in in committee.

A general discussion ensued with varying opinions, several members feeling that the matter was settled, and it was generally expressed that the payment demanded was just.

Mr. Shaw at length withdrew the motion when he saw that the council was against his resolution.

AMENITIES.

Mr. Finlay moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that a standing vote of thanks be tendered our clerk and treasurer, Mr. Edg. Pearce, for his very efficient services during the past thirty years.

The motion was enthusiastically adopted with three rousing cheers and the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow," and the County Engineer was also honoured with three hearty cheers.

Mr. Pearce cordially thanked the council for their kind expression of confidence, and Mr. Belcher briefly addressed the council, thanking them for their kind expressions of sentiment of approval of his professional services for the past twenty years. He paid a particular tribute to the chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, Mr. Moloney, and said he had found all the wardens, from the time of Mr. Birdsall to the present, to be as honourable and straightforward as any men he had ever dealt with.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Public School Inspector, was asked to address the council, which he did briefly, expressing his appreciation of the honourable character of the council, and of his own determination to do his duty, independently of how such a course would affect him personally.

The sessional clerk, Mr. W. A. Stratton, was also remembered, and a resolution, placing on record the high appreciation of the council of his eminently satisfactory services as sessional clerk, was moved by Mr. Casement, seconded by Mr. Finlay, and enthusiastically carried. Mr. Casement paying a warm tribute to his services, which were added to by valuable legal hints.

The representatives of the press were also recognized in a resolution of thanks, moved by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. Casement, and brief acknowledgements were made by Mr. McKay and Mr. Yokome.

The session concluded by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and three enthusiastic cheers for the Queen, proposed by Mr. Warden Middleton.

A FARMER IN TROUBLE.

A Grenville County Man Speaks his Mind—Feels Like a New Man—Cured by Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert McIntosh, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said:

"During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realising great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

Constipation Cured.

Gents,—I was in very poor health for over four years; the doctor said it was constipation. Not wanting to spend too much cash I got three bottles of B.B.B. and took it regularly, I can certify that I am now in the very best of health and feel very grateful to B.B.B.

The Fairweather Bicycle
MUST BE GIVEN AWAY.

OWING to the action of certain parties, the attention of our local guardians of the law was called to Fairweather & Co's Great Gift of a High Grade Bicycle which we had announced to give away on December 31st. We find on consulting legal authority, that our method of giving the wheel to the party who held the lucky number was unwittingly infringing on the Lottery Act, and we will consequently have to make a change. We had noticed that in Toronto and other places the same method had been adopted, and, consequently thought it was all right. However, as we do not wish to break the law and do not wish to break faith with the public, we have determined to give this Wheel away in another way that will keep within the law's demands and still give justice to our numerous patrons.

No doubt the parties who interested themselves sufficiently to stop us will feel that they gained a great deal by having the authorities take this action ur il they know that we are going to give that Bicycle away in spite of all they can do.

On December 31st we will announce the new method by which we will give away our Wheel. In the meantime we advise our customers to RETAIN THEIR TICKETS and secure as many more as they can, as we intend to make them valuable to them. We are still issuing Tickets to all purchasers but not on the same basis as before.

ADDED 310 MILES TO THE RECORD

And Beat the Next Man by 26 Miles—Twenty-Five Thousand People Saw the Close of the Great Race at the Madison Square Gardens Saturday.

New York, Dec. 12.—The final of the great six-day contest, greatest as a contest, greater in record breaking and greatest in attendance, drew 25,000 people to Madison Square Garden to-night. The finish was exciting, and every man rode far fresher than was expected. The sprinting continued to the very close and tired legs did not give out.

Teddy Hale won with 1910 miles 8 laps, which lowers the previous record by 310 miles 7 laps. He received such an ovation as few men received in their lives. Rice, the second man, had carloads of friends from Wilkes-Barre present and the thousands also from New York, won by his enthusiastic riding. Reading, who put up one of the greatest rides of history to gain his present position had less friends than any other man on the track. He led the old school professional in the race. Forster finished between him and Schock.

Twelve of fifteen finishers broke the former record of Albert Schock, who says he went up against a good thing in a field of sprinters instead of pluggers as of old. One rider passes 1900, three pass 1800, four pass 1700, and four more pass 1600. The 1900 miles were completed in 140 hours and 43 minutes. The evening was one continual run of ovations, and the feeding quarters of the men beside the track were one bed of flowers at the final. It was a scene rivaling description.

Bald rode an exhibition mile in 2.18 1-5, the last tenth in 11 seconds, a 1.50 gait. Lefferson's half mile in 1.04 was record spaced. Baker won the one-half mile open, Carpenter second, Goodman third, Weinig fourth. Time 1.08 3-5.

During the last day of the contest the men were very notional, the great strain having told on some of them. Rice dismounted from his wheel and declared that his wheel ran backwards. His attendants took their wrenches and tightened the nuts. It was all right after that for a time. Later Hale and Rice, the leaders, got into an argument and both dismounted on the stretch. Rice came at Hale in what looked a threatening manner, but it was only that he might shake hands with the winner, and this 24 hours before the finish. At another time Taylor complained that one of the men was chasing him around with a knife, but it turned out to be a feeding tin.

Taylor and Pierce were very close and both watched lest the other jump him. Finally both got so slow they dropped back together. Taylor promised Pierce he would not return to the track until Pierce did. He said it would be a breach of contract to do so, and then made an arrangement to work together to beat Smith.

At 4.05 o'clock all the riders left the track to wash and recuperate for the hard finish. This was a welcome relief, for all as few had dared to do so previously, owing to the closeness of the contest. During the afternoon Reading put in 20 miles in one hour and in the morning, 12 hours 105 miles, 98 miles in the six hours from 6 a.m. to 12 noon. This was continuous riding. To-night Reading received a cheque for $50 from Senator Morgan, promised to the rider beating Morgan's record on 324 miles without a dismount. Reading did 200 miles at the opening day. He nearly duplicated this the last 24 hours.

Teddy Hale adds $1000 to his winnings of $4000 by an appearance nightly at a Music Hall next week. Manager Powers says every one of the 15 men a prize, the four winners receiving their entrance fee of $50 back and $100 in addition for their pluck. Frank Albert's challenge of $1000 to the winner will be taken up by Manager Powers for Hale on condition that it be a side bet to be contested for in another six-day race at this garden in the spring.

Over 25,000 people packed the main floor and three galleries of the Garden to-night at 6 o'clock and remained to the last race. This has been the most successful event in the history of the country.

The final score at 10 o'clock (142 hours), the previous record being 1600 miles 1 lap made by Schock, was:

Teddy Hale, Ireland, first prize, $1300—1910 miles 8 laps.

J. S. Rice, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., second prize, $900—1882 miles 6 laps.

Ned Reading, Omaha, Neb., third prize, $500—1835 miles 3 laps.

Fred Forster, New York, fourth prize, 1829 miles 4 laps.

Albert Schock, New York, fifth prize, 1758 miles 2 laps.

Burns W. Pierce, Boston, sixth prize, 1758 miles 1 lap.

E. C. Smith, Saratoga, seventh prize, 1754 miles 7 laps.

"Major" Taylor, Brooklyn, eighth prize, 1732 miles 2 laps.

C. W. Ashinger, Upshur, Ohio, ninth prize, 1673 miles 3 laps.

E. C. Moore, Philadelphia, 10th prize, 161 miles 7 laps.

H. H. Maddox, Asbury Park, N.J., 11th prize, 1644 miles 3 laps.

L. L. Cassidy, Millville, N.J., 1605 miles.

J. R. Gannon, New York, 1393 miles 8 laps.

D. M. McLeod, Philadelphia, 1350 miles 2 laps.

J. H. Glick, Detroit, Mich, 1006 miles 3 laps.

RUGBY RULINGS.

Football Men Held Their Annual Meeting —President Bate Struck Out.

Toronto, Dec. 14.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Rugby Union was held Saturday afternoon at the Rossin House, President Logie of Hamilton in the chair. All the business was done with neatness and despatch. No radical amendments to bylaws, rules and regulations were made. The regulations concerning resident players and student players on college teams, which was given a trial last year, were abolished, and clubs may sign anybody next year. A. B. Ford of Queen's got the presidency by acclamation, although a contest was expected, Fitzgibbon of Varsity sprung a surprise on Mowat, who wanted re-election to the remunerative office of secretary ($100 this year), and captured the prize on a vote of 21 to 18.

A motion to prevent men who had played on a senior team from ever after playing on a junior one was lost.

A motion to amend regulation No. 10 by preventing senior teams, which have drawn a bye in the first round, from playing their whole senior team as intermediates or juniors was carried. The clause of the said regulation as amended now reads: "No member of a club which has a first fifteen in the senior series shall be eligible to play on an intermediate or junior 15 having played more than once in the same Union season on a senior fifteen in a tie match, and further, a match in the senior series of his club must intervene in the following season before such player can again play on the intermediate team of that club."

Regulation No. 12 was amended by including Sunday in the time within which protests must be lodged.

A regulation was added that hereafter the home team guarantee 8 cents per mile, one way, for 16 men of the visiting team. A guarantee is not to exceed $50, and the visiting team's share of the gate is to be applied thereon. A club which receives a guarantee and subsequently defaults must repay it or stand suspended.

The following rules were added to those governing competition by ties:

In intermediate and junior games the net receipts shall be equally divided between the competing clubs.

In all cases a certified, itemised copy of the receipts and expenses shall be sent to the secretary of the Union within three days, and also to the secretary of the visiting club.

The visiting team shall in all cases receive a sum equal to at least 1 cent per mile traveled per man of a team of fifteen.

The constitution was amended by inserting a clause which prevents clubs being organized merely for the purpose of sending delegates to the general meeting, and now only clubs which have played in a Union match during the previous season are entitled to be represented there.

The delegates to the Ontario Rugby Union were instructed to vote to shorten the playing time of games by five minutes each half. After a long and heated discussion, a motion to recommend the O.R.U. to restore the old rule regarding "fairly held" was lost. Several minor changes were made in the regulations, and several alterations recommended in the rules.

This is the list of officers, the first three being by acclamation:

President, Ford (Queen's); first vice-president, D'Arcy Martin (Hamilton); second vice-president, Easson (Lornes); secretary-treasurer, Fitzgibbons (Varsity); committee, Council (Varsity), Gilmour (T.A.C.), Jones (Trinity), Osler (Osgoode), Ross (Queen's), Farrel, Kingstone and Moncrief (Petrolea); representatives to C.R.F.U., McDougall, Ford and Osler.

Those present at the meeting were:

President W A Logie, First Vice-President W Dick, Second Vice-President A B Ford; Secretary-Treasurer J McD Mowat, D Martin, F B Osler, O F Barr, D F Campbell, A E Ross, R H Easson and J W Bain of the O.R.F.U. Committee, and the following representatives: R.M.C., J F Reed and W S Ormston; Trinity, E W Jones and D B Rapelheau; Petrolea, W J Noble, George Moncrief; London, H C Page, Geo Kerrigan; Queen's, C A Macdougall, A D Benton; Varsity, Joe McDougall, A G Fitzgibbon; T.A.C., R K Barker, J Gilmour; Kingston, J W Kerr, A Lesslie; Hamilton, Labatt and Barker; Cornwall, D Donald, R C Donald; Lornes, T McMurrich, G Gale; K.C.I., W B Laidlaw, A B Slaght; Brockville, J A Clark, W W Richardson; Hamilton Y.M.C.A., J L Counsell, A Martin; St. Catharines, W J Morrison, F A Wilson; Granites, G J Rigney, George McKay; Osgoode, G Osler, C Kingstone.

Oke & Co's Telephone Number.

304 is a telephone number that greets the Central office as frequently as any other, but it is easy to get the numbers mixed. This was done in Oke & Co's advertisement in the EXAMINER'S Christmas number, where it was printed 340. Ring up 304 for Oke & Co's—and the oftener it is rung the better they like it.

A Home made Mucilage.

A very convenient mucilage can be made out of onion juice by any one who wishes to use it. A good sized Spanish onion, after being boiled for a short time, will yield, on being pressed, a large quantity of very adhesive fluid. This is used extensively in various trades for pasting paper on to tin or zinc, or even glass, and the tenacity with which it holds would surprise any one making the first attempt.

Wishes to Deny It.

A paragraph appeared in the EXAMINER a few days ago concerning the alleged ill-treatment of a daughter by her parents, in the township of Otonabee. The ill-treatment was said to be the result of the girl's refusal to renounce her lover. Mr. Robert Mitchell, of Otonabee, called at the EXAMINER office on Saturday, and inferring that the paragraph had reference to his family, stated that the report was entirely without foundation of any kind. His daughter, he stated had injured herself by a fall.

NO DECISION YET.

It is not Known Whether the Date for the Payment of Taxes Will be Extended.

A meeting of the town council was called for Saturday evening, in order that a by-law might be passed relieving the tax collector of all responsibility in connection with the extension of the time for the payment of taxes without 5 per cent. being added.

As no word had been received from the guarantee company which is carrying the the collector's bonds, it was thought inadvisable to take any action until an assurance had been received to the effect that the passage of such a by-law would be satisfactory and would prevent the company from cancelling the bonds, as proposed.

The council will meet again this evening, by which time it is hoped that the necessary guarantee will be received from the company, which will enable the date to be postponed until January 15th.

The Council did not go into session on Saturday night, but an animated discussion was carried on for several hours in the Clerk's office. The opinion of several of the councillors was that the bylaw would be illegal on the ground of "inequality," as a number of citizens, having paid their taxes already on the assumption that the usual five per cent. would be added on December 14th, would be cut off from the advantage of those who waited until the last day, and then participated in whatever privileges were embodied in the extension of the date for another month.

The Town Solicitor, however, has prepared a bylaw which, in his opinion, will extend the date in a manner perfectly legal.

Water in the River.

The flow of water in the river has been reduced for a day or two in order to allow the canal contractors to put in their coffer dams. The flow of water during the past month has been much in excess of the usual flow at this time of the year. It is gradually decreasing as the cold weather sets in.

The Body Recovered.

The body of Adelard Vinette was recovered from the river on Saturday afternoon at about half-past three at almost the exact place where he sank on Friday, Mr. Frank Weatherhead locating it with a grappling iron. The remains were taken to the home of the sorrowing mother and the funeral took place this morning to St. Peter's cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

A Hint on Voting.

The Colborne Express gives instructions to its readers by saying that all municipal electors are qualified to vote for county councillors. If a voter wishes to vote twice for one candidate he may legally do so by making two crosses (x x) after his name. Bear in mind, however, that you can vote for only one if you give him two votes; you may vote for two by one cross (x) after each name. Otherwise the ballot cannot be counted.

Marks Bros. Still to the Front.

Marks Bros. closed the first week of their season on Saturday with no let-up in the popular appreciation expressed by packed houses. At the matinee in the afternoon the house was jammed like a sardine box and the crowd was well rewarded with Little Lord Fauntleroy, in which little Gracie took the title roll delightfully and her support helped her in presenting a splendid bill. Saturday night brought another big house and "The Waif of the Mines" brought out in splendid form Tom Marks as the Irish detective, McKinley as the hero of the play and Alex Marks the villain. The other characters were well taken and the specialties, May Bell's songs and Emma Gertrude's illuminated skirt dance were excellent as usual. Marks Bros. hold the boards for the coming week.

Meteorological Observations.

Since the death of Mr. Thomas Telford, no official record of the temperature, rainfall, etc., has been kept in Peterborough for the Meteorological Department. A few days ago the head official of that Department was in town and appointed Mr. Walter Peters of the EXAMINER staff, as custodian of the instruments of the Department. He has been supplied with two superior thermometers—a spirit minimum, for recording the cold, and a maximum for registering the heat. The former instrument is graduated to 90 degrees below zero, so there is hardly any possibility of a "cold dip" getting beyond the recording capacity of this instrument. Both instruments are self-registering, and were made by Negretti & Zambra, the famous optical instrument makers of London, and both have been tested and verified at the Kew Observatory, Greenwich, England, and are guaranteed correct. A guage for measuring the rainfall has also been supplied. Mr. Peters is careful and painstaking, and will doubtless perform his duty to the satisfaction of the Department.

A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

One of the Fire Department Drivers Badly Hurt This Morning.

Mr. John Montgomery, of the fire department, was the victim of a very serious accident this morning. He was hauling some lumber for the town, and was driving the fiery new hose wagon team on a wagon upon which there was no box, the reach only being used when lumber is being hauled.

As the team neared the C.P.R. tracks a passing train frightened them, and caused them to bolt. Mr. Montgomery being perfectly at home with horses, would easily have had his team under control again in a moment, but as he was sitting astride the reach, he was completely powerless, and as the teams crossed the C.P.R. tracks on the run, he was jostled from his uncertain seat and flung to the ground.

On being picked up and carried into Bowman's Hotel, it was found that Mr. Montgomery was unconscious, and though he revived at times, a stunning blow which he received on the head when falling caused him to faint at intervals.

Dr. Clarke put several stitches in the scalp wound, and found on examination that the right shoulder was also badly bruised, but he apprehends nothing serious, and directed that Mr. Montgomery should be driven to his home on Louis street.

The horses were caught near the South Ward School.

MAKING IMPROVEMENTS.

The C. P. R. will Widen the Space for Boats Under the Spur Line.

Mr. W. B. Bamford, local station agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was seen this morning in reference to the statement that the railway was contemplating the restricting of the space under their spur line, through which the canoes from the boathouses get out into the river.

The agent stated that, although it was true that additional piles were being driven under the bridge, they were merely temporary, as it was the intention of the Company to place iron stringers over the space referred to, thus making it higher and wider for the convenience of the canoes and steam launches. The C. P. R. has not the slightest intention of taking advantage of the rights of the property-holders along the river bank.

—Farmer' Institute to morrow at the County Council Chamber.

—Five Port Hope young men have been committed for trial on the charge of throwing stones at passing freight trains.

—The date of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute is "Tuesday," 22nd Dec., and not "Monday," 23ad, as on the poster—to be held in Keene.

—The EXAMINER has to thank Mr. T. E. Bradburn for an artistic calendar for 1897 of the Standard Life Assurance Company, of which he is the local representative.

—A few inches of nice, soft snow, and a thermometrical drop below zero from now to Christmas, would be worth thousands to our merchants. It's hard to sell a fur coat or a cape when a duster or a parasol would be more appropriate to the occasion. And paradoxical as it may seem, soft weather freezes up the generosity of Santa Claus more than two feet of snow and 20 below zero.

—Miss Christina Currie, a young lady of twenty or thereabouts, who, until recently, has been living with her uncle, Thomas Squires, and his wife Janet, in Mariposa township, and is now with friends in Toronto, Saturday morning began an action for $2,000 damages for libel and slander against her uncle and aunt. Mr. Squires, it appears, accused her of stealing $5 and that is where the trouble began.

—This is the very best time to make holiday purchases, and the increasing numbers in the stores attest the fact that there are many people who know it, and are improving the opportunity. The stocks in all lines are fresh and complete at present, have not been picked over, and give the largest possible choice. In a week or ten days from now the assortment will be much restricted; the best things will have been purchased, and chiefly remnants of the present large stocks will be on the shelves and counters of the merchants. All who can do so should without delay make their Christmas selections.

—There is much food for thought in a report recently issued in England on the adulteration of tobacco. Tobacco consumers will be surprised to learn that the weed is mixed with sugar, alum, lime, flour or meal, rhubarb leaves, saltpetre, fuller's earth, starch, malt commings, cromate of lead, peat moss, molasses, burdock leaves, common salt, endive leaves, lamp black, gum, red dye, scraps of newspaper, cinnamon stick, cabbage leaves and brown straw paper. The enterprise and business ability of English tobacco dealers may, perhaps, be exemplified by the report but it is not a kind of enterprise that is entitled to encouragement. In this matter there is reason to believe that Englishmen take the foremost place.

A Good Judge of Meat

THE TOWN TAXES.

A special meeting of the council was was called for Saturday evening for the purpose of passing a bylaw indemnifying the collector of taxes in the matter of the extension of time for the payment of town taxes. A majority of the council voted on Monday night for the extension of time. Whether it was a right or wrong course to pursue need not be discussed now, but it looks like child's play for the council to meet and talk and talk without ever going into session to carry out the object for which the meeting was called. There is no question that the town has the right, if they desire to do so, to pass a bylaw indemnifying the collector and postponing the time. One half the people to-day are paying their taxes, and the other half are holding off believing that the bylaw will be passed. This matter of extension of time is too serious a matter to be trifled with, as has been done by the council. There may be nothing gained by extending the time, but now that the matter has been undertaken, there will be trouble over the 5 per cent. if the time is not extended, after the hopes of a great many have been raised. The people do not expect—or perhaps some of them do expect—this sort of child's play from grown-up councillors, and the course pursued the last few days will not strengthen public confidence in the business ability of those councillors who may apply for re-election. The council in this matter cannot not injure Mayor Yelland; he called the council together Saturday night to pass the bylaw. Those who favour the bylaw should have voted for it, and those opposed should have had the courage of their convictions. Going on strike like the bolting ministers last January, will not relieve them from responsibility.

Guessing Contest.

All may compete. A barrel of currants stands in the window of E. Brown & Co's, and the question is, How many currants in the barrel? Any person who buys upwards of $5 worth of groceries at any time may compete; the one who guesses the correct number will get a pound of currants or raisins as a Christmas present. The count will take place on the 20th of February. Come one, come all. E. BROWN & Co., groceries, wines and liquors.

To be Pastor.

Rev. Mr. Currie, a graduate of Queen's College Kingston, who occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, Havelock, on Sunday last, is the unanimous choice of the congregation, and already almost every member and adherent has signed the call, which will be formally given at a congregational meeting to be held this evening. The call will be placed before the Presbytery at a meeting of that body, which takes place on Tuesday afternoon in St. Paul's.

Killed Near Haliburton.

An aged farmer named Holland, who resided near Haliburton, met with a fatal accident one day last week. While bringing a load of wood into Lindsay the waggon wheel struck a rock on the roadside and the sudden jolt threw the old gentleman off. He alighted on his head and when picked up life was extinct. Dr. Giles was summoned and found that the neck was broken by the fall.

PERSONAL

Miss Minnie O'Sullivan, George street, is seriously ill.

Mr. Reggie Turner was in Lindsay on Saturday.

Mr. I. Elwood Lane and wife of Chicago, who have been visiting Mr. A. Franklin Lane and wife, left this morning, after a pleasant visit, for the east.

Rev. W. L. Armitage, the newly appointed assistant curate of St. John's, who comes to Peterborough to-morrow, was honoured with a complimentary entertainment in London previous to his departure. He was presented with an address wishing him success in his new field and expressing regret at his departure.

The last issue of the Hotel World, of Chicago, contains the following reference to Mr. George D. Edwards, who has been visiting his brother, Mr. E. B. Edwards, here, for some time past:—"Col. Geo. D. Edwards, the fascinating bachelor who conducts the Denver Hotel Reporter, is absent in Canada, and as he has been gone some time his Denver friends are beginning to worry about him, fearing that he has been kidnapped by some handsome subject of the Queen. During the H.M.M.B.A. pilgrimage in California last spring Mr. Edwards was "chaperone" for five Canadian ladies, and when his Denver friends are being asked at present what Geo. D. is doing so long in Canada, they wink—only wink.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Yesterday morning in St. Andrew's church the anthem "The Lord is My Shepherd" was well rendered.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang that grand song Parker's "Jerusalem" during collection at St. Andrew's church yesterday morning.

St. Andrew's choir sang two anthems very harmoniously last evening. Their selections were "Awake up My Glory," and "Search me, O God."

At the 10 30 o'clock service in the Cathedral yesterday morning, Mr. and Mrs. George Ball rendered Bundose's "Ecce Panis" in fine harmony.

On Sunday evening in St. John's church, Rev. Mr. Davidson made a beautiful and touching reference to the late Robert Panter, in whose death the congregation has lost one of its most regular worshippers. He cited in connection with his tribute to the simple piety of the young man, the words: "I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that Thou has hid these things from the wise and prudent and revealed them unto babes."

Bryce's Books for Boys.

Mr. Wm. Bryce, of Toronto, issues two sterling juvenile books for boys, and one for younger children. This is the Child's Magazine, a neatly illustrated little volume intended for the younger children, and for their amusement and instruction it contains many pages of stories, poetry, and one longer story, "Dick's Hero," by Blanche Atkinson. "Chimes" is a book after the boy's own heart. It is an illustrated annual of nearly 900 pages studded with splendid illustrations and contains a year's fund of lively, interesting, ever captivating reading that appeals strongly to boy nature. It has a judicious sprinkling of jokes, and its stories, while exciting enough, have a good moral and instructive tone. Its stories of adventures by sea and land, are delightful. Another and a new annual is called the Young Canadian, and is a large well illustrated volume, full of wholesome reading, stories of adventure, etc. There are two complete stories "On the Spanish Main," by Henty, and "Hunted Through Fiji," by Reginald Horsley. There are also scores of short stories of battlefields and travels throughout the uncivilised world, and several articles on birds and bird life. The cover is a typical Canadian one, there being maple leaves woven into the design with a pretty effect. This book or either of the others, makes an admirable Christmas present for boys. To be had at the Peterborough Bookstore.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Mr. H. E. C. Wonham, sec'y-treasurer of the Chicago Hockey Club, formerly one of Peterborough's crack hockeyists, forwards the following extract from a Chicago paper:—

"Hockey promises to be one of the most popular winter sports in Chicago this season. The recent cold snap afforded good ice at the parks, and as a result the experts were out in force driving the "puck" over the smooth surface. The game is rather new in this city, and participation in it has been confined to a few enthusiasts. Now, however, indications point to its becoming generally popular as a vigourous outdoor sport requiring both quickness and skill.

It is quite possible that indoor contests also may be arranged at Tattersall's or the Colliseum. The Chicago Hockey Club is back of the movement, and favours the plan, because evening games could then be played and the ice kept in uniform condition. Artificial ice is largely used in the east, where the sport has obtained quite a foothold. The pipes are said to have been taken out at Tattersalls, and if such is the case the expense would probably be too great to warrant replacing them. The Colliseum would be an admirable place, and its use for hockey and skating may prove feasible. In case suitable ground is secured a crack Canadian team will visit Chicago to meet the locals.

The Chicago, Wyandotte, Prairie and Englewood clubs already have candidates practicing for places on the teams, and a number of other clubs have signified their intention of organizing. There is quite a sentiment in favour of the organization of a hockey league, which would play a series of games involving the city championship.

President Black, of the Chicagos, is an adept at the game, having played on the champion Winnipeg team of Canada. Fenwick and Wonham are also old players, having been connected with the crack teams of both upper and lower Canada. McBride, a Toronto man, is also on the team. All these men are fast skaters and get into the game well. Weed proved himself a valuable man last winter, and is expected to do even better this year. There are a score of other promising candidates to uphold the honor of Chicago, if invading "Canucks" visit the city.

While the game is comparatively new in the United States, it is fast becoming popular in the east. It was introduced in Pittsburg two years ago by Fenwick, and there are now fourteen regular clubs there. The season there and in New York began Nov. 1 upon artificial ice, and scheduled games are now being played. New York boasts four hockey organizations, Brooklyn two and Washington two. The first important game will be played Dec. 15 between the St. Nicholas Club, of New York, and the Brooklyn Skating Club.

Hockey is by no means a gentle game in which the players have time to cut fancy figures. It is one of the fastest games played, and requires almost perfect physical condition. Seven men play on a side, and they are kept busy during the two twenty-minute periods. The field is 112 by 58 feet. In this small space all the lightning movements and quick recoveries are executed. Four of the seven players are called forwards, their duty being to advance the "puck," which is a small disk of vulcanized rubber. The goalkeeper and point form the defense about the goal, and the cover point is supposed to be intermediate. Of course the positions of the players change with the exergencies of the game, and each man is supposed to guard an opponent. The hockey sticks are light and made of wood.

The goal posts through which the puck must be driven are at each end of the field. They are four feet high and six feet apart. It seems strange to the unitiated, but the puck is seldom struck hard, the skill being shown in advancing it by pushing or passing to another on the same side. Rough play is penalized, but "interference" is allowed. The progress of a man with the ball can thus be checked or its possession secured by bumping against him with the body. With gentlemen players among whom the game is in vogue there has been little trouble from the rule thus far, but it would be easy to imagine instances where such privileges are abused, serious injuries resulting. Shin guards and heavy gloves belong to the paraphernalia of the game. The sport is certainly exhilarating to the players and unusually exciting when the teams are evenly matched. A series of games in Chicago is therefore greatly to be desired."

As the Peterboroughs are planning a two weeks' trip through the States the above facts will prove interesting.

A meeting of the Lakefield hockey club was held Monday evening last for the coming season. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Mr. E. R. Tate.
President—Mr. J. S. Madill.
Vice-President—Mr. C. S. Tanner.
Captain—Mr. A. McKenzie.
Vice-President—Mr. T. C. Ridpath.
Sec.-Treas—Mr. J. A. McDonald.

The club promises to be a very strong one this season, and will start out with a good membership.

It is often a mystery how a cold has been "caught." The fact is, however, that when the blood is poor and the system depressed, one becomes peculiarly liable to diseases. When the appetite or the strength fails, Ayer's Sarsaparilla should be taken without delay.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

The Victim Was Out with His Gun Near the Mica Mines.

Mr. John Wood of near Oak Lake, met with a serious accident near Coshenabog Lake, on Wednesday. He was out hunting when the accident happened.

When carrying the gun over his shoulder he slipped, the gun falling backward and discharging. The shot took effect in the ankle, the full charge entering just above the heel.

The injured man, unable to get assistance where he was, was forced to crawl over a quarter of a mile to where he could make himself heard by some men working in the mica mines near by. Mr. Wood was taken by these men men into one of the shanties. Two brothers of the wounded man were at once despatched to Mr. Wood's home to appraise the family of the accident. The family lived on the opposite side of the lake from that on which the accident happened, and in order to save time the men crossed the lake on the ice. When last heard from Wood was doing well.

We are offering these goods at such low prices for two reasons

1st.—To make room for our Pork Department.

2nd.—To give the general public bargains in these lines.

Should the consumer ask the quality of Pork he buys?

Should he be told the truth? We decidedly say Yes.

Is it consistent to be able to throughly recommend that which you never have seen in any state, except by selling it over the counter? No.

Is it right to blame Clerks for praising the goods they sell? No.

Why? Because in a great many cases they but comply with their employer's requests and do what they think right.

In order to be able to truthfullly recommend the PORK we sell, we deem it advisable to cure our own, which we are now doing.

Our LARD we guarantee.

Many women have good reason to dread the approach of the hour of maternity. All too frequently it is a time of almost unbearable pain and suffering and extreme danger. Women who are wise know that this is unnecessary. They know that the woman who takes proper care of her womanly self, who looks after the health of the organs that make motherhood possible, need have no fear of approaching maternity. They know that there is a sure and safe cure for all weakness and disease of these organs. Over 90,000 of these women have testified in writing to the virtues of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It is the discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce, a regularly graduated physician and an eminent and skillful specialist, who is and for thirty years has been chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. The "Favorite Prescription" makes the organs of womanhood strong and healthy. It cures all weakness and disease. It prepares for approaching maternity. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period. It alleviates the pains of parturition and makes baby's advent easy and safe. Druggists sell more of it than of all other remedies for these troubles combined.

Woman should know herself. She should not be dependent in every emergency, great and small, upon a physician. She should be familiar with her own physical make-up. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will reveal a world of important truths to the woman who is ignorant upon these points. It contains many chapters and illustrations devoted to the reproductive physiology of women. It is written in plain, straightforward language. The book contains over 1,008 pages. A paper-covered copy will be mailed absolutely FREE to any one who sends thirty-one one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of customs and mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. If cloth binding is desired send fifty stamps.

BRADLEY IN THE BOX.

The Conspiracy Case at Brampton Continues to Create Sensations.

Brampton, Dec. 11.—Twelve witnesses was the grist up to noon to-day in the famous conspiracy trial. Charles Cottenden, auctioneer, Queen-street, Toronto, sold a parlor suite brought to him after negotiations with Clark, for $17. The furniture was worth much more.

M. Drake, a scenic artist photographer, and Tailor Wadsworth of Toronto, all did work for Clark, got a little cash in some instances, but always a liberal allowance in goods for the balance. They believed the deals pretty good things. Sandford Chilman identified goods and told about Lailley, Watson & Co.'s loss.

Sergt. Cockburn, Albert Fisher and W. Reid, employes of Brock & Co., identified large quantities of the goods on Detective Heffernan's bargain counter as from their house.

W. J. Neelands and W. J. Ward, the Caledon farmers, for the altering of whose notes Clark was convicted of forgery, had similar stories about the inducements held out to them by Clark of getting goods at cost.

Willie Hunter, the boy teamster, who hauled goods to the Beaconsfield branch and to the score or so people who got goods from Clark, went over his story told at the magistrate's court. It was Willie who wrote a letter to Zollner of Mount Forest 19 days after the fire apprising them of that fact and adding the hint that he could give them valuable information.

The Afternoon's Proceedings.

Brampton, Dec. 11.—(Special.)—This afternoon Mary Feller of Bolton; Wm. Stubbs, Caledon; Bella Cooper of Glenwilliams, and James Robinson, Caledon, told how they had bought goods from Clark.

On William Robson's farm was left a threshing engine. He is a neighbor of Bradley's sons. They brought it to his farm while he was away. This is part of the assets claimed by the creditors. The defence endeavored to show that the engine was not taken there for concealment, but for better protection from the weather.

The witness, Miss Higginson, dressmaker, of Caledon East, told her story, fully reported in the magistrate's examination. She made 18 dresses for Clark, for which she received the munificent payment of $37, and most of it in furniture. Although cheap, the samples worn by the ladies in town did Miss Higginson much credit as a modiste. There was a straight chain of connection between Bradley and Clark in the dealings the witness had with Clark.

Miss Dot Murray, the theatrical lady who didn't sign a contract with Clark to play emotional parts, because the manager wouldn't put up the salary, told about getting dresses from Clark to be paid for in dramatic services. She got a gold watch and a lot of stuff, which she had to give back after the failure to agree. On one occasion she enjoyed the felicity of a furniture ride from Caledon East with Clark, when he was taking a load to the Beaconsfield branch.

Miss Helene Ward, a young lady with soulful eyes, admitted the impeachment of being an actress. She had an engagement with Clark's troupe. She got seven dresses, which were to be paid on salary account. To her came the gold watch, but it was by way of Mrs. Clark. Miss Ward sported one of the two jackets specially ordered from Brock by Clark.

Oscar Signatore, one of the stranded actors, retold his examination story. He got an overcoat and various articles of apparel, to be paid for out of salary account. Oscar was not given the opportunities of the previous occasion for any display of facetiousness.

R.W. Burrell of Caledon East bought goods to the amount of $70 from J. A. Bradley, which he had settled for. He saw goods being driven to Toronto. Clark wanted to sell him $100 worth of goods at cost price. He would convince him with the invoices, and take his note for a year, without interest.

Mr. Burrell was of late arrival at the fire.

Thomas Cranston, postmaster at Caledon East, agreed with Mr. Burrell, that the famous warehouse was about 15 by 20 and 15 feet at the highest point. He gave the alarm at the fire and then went to work to save his own stables. He perceived no smell of burning wool in the air during the progress of the fire.

Miss Rankin of Toronto, the pretty witness of the former examination, is evidently worrying over the conspiracy, for she was a trifle piqued. However, she still retains possession of that charming play of features, with which she accompanies her story. Being a young woman who had recently married, she had occasion to buy considerable furniture last September, and Clark sold her furnishings for a couple of rooms, for which she held the receipts. A roll of carpet left on approval had been taken by Detective Heffernan and was identified.

Registrar Chisholm gave evidence as to a mortgage, and James Donaghy followed to tell its story. Mr. Donaghy bought the land on which the Bradley store stands, with an agreement that in a certain number of months Bradley should have the opportunity to redeem it, his previous mortgage remaining. When Bradley and Clark came to act on the terms of the agreement a few weeks before the fire, the sale was made to Mrs. Bradley and not to Bradley.

The Crown will claim this was done to defraud the creditors.

John Elliott lives at Hanlan's Point, Toronto, and bosses the Ferry Company's park. His daughter is married to one of Bradley's sons. He drew up a document showing that John A. Bradley was indebted to J. T. and W. G., his sons, in $800, and that they agreed to call quits if they were given the implements on the farm. Another document, also produced, was witness' production. Witness was looking out for the young people's welfare. This happened before the marriage and Elliott said if he had known then what was coming, the marriage would not have come off, that is if he could have prevented it.

At 5.15 the Crown closed its case with this witness.

For three hours John A. Bradley was in the sweat box telling how he did business during his short but eventful career of six months prior to Oct. 16 as a business man in Caledon East. It was a most extraordinary recital. Bradley is a heavy, raw-boned man, standing fully 6 feet 4 inches. Towering in the witness box, with his stolid, emotionless face to the audience, he answered question after question in a sing-song tone, with the monotonous "I can't say," "I don't remember now," "I had it on paper and it's burned," or "Clark told me to."

Cross-examined as to his extraordinary conduct regarding the Burton mortgage, he understood Burton was to get the money from his father in a few days. He gave the notes to his wife, and could not explain why he had not turned them into the assets. The mortgage transactions and the statements to wholesalers were all arranged by Clark. He invariably did whatever Clark told him.

The case may possibly be finished tomorrow night.

SPAIN LOOKING FOR BACKING.

Requests the Pope to Find Out Whether Any Power Would Support Her in a War.

London, Dec. 11.—The Daily News will to-morrow print a despatch from Rome, saying it is stated there that Spain has asked the Pope to ascertain through the papal nuncios at the various capitals, whether any of the powers would support her in the event of a war with the United States, or interfere in Spain's behalf at the right moment.

The despatch adds that Signor de Felice Giuffrida, the well-known Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, has made an offer to the Central Cuban Committee to take several hundreds of his friends to Cuba to join the insurgents.

THEY ROBBED HOBOES.

A Gang of Railroad Robbers Attacked by Police and Three Captured After a Hot Fight.

New York, Dec. 11.—A special from Poughkeepsie says: A party of police officers, headed by Chief Detective Humphrey of the Central Railway, and Chief of Police Platt of this city, had an exciting battle with four railroad robbers beside the West Shore Railroad tracks near Esophus early this morning, after they had waylaid and robbed a gang of hoboes.

After a desperate conflict, in which several volleys of pistol shots were exchanged and in which one of the robbers was shot, three of the desperadoes were caught. They are believed to be members of a gang of murderous railroad thieves who have been committing depredations on railroads within 75 miles of New York for the past three months.

Dr. Brown, its former pastor.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 168 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

THE CHRISTMAS CALF.

By EMILY MEREDYTH AYLWARD.

[Copyright, 1896, by the Author.]

"Suppose," said Miss Gascoigne, drawing up her slight, erect figure and laying down her coffee cup with an air of solution, "we give the calf to the Willoughbys."

"Suppose," said Jack Percy, "we put a rope round the neck of our dear darling Christmas right here and not prolong her life to needless torture. She'll die a violent death in the end."

"Jack," said Miss Gascoigne reprovingly, "you've evidently forgotten what the Willoughby children are like. You might know, at all events, that when I propose giving them the calf they must love animals. They simply adore them. To hint anything else is simply bad taste when you know how I am wrapped up in that calf. I thought I liked Thanksgiving—she was a beauty—but now I really think I like Christmas better. I wouldn't see her given away to any one but the Willoughbys, because they are the only people I know as enthusiastic about animals as I am myself. Those children went wild over Thanksgiving. What will they say when they find Christmas at the door on Xmas morning? Just a week old; all their own property."

"They won't say much. They'll proceed to make merry with her. Oh, what a merrymaking there will be with that tender weakling of a calf! She'll sleep on Xmas night after a lively day. But don't look blue, Cousin Minna. She may stand a week of it."

"My son," interposed Mr. Percy gravely, but subduing a smile which flickered round the corners of his mouth, "you really ought not to talk that way even in fun. You know Cousin Minna doesn't like it. Besides I am fully of the opinion that the calf will be made a great pet. We don't need her here, and she will give so much pleasure to those children. Why, I saw little Helen and Grace only the other day in the paddock petting Jane Burns, the mother, in the gentlest way."

"And in the end they could hardly be got away from her," continued Miss Minna, "and said that of all presents in the world they would like a calf best. They haven't a single animal now but the bull pup, and they have such a nice house for a calf. Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby will be delighted; the children will be in ecstasies. It's a perfectly charming arrangement all round."

"Golly," murmured Jack, thrusting out his long 17-year-old legs and taking his last bite of pear at a gobble. "Won't the calf and the bull pup have a bully time? Phillkins, dear, I retract. The death won't be violent. It'll be nervous prostration after a race. Won't it be bully to see the calf at a 2:40 gait round the Willoughby lot with the bull pup in chase? We can see it, if we stretch, across the lawn from my window."

"Jack, you talk too much," put in Philip Greville, the one guest at the table. It was pretty well understood that Greville had a decidedly tender regard for Miss Gascoigne; that eight years agone he had proposed to her and been refused; that in or about the same time she had given her heart into somebody's keeping who had played with it and bruised it and given it back to her when along had come a maiden with a larger dower. Now she held it in proud reticence, and the glimmer of warmth with her was rare. The eye that probed deep could see in her a deep capacity for affection, but her tender side was not the one shown to the world. The dearest to it was when moved, as now, over the possible woes of an animal, and the smallest disclosure of sympathy on any score lent a light to her eye which fanned high the steady flame in Greville's breast. She was still a pretty woman, in the late twenties, with a self reliant charm and dignity which made her a decided social success. Her observation and wit were keen and her speech ready and well enough chosen to obtain the reputation of brilliancy. Her sense of humor was unfailing in anything and everything which did not pertain to a member of the brute creation. When it came to a joke at an animal's expense, Miss Minna couldn't see it and resented it with an air of prinked up severity which savored a little of the old maid.

"But, after all," thought Greville, "if she is a bit silly on this score, it's the one thing silly about her. It's her one hobby. In everything else who is like her? She is so susceptible to the touch of comedy or pathos. More attractive than ever"—he realized with a lonely sense of longing—"animal fads notwithstanding."

"The calf," he said cheerily, "will be well looked out for at the Willoughbys. You are quite right, Miss Gascoigne. Willoughby wouldn't have a fly suffer on his premises, and, as for Mrs. Willoughby, she's a jewel of good heartedness." Greville straightened out his tall physique, and a glimmer of anxiety entered his eye not quite in keeping with his cheery speech.

"I LOVE THE WHOLE FAMILY," SAID MISS MINNA.

"I think those Willoughbys are very sweet children," put in Mr. Percy in his mild way.

"Lordy!" cried Jack, falling forward on the table and giving vent to a volley of groans. "Sweet! They haven't picked each other's eyes out yet. They will shortly. They've only picked the eyes out of everything else they could get their claws at. If our beloved Christmas only lived to grow them, what trophies they might bring of tails and horns! Yes, Phillkins dear, don't frown. Anything they could screw out or wrench off you might have for an emblem. I'll swear it."

Miss Minna gave him a look of angry contempt. "Suppose we go and take a look at the calf," she said, addressing Mr. Percy and Greville.

Greville rose promptly. Mr. Percy decided not to risk the cold. Down the long avenue they strolled quietly beneath the rays of a white half moon. There in the shed stood the sleek baby calf, the last of a thoroughbred stock. "I love the whole family," said Miss Minna earnestly, laying her slim hand on the newcomer's back. "If anything were to happen this beauty here, it would break my heart."

And Greville held the lantern aloft while she tied a blue ribbon round Christmas' neck.

* * * * * * *

Xmas had come and gone, and the calf was in the possession of the Willoughbys. The touch of spring was now in the air after a severe winter, throughout which Greville had responded with persistent inquinity to every invitation to the Percys. Reports of the calf had reached Miss Minna from time to time, every one cheering. The children ran over to bring their parents' message that Christmas had proved "such a boon" and to declare their own undying devotion to their pet. Jack had just returned from a Canadian visit and was eating his first home dinner, at which Greville was again a guest.

"I shall give my little luncheon, then, this day week," remarked Miss Minna, "and I shall invite Mrs. Willoughby. Six calls I shall have to make tomorrow, and, just think of it, I shall see the calf for the first time since she left us!"

"Y-e-e-s," remarked Greville apprehensively. "I'm afraid—that is, I think—that Christmas hasn't grown as much as you might expect during the winter. It's been a bad winter, you know," anxiously.

"Why, how do you know about her?" asked Miss Minna, astonished. "You haven't seen her since Christmas, have you?"

"Well, yes. I dined once or twice at the Willoughbys. I forgot to mention about it. The calf wasn't well—quite as robust—quite as fat, I mean, as you might like. But then"—with a miserable effort at a smile—"I think that's all the better. I don't care much for fat calves myself."

"She ought to be fat," said Miss Minna, lapsing into anxious reflection. "She ought to be very, very fat. You have made me quite anxious about her. I'll call there the first thing. Perhaps their food does not agree with her."

"No," said Jack, "perhaps it doesn't. I should think myself that browsing off the back fence and an occasional refection off the clothesline wouldn't agree with most calves."

"The calf will fatten up all right now in the spring weather," remarked Mr. Percy, with an evident effort at cheerfulness. "From what I have heard, she"—

"What, Cousin George," said Miss Minna, "have you actually heard something, too, and never told me?"

A rather weary look overspread Mr. Percy's usually calm, genial face. "Yes, a few times going in and out on the train," he said, "the matter has been mentioned to me. The whole neighborhood seems to think it has a proprietary interest in that calf and that it is my business to keep it fat for it. But these things mean nothing. I've tried not to allow myself to be annoyed by them."

Miss Minna looked grave and a trifle angry. "One need not be annoyed," she said; "they might be made solicitous. I wish you had spoken to me after the very first remark you heard. Something is surely wrong." And she rose from the table and left the room with a decided air of distress.

"There's going to be a bully time over that calf," remarked Jack when she had gone out of earshot. "We'll hear nothing but 'calf' now for the next six months."

"I fear so," said Mr. Percy wearily.

And Greville looked grave and troubled.

* * * * * * *

Bright and early next morning Miss Minna stepped briskly down the lawn with an anxious glitter in her eye. As she turned outside the gateway, she came face to face with Mrs. Merington, wife of the artist whose bold canvases were the talk of the town, and whose suburban home was adjacent to the Percy residence.

"Ah," said Miss Minna, "how glad I am to see you. I was going to call on you later in the day. I'm getting up a little luncheon."

"Miss Gascoigne," interrupted Mrs. Merington sternly and ignoring the mention of call or luncheon, "is it—can it be possible that you gave that calf to the Willoughbys?"

"Yes," said Miss Minna timidly, her heart sinking down into her boots, for she knew now that something awful was in the air, and her spirit was weak in advance. "I did. Why?"

Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. THE AMATEUR WRITER.

Many Words and Worn-Out Phrases His Hobby.

Editors never use any profane language. If they did, amateur correspondents would keep them busy. Everybody, some time or other, finds occasion to write something for publication. If he could write the way he speaks the article would be simple, natural in style, and readable. But amateur writers will persist in going out of their way to use worn out phrases. Out of the last seven wedding notices sent in to this journal five described the presents as numerous and costly, the sixth writer said they were costly and numerous and the seventh varied the monotony of the thing by saying they were numerous and valuable.

Another fault occasional writers for the press have is using too many words. The fewer words used the clearer the point is and less space is wasted to convey the same amount of information. The amateur measures the value of an article by its length when it appears in type. The editor measures its value by the amount of information conveyed in the least possible space.

Therefore correspondents should be brief as well as natural. They should endeavour to describe an event on paper just the way they would tell it verbally.

There is another class of newspaper correspondent, who usually gets off a good deal better than he deserves. It is the man who writes to the paper to deny or correct something which has appeared. If he would stick to his point it would be all well and good. A newspaper in regard to an item has no more feeling one way or the other than a log of wood. It is always cheerfully prepared to correct false impressions. Yet the outside writer will invariably try to take a slap at the paper or the person who he believes to be the original writer. And yet, if the paper let nine letters out of every ten go in the way they are written, it would make their authors the laughing stock of the town. Even in the case of educated men, letters are generally badly punctuated, words are sometimes misspelled, others are capitalized when they should not be, and are not capitalized when they should be. And the grammar; oh! the grammar is sometimes fearful. And yet the paper that the writers of these letters so frequently abuse, has to go to the trouble of overhauling the epistles to save the authors from general ridicule.

LOOK AFTER THE ADS.

Why Merchants Sometimes Fail to get Good Returns for the Money They Invest in Printer's Ink.

The man who says it doesn't pay to advertise is usually the man who does not take the trouble to look after his advertising when he does try the experiment. The merchant who lets his "ad" concerning a Christmas sale run until April or May or his spring goods run through the fall months need not expect his advertising to pay. The newspaper is like any other field. If it is attended to it will produce a crop more or less bountiful; if it is not it will run to waste.

Some merchants have not enough confidence in themselves to write a new and catchy advertisement. Others imagine they have not time. If they have not they should allot the work to somebody who has. In larger cities many merchants employ "ad" writers. One ad. writer will do the work of three or four concerns, charging each so much and making a fair living out of them all. He calls on the firms daily, gets the points they want particularly described, writes them up for the various papers, and gives the papers instructions concerning style of type, etc., to get them in. By this means, at small cost, the advertiser gets better return than he possibly could if he did the work himself, because the "ad" writer is better posted.

VENEZUELA SNUBS UNCLE SAM.

Venezula is kicking against the Guiana settlement which the United States on its behalf made with Great Britain. Accordto the very influential Venezuelan who was ambassador to England when the relations of the two countries were severed because of this trouble, Venezula will not consent to the self-appointed position the United States assumes toward it, that of a protector or suzerain in foreign affairs. His declarations that the treaty is a 'British trick,' and that Venezula could probably gain more by war than by this agreement, and the acceptance of them by the Venezuelan people will probably teach the United States something of the lack of understanding and the impracticability of the Spanish-American nations, which, being only about half civilized, are filled with vanity. The United States probably did not look for gratitude from Venezula, but it probably did not expect to fare as meddlers between nations generally fare. Crespo will have his way, and the treaty will go through, unless, indeed, Venezuela is ready for another revolution, and that depends largely upon whether General Blanco, who is in Europe at present, wants to become president again or not.

A MESSAGE TO MEN.

Proving that True Honesty and True Philantrophy Still Exist.

If any man, who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge, the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-being to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. CHOOSING A BRIDE.

A Singular Christmas Custom In the Land of the Czar.

An ancient custom is yet maintained in Russia at the Christmas season, in which the festivities of the day are made to play a permanent part in the lives of those who are chief in the frolicking.

Some person of importance in the district announces that the annual fete will be held at his house. Thither, at the appointed time, hasten the young men of the countryside. Thither come no less eagerly, but with decorous tardiness, the maidens of the place. There are dances and songs, games and feasting, but all else is but the prelude to the great event, when chance is made the handmaid of love. At the arrival of the proper hour the hostess gives a signal and withdraws into an apartment, accompanied by all the girls. The lasses are ranged upon long benches, where they pose, a tittering phalanx of freshness and beauty.

The hostess is supplied with long strips of broadcloth, and with these she straightway muffles each and every maiden. She twists a strip deftly about the head until hair and features are hopelessly veiled. She winds it about the neck, the shoulders, the waist and on until the sprightly and lissom figure of the girl is merged in the rude outlines of a papoose.

This is the preparation. The action follows, when one by one, in an order determined by lot, the young men of the party enter the room. Each in turn approaches the veiled row of loveliness and examines it. Eyes and ears are useless. Touch is everything. The puzzled suitor seeks to penetrate the baffling folds and locate the personality of his idol. When at last he has made his choice, he is privileged to remove the swaddling clothes and behold the identity of his prize.

It is the law of custom that this pair should become man and wife. If the custom is broken, a heavy forfeit must be paid by the unwilling person. But it is rarely that happiness fails in the result. Chance, it is well known, is open to a bribe. And the lovers who would fail to offer her bribes would hardly deserve happiness. In their whispers before the hour of trial amorous conspiracies for the cheating of ill fortune are made, and the lover may depend upon his ingenious inamorata to convey to him the concerted signal whereby will be determined her identity and their mutual happiness.

But now be honest with yourself, which is the most sensible? To wait for a more forcible reminder of winter, or to pick out your Cloth for a Suit and Overcoat now? Be wise.

OVERCOATS—Beavers, Kerseys, Meltons, Friese. See the cloth, fix the price.

SUITS—Cashmere, Tweeds, Cheviots, Worsteds—all the best fabrics. You don't have to take a Suit of all one cloth.

Has Come at Last!

Ready-made Clothing at Panic Prices.

We're determined to relieve the pressure caused by our gigantic stock. At no time in the last ten years has there been such excitement in the wholesale Clothing trade as in the past six weeks. Owing to the exceedingly mild weather trade has been disappointing, consequently immense stocks are on hand. When the demand is light prices are low. This season trade was so light that prices were simply paralysed. We were offered from time to time the very finest clothing at prices usually asked for the lowest grade. Unable to resist such tempting offers we bought almost $20.000 worth of Clothing. Now that we have it we find ourselves with a "white elephant" on our hands. The Clothing was bought at our own prices, but as there is little demand for heavy goods these mild days our position is about the same as the farmer and his apple crop. Sighing and thinking of what might have been will do no good. Quick action is necessary. For the balance of this season we close our eyes to real worth and inaugurate a selling soiree that is destined to stand unequalled in our mercantile history.

HAVE GIVEN UP HOPE

Of Getting the Embargo on Cattle Removed.

SO NOW CANADA'S GOVERNMENT

Will Deal With the United States—Our Apples Sold Well in Bristol, Eng.—Hog Cholera in Essex—Political Charges Against a Postmaster —News From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—(Special.)—The Government has given up all hopes of securing the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle entering Britain, and now purposes an entirely different move. Hon. Sydney A. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, will open negotiations at Washington this week with the Secretary of Agriculture in Cleveland's Government for the removal of all quarantine restrictions on cattle passing between the two countries. Hitherto cattle passing through Canada from the United States for shipment to the Old Country have had to undergo quarantine, but a change is on the tapis. Americans have on their side shown their good-will by allowing Canadian cattle leaving Boston and Portland to go through without examination. As regards American cattle coming into Canada and Canadian cattle crossing the boundary to the American market, it is thought that the ninety days quarantine is much more than is needed. Another subject which may be discussed is the recognition of Canadian stock in the herd books of the United States.

Mr. White, Gladstonian M.P. for Forfarshire, Scotland, has resigned his seat on account of serious differences of opinion with his constituents. Capt. Sinclair, secretary to the Governor-General, and who formerly represented Dumbartonshire in the Imperial House, has been tendered the Liberal nomination for Forfarshire, and if he accepts will undoubtedly be elected, as Forfarshire is a sure Liberal seat. Several messages from England went to Winnipeg to-day asking Capt. Sinclair as to his intentions. The impression in official circles here is that Capt. Sinclair will not accept. If he does he will be greatly missed at Ottawa, where he is deservedly popular and has rendered himself almost indispensable at state functions.

The Canadian Sault Canal closed on the 10th inst., a total of 5132 vessels having passed through the lock from May to December. The total tonnage of the vessels was 4,395,156, and the tonnage of the freight carried through the lock 4,577,397.

Mr. Ernest Kemp, oyster expert for the Fisheries Department, returned to Ottawa to-day after completing his season's work in the Maritime Provinces. Besides looking after the beds stocked in past seasons, Mr. Kemp has arranged for new beds to be planted next season in other localities.

The monthly report of Mr. John Down, commercial agent for Canada at Bristol, states that Canadian apples have found a good market there. Heavy shipments of choice varieties have been made, which have arrived in good condition. He urges that shippers should study the requirements of the market, and in this way receive good returns. All cattle shipped from Canada to Bristol this summer arrived in good condition. The timber trade between Canadian ports and Bristol is looking up, and Mr. Down thinks that larger importations might be made to that market. Speaking of the poultry trade, he says that Bristol is a good market, but he urges specially that the birds should be picked and treated according to instructions issued by the Government some time ago.

Work on the Dominion Reformatory building at Alexandria continues at a standstill. At the department it is said there will be nothing done till the Minister has had an opportunity of making a full investigation, and, as he stated in Parliament last session, seeing whether it be advisable to proceed with the present structure or build smaller institutions in different parts of the country. According to the arrangements which the late Government entered into, the Minister finds that there would be an expense of $300,000 at least for the erection of the buildings. Bourque's contract is for $95,000.

The veterinary surgeons in the west say hog plague as well as hog cholera exists in Essex County. The plague affects the lungs first and the bowels secondly, although many of them die from the lung trouble of itself.

Postoffice Inspector Spry has been conducting an investigation at Wheatley into charges against the local postmaster, William McLean. It is charged that he posted up political cartoons in the postoffice during the last election and also took an active part in the campaign. Further than this, he allowed drop letters to pass through the office without being stamped, and that also the office was closed in the middle of the day. The inspector has reported the circumstances to the Postmaster-General, whose action is awaited.

In the Exchequer Court, in the case of the Toronto Street Railway Company v. the Queen, judgment was ordered to be entered for $36,044, the amount plaintiffs paid into the customs under protest, to correspond with the amount of duty claimed in respect of certain steel rails imported by them. The plaintiffs' motion for interest upon the same was refused. The plaintiffs have their costs.

In the case of Myles et al v. the Queen and T. M. Woodburn, the learned judge intimated to counsel for the several parties that if they argued upon the facts he was disposed to enter judgment in favor of the suppliants for $425, of which sum Woodburn was to have five per cent. as representing his commission and the balance to go to the other defendants. He was also disposed to give the Crown the costs against the defendants. If counsel agree upon this disposition of the case, he would order judgment to be so entered, and as this was the last day before vacation he would give them leave to signify their agreement or disagreement thereanent in chambers. This case arose out of a contract to supply the Public Works with certain timber by C. J. and A. H. Myles of Toronto.

The Railway Committee of the Privy Council will meet on Jan. 5 for the consideration of cases which have been field. The date originally fixed was Dec. 29, but it has had to be postponed owing to the Minister's absence from Ottawa.

Bishop Hamilton has issued a letter to the congregations in the Ottawa diocese reminding them of the custom to appropriate their offerings on Christmas day to their pastors.

A variety entertainment advertised for Starnes' Hall last evening did not take place for the reason that the Chief of Police, at the instance of the secretary of the Y.M.C.A, sent a couple of men and stopped the show. THE ALARM MEANT DEATH.

Driver Bertram of the Toronto Fire Brigade Instantly Killed.

Toronto, Dec. 14.

A pool of blood on Richmond-street, about 75 yards west of the fire hall, marks the spot where John Bertram, driver of the Ronald fire engine, was picked up dead at a few minutes after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

At 5 o'clock an alarm was given from box 87, calling the brigade to Yonge and Magill-streets. The steamer was soon in the street, with John Bertram, driver, and Engineer E. W. Brown in charge. The horses had just fairly well started when the front wheel of the steamer's truck went into a rut in the roadway. The driver was thrown off, the front wheel passing over his left leg, almost cutting it off at the ankle and the knee, the hind wheel of the 7500-pound engine grazing the side of his head, taking off the ear and badly lacerating the face and neck. Death was almost instantaneous.

THE DEATH OF MACEO

Spaniards in Havana are Very Indignant

AT UNITED STATES NEWSPAPERS.

Weyler's Organ Calls the Great Republic a Nation of Shopkeepers and Warns Them That Spain is a Nation of Soldiers—"Mongrel Cubans" are Also Warned.

New York, Dec. 14.—A Key West special to The Press says news came from Havana yesterday that the Maceo murder story as cabled from the United States has set the papers wild, and their editors this morning are bitter against the Cubans, who, they declare, have set this false report afloat to gain aid in the United States, and they also declaim against the United States for listening to such "foul and false" stories.

"Spanish honor will not tolerate such practices much longer," says La Lucha in a vainglorious editorial, "and the sooner the nation of shopkeepers knows this the better. The Spaniards are a nation of soldiers, with untarnished honor, and they do not propose to be intimidated by Yankee mercenaries any longer." Notice is given also to the "mongrel Cubans who hover in the midst of safety, hurling their insults at Spain, that they cannot do this much longer." The American journals are also excoriated for their part in giving aid and encouragement to the Cuban cause.

As regards the alleged assassination of Maceo, the papers treat the matter as a false report spread by the Cuban junta to try and aid their cause by making Spain odious. They say that the Marquis Ahumada is a noble gentleman, who would scorn to do any such act, and they deny that Maceo had any invitation to meet him. Rather, they say, Maceo was feeling the effects of Weyler's resistless onward march, and deserted his so-called army and fled to his death. They still declare that Maceo was killed in a fair fight, and that Major Cirujeda gained a signal victory with an inferior force. Denunciations of Americans appear in all the editorials, the language in some being very bitter.

The Cubans here are loud in their threats against the Spanish Government, and mass meetings will be held to protest to the American people, and to ask that the American Congress investigate the murder of Maceo, and, if the truth ascertained be as published, to demand that the belligerency of the Cubans be recognized.

WHAT WEYLER SAYS.

He Thinks There are Not More Than 3000 Rebels in Pinar del Rio.

New York, Dec. 14.—The Herald's special from Havana gives the following account of an interview with Gen. Weyler on Saturday night:

"What can you say of President Cleveland's message?" was asked.

"Nothing; absolutely nothing. I am a military man, not a politician. I can only say I have no feeling against Mr. Cleveland or any other President."

Speaking of Maceo, Gen. Weyler said he regarded the rebel leader as the most important person of the insurrection, and added: "I went to Pinar del Rio myself to cope with him, and thought he would wait for me in his positions, but he did not."

The General added that Maceo was dead beyond doubt.

"How about Ruiz Rivera, now in command in Pinar del Rio?"

"Really," said Gen. Weyler, "he is little known, and it is impossible to estimate his value to the insurgents."

Gen. Weyler said, however, that if Perico Diaz was in command in Havana Province, as reported, the insurgents' cause was lost there. He admitted that there had been six thousand in Pinar del Rio.

"Where are they?"

"The number of insurgents is always exaggerated," replied Gen. Weyler, "and many have died, so there are probably not more than 3000 in the whole province, scattered in small groups."

"You don't claim the complete pacification of Pinar del Rio?"

"Not entirely; but nearly so."

"Will the trocha be maintained?"

"Yes, at present and as long as the situation remains as it is, or until changes in the operation make the troops necessary elsewhere."

"Is it sure that Maceo crossed the trocha by water?"

"Yes, I believe so, but the captains of the gunboats deny it. It is naturally a delicate point, but they were hardly to blame, as the passage there is very easy."

Gen. Weyler said as to the object of attacks on American Consulates in Spain that he thought them aimed against the Spanish Government by its enemies, and not against the United States.

"Why is the American Consulate guarded by soldiers?" was asked.

"Simply as a precautionary measure," Gen. Weyler replied. "I anticipate no trouble here from the Spaniards, but at the same time the celebrations over Maceo's death might lead the insurgents to take an advantage and make trouble between Spain and the United States."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

HON. WILFRED LAURIER is to be entertained at a banquet on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Club Nationale, the oldest Liberal organization in Quebec. The banquet promises to be an immense success, worthy of the occasion it celebrates and the great statesman it honours.

TWO accordant opinions by naturally opposed interests:—The British agriculturist on preferential trade: "We might just as well be ruined by Minnesota as by Manitoba." The Canadian manufacturer on preferential trade: "A man might just as well be kicked to death by a mule as by a horse."

THE subsidies, with interest on allowances, now payable by the Dominion to each of the provinces are:

Ontario	$1,339,327
Quebec	1,086,714
Nova Scotia	432,813
New Brunswick	483,570
Manitoba	482,693
British Columbia	242,090
Prince Edward Island	221,002
Total	$4,288,719

THE editor of the Hamilton Times is in need of a liver pad. He calls the Toronto News a "journalistic parasite that is not fit to be used as a winding sheet for a dead dog." And he continues: "We had not thought of it before, but if the collection of postage on newspapers would, as is hinted, wipe off the face of the earth such excrescences as the Toronto News, no stronger argument is needed in behalf of the impost."

THE attitude of Mr. Fisher, Minister of of Agriculture, at the Fruitgrowers' Association the other day, was very good. Though he is a practical farmer, he never poses as such at the gatherings of experts. He told the fruit growers, who asked him for a speech, that he came to learn, not to give information, and he proceeded to specify a number of points on which he wished to get light, especially in connection with the cold storage of fruit for export. A committee of practical men was appointed to deal with the matter.

THE Welland Tribune remarks:—The prediction that the Tory party, deprived of the gifts of pap and patronage, would cut a small figure, is proving correct. In Manitoba, where a few days ago the election of a Liberal to parliament was a marvel, the case is now precisely reversed. In Brandon, a few days ago, Hon. Mr. Sifton was elected by acclamation; and now in the Saskatchewan district, where an election is pending to fill the vacancy caused by Hon. Mr. Laurier's double election, the candidates are a regular Liberal nominee and a Liberal-Patron, no Conservative showing up. How are the mighty fallen!

INJURY AND NEGLECT.

He Failed in Health and Strength—His Kidneys Ached and he Took Dood's Kidney Pills.

Deseronto, Dec. 14 (Special)—Among business people here, and especially by his fellow workmen, great interest has been taken in the case of Mr. James Stokes, who for the past fifteen years has been shipper for the Rathbun Company.

Lately he had run down in health and strength to the point of being compelled to quit work, and his recovery now as the result of using Dodd's Kidney Pills is the talk of the town. On seeing Mr. Stokes he said:—

"From over-lifting and strain I suffered greatly from kidney trouble, being advised after all else had failed, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills; from the first dose I got relief, and hundreds of people here can vouch for my cure."

ST. PAUL'S AUXILIARY TWENTIETH MEETING.

HELD IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH ON FRIDAY.

The Secretary's Encouraging Report—Addresses—The Officers Elected.

The twentieth annual meeting of St. Paul's (Presbyterian) Auxiliary to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, was held on Friday evening. There was a good attendance, which included in addition to the members of the Auxiliary, several members of sister societies connected with other town churches.

Miss Dickson, president, occupied the chair, and after devotional exercises, gave a brief address in relation to the work and condition of the society.

The next order of business was the presentation of the reports of the Treasurer and Secretary. The latter presented by Mrs. A. E Lech was as follows:

The Twentieth Annual Report of the St. Paul's Auxiliary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

In reviewing the work of the past year, we feel called upon to gratefully acknowledge the goodness of God for the continued and increasing interest shown by the members of the Auxiliary in the monthly meetings, many having taken part that never did so before. The same plan as last year has been followed in arranging for our meetings, namely, a committee of two members responsible for the programme for each month.

Eleven meetings have been held during the year, the average attendance being thirty-six, an increase of five over the previous year. The total number of members is seventy-seven, of whom sixty-one are members of the General Society and of these, twelve are life members—one life member being added this year.

The amount contributed this year is $301.71, an increase of $9.47 over last year.

At the close of last year a welcome contribution of five dollars was received from the Stewart Settlement Sunday School, but being too late to add to the funds that year, it has been placed to the credit of this year. Our contribution this year to the Northwest Indian Mission was a box of clothing, etc., valued at seventy-one dollars, which was sent to the Indian Industrial School at Birtle.

The members of the Auxiliary have again renewed their subscription for the "Interior," which is sent by them to our lady missionaries in India.

The circulation of the "Monthly Letter Leaflet" is one hundred copies.

In February the annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial Society was held in Cobourg, when Mrs. Mulholland and Mrs. Lech attended as delegates from this auxiliary.

On March 30th a lecture was delivered under the auspices of this society, by the Rev. Mr. McMillan, of Toronto, the proceeds of which went to form an expense fund; so that the members of the Auxiliary would not be called upon for an extra collection any time that incidental expenses arose in connection with the Presbyterial Society, or our own Auxiliary; for, of course, the missionary funds are never used for such purposes. It was also intended that a library, consisting of interesting and helpful literature bearing on mission work, for the use of the Auxiliary, should be started with this fund; but nothing has been done along this line so far, but we hope to see it a reality in the near future.

The twentieth annual meeting of the General Society was held in this (St. Paul's) church in April, when we had the pleasure of hearing Miss Sinclair, one of our missionaries who was then at home on furlough from India tell of her work; besides many other earnest and helpful speakers.

In June the semi-annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial Society was held in Centreville, when Mrs. McPherson and Miss Moore represented our Auxiliary and brought back interesting reports.

At our July meeting, which was very largely attended, we were privileged to hear Mrs. Smith, a returned missionary of the American board, give an account of her work at Ahmednuggar, Southern India. We also had the pleasure of an address from Mrs Harvie, of Toronto, in which she gave a delightfully vivid description of her visit to the Indians in the Northwest.

Our annual thanksgiving meeting was held in October, and was a source of blessing to us all; and also made a large addition to our treasury, the thank offering being one hundred and eight dollars.

We regret to have lost the services—through her removal from town—of Miss Flo a Davidson, who has been our faithful and efficient secretary for the past seven years.

During the year our ranks have also been thinned by two of our members, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Adam Hall, being called to their eternal rest.

This is but a brief review of our outward career as a Missionary Society, but only our Heavenly Father knows the individual blessings and the growth in grace that has been the result of each endeavour to help on His work; either by a sisting in the meetings or by denying ourselves that we might give more freely to his cause.

And now in beginning a new year, we earnestly plead with all the women of the congregation to join the Auxiliary, and assist in sending the "glad tidings of great joy" to them that know it not.

And let us remember "The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home."

M. H. LECH,
Secretary.

Miss Mary Paterson read the report of the Faithful Workers, and Miss Bessie Connal that of the Fraser Mission Band, which gave evidence of satisfactory interest in mission work. All the reports were approved.

These reports were followed by an interesting address by Miss Nugent, a returned missionary from India, and an address of a similar character by Mrs. Walter Roger on the "Power of the Holy Spirit and His Need in Mission Work."

At the conclusion of her address a season of prayer for the invoking of the presence of the Holy Spirit was held, led by Miss McPherson.

This was followed by an address by Mrs. J. W. Garvin on "Some of the Hindrances to the growth of Foreign Mission Work, and How to remove Them."

The election of officers resulted as below:

President—Miss Dickson.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. McPherson.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Innes.
Secretary—Mrs. A. E. Lech.
Treasurer—Miss Kingan.
Organist—Miss Cameron.
Executive Committee—Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Robt. Hall, Miss Roger, Mrs. R. S. Davidson, Mrs. Jas. A. Hall, Miss Code, Miss Moore and Mrs. Mulholland.

A most successful annual meeting was brought to a close with the usual devotional exercises led by Miss Forsythe.

LUMBAGO CURED

Dodd's Kidney Pills Did What Doctors Failed to do.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

Gives Way to this Marvellous Remedy as do all Afflictions Arising from Impure Blood and Disordered Kidneys.

Did you ever after weeding in the garden or working over a low bench or table in a stooping posture try to straighten up and feel a sharp pain as of a knife thrust through his kidneys?

That is lumbago.

When it becomes chronic it is one of the most agonizing forms of rheumatism. Sufferers from it have been known to commit suicide. They would gladly pay any price for surcease of pain.

Did you ever have it? Do you know what will cure it? Do you know that the same remedy that has made marvellous and many cures of kidney diseases of all kinds and descriptions, acts as a magic charm upon this excruciating affliction?

The following are copies of letters written the Dodd's Medicine Company of Toronto, the makers and distributors of this wonderful proprietary medicine:

"Gentlemen,—I have been troubled for over two years with the first stages of Bright's Disease. I have used other medicines, but to no avail. I was so bad that I passed blood. Doctors told me I could get no relief. I heard of the wonderful cures Dodd's Kidney Pills had done. I concluded to try them. I have used ten boxes and I am completely cured.

"THEODORE YOUNG,
"Smith's Falls, Ont."

"Gentlemen,—I have been troubled for over one year with female weakness and urinal trouble. I have consulted a doctor, who gave me medicine that seemed to make me worse at times. I would be deaf and short-sighted. I was told of Dodd's Kidney's Pills. I got one box, and I have used part of the box, and I am completely cured. My urine is natural now. You may publish this if you like, that it may help others.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

A Good Deal of Interest in the Cuban Question.

PARTICULARLY MACEO'S DEATH

Mr. Call of Florida Wants the Killing of the Rebel Leader Avenged—A War Blast Also Against Turkey—Senator Morgan Wants Information on Several Points.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The reported assassination of the Cuban General, Antonio Maceo, while under the flag of truce, was the text of a resolution to-day offered in the Senate by McCall (Dem., Fla.), and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. The resolution characterized the affair as a violation of the rules of civilised warfare and as a cowardly act of treachery. It declared the Government which authorised or permitted it or failed to punish the assassins "An outcast from the family of nations and the pale of civilization and public law." The Committee on Foreign Relations is instructed to enquire into the facts, and to report to the Senate at an early date. Another resolution of Mr. Call's, which was similar to the one referred to, requests the President of the United States to demand the release of all United States citizens held by the Spanish Government as prisoners in Cuba.

A war blast was also blown against Turkey in the shape of resolutions passed by a church congregation in New Hampshire, presented and approved by Senator Gallinger, of that State, declaring that Armenian outrages should be suppressed by the civilized powers, even at the cost of dismemberment of the Turkish Empire.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Popper (Pop., Kas.), and laid on the table for the present, for the appointment of a commission of five, one from each of the four parties, Republican, Democrat, National Democrats and Populists, and one other to be chosen by these four, to examine and study the general subject of finance in reference to its practical relations to business.

A resolution offered last week by Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.), denying the constitutional power of any State to impair the obligation of contracts, was taken up and made the basis of a speech by him, in which he defended the Populist Governor and Legislature of Nebraska from all imputations of an intention to enact legislation hostile to capital, and declared that all such fears were groundless. He especially disclaimed all purpose to act in hostility to railroad companies.

The resolution was referred to the Judiciary Committee

The Immigration bill was taken up, and went over under an agreement that a vote shall be taken on its passage at 4 p.m. on Thursday.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.,) offered the following resolution, upon which he gave notice he would to-morrow address the Senate:

"Resolved, That the President is requested, if it is not in his opinion incompatible with the public service, to send to the Senate copies of the papers relating to the condition of affairs in the Island of Cuba, which were referred to in the report of the Secretary of State that accompanied his last annual message; also a statement of the several amounts of the claims lodged in the Department of State by citizens of the United States against Spain, growing out of the alleged insurrection now existing in the Island of Cuba; also all correspondence with the Spanish Government relating to the Competitor case and the persons captured with or on that vessel, with a statement of the charges pending in any court in Spain or Cuba against such persons, and the proceedings of such court in these cases, and the place of their imprisonment and the character of their treatment while in prison, and the condition of their health, whether such prisoners have had the privilege of counsel of their own selection in any trial that is taking place on such charges, or were represented by any counsel, attorney or other agent of the United States."

The bill amending the copyright laws, particularly in regard to dramatic productions, together with the House amendment, was laid beore the Senate and the amendment concurred in. The bill makes piracy a misdemeanor and makes an injunction granted by one circuit judge enforceable in any other circuit. The effect of the amendment is that the injunction shall not be granted without due notice to defendants. The bill now goes to the President.

By unanimous consent, the House to-day postponed consideration of the District of Columbia bills until Thursday, and devoted the day to miscellaneous business. By a vote of yeas 98, nays 85, the House refused to pass over the President's veto a bill granting a pension to the divorced wife of Lowell Taft of the Connecticut volunteers. A joint resolution was passed providing for a holiday recess from Dec. 22 to Jan. 5.

Mr. Hull (Rep., Ia.,), chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, reported the army appropriation bill.

On motion of Mr. Dingley (Rep., Maine,) at 4 o'clock the House adjourned until to-morrow.

A joint resolution recognising the independence of Cuba was introduced in the House to-day by Mr. Howard (Pop., Ala.,). It recites the profound regret of the American people at the reported brutal assassination of the Cuban leader Maceo, and declares that Spain is conducting a brutal and guerilla-like warfare against a patriotic people, who are struggling for independence.

It resolves, therefore, that the United States shall recognize Cuba as a free and independent government, and shall accord to her people all such rights in the ports and within the jurisdiction of the United States.

A Great Physician's

Contribution to Suffering Humanity.

Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL.D., Gave the World Paine's Celery Compound.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL TRIUMPH OF THE CENTURY.

The great modern physician, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, gave to suffering mankind one of the greatest blessings that scientific research ever produced.

The blessing is known as Paine's Celery Compound, the most prominent medicine in every part of this North American continent, and in Britain and Europe, and a positive and sure cure for all nervous diseases, rheumatism, neuralgia, sleeplessness, sick headache, dyspepsia, stomach troubles, and for liver and kidney complaints.

Paine's Celery Compound is not a nervine, sarsaparilla, bitters or any devised article, but a marvellous discovery that has marked a distinct step in medical practice. The best medical talent in the world and the leading chemists and scientists freely admit that it ranks first as a banisher of disease.

Reader, will you test this wonderful blessing? It will bless your life; if you suffer from any form of disease, it will make you sound and whole. Decide at once to test its powers; delays or experiments with other medicines may plunge you into deeper misery.

See that your dealer gives you "Paine's;" take no other if you desire a prompt and perfect cure.

PRINCESS KILLS HERSELF.

A Grand Niece of Gen. Pulaski Takes Laudanum and Dies.

Brooklyn, Dec. 12.—Miss Josephine Jeroski, aged 55, the alleged Polish Princess and grand-niece of General Pulaski, committed suicide this morning by taking laudanum. She recently wrote to the editor of The Washington Star threatening to take her own life, and was found ill in her room, half-starved. The neighbors and charitable persons then contributed to her wants. Recently she had plenty to eat and was comfortable. Miss Jeroski frequently asserted that the United States Government had $2,000,000 belonging to her, which had been deposited with it by the Russian Government to satisfy a claim for damages made by the descendants in America of General Pulaski, and that the United States were trying to cheat her out of the money. She was thought to be mentally unbalanced.

Cardinal, Dec. 7 (Special)—Mr. Robert McIntosh, a farmer widely known in this county, and living near this village, has been in a painful and dangerous condition as the result of kidney disease affecting the bladder. When called upon he said: "During three years, until quite recently cured by using four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease which kept going from bad to worse though I was doctoring all the time."

Under advice I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, at once realizing great help. I now feel like a new man and am perfectly cured of kidney trouble in any form.

There doesn't seem to be very much the matter with your child. He doesn't actually lose weight, but there is no gain. He belongs to that large class of children that don't seem to prosper. You look at him a little more thoughtfully than you do at the rest and say "He is not doing well." Failure to gain in weight in a child is a danger signal. Scott's Emulsion should be taken at once. It puts on fat where health demands it, strengthening the digestion.

LEPROSY AT THREE RIVERS.

A Chinese Laundryman Said to be Afflicted With the Disease.

Three Rivers, Que., Dec. 12.—A suspected case of leprosy is in this city, and the Chinese laundry is guarded by a policeman, who does not permit any communication with the inmates.

Two doctors visited the patient for the second or third time, and fear that it is a genuine case of the awful disease.

One of the doctors in attendance being the City Health Officer, he made the affair known to Mayor Cook, who sent a police officer to quarantine the laundry until the Provincial Board of Health be communicated with.

AUTUMN SITTINGS.

The Case of Hull vs. Stevenson Concluded—Judgement Reserved.

Hull vs. Stevenson.—This is an action brought by Robert Hull, blacksmith, against James Stevenson, James P. T. Hogue, the Midland Loan and Savings Company, Mary J. Daubes, the Bank of Montreal, the Dominion Bank, John Douglas and Alex Macdonnel for a declaration of the rights of all parties interested in lots No. 1 and 2 in block E on registered plan No. 11 for the town of Peterborough upon which Mr. Douglas had erected a brick dwelling and Mr. Hull a house and blacksmith shop when they had purchased it from Mr. Stevenson. The Peterborough Canoe Company occupied the property to the north of these lots at the time Mr. Hull and Mr. Douglas purchased them from Mr. Stevenson. They did not search the title but each gave back a mortgage to Mr. Stevenson for the full amount of his purchase money. Mr. Stevenson assigned the Douglas mortage to Mr. Hogue, and the Hull mortgage to Mrs. Daubes, neither of whom it appears searched the title. It was afterwards ascertained that at the time Mr. Stevenson sold this property there was a mortgage upon the whole of the property to Mr. Henry Denne, which was subsequently assigned to the Midland Loan & Savings Co., in Dec. 1892, when they made a further advance of $1,500 to Mr. Stevenson upon the balance of the property remaining unsold to Mr. Douglass and Mr. Hull.

Messrs. Douglas and Hull claim that the property south of their's should be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of the $2,500 mortgage, the mortgage applied to Mrs. Daubes to pay such deficiency.

The defendants contended that the plaintiff is not entitled to these rights and that the action should be discharged.

The different parties to the suit are represented as follows :

Robt. Hull—Wallace Nesbitt, Toronto, and Stratton & Hall.

Mary Jane Daubes—Watson, Q. C., Toronto, and W. H. Moore.

Midland Loan — Charles Moss, Q. C., Toronto, and S. S. Smith, Port Hope.

THE MAYOR VOTES FOR THE WORKINGMAN.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR THE PAYMENT OF TAXES.

Mayor Yelland Thinks That the Passage of the Bylaw Now Has the Exact Effect for Which it was Drawn in Only Benefitting Those Who Found it Impossible to Pay up on the Fourteenth.

A special meeting of the town council was called last evening for the purpose of extending the time for the return of the collectors roll and also for the extension of the time for the payment of taxes without the additional charge of five per cent. Those present were the Mayor and Councillors Best, Wm. White, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Weir, Sawers, Moore, Langford, Graham and Jno. White.

The bylaw was introduced by Councillor Moore, and passed its first reading without an objection being raised, but when the council went into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of giving the bylaw its second reading, with Mr. Jno. White in the chair, the trouble began.

The clerk read a letter from Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, in which he stated that he enclosed a communication rom the Guarantee Company, stating that the validity of the collector's bond would not be effected.

The letter read as follows :

RE BOND DENNE.

We have your favour of the 11th inst. and note the council's action in regard to payment of taxes. A copy of the bylaw mentioned can be forwarded to us and attached to the employer's form, so that the validity of the bond will not be effected.

A. J. HUBBARD, Manager.

Several of the councillors expressed themselves as thinking the letter was satisfactory.

Councillor Moore was surprised to hear anyone say that the letter was satisfactory.

HE COULD NOT SEE that there was any waivure of right in regard to the cancellation of the bonds and even if it could be regarded as such there was no waivure from the personal sureties of the collector.

Councillor Best stated that Mr. J. J. Lundy was one of Mr. Denne's sureties. He had expressed himself as satisfied and he thought he was good for the whole amount.

Councillor Langford thought it was a mistake to cancel a bylaw which had worked satisfactorily for several years. It was not fair to those who had already paid their taxes, it would establish a precedent and people would not be willing to pay their taxes next year, as they would naturally expect to have the same thing done again. Fully two-thirds of the people had paid their taxes and the action would be most unjust to them.

Councillor Phelan stated that a great many citizens had spoken to him about the matter and all were in favour of the extension of the time. He desired to put himself on record as favouring the passage of the bylaw.

The mayor thought that this was just the time to pass the bylaw. All those who were able to pay their taxes had done so and this bylaw would therefore only benefit the poor man, as was intended. If it had been passed earlier those who were able to afford paying their taxes would have held off to the last minute possible. Now all those able to pay had paid and those to whom payment was a hardship and and totally impossible would be given until January 15th to pay up. He thought the bylaw would thus accomplish the very object for which it was drawn and the town would not be hampered through those were able to pay holding back.

Councillor Langford said that he would put himself on record as a friend of the poor man by entirely and moving for the repeal of the bylaw authorising its imposition.

Councillor Graham was also in favour of striking off the five per cent. altogether.

Councillors Langford and Graham therefore moved in amendment to the bylaw that the five per cent. be thrown off altogether.—Lost.

Councillor Moore held that it was apparent that no waivure had been received from any of the bondsmen and, therefore, he stated his intention of voting against the bylaw. It simply meant, in his opinion, the cancellation of the bonds of the collector if the bylaw was passed.

The bylaw passed its second reading, and Councillors Best and Wm. White moved for its final final reading and passage.

In amendment Councillors Moore and Langford moved that the bylaw be recommitted, with instructions to strike out all clauses with the exception of that referring to the extension of the time for the return of the collector's roll.

The yeas and nays were called for on this motion, resulting as follows :

Yeas — Councillors, Sawers, Moore, Langford, Graham and J. White.—5.

Nays—Councillors Best, Wm. White, Denne, Mills, Phelan and Weir.—6.

The motion was declared lost.

Councillors Moore and Langford then

MOVED IN AMENDMENT

again, "that the bylaw be recomitted, and that a rider be added to it that it do not take effect until the sureties of the collector have given their consent to it in writing, and deliver the same to the town clerk, which they have not yet done."

Yeas — Councillors Sawers, Moore, Langford, Graham and John White.—5.

Nays—Councillors Best, W. H. White, Denne, Mills, Phelan and Weir.—6.

Lost.

Councillors Langford and Sawers moved in amendment that the bylaw be recommitted for the purpose of striking out certain clauses so as to repeal entirely the bylaw which provided for the addition of 5 per cent to the taxes at any time.

Yeas — Councillors Sawers, Moore, Langford, Graham and John White.—5.

Nays—Councillors Best, Wm. White, Denne, Mills, Phelan and Weir.—6.

Lost.

Councillor Langford then called attention to the rules of the council, which he stated called for a two thirds majority of the whole council before a bylaw could be read a third time in one evening.

The rules, however, did not call for such a majority and the bylaw was passed on the following division :

Yeas—The Mayor, and Councillors Best, Wm. White, Denne, Mills Phelan and Weir—7.

Nays—Councillors Sawers, Moore, Langford, Graham and Jno. White—5.

The bylaw was declared carried and formally signed and sealed by the Mayor.

A communication was received from Mr. E. B. Edwards, enclosing the taxed bill of costs in the case of Jackson vs. Peterborough, amounting to $173. On motion of Messrs. Moore and Langford a cheque will be issued out of the appropriation to Streets and Bridges.

MR. PAKENHAM'S APPOINTMENT.

An Old P. C. I. Boy Receives High Honours.

The Minister of Education has offered Mr. W. Pakenham, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, Brockville, the Chairmanship of the Provincial Board of Education, formed at the last session of the Legislature. Mr. Pakenham will likely accept.

The Board in Brockville very much regrets his departure, as he is acknowledged to be one of the best Principals in any institution in Ontario. The Minister of Education is to be congratulated on having secured the services of such a valuable man. He is also an athlete as well as an educationalist, and is a star wing of the Brockville Rugby football club, the intermediate champions of Ontario. He will be greatly missed by that organization. Mr. Pakenham is a graduate of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, and a former resident of this town, where his parents still reside.

ANCHOR ICE IN THE RIVER.

An Inspector of the Fire Underwriters Arrives on the Scene.

Anchor ice formed in the river at one o'clock this morning, and in consequence the intake pipe at the water works pump house became clogged at about that hour and the water was shut off until twenty minutes after ten.

To make matters worse a Fire Underwriter inspector swooped down on the town and an alarm of fire was sent in from the Dickson Company's office at ten o'clock. The engine was hurriedly taken out and both it and the hose wagon were up at the mills in an incredibly short space of time.

All outstanding accounts have been paid with one exception; that of books purchased for the library amounting to $11.47.

Of the $30 74 on hand $7.88 properly belongs to the Library Fund, leaving a balance of $22.86 to commence our New Year.

The total class collections amounted to $120.23, an increase of $21.30 on last year.

The highest collection during the year was $12.79, May and November being equal. Lowest September, $5. Average collection per Sunday, $2.31.

Number of scholars on roll 132. Decrease of 12 on last year.

Teachers and officers on roll, 23.

Average attendance of scholars, 144; increase of 23 on last year. Average attendance of teachers and officers, 17; increase of one on last year.

The largest attendance during the year was 178, March 2nd and July 5th being equal. The lowest attendance was 98, on June 7th.

Twice during the year all the teachers and officers were present on June 14th and October 4th.

The lowest attendance of teachers and officers was 15, on August 30th.

Two classes of girls were formed from the infant class and promoted into the body of the school. Miss Taylor taking class formed on April 19th, and Miss Haggare teaching class formed on Nov. 8th.

Number of visitors to our school during the year, 214.

Our school has contributed to Missions $103.66, an increase of $34.66 on last year.

The last Sunday of each quarter special collections are taken for Home, Grande Ligne and Foreign Missions, also one half of the school fund is divided equally between them, the remaining half being necessary for the current expenses of the school. Extra calls have been made from time, which have been a great drain on us and seem too much for a school of our size. I would suggest that more consideration be given this subject. We cannot report any increase in numbers, but during the past year the average attendance has been much better. We regret exceedingly to report so many of our scholars having left our school, forty-five in number; some we know have removed from town, the remaining ones we suppose have joined other schools.

One of our scholars in Miss Aldridge's class has been converted and united with the church, also two others have put on Christ by baptism, and one, we are pleased to say, is a successful teacher in the school.

Again as teachers and officers we are permitted to see the close of another scholastic year. Can we say we have done our best? it is a matter for deep reflection. May we this coming year go forward with renewed energy and zeal, determined to do more and better work for Christ than in the past. At times we have been discouraged, not seeing the spiritual results we would like, but we have God's promise "sure" and "steadfast" that our work is not in vain.

Respectfully submitted.

Adopted.

Mr. L. Croly presented, as appended,

THE LIBRARIAN'S REPORT:

To the Teachers and Officers:

We beg to report as follows:

No. of exchanges made during the year 2 517, increase over last year 255. The average exchange per week has been 54 (47 sundays),—the highest average we have had for five years. Total number of volumes on the shelves, 511; 23 more than reported last year. During the year we have purchased 30 books. Of this number eight were to replace volumes lost during the past few years—since 1891, the balance 31 are new works.

The amount expended upon the library this year is $24 65, all being for the purchase of books. This money is still in the hands of our treasurer, being the interest due, and paid by the Park street church upon loan.

There is one thing we desire to bring to your attention connected with the purchase of our Sunday School books. At different times the question has been asked—why do you not buy your books from the Standard Publishing Co.? The argument is that the profit on books purchased there goes directly to denominational objects. This year we decided to divide the amount as our discount and expend half with the Standard and half with local dealers. This was done as a fair test case. The result is that we find the books purchased in Toronto could have been procured from local dealers at 10 per cent less than they cost us. We would like to be advised as to your judgment in this matter, whether we should purchase at the Book Room, or where the goods can be got cheapest.

A large number of our books require repairs. Some 20 of them should be placed in the binders hands. The balance, probably 70 or 80, most of them from among our oldest volumes, might be rendered serviceable for a while longer if repaired by ourselves. 23 books are still out. Of this number two may be counted as lost, one during this year and one previously.

A printed catalogue is much needed to place in the hands of the children. It would cost some $8 or $10. Is it advisable to expend this money? Your librarian have just completed a written catalogue of the entire library for their own desk use, but it would not be suitable for scholars.

The class of reading called for remains about the same as in former years. The Annie Swan books are the favourites among the girls, and books of adventure among the boys. We wish to state that there is now in the library an excellent biography of Adoniram Judson written by his son, Rev. Ed Judson. Another book purchased this year, and very highly recommended as an interesting and wholesome missionary story, is "The Bishop's Conversion," written by Ellen B. Maxwell. We hope to see this book out continually during next year. Those who have already had it bear out the recommendation in a marked degree. Besides these we might mention, among the books for boys bought:—Two stories by Ed. L. Ellis, "The Cabin in the Clearing" and "On the Trail of the Moose; also "Captain Rayley's Heir," by Henty; "Grey and Gold," by Warbois; a "Canadian Story," by McDougall; "Forest, Lake and Prairie," and "The Old Curiosity Shop" and "Oliver Twist," by Dickens.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

L. CROLY, Librarian,
(Miss) L. HUGHES, Ass't Lib.

Adopted.

After the adoption of these the following

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED:

Superintendent — Mr. E. A. Stanley, (re-elected.)

Assistant-superintendent—Mr. Harding.

Secretary-treasurer—Miss Mary Stratton, (re-elected.)

Assistant Secretary-treasurer — Miss Dolly Langford.

Librarian—Mr. L Croly, (re-elected.)

Assistant Librarian—Miss Hughes, (re-elected.)

The requisite supplies for the year were ordered, and other routine business transacted.

PARK STREET BAPTISTS.

Officers and Teachers of the Sunday School Meet.

The officers and teachers of the Park street Baptist church held their annual meeting last night, and elected the following officers:

Superintendent—Miss M. Mann.

Assistants—T. G. Gillespie and A. L. Grover.

Secretary—Miss B. Hunt.

Assistnat Secretary—H. Martin.

Librarian—A. L. Grover.

Assistant Librarian—Miss L. Miller.

Organist—Miss J. Harmer.

The school has been very prosperous during 1896, and has progressed to a greater degree than in any previous year in its history. Every department is in good working order.

It is often a mystery how a cold has been "caught." The fact is, however, that when the blood is poor and the system depressed, one becomes peculiarly liable to disease. When the appetite or the strength fails, Ayer's Sarsaparilla should be taken without delay.

The chair was occupied by the president, Rev. John Hay, B.D., of Cobourg, and the convention opened with a service of praise and devotional exercises.

A business committee was appointed, composed of Messrs. Rev. Laird, Porter, Martin, Anderson and Green.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

Rev. Mr. Lord, of Grafton, corresponding secretary, called attention to the work done by the Executive Committee in reference to the employment of a home missionary. He had corresponded with Rev. Dr. Sutherland, superintendent of Northwest missions, in regard to the matter, and in reply had been strongly urged to induce the society to undertake the work of placing one in the field as the special charge of the Peterborough Young People's societies. He had then communicated with all the societies in the district and had received very encouraging replies. The large majority had expressed their willingness to assume their share of the responsibility of raising $250.00 towards the support of a missionary. The Executive thought, however, that the feeling was not sufficiently unanimous to warrant them in carrying out the project. This was a question with which the present meeting would have to cope.

Miss Forsythe, of Peterborough, treasurer, reported that there were no funds on hand but that the expenditure had not exceeded the receipts.

Rev. John Hay, B.D., the president, did not think that any result was being obtained by simply holding conventions, but if by united efforts the societies could support a missionary in the Northwest then a grand work would be accomplished.

The time would come when the efficiency of the regular weekly meeting of the branches would cease. It would not be as consecutive a course of study as was required. A new system would have to be introduced for the study of doctrine, etc., but all this would form, he understood, the subject for an interesting address in the evening.

A HOME MISSIONARY.

The matter of the appointment of a home missionary, who would be supported to the extent of $250 by the societies of the Presbytery, was then taken up for discussion.

Rev. Mr. Sutherland, of Warkworth, asked two questions. (1) Would it be regarded as interference with the Home Mission Committee, and (2) Could the Society not indicate the field in which they would like the missionary to work?

The President in answer to the first question stated that it was not at all an independent scheme, but would be accomplished through the regular authorities. He thought the second question a capital suggestion, and was sure Rev. Dr. Robertson would gladly accede to it.

Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, thought the members should look over their own field and consider the advisability of placing a man in the north country before looking further afield.

Mr. A. J. Johnston, of Peterborough, asked how many societies there were in the Presbytery, and how many members in these societies.

Rev. Mr. Lord stated that seventeen of the thirty societies had reported a membership of 659, which would run the total membership up to about 1,000. In reply to a question concerning the allocation, he suggested that so much per capita be charged—say 25 cents.

Mr. Johnston continued to say that he was not at all in sympathy with the idea of holding these conventions. Peterborough was having too many of them and there was such a thing as riding a horse to death. Still he was heartily in sympathy with the scheme of assuming the responsibility of supporting a missionary to the extent stated. He advocated, however, that a man be placed in the Northwest.

Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrews, upheld the idea of holding conventions and assured the delegates that they were heartily welcome to Peterborough. These periodical gatherings, he thought, renewed enthusiasm. Many new societies were organizing and the holding of conventions would help to keep them in line.

Rev. Mr. Tanner, seconded by Miss Robinson, of Centreville, moved that the society undertake to raise $250 towards the support of a home missionary for the year 1897.—Carried.

CLEVER ENTERTAINMENT.

Ramsay and Rich are two Clever Humourists.

Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F., is bringing Ramsay and Rich to Peterborough for a matinee and evening performance on Christmas day, and this is what the Kingston Whig has to say of them:

"Laugh and grow fat" is a wise vulgarism, and the world would be the better for it if the injunction was observed by a greater number of people. A splendid opportunity presents itself for long-visaged cynics to overcome their pessimism by witnessing a performance of the "Merry-makers," Messrs. Harry Rich and W. E. Ramsay, who are warranted to make affairs of this world appear the brighter and to wrest a smile from such visages as have become figuratively ossified from lack of exercise in the happy art of smiles.—They created laughter last night as broad and as long as the opera house, because the house was filled to overflowing and everybody laughed. The witticisms of Ramsay, the rambler, were as "rich" as the ore in a Rossland gold mine and the two humourists were most liberal with the wealth of humour at their command. All their songs were brand new, in fact the "brand" had not had time to become blarred from use. Every feature of the entertainment was fresh, not rehashed, but served up before a Kingston audience for the first time. The closing skit was worth double the price of admission had there been no other item on the lengthy and well-balanced programme. The entertainment was the finest, purest and most satisfactory witnessed here in some time, as anyone who was present and enjoyed it will testify. The same couple give a performance to-night.

ADVERTISING IN THE EXAMINER PAYS

Men and women dig and delve their lives away in order to pile up gold with never a thought of the most precious endowment a human being may have, good health. What does it profit a man to heap up riches if in doing so he ruins his health and his capacity for the enjoyment of wealth. There is no such thing as happiness without health. All the gold in the world will not make a man happy, who feels in his veins and sees in the reflection of his own face, the slow but sure advance of man's deadliest enemy, consumption.

If a man will but take the right care of himself and the right remedy he may protect himself against this relentless enemy. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is not only a sure preventive, but an absolute cure for consumption. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases. It acts, through the blood, directly on the lungs. It drives out all disease germs and impurities. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. All wasting diseases yield promptly to its action. Thousands have testified to its merits. Druggists sell it.

"I want to express my heartfelt thanks for Dr. Pierce's valuable medicine," writes Mrs. Rufus Bell, of Wise, Monongalia Co., W. Va. "My eldest daughter, a girl of 15, caught cold and we had the best doctors but could get no lasting relief. Oh, how she suffered! Often I have heard her pray for death to end her sufferings. I bought one bottle of each of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, 'Favorite Prescription,' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Before our daughter used half the medicine her cough was all gone, and she was on the high road to health—which means to happiness."

Rosy cheeks. The rich, pure, red blood of health makes them. Keep the blood pure and you will have them. Constipation causes impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it promptly and permanently and never gripe. They are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. No other pill acts so naturally and perfectly. Druggists sell them.

VIEWS OF FARMERS

Will Next be Taken on the Tariff Question.

MANUFACTURERS HAVE SPOKEN

And Will Not be Allowed to Have All the Say—Major McGillivray With Quit Politics and Stick to Forestry —General News From the Capital.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—(Special.)—It is announced that immediately the new year is ushered in the Tariff Committee of the Cabinet will make arrangements to hear delegations from farmers' organizations, for the purpose of obtaining their views on the suggested tariff revision. Hitherto nearly all the evidence submitted has been in favor of the maintenance of the present tariff, or increased protection, but it has been decided that the manufacturers are not to do all the talking.

John A. McGillivray, M. P. for North Ontario, was in town to-day. To-morrow he will be an ex-M. P. He informed your correspondent to-night that he had definitely made up his mind to resign his seat in the House and will so inform Mr. Speaker Edgar to-morrow. He will not offer himself for re-election, but devote all his energy to his Forestry work. Mr. McGillivray returned to Toronto to-night.

Last month the revenue from customs alone fell away by $267,291. The net decrease in revenue for five months is $230,000, while the expenditure has increased $134,000.

The oil boom in Bothwell has led to many enquiries being sent to the Geological Survey Department for information regarding the experimental borings for oil in that district many years ago. In 1865-67 there was quite a boom in Bothwell and many wells were sunk, but unfortunately accurate "logs" of the operations were not kept. Dr. Dawson, Director of the Geological Survey, points out that it would be a great advantage to the survey and would enable information to be readily given to applicants if a careful record were kept of boring work as it proceeds. In this way there would soon be obtained a clear knowledge of the underground structure of the whole of the Ontario Peninsula. The greatest depth to which boring for oil or natural gas has been carried in Ontario is 2400 feet. The wells in the Petrolea oil field average from 350 to 400 feet. As the Bothwell district promises to be a very prolific one, it would be well for prospectors to act upon Dr. Dawson's suggestion.

Mr. Nat Boyd, M. P., arived here today from the south. During the past two or three weeks he has been buying stock in Kentucky, and has shipped a carload of yearling thoroughbreds from the famous blue grass region to his ranch at Carberry. Mr. Boyd is doing good work for the improvement of Manitoba stock.

Dr. W. T. Bradley, son of Mr. A. P. Bradley of Ottawa, was married in France, on Nov. 24, at Dinard, Brittany, to Mlle. Antoinette, youngest daughter of the late M. Paul Robberechts of Dinard. Recently Dr. Bradley, who is a B. A. of Toronto University, and M. D. of McGill, passed his qualifying examinations for membership in the Royal College of Surgeons, England, and for licentiateship of the Royal College of Physicians. Dr. Bradley intends returning to Ottawa shortly.

Speaking of his intentions in regard to Canadian public works, Mr. Tarte said yesterday that not a single undertaking of importance will be commenced without a personal knowledge of the situation. He has covered the western country now, he says, and will visit the Maritime Provinces and Ontario in due time.

Hon. L. H. Davies leaves for Ottawa next week.

Montreal parties will apply to Parliament next session for an act to incorporate The Royal Victoria Life Insurance Company.

BRADLEY GUILTY, TOO.

The Conspiracy Case Concluded at Brampton—Sentence Deferred.

Brampton, Ont., Dec. 12.—(Special.)—The conspiracy of Guy Fawkes is no longer looked upon by natives of this district as the greatest event of that kind recorded. It has paled into insignificance before the magnitude that the alleged acts of John A. Bradley and Francis Clark have assumed in local eyes. They are the universal topic of conversation, and every day the attendance at court of townspeople and ruralites has grown. Last night the trial received its first recognition from local society and the gallery and grand jury box were bright with millinery, and Crown Attorney McFadden sported a rosebud in honor of the event.

It was a large and appreciative audience which greeted business man and actor Francis Clark when he made his bow in the box this morning, more so than welcomed him a year ago, when he appeared as Uncle Josh, or the versatile leading man in "Little Bell" and "Fisherman's Luck." Then, as Clark remarked in his evidence, the people of Brampton did not appreciate a good thing.

Clark had a great many seemingly peculiar transactions to smooth out, and he was certainly adroit if not truthful. He was overhauled on every sale or purchase mentioned in the three days' evidence. He described his connection with J. A. Bradley during the six months that man was in business as manager without salary, and yet he did a great deal of driving about with a wagon full of furniture during that time. The Burton mortgage was a perfectly straight affair in so far as he was connected with it. Bradley, he was aware, was looking for a moneyed man to take a mortgage, and Burton suggested himself to Clark's mind in that capacity, for he understood that man had struck it rich in an elocutionary tour in British Columbia. Anyhow, Burton was to have his well-to-do father come to the rescue. The peculiar process of exchanging a $2000 mortgage for one and two-year notes was but a makeshift to gain a few days to enable Burton to scrape up the money. He professed that at the time of the assignment he did not know whether Bradley had received the money or not. He had not been near Caledon East for months before the fire, only off and on. He denied Burton's story that he suggested the letter to the assignee, and everything Burton told about the bogus mortgage was untrue. Clark said his account of things was absolutely true, and where Bradley didn't agree with him the latter was wrong. Clark admitted telling Lawyer Shaw after the assignment that he knew nothing at all about any mortgage recently put on the farm. Clark's answer to Mr. McFadden, that he did not consider such a denial a straight lie, shows the mental twist of the man. Clark could explain how it was that the man he had been representing as worth $7000 had about the same time to sell a $20 set of furniture at an auction room to raise money to keep afloat. He tried to reconcile the expense of living for a man like him without salary who had to pay $12 per month rent and had stocked a house with $800 worth of furniture and a $150 piano, with a statement that he had perhaps $200 when he left Caledon East, and an additional $350 borrowed from his sister, besides $100 profits from a four weeks' theatrical tour. Finding the task difficult he found refuge by saying his wife had some money. The sales to the theatrical people were charged by Bradley to his account, and the proceeds from the numerous sales on which evidence has been given were turned into the business and went to pay Bradley's debts. Clark had to admit that himself and everybody he had connection with as employes had been unfortunate in accs. There have been no less than five—at Glenwilliams, Bolton, Mono Road, and two at Caledon East. He was asked if, when living at Glenwilliams, he had not spread a story that he had been robbed of $1000 or other sum of money, and he vehemently denied the allegation.

The defence put Mrs. J. T. Bradley, whose husband, a son of the prisoner, is charged with concealing goods, in the box to identify a large quantity of the goods found at the Bradley farmhouse, as being properly her husband's, her uncle's or brother-in-law's lawful property, acquired by lawful purchase. The uncrated refrigerator found stowed away in an out of the way barn was bought for her with her money. She did not see anything queer in buying such an article in the fall. The witness told a good story for the defence. While the witness was identifying Uncle Joseph's extensive wardrobe of plain and colored laundered shirts Pat Heffernan, who was dealing the cards, tried to work in the same shirt twice on her, but Mrs. Bradley was too smart and got the laugh on Pat by exclaiming "You showed me that before."

Two Church of England pastors and an ex-M.L.A. and an ex-M.P. were passed along in review to show Bradley's previous excellent character. The Crown recalled Mr. Cleland to prove that the statement of claims shows the liabilities were all incurred within six months, and that therefore there could be no old debts to account for the deficit.

Nell Burton, who is the central figure in mortgaging the farm, was recalled to deny Clark's statements.

Detective Pat Heffernan, to whose skill the immense amount of evidence in the case is owing, was one of the men to whom Bradley admitted he had said the mortgage was a scheme. Bradley admitted this in a talk he had solicited with the detective. There was not the slightest pressure used in securing the admission. At 4 p.m. the case closed and T. Blain, for Clark, began speaking.

At 9.20 the jury retired, and at 10.20 brought in a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy for Bradley. The judge deferred sentence.

ALBANI AT OTTTWA.

The Canadian Prima Donna Visits Scenes of Her Early Days With a Distinguished Company.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—(Special.)—Mme. Albani and her husband, Mr. Gye, arrived here last evening, and are registered at the Russell. This afternoon, on invitation of the directors of the Hull-Aylmer Electric Railway, they visited the village of Aylmer, where Mme. Albani spent a portion of her girlhood days. The piano on which she used to practice as a child is treasured by Mr. Beaudry, one of the inhabitants of Aylmer. A large and fashionable party had been invited to accompany Mme. Albani. Among those on board the car were the Premier and Mme. Laurier, Hon. R. W. and Mrs. Scott, Sir Henri and Lady Joly, Mr. and Mrs. Fielding, Mrs. Blair and others. At Aylmer President Conroy did the honors at his residence. To-night the Premier and Mme. Laurier gave a dinner party in honor of the great diva. To-morrow Mme. Albani sings in Brockville, returning here on Tuesday.

UNTOLD MISERY
FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1500 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

THE CHRISTMAS CALF.

By EMILY MEREDYTH AYLWARD.

"Miss Gascoigne," said Mrs. Merington, her voice growing higher and her utterance more and more rapid as she went along, "is it possible you can ask me why? Is it possible you are not fully aware that that miserable calf is starved? It's not credible that the wretched brute can have been chasing all round the country destroying property—yes, property of both house and land—in search of food without your knowing it."

"I never heard a word," said Miss Minna, "before last night, and then only enough to make me suspect something. I was just going over to learn the truth now."

"Just this moment," continued Mrs. Merington, "I have chased the brute out of Mr. Merington's studio. Will you think of it? Will you think of that starved brute actually demolishing a corner of my husband's canvas? It has done it. It has licked his palettes. It has smeared, torn and trampled everything. It has literally ruined the studio. It has wound up by eating the crown out of my husband's hat."

A tear stood in Miss Minna's eye. She was overwhelmed at this chapter of destruction, yet sorrow for the calf was uppermost.

"Poor Christmas!" she said. "Mrs. Merington, I am sorry for all this. What on earth shall I do about it?"

"Get it back, get it back without a day's delay. If you don't, there's no telling what will happen. The whole neighborhood is up in arms and those Willoughby people don't care for anything. Nothing will rouse them. Oh, what that poor brute has suffered from those imps, those perfect fiends of children! The first thing they did was to make a horse of it; one rode it while the other pulled its tail to make it go. Oh, we've seen it all! How the brute has lived through it, how you have never heard of it—I understand neither!"

"And I thought," put in Miss Minna feebly, "that Christmas would be so happy. They said they would care for her so, and the lovely house they had for her!"

"House! The beast has never seen the inside of a house. The house is filled with coal. It wandered the other night over to the Holts', and Mr. Holt gave it shelter for the night. Next morning it broke out and devoured his crocus bed. Oh, what and where has it not devoured!" she cried, gripping her umbrella and extending it with a sweeping right arm gesture which seemed to embrace land and sea. "That calf has simply been everywhere."

The case was looking dreadful. Miss Minna felt as though she could have sat down by the roadside and wept, but the hour was one for action, and with fear at her heart she pulled herself together to confront the Willoughby household. "I am going there direct now," she said. "I will see what can be done. If they were people who could be made to see things like anybody else, I would have no anxiety; but, unless they actually want to get rid of the calf, hints will avail nothing. Mr. Willoughby lives in literary dreamland, and, unless Mrs. Willoughby wants to, she simply won't see anything."

"Well," said Mrs. Merington, giving with every word she spoke a savage pound on the sod with her umbrella, "they've got to be made to see it. Complaints have gone in day after day with no result. Those people would drive any one frantic, and if you can't bring matters to a crisis the village soon will and condemn that calf as a public nuisance."

With this parting shot, Miss Minna moved mournfully forward, and Mrs. Merington stamped away.

Every ingredient in Manley's Celery-Nerve Compound is a blood maker and health giver. If you are weak or run down, try it.

Dear Sirs: It is with pleasure I can recommend others to take Manley's Celery-Nerve Compound, as I am thoroughly satisfied it is a sterling preparation, and as a tonic I think it has no equal. As she entered the Willoughby gate she could see the ample, light hearted mistress of the household busily plying a rake round the hydrangea bush. Mr. Willoughby, with a pen still moist in his hand and his usual, anxious, absorbed expression of countenance, stood on the doorstep. At sight of Miss Minna, after a cordial greeting, he plunged into the subject uppermost in her heart.

"She's busy raking up after the calf," he said. "Lots of that to do all the time. Great institution, that calf."

"Ah," thought Miss Minna, with a bound of hope, "this is my opportunity." And a smile lit up her face. "Yes, that's just what I was thinking, Mr. Willoughby. I came over to ask Mrs. Willoughby to lunch on Friday, but I thought at the same time I would speak of, say, borrowing the calf—borrowing it just at this time, you know, when it could have such a splendid run through our big paddock. In the spring all calves long for freedom and will burrow at everything, you know, if they haven't lots of space."

"Bless your heart," said Mr. Willoughby cheerily, "nothing of the kind. Spring makes no difference. This calf is always cheerful, always burrowing—turn up everything from the day we got her. Children adore her. Let her go everywhere she wants, do what she pleases."

"Heigho!" gasped Mrs. Willoughby, joining the group, her buxom figure and good natured face betraying results of hard exertion. "I'm so glad to see you, Miss Gascoigne. I've been raking up after the calf. It has a perfect mania for the hydrangeas."

"How is the calf, Mrs. Willoughby? You know I've never seen her since Xmas day."

"Oh, flourishing. I should say it is flourishing—got life and energy enough for six calves. I never see it myself, that's a fact. But I see it's traces, and it certainly must be the liveliest, strongest calf that ever was born. It tears up everything."

"Yes," said Miss Minna, a spice of acidity in her tone which no amount of the Willoughby ignorant amiability could induce her to repress, "I have just heard that it got into Mr. Merington's studio and tore everthing to bits, Mr. Merington's hat included."

"Did it?" said Mrs. Willoughby genially, not a ruffle disturbing her face. "That's just the way it does everywhere. Just yesterday it demolished the cook's bonnet."

"Well, it's been a great boon to us, anyway," said Mr. Willoughby. "We hardly see the children since we've had it. Don't let it get at my papers, my love, today. They're strewn about there. I must be off. Perhaps you'd better lock the door?"

Despair was settling in Miss Minna's breast. One might as well come in contact with a stone wall as with the Willoughby understanding. "Do you think, Mrs. Willoughby," she said timidly, "that it wouldn't be well—your place is small, you know—to take Christmas over to our place for a little change? I always," said Miss Minna, steeling herself to the falsehood, "intended to ask you that when weather like this came round."

"Let her go? My dear, not for a day. I couldn't keep house with the children. And as for room, why, my dear child, that calf isn't confined to this place. Why, it goes all round the country. There could not possibly be another calf with anything like the freedom. Oh, no," said Mrs. Willoughby, wagging her head with determination; "we will never, never part with the calf."

"You will come on Friday, then," said Miss Minna, who felt that she could not stand five seconds longer of this, or possibly take a view of the calf.

She made her round of calls, and at every house she entered she had to sit and listen to more recitals of damage done by the calf, more pleadings that she would take some prompt action, and more and more revilings of "those heedless, headless, reckless Willoughbys."

With a sense of hopeless depression, she made her way home. The world just then looked very black, for it was a characteristic of Miss Minna to take a darkly gloomy view of even ordinary trials, and the case of the calf she felt to be no ordinary trial whatever. As she turned up the avenue she heard a hurrying footstep behind her, and looking up found Greville beside her.

"I thought I would run out this morning—that you wouldn't mind having me to lunch. I thought probably that I might do something—that you might be worried—that, in fact, you might have seen the calf."

"I haven't seen her," said Miss Minna sadly. "I don't think I could bear to, but I've heard everything—more even than you suspect. Oh, Mr. Greville, I would give anything in the world to get that calf back!"

"I appreciate your feelings, and I feel deeply, deeply sorry for you," said Greville earnestly. Very handsome and manly he looked, too, as he said it, looking down sympathetically with his blue eyes into Miss Minna's gray ones. It mattered little to Greville, the cause petty or great, of Miss Minna's sorrow. She was the woman he loved, and sorrow in her from any cause roused his every instinct of chivalry and emotion.

"You are the only one, I believe," she said, "who has any real sympathy with me."

Jack came bounding across the lawn. "Have you—oh, have you," he said, thumping his sides as if from some most jovial recollection, "seen the calf?"

"Have you seen it?" was Miss Minna's question put anxiously in reply.

"Yes, down at the station. It was poking its nose in at the ticket office. It had a trailing vine painted on its back and a sunflower on its forehead. By Jingo, never saw such a beauty! I guess 'twas looking for a ticket to New York. Must be about tired of the suburbs."

* * * * * * *

The spring days were lengthening into summer. The calf had come to be a tabooed subject in the Percy household. At mention of any calf Miss Minna's face dropped into gloomy melancholy, and Mr. Percy displayed a nervous irritability which sometimes resulted in his getting up and leaving the room. The truth was that the history of Christmas had colored Miss Minna's whole existence and made of her a chatelaine more prone to moods and anxiety than of yore. Mr. Percy was nothing less than sick of the subject, and his evident worry and disgust, combined with Miss Minna's keen distress, had put the neighbors on their guard, who now felt that any redress should come through their own efforts, and that to press the matter with the Percys might only serve to chill friendship.

Nevertheless, after every neighbor had thrown out his hint and put in his plea without causing a ripple of change in the imperturbably good natured Willoughbys, an indignation-meeting was held one fair June morning in the train going down.

"There goes Miss Gascoigne," said Mr. Reginald Holt. "She's having a tennis tournament at Elmhurst tomorrow. Never saw a girl so out up. Better not come near the subject of the calf. They say she's strung up to an awful pitch about it."

"Infernal brute!" muttered Vaughan testily. "Percy ought to be spoken to about it. He had no business placing that calf in a position to become a menace to property and order."

"Oh, look here, Vaughan, be humane! The brute's starved, that's all there is about it," said Holt.

"I say it is infernal," repeated Vaughan. "That beast is possessed of the very devil himself. Why, only last night it darted forth in front of my horses and kept tearing to and fro until I thought we would be backed into the ditch."

"I swear by everything," put in Dick Trevor, "if Percy doesn't emancipate that animal before another week's out I'll shoot it at sight myself. It's the most cursed beast that ever defaced a neighborhood. When I think of my broken conservatory glass and my wife's azaleas!"

"It truly is an omnipresent calf," said Holt, chuckling. "My dear fellow, it's seeking refuge from those children. It isn't that it has any more yearning after hothouse blossoms than even the wayside herbage; it's the shelter it's after. From all I hear the calf has a peculiar and even vulgar appetite."

"Peculiar? Yes, I should say it has," remarked young Percy Latham morosely. "Don't know about vulgar—nothing so vulgar about it's chewing my best Dent gloves off the garden seat when I was calling the other day on Miss Gresham."

Mason & Risch Pianos

Probably the most striking fact in connection with MASON & RISCH PIANOS is their suitability to all conditions. That they satisfy the social and aesthetic sense is evidenced by the fact that our cultured homes, from Rideau Hall down, use them. The fact that of importance in Canada is supplied with them, gives testimony to their musical excellence, and even in the homes of far off British Columbia, deep in the forest and far removed from the tuner's visit or care, they are still to be found standing hard usage like a rock, and cheering the distant home with their musical tone.

PRESBYTERIAL YOUNG PEOPLE'S ASSOCIATION.

Rev. Messrs. Lord and Thompson moved that the matter of allocating this amount be left to the Executive.—Carried.

Rev. A. C. Reeves moved that the money be contributed towards the support of a missionary in this Presbytery and that the field be settled by Rev. Dr. Robertson.

Messrs. A. J. Johnston and Harry Martin moved in amendment that the money go towards the support of a missionary in the Northwest.

The amendment, however, was lost, and the original motion carried.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

The Business Committee handed in the following slate as being the officers recommended for the ensuing year. They were all elected:

Hon. Pres.—The Moderator.
Pres.—Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mr. E. Fogarty of First Church, Port Hope.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Ross, Grafton.
Rec.-Sec.—Mr. J. E. Roxburgh, Norwood.
Cor.-Sec.—Rev. A. Laird, Port Hope.
Treas.—Miss Forsythe, Peterborough.
Executive Committee—Miss I. Duff, Lakefield; Mr. Porter, Centreville; Miss L. Fowlds, Hastings; Mr. Bills, Warkworth, and Mr. S. Hales, Millbrook.

The committee also recommended that hereafter the convention do not meet alternately at Peterborough and Port Hope but scatter over the Presbytery as decided at each convention. This however was allowed to stand as a notice of motion.

The Evening Session.

In the evening a large audience met in the school room of St. Paul's church. The chair was occupied by Rev. J. U. Tanner, B. A., moderator of Presbytery. After two-minute reports were received from the several societies in the Presbytery and the following responded:—Keene, First church, Port Hope; Warkworth, St. Paul's, Peterborough; Hastings, Cobourg, Baltimore and Cold Springs, Grafton, Varnonville, St. Andrew's, Peterborough; Janetville, Centreville, Mill street, Port Hope; Millbrook, Lakefield, North Smith, Omemee, Campbellford, Pontypool, Norwood and Bobcaygeon, which last organized a society last night. Most of the societies were those of Christian Endeavour, and the general tenor of the reports presented the fact that, while there was no marked increase of membership, there was a marked increase of interest and activity. Nearly all the societies raised greater or smaller sums for the purposes of missions and some of them assisted in meeting the current expenses of the church to which they are attached. Most of them report valuable assistance by their pastors and nearly all have adopted the scheme of topics recommended by the General Assembly.

Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A., made a short address, based on the 26th Chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. He began by pointing out that God had been blessing the working of the young people on this continent, as an auxiliary to home religion. In 1881 there were only 60 Christian Endeavourers, in '86, 50 000 members, and in 1896 there were 2,600,000. In reference to the incidents of the chapter chosen, his subject was 'fettered hands' as to St. Paul and 'fettered hearts' as to Agrippa who represented those bound in sin, while St. Paul was a picture of the spirit and power of Christ. The speaker pointed out the great work that lay before the young people in helping to unbind the fettered hearts of the unbelieving and benighted. Thousands at home and abroad were anxious and waiting to be saved, and to meet these conditions the speaker urged the Christian Endeavour societies to unite in prayer and work, and to make special efforts to see that there was to be no lost ground in mission work and other vital interests of the church. Reference was made in detail to the needs of the mission fields and to the encouragement that came from the good work that was being done.

Rev. J. A. Turnbull, LL.B., of West church, Toronto, gave an address. This end of the present century was distinguished by special activity in mission work and the prominence that was given to the work of young people, but he felt his duty to sound a note of warning, that dependence should not be placed on enthusiasm and organization but on the spirit of God, for without this living link, the work of the young people would be in vain. The work of the society should not be undenominational—being associated with the church they must necessarily be denominational. The distinguishing characteristics of belief, if honestly held, could not be honestly waived. While denominationalism was inevitable, it was a blessed feature of the times that the dead wall between denominations was being lowered, and that all the great evangelical churches were one in all the greater essentials of religious truth. The speaker pointed out the necessity of the Young People's Societies of the Presbyterian church, being instructed in the doctrine and polity of the church. The same practice was followed by the Methodists and Baptists. The Presbyterian church stood, the speaker said, for a doctrine that was founded on the word of God, and these should be taught. The polity of the Presbyterian church was a distinct one that was founded upon the word of God, that is, its essential characteristics, and we are not guiltless if we failed to teach that polity. The history of the church was also an important study, the young should study the lives of the great fathers of the church, that they might be inspired to great works. We should also study the Westminster Assembly and the doctrine it formulated, and also the work of the church. The speaker in closing urged the society to be undaunted and undiscouraged. The darkest days of a society were sometimes the testing time, the prelude to great success. They were urged to greater fidelity. God never commended the "good and successful servant," but the "faithful" servant. We should all be prepared to face the question in relation to the salvation of our fellow-men, "Did I do my part?"

The meeting, which was a very successful one, closed with devotional exercises.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any difference if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years, he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich, red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice, it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive system. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."
